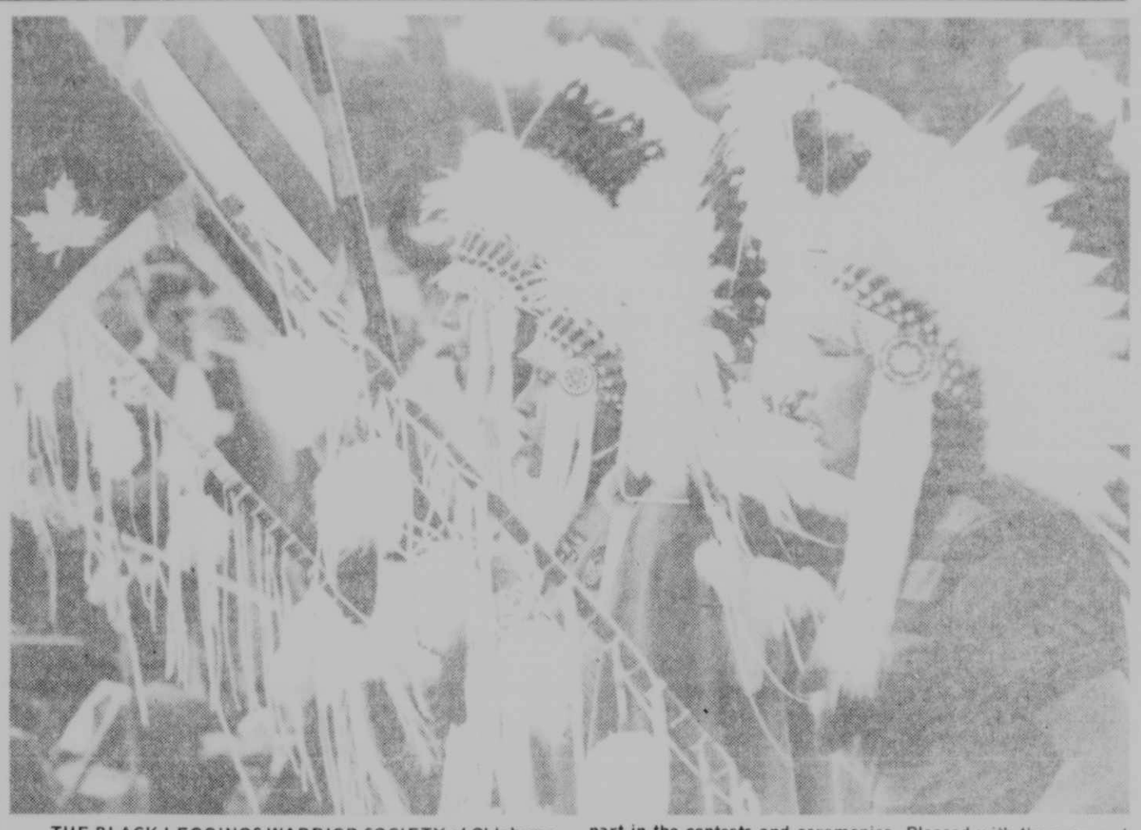
Commissioners Still Working Landfill Puzzle

A solution to the landfill puzzle is still plaguing the Board of Garrett County Commissioners and the missing piece is still being held by the Department of Health and Mental Hygiene.

The county board met with DHMH Secretary Adele Wilzack and other state health officials in April and were promised answers by mid-summer. Wilzack had planned to visit the county in July but was forced to cancel her trip due to scheduling problems.



Now, in September, the commissioners are still faced with the same dilemma; unanswered questions.

Commission chairman Elwood Groves II, and Roads Administrator Paul R. Shockey traveled to Annapolis yesterday for a meeting of the Maryland Association of Counties Landfill Committee, a meeting which Secretary Wilzack also attended.

Local officials are hopeful that questions and concerns about solid waste landfill regulations and the impact of them on county government will soon be addressed.

"We, along with many other counties, do not agree with the new regulations. Our questions deal with the lack of a sense of direction as to what processes

THE BLACK LEGGINGS WARRIOR SOCIETY of Oklahoma City, Oka., provided the pageantry for the grand entry of the American Indian Pow Wow held at the Garrett County Fairgrounds over Labor Day weekend. Members of 25 tribes took part in the contests and ceremonies. Pleased with the area and the friendliness of the people here, The American Indian Inter-Tribal Cultural Organization has decided to return to Garrett County again next year to hold their Pow Wow.

Habitat Accepting Applications For 1986 Projects

The Garrett County Habitat for Humanity, announced it is accepting applications for 1986 from area low-income families in need of adequate housing.

Habitat is a non-profit, Christian housing ministry which builds adequate, efficient, low-cost houses with money and labor donated by people who are concerned about the conditions in which their neighbors live. The newly constructed houses become the property of the purchaser under the terms of a no-profit, no-interest mortgage. No government funds are used.

The Habitat Board of Directors hopes to build five new houses in 1986. All applications received will be considered; however, families will be prioritized and selected on a basis of need, ability to pay, good character, and a reputation for honesty. The selected families will also be expected to help in the construction of their house as well as others that are being built by Habitat.

The application forms are available at the Department of Social Services, Community Action, the House of Hope, the Health Department, and area post offices or may be obtained by calling the Habitat office at 334-1731.

County Parking Ordinance To Take Effect Sept. 16

Garrett County Clerk Robert J. Fousek announced yesterday that a parking ordinance for the county roads system will take effect September 16.

Fousek said the ordinance was enacted by the Board of Garrett County Commissioners Tuesday. Signs will be posted on designated roads in the coming weeks by the roads department.

The clerk said the commissioners felt it was necessary to institute the ordinance due to very narrow road conditions in some areas of the county making snow removal and road repairs difficult and sometimes impossible for roads crews.

Abandoned vehicles on roads in the winter and certain junkyard owners' persistence in parking vehicles along narrow roadways was the catalyst for the ordinance, according to Fousek.

The ordinance will provide for the impounding of vehicles parked in violation of the new regulations and local law enforcement officers will have the authority to impound any vehicle in violation and the owner of such vehicles must pay to retrieve his vehicle from impoundment and will be subject to a fine or he may elect to stand trial.

The ordinance also states that "should the owner of such vehicle fail to pay the cost of towing, impoundment and storage of the same, the vehicle shall be sold by the sheriff of

Dr. David Puzzuoli Assumes Duties As Interim President At GCC

It was announced last week by the Garrett Community College board of trustees that Dr. David Puzzuoli had been named interim president for GCC.

Dr. Puzzuoli assumed his duties Tuesday when the college began its fall schedule with a faculty and staff meeting.

The new interim president met with members of the college community and local media Tuesday at 9 a.m. following a continental breakfast.

Dr. Puzzuoli, after talking informally with the invited guests, was formally introduced by board chairman Katharine Smith.

The interim president then spoke to the group about his goals for the coming year at GCC. He called for a spirit of cooperation and "communication on a professional basis to iron out any problems that may arise."

"I'm a strong believer in the concept that we are stewards of the public who finance this institution. If they believe enough in the community college concept, then it should be our privilege to serve them," stated Dr. Puzzuoli. The newly appointed interim president also spoke of the future in saying, "We're going to make this place run. Let's not let the past run us. It's certainly not going to govern me."

Saying he is a "firm believer in communication" he emphasized, "Nothing comes easy. I can see you're a good group of people and as far as I'm concerned there will never be a lock on my door."

Puzzuoli, a native of West Virginia, graduated from Center Benwood High School, received a bachelor of science degree from Western Reserve University, a master's degree from West Virginia University and an educational doctorate from WVU. He also studied at Linsly Institute, the University of Alabama, Ohio State University and Muskingum College. Post doctoral studies done by the interim president include educational planning at the National Academy for School Executives in Washington, D.C.; evaluation of educational programs at the University of California; management training for educational research leaders at Ohio State University; and educational program auditing at the U.S. Office of Education in Washington.

In addition, Dr. Puzzuoli has attended numerous seminars dealing with administration of higher education, educational planning, facilities development, accountability and financing education.

Also to his credit, the interim president has served as the executive director of RESA in Martinsburg, W. Va.; vice president and academic dean at Bluefield State College; associate professor and director of educational research and field services at WVU, educational development specialist at the

"A PEOPLE PERSON" is what Dr. David Puzzuoli, the newly appointed interim president of Garrett Community College, claims to be. Dr. Puzzuoli comes to GCC from Wheeling, W. Va. and with a very impressive educational and administrative background. (See separate story.) "We are all responsible for the progress of this institution. I'm a strong believer that all the members of the college community are stewards of public finance. If the tax-paying public believes enough in the community college concept then it should be our privilege to serve them," said Dr. Puzzuoli in his remarks to the college trustees, faculty and staff Tuesday morning. The interim president assumed his duties Tuesday, and began meeting with various members of the administration. In the photo above, he is shown, seated, talking with the college comptroller, John Culp.

Boating Mishap Leaves Two Hospitalized

Two men remain hospitalized following a boating accident which occurred Sunday around 9:15 p.m. on Deep Creek Lake, McHenry.

Robert G. Taylor, McHenry, was transferred to Memorial Hospital, Cumberland, by Medevac helicopter, and is listed in "satisfactory" condition. According to the Department of Natural Resources Police, Taylor sustained a bruised chest in the collision.

John B. Zanardo, Crystal Lake, Ill., was admitted to Garrett Memorial Hospital, where he is listed in "satisfactory" condition. According to officials, Zanardo sustained multiple trauma, including broken ribs.

DNR police said Taylor apparently failed to negotiate the distance from a dock, causing his boat to hit the dock and two other boats. The accident caused considerable damage.

Bittinger Found Guilty, Sentenced To Three Years

In a court case last Thursday, Garrett County Circuit Court Judge Jack Turney sentenced Edmond Junior Bittinger, 49, Swanton, to 3 years, with credit for time served, and fined him $100.

In December, 1984, Judge Fred Thayer committed Bittinger to the Clifton T. Perkins Hospital Center, Jessup, after determining he was incompetent to stand trial for the June 9 shooting of a Swanton man.

Bittinger was found guilty of felony charges of assault with intent to murder, malicious injury, and unlawful shooting and misdemeanor charges of carrying a weapon with intent to injure and assault.

According to court documents, Bittinger shot Homer Wilt, 44, Swanton, in the stomach with a .22 calibre rifle. Wilt, who was on a picnic with friends and family in the Dry Run area, approached Bittinger who was reportedly shooting a gun in a nearby open field in the direction of the picnickers. Wilt survived the incident.

Bittinger was represented by Michael Morrisette, an Oakland attorney.

Downed Plane Found, Second Search Begins

The search for a downed single engine plane whose path may have included Garrett County ended Sunday when the plane was found 40 miles northwest of Manassas, Va. Both occupants of the plane were killed in the crash.

However, the Civil Air Patrol continues a search for an airplane that disappeared Friday during a flight from Baltimore to Zenia, Oh.

Capt. Michael Kelly of the CAP said that the pilot of the plane, Nelson Harvey, Baltimore, did not file a flight plan, similar to the circumstances of the plane found Sunday. He also stated that the plane took off in very poor weather.

According to Kelly, Harvey was not an instruments pilot, and the CAP feels sure he stayed under the clouds and tried to follow an interstate, possibly I-70 or Interstate 81. However, he said they do not believe the plane made it across the mountains due to the recent cloudy weather.

The CAP plans to conduct a search following I-70 into Ohio, possibly all the way into Columbus. Kelly stated that the area in which the plane could have gone down is quite large.

N.H.S. Renovation Contract Awards Delayed By State

School officials in Garrett County reported they were surprised to learn on Friday, August 30, that the Interagency Committee on Public School Construction had delayed awarding the contracts for the additions and renovations to Northern High School for at least another two weeks. The Committee, composed of State Superintendent of Schools David Hornbeck, Secretary of State Planning Constance Lieder, and State Secretary of General Services Earl Seboda, evidently made their decision after consultation on Thursday, August 29.

The Garrett County Board of Education on Wednesday, August 21, had recommended to the Interagency that ten of the twelve bid packages included in the project which has been bid with a guaranteed maximum price, along with three alternates, be awarded. The Board of Education had rejected all bids on the elevator and electrical packages because of bidding irregularities and also because they felt that a re-bidding would generate a lower price.

Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, Superintendent of Schools, learned from Interagency officials that the basic reason for the Interagency action was that they fear a rebidding of the two packages would produce a higher price and, as a consequence, the project would come

Yoder Hearing Is Postponed

The preliminary hearing for Dean Yoder, 20, Accident, who was charged in connection with an accident earlier this summer which killed four people, has been postponed until October 20, according to the State Police.

Yoder was charged with four counts of manslaughter, driving while intoxicated, reckless driving, failing to keep right-of-center, and traveling at a speed greater than reasonable and prudent.

The charges were filed following a head-on collision on the New Germany Road in July which claimed the lives of Brenda Sue Broadwater, 34, Eston Broadwater, 70, Ethel Broadwater, 67, all of Cresaptown; and Wanda (Manning) Broadwater, 48, Las Vegas, Nev., who was visiting the area.

Yough River Residents Suspect An Attempted State "Land Grab"

Members of the Youghiogheny River Association and residents along the Yough River Corridor feel they are becoming victims of a state "land grab". John E. Hinebaugh, president of the Yough River Association, gives evidence pointing to a government conspiracy designed, he believes, to purchase 8,000 acres of private propertv along the Yough River.

Bringing this to their attention was a letter received last week by Sen. John N. Bambacus from Governor Harry R. Hughes, which brought both the senator and Delegate George Edwards forward to reconfirm their backing of the current law which prevents Open Space money from being used by the state to purchase land in Garrett County without consent and approval of the board of county commissioners; demands state-owned parcels, in equal or greater amounts of acreage than the new acreage being acquired by the state, to be released back to the private sector; and stresses that any land acquisitions by the state would be from "willing sellers" only.

This law was introduced by Del. Edwards and passed by the General Assembly three years ago. "My position is the same," said Edwards, "enough is enough."

Gov. Hughes' letter was prompted by a June 25 letter, sent directly to him, from Sen. Bambacus requesting information about the state's future plans for the river. Bambacus says he sent the letter directly to Hughes because he has no confidence in the secretary of the Department of Natural Resources, having sent letters to that office in the past without receiving any reply.

The Garrett County Commissioners met with members of the Youghiogheny River Association on Tuesday to add their support, and Commissioner Ernest Gregg said, "We intend to fire off a letter to the governor to ask what's going on, and convene a meeting of elected officials and Yough property owners as soon as possible."

Present at the meeting with the commissioners on Tuesday were: John E. Hinebaugh, president of the Yough River Association; Richard Browning, chairman of the board; Charlotte Sebold, treasurer; Homer Mellott, vice president; Jeanne Frantz, board member; and Maxine Combs, board member.

Hinebaugh outlined the recent events which have contributed to their increased worry and concern, beginning with a January 15 announcement by the Pennsylvania Electric Company (PENELEC) that they had offered to sell to the state approximately 1,200 acres of property they hold in the Yough River Corridor.

This was followed January 20 by a report in The Baltimore Sun newspaper that Governor Hughes had budgeted one million dollars of open space funds for buying land in the Yough Corridor and other lands along the river and within the scenic corridor.

On February 1 the Garrett County Commissioners sent a letter to Governor Hughes reminding him of the current law which prohibits additional land purchases in Garrett County, above acreage now owned, utilizing open space funds. According to board chairman, Elwood L. Groves II, the commissioners have never received an anwser to that February 1 letter.

Hinebaugh next questioned bills introduced late in the legislative session by both Bambacus and Edwards, so worded, Hinebaugh feels, as to permit the state to proceed with the purchase of PENELEC property and other land in Garrett County. Those bills received adequate protest from county citizens and the commissioners to have them withdrawn.

Both Bambacus and Edwards explain that the bills were misunderstood and were withdrawn because of a lack of time before the end of the session. "The bill was meant to clarify the current law and would have added further protection to land owners," said Bambacus. "As long as I'm in Annapolis, I will not permit legislation which seeks in any way whatsoever to take away people's property or allow land to be taken from the

THE END OF SUMMER? The Labor Day weekend is considered by most as the unofficial end of summer, however with temperatures soaring into the 80s every day this week, the sunny season seems to have decided to hang around a while. This causes great misery for local youngsters who are now back in school and can only dream of those great days outside, doing things like boating on Deep Creek Lake. This boatload of happy youngsters was captured on film by Craig Phillips as it passed under the Glendale bridge.

Several Thefts Investigated By State Police

State Police reported several thefts in the area recently.

Delores Virginia Friend reported a breaking and entering theft which occurred at the Old Mill Grill, Friendsville, sometime between 9:30 p.m. August 21 and 7:10 a.m. August 22.

According to police reports, the culprits entered the restaurant through a rear window and took a cash register containing different denominations of U.S. currency and coins. A total loss was estimated at $960.

Tfc. L. Rosage investigated the incident.

Protection Services, Inc., Cumberland, reported that 13 six-volt flashing amber caution lights were stolen from the intersection of Rt. 135 and Rt. 38 sometime between 9:30 p.m. August 28 and 6:00 a.m. August 29.

Tfc. D.G. Riggleman investigated the incident, reporting that total value of the lights reached $169.

Ruby Myrtle Evans, Grantsville, reported a theft which occurred around 12:30 p.m. August 14 at her residence on U.S. Rt. 40 one mile east of the Zehner Road.

Items reportedly stolen include a handsaw, a long-handled shovel, a pitch fork, and a handgun. Total loss of the items was valued at $130.

Tfc. R.J. Resh is investigating the theft.

Charles Wayne Weimer, Oakland, reported a theft from the lawn of his small business, M & W Discount, and private home early in the morning of August 26.

According to police reports, several lawn ornaments totaling $125 were removed. Items included a deer with fawns, two bears, a donkey with a cart, and a deer.

Tfc. R.C. Resh investigated the incident.

Bench Warrant Ordered For Edward Friend

Garrett County District Court Judge Jack Turney ordered a bench warrant for Edward R. Friend, 24, Oakland when he failed to appear in court for a trial August 27.

Deputy Charles P. Nolan of the Sheriff's Department charged Friend with malicious destruction of the property of another following a July 11 incident at Wynlyn's Edge, McHenry.

A charge of battery against Richard E. Tasker, 28, Deer Park, was placed on the stet docket by the judge.

Deputy David L. Crossland, Sheriff's Department, filed the complaint against Tasker following a July 17 incident in Deer Park.

Tasker's attorney was John R. Toston, public defender.

Also placed on the stet docket was a charge of assault against Ronald R. Durst, 37, Grantsville, which was filed by Nancy L. Durst, also of Grantsville, following a July 19 incident on the Chestnut Ridge Road.

Durst was represented by Lawrence V. Kelly, Cumberland.

Commissioners Hear County Staff Reports

The Board of Garrett County Commissioners heard staff reports from various county agencies and offices August 27.

Health Department

Four additional cases of rabies in the county were reported recently, according to Rodney Glotfelty, spokesman from the environmental health division of the Garrett County Health Department.

Glotfelty said the rabid raccoons were found in Grantsville, McHenry, Deer Park, and Red House, adding that the problem is countywide.

A "cats only" rabies clinic was conducted in Grantsville August 26 with 63 cats being vaccinated. Glotfelty stressed the importance of pet owners to have their pets vaccinated against the disease since more and more cases are being reported.

Glotfelty also reported that the solid waste ordinance was used recently against a Frostburg man who had dumped a large quantity of refuse on property in the Finzel area. The man was reportedly given two months to clean up the garbage.

Dr. William Pope, Garrett County health officer, announced at the meeting that a consent order was granted by the Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene to proceed with the new dump site at the Round Glade landfill.

Garrett County Roads Administrator Paul Shockey added that only two or three months worth of refuse can be added to the vertical fill at the landfill, but that two additional approved pits should be ready by winter.

"For the time being, we're in better shape than we were last year, but the situation will become difficult again down the road," Shockey said.

"Refuse disposal will become one of the most expensive items in the county budget in the near future," said Commissioner Ernest Gregg Jr. "There is still a lack of consistent guidelines for landfills, and now they're telling us downstate, in the urban areas, to go ahead and do something and then they'll tell us if it's right. That's absurd. The cost of doing things that way would be prohibitive."

State officials from urban areas told the commissioners recently that landfills are a thing of the past and that incinerators are the "wave of the future."

"Unless the state helps fund us with their mandates, we can't meet the state's standards. It's a no win situation," said Shockey.

GCC

Garrett Community College Comptroller John Culp told the commissioners that the Interim President Search Committee hoped to have a decision rendered by the end of the week or early next week. He said the committee has narrowed the prospects down to three and that all the committee members were "quite impressed" with the caliber of those applying for the presidency.

full-time students from this time last year. He said he felt that was a positive sign since 35% of registrations normally come between September 3 and September 17.

The comptroller announced that acting dean of academic affairs, Dr. Lillian Mitchell, reinstated Dr. George Dailey as transfer counselor at the college.

When asked if the Vet Tech Program would be continued for the two remaining students enrolled, Culp confirmed that it would.

A discussion among county

Culp also reported that enrollment for the fall semester at the college is already within two staffers ensued regarding the Garrett County Animal Shelter. All agreed that the shelter had been very beneficial to the county and the commissioners assured those present that they would see that the shelter continued to operate, in light of the demise of the Vet Tech Program which is being dropped from the college next year.

Planning and Development

John Nelson, zoning administrator and acting planning director, announced that the Zoning Appeals Board would be meeting September 5, at 7:30 p.m.

Nelson reported that two zoning cases are scheduled to be heard soon. One case involves the Ernest Martin junkyard ordinance to be heard in Garrett County District Court and the other case deals with the Fazenbaker mobile home infraction which is to be heard in Garrett County Circuit Court.

In regard to the junkyard ordinance, Commissioner Gregg stated, "We are not singling out any one owner. We have an ordinance and we expect those involved to comply. We have a responsibility to the other people who have to look at these unsightly situations."

Tom Jones, Garrett County Development Corporation director, reported to the county board that grading has begun at the Southern Garrett Industrial Park. He also stated that the bidding for water lines and roads will begin next week.

Treasurer's Office

Arzella Parsons, Garrett County treasurer, said that she met recently with the Motor Vehicle Administration regarding the new staggered registration for automobile tags.

Parsons said the new law will take effect in October, 1986, and that persons coming in for tags this coming March will either renew for six months or 18 months.

Since the new method of registration required the purchase of a computer system, the fee for Garrett Countians to pick up their tags at the treasurer's office will now be $1.00.

Commissioner Gregg said, "That's a small price to pay for that kind of service and convenience."

Gregg also commended Parsons for her attendance at the meeting with the MVA and said others attending the meeting said she was well-received.

Board of Education

Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, superintendent of Garrett County Schools, announced the opening of county schools and said that staffing was nearly complete.

The superintendent also praised the efforts of transportation director, Mike Sines, for rerouting school buses during the split shifting of Northern High and Northern Middle School students. He said Sines put in "countless hours" this summer devising those schedules.

Ryscavage said that 10 of the 12 contracts for work on the Northern High renovation project have been awarded and have been sent to the state office for their approval, which he is expecting by the end of the week. He said the two remaining contracts will be put out for rebidding.

Ryscavage also gave an update on his recent appearances before the task force to examine the school construction program on August 22, and before the House Ways and Means Committee on the state funding of all-day kindergarten and prekindergarten programs on August 13.

Building Operations

Gary Mullich, supervisor of buildings and operations, said he and Duane Yoder would be traveling to Pittsburgh, Pa. today to inspect the various phone systems for the proposed county phone system, which would hook up various county offices and agencies.

Mullich also announced the county's refusal of the recently granted $35,000 from the Maryland Historic Trust for the outside renovation of the courthouse. Mullich said there were too many conditions placed on the grant as reasoning for the refusal.

Roads Department

Roads Administrator Paul Shockey reported that the Roads Department has been line-striping, and when completed will include 65 miles of county roads.

Shockey said his department is also looking into the possibility of obtaining a cheaper liner for the pit at the Round Glade landfill. He said there is a clay liner available that meets the standards set forth by the State Health Department and should be cheaper than the standard plastic liner.

The administrator said his crews are completing summer roads projects and are now gearing up for winter. He announced that Vepco Plant at Mt. Storm would not be able to supply abrasives again this year and that the department is seeking another source, although they have, throughout the summer, been hauling cinders from a plant in Albright, W. Va.

In Memoriam . . .

In loving memory of all who love her, Tara Lynne Tasker, who passed into heaven September 8, 1983.

Little did we know that day the sorrow the day would bring. That God would call you far away to somewhere beyond the sunset where beauty never dies. Our little Tara lives in the land of glory, with the blue and gold of the skies. We who are left and love her so will always watch up there. Please, dear Lord, just let her know that we down here will never forget. We will not stand at her grave and weep for we know she is not there; she is a thousand winds that blow, the sunlight on a golden field of grain, the gentle rain in morning's hush and the rainbow at the rain's end. But most of all she is our little soft and shining star of night. God gave us strength to fight our loss and courage to bear the blow, but what it meant to lose her only God will ever know.

Sadly missed but never forgotten by her family, each and everyone

THANK YOU!

We wish to thank the people of Garrett County, and the people of A&A Realty, for making our first month as owners of The Town Restaurant a success. Everyone has been friendly and supportive.

All Creatures Great And Small Being Served At Animal Shelter

by Pam Ashby

Whether a huge St. Bernard needs quarantined for a contagious disease or a stray kitten needs a home and TLC until some giving person chooses to adopt him, the Garrett County Animal Shelter is there to minister the needs of "creatures great and small."

Under the supervision of staff veterinarian, Dr. Raymond Zinn, veterinary technicians, Cheryl Rexrode and Camille Wolfe prescribe treatments, insert I.V.'s, give shots, assist neutering and worm the animals brought to the shelter.

The animal shelter has the facilities to house 100 animals, if needed, although the average is normally 25.

Dog Warden Tom Ashby handles complaints of stray dogs and cats, retrieves them and takes them to their temporary home at the shelter. After being taken to the shelter, stray animals are kept approximately three days. If they are not claimed or adopted, they are euthanized.

Persons wishing to adopt a pet from the shelter pay a $20 adoption fee which includes a rabies shot, a distemper shot, neutering, worming and any other necessary medication within reason.

Pets that wander away from home and are captured by the dog warden are kept at the shelter and charged $20 for the first day and $10 for each day thereafter for their room and board. When pet owners claim missing animals from the shelter, they must present proof that the animal has had a rabies shot, otherwise a fee of $6.50 is charged the owner to give the shot before the animal can be released from the shelter.

"In view of the many reported cases of rabies lately, this is merely a protective measure," said Rexrode.

It seems there is a misconception about a fee for reporting stray dogs to the warden. "There is no charge for that service, so people shouldn't be afraid to give their names when calling for such assistance," stated Ashby.

Another new service provided by the animal shelter is the selling of dog licenses. In the past, they could only be obtained at the Garrett County Treasurer's Office at the court house. They are now available at both locations.

An added feature of the shelter in the past was the hands on experience given to students enrolled in the Vet Tech Program through Garrett Community College. After this year, the program is being dropped by the college due to lack of enrollment. Dr. Paul Deal served as staff veterinarian until this past spring when he was replaced by Dr. Zinn.

The animal shelter has provided many benefits to the citizens of the county as well as the Humane Society, an organization dedicated to keeping the shelter in operation.

Recently, the Board of Garrett County Commissioners commended the work being done by the employees of the animal shelter and pledged their continued support of the existence of the facility.

"At one time, we had quite a problem with stray dogs and cats. Now, with the aid of the shelter and enforced dog ordinances, that problem has been greatly reduced," said Commissioner Ernest Gregg Jr.

Because of reshuffling and employee changes at the shelter this summer, the "Adorable Adoptable" column was temporarily dropped from the pages of The Republican. But stay tuned, Cheryl Rexrode told us that "probably next week" we'll be able to once again work closely with the shelter to help provide the public with some adorable "mug shots" of some very lovable animals.

PRETTY KITTY — Good grooming is only one of the many services provided by the staff at the Garrett County Animal Shelter. Diagnosing animal diseases is a priority of the workers at the shelter. Local Man Needs Post-Exposure Rabies Shots

Another county resident must undergo post-exposure rabies shots due to contact with an unvaccinated dog which had been exposed to a rabid animal.

This became necessary after a raccoon walked into the yard of Randy Ashby, on Route 219 one-mile south of Oakland, on August 21, and fought with Ashby's dog. The raccoon was killed and submitted to the health department, later to be confirmed positive by the laboratory.

Ashby, who handled both the raccoon and his dog after the fight agreed to start taking the post-exposure shots and to have the dog euthanized.

Md. Legislature Requests Local Land Plan By '87

The state legislature has requested that a local land-use plan be completed by June of 1987. This plan would identify and analyze five different areas: forest, agriculture, recreation, unique and environmental, and heritage.

According to John Nelson, acting planning and zoning administrator, those areas analyzed will be access of existing resources, types and demands on activities, how these areas inter-relate with other segments of county planning, and to pinpoint need for additional park areas. They will also help set forth county policy for land preservation, such as land easements and agricultural-land preservation.

This request came just after Gov. Harry Hughes announced that he wants to abolish the Department of State Planning. This would require action by the 1986 General Assembly. Aides to Gov. Hughes said he wants to absorb most of state planning duties within the governor's office to give sharper focus to state planning.

Western Maryland office employees, James Nelson and Al Feldstein, in the Allegany County office are working on a variety of statewide studies and are reviewing prospects for several significant potential projects such as the Western Maryland railroad station, scenic railroad.

The office has been asked, but has not yet received approval, to consider the international whitewater competition planned for Garrett County.

Sen. John N. Bambacus stated, "I agree with Gov. Hughes that state planning needs to be a function of the governor's office. There is so much overlapping, and that leads to more and more bureaucratic inertia and confusion."

According to Bambacus, three local projects, Western Maryland station, Northern High School renovation and Piney Dam, didn't receive a positive state planning approval and it was "only through the legislative process" that all but the last project were ultimately included in the state budget.

As to the local land plan request, John Nelson reports that during the recent MACo convention in Ocean City, Sen. Clayton Mitchell stated that various committees within the General Assembly would still like to have the work prepared because they need the information during the session.

Mishap Injures Pedestrian Sunday

John Jeffrey Sisak, 22, Alexandria, Va., was injured Sunday around 1:00 a.m., when he was struck by a vehicle on Route 219.

According to reports filed by the Maryland State Police, Sisak was standing on the east side of Rt. 219 at the Pizza Pub. He then stepped out in front of a 1982 Honda Accord driven by Bethany A. Humphrey, 21, Lake Osweco, Ore. Police said Humphrey did not have sufficient time to stop, striking Sisak with the right front fender of her vehicle.

Tfc. Daid W. Broadwater investigated the incident, charging Sisak with leaving a place of safety and walking into the path of a vehicle so close that it was impossible for the driver to yield.

Sisak was transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by the Southern Garrett Rescue Squad, where he is listed in "satisfactory" condition.

Jeffrey Scott Hinebaugh, 19, Deer Park, was injured in a three-wheeler accident at approximately 5:40 Monday evening.

According to the police, Hinebaugh was traveling west on a dirt road, off the Boiling Springs Road, which led to the Deer Park water shed. He lost control of the vehicle when it struck ruts and holes in the road. The three-wheeler then ran off the right side of the road, striking a tree and throwing both Hinebaugh and passenger Pamela Elaine Sines, 15, Deer Park, from the vehicle.

Both Hinebaugh and Sines were transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by the Southern Garrett Rescue Squad, where Sines was treated and released. Hinebaugh was admitted to the hospital, and was transferred to Cumberland Memorial Hospital yesterday, where he was treated and released.

Tfc. C.R. Smith investigated the incident.

Garth E. Glotfelty, 11, Oakland, and Adrian A. Spiker II, 9, were involved in an accident Monday afternoon around 4:30.

According to police reports, both boys were operating 1984 Suzuki vehicles in a field behind Glotfelty Enterprises on Route 219 north of Oakland. Spiker was traveling north, while Glotfelty was traveling south. Both vehicles rounded a corner at the same time and struck head-on.

Tfc. C.R. Smith, who investigated the mishap, reported that both boys were transported to Garrett Memorial Hospital in a private vehicle, where they were treated and released.

Michelle Lynn Soltis, 18, Strongsville, Ohio, was treated and released from Garrett County Memorial Hospital following an accident which occurred at approximately 2:40 a.m. Saturday.

According to the police, Soltis was traveling east on Mosser Road in a 1979 Pontiac Trans Am when a deer ran out in front of the vehicle. Soltis reportedly swerved to avoid the deer, but it struck the front fender of the vehicle.

The vehicle then slid out of control on the wet roadway, skidding off the right side of the road and overturning as it rolled down a steep hill into a farm pasture.

Michael J. Deal, 24, North Royalton, Ohio, a passenger in the vehicle, was apparently not seriously injured.

The accident was investigated by Tfc. G.R. Chaney.

A Pittsburgh man was charged with driving while intoxicated following an 8:15 a.m. accident Saturday on Route 48.

According to a report filed by the police, Thomas M. McGinley was driving a 1984 Pontiac Fiero when he apparently fell asleep. The vehicle then ran into the median strip, returned to the roadway, skidded across both east-bound lanes, and struck a guard rail. The vehicle continued over the guardrail and overturned, coming to rest on its wheels in a culvert.

According to Tc. C.R. Smith, who investigated the incident, McGinley refused treatment.

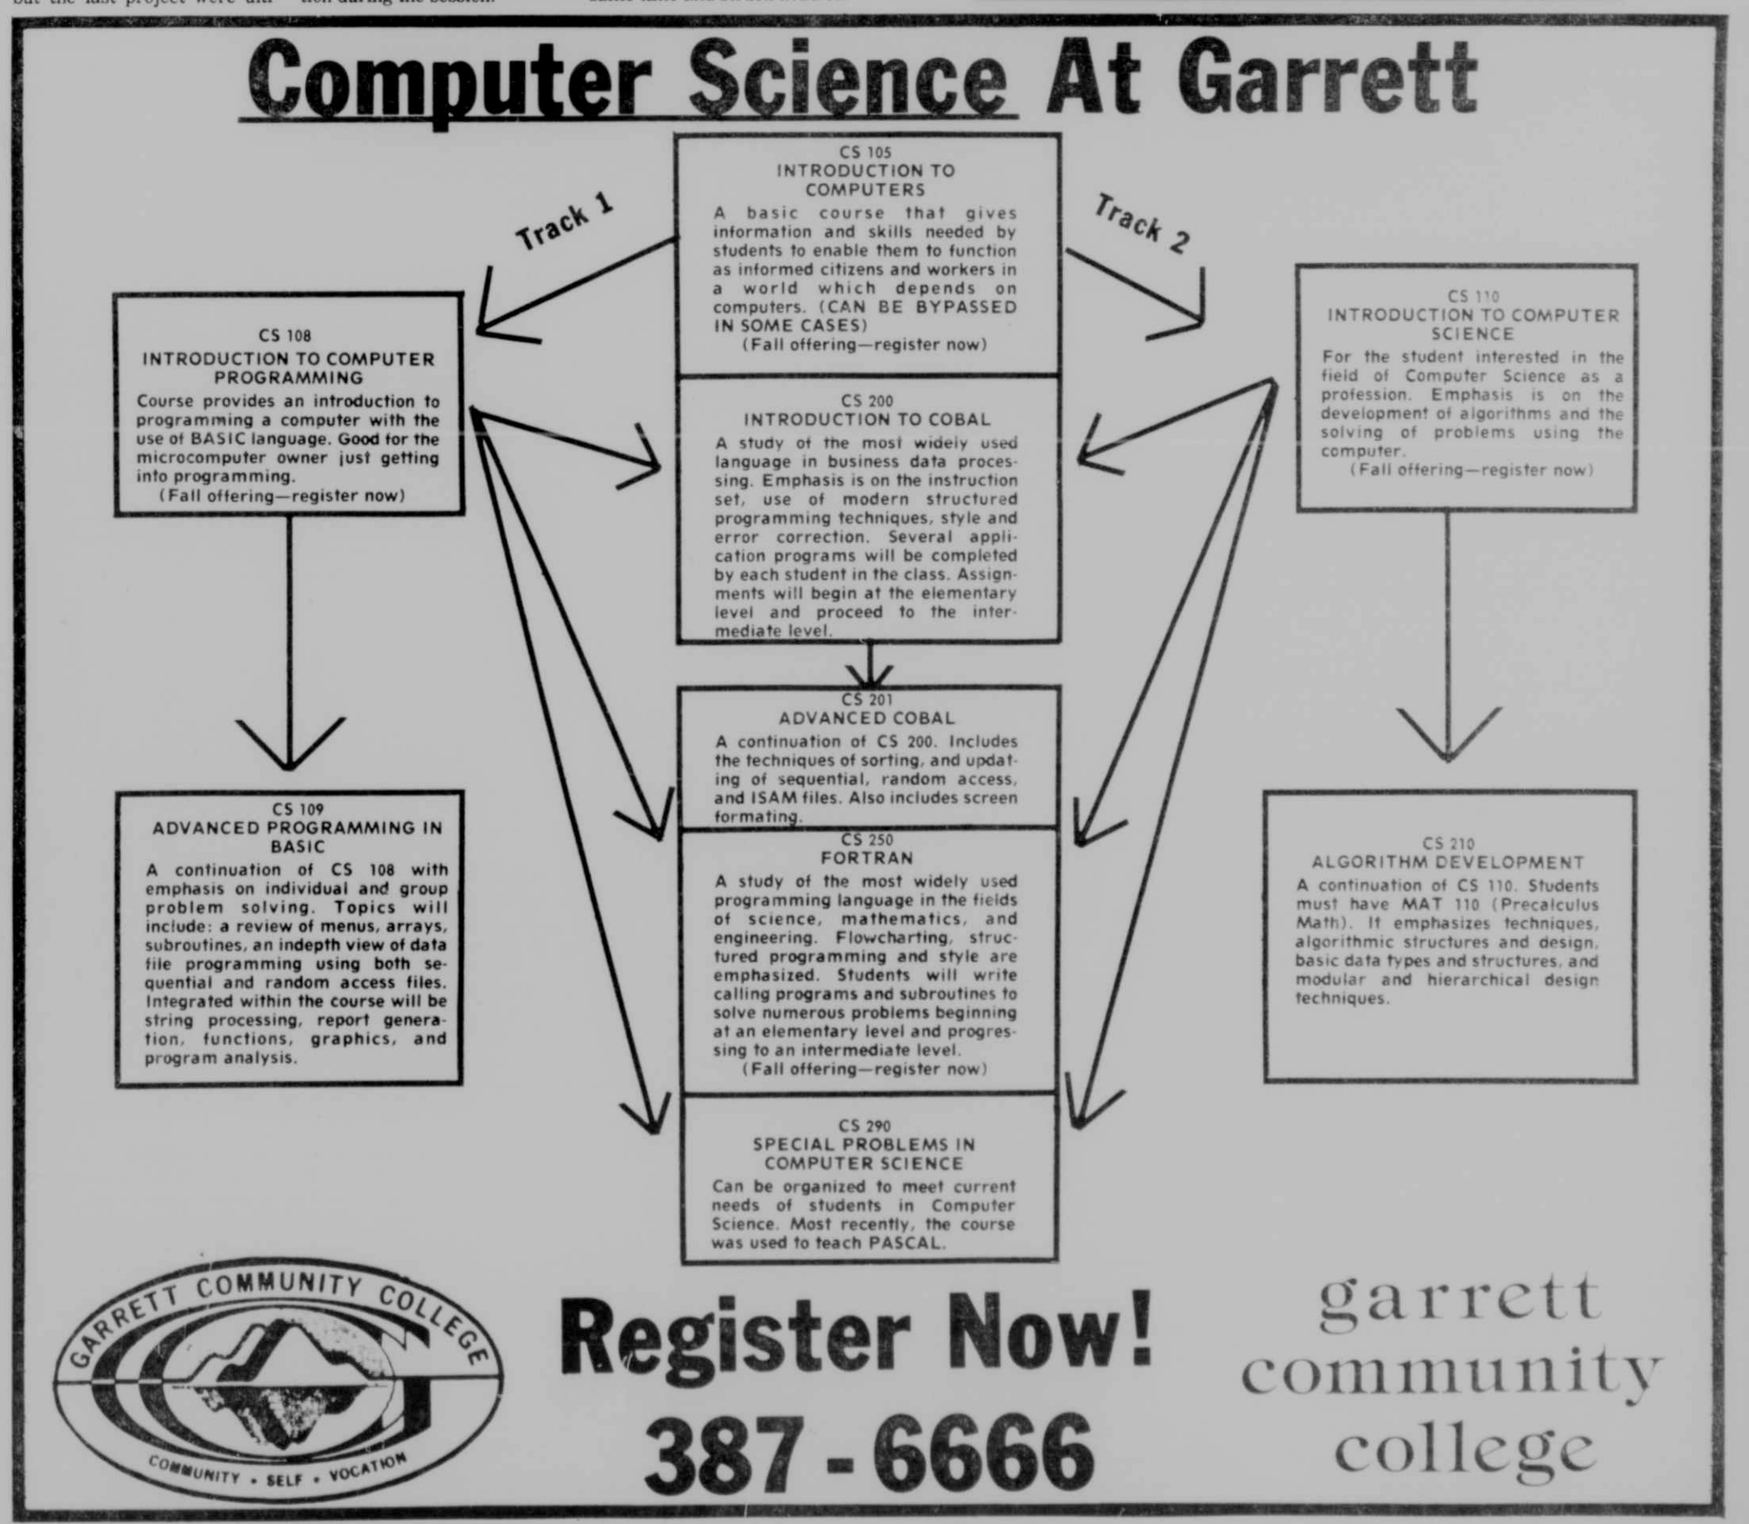
Jeffrey John Gebhart, 23, Pittsburgh, a passenger in the vehicle, was treated and released from Garrett Memorial Hospital.

Tfc. Smith also charged McGinley with failing to remain in one lane.

GCMH Receives Child Abuse Prevention Grant

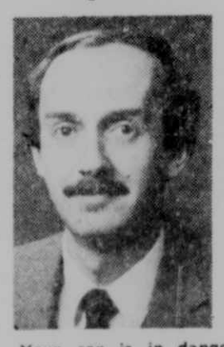
Grants totaling $118,000 for the prevention of child abuse have been awarded for the second year to public and private agencies across the state including one for Garrett County Memorial Hospital, by the Social Services Administration of the Maryland Department of Human Resources.

Funded through the federal Child Abuse Prevention and Treatment Act, the awards will enable the sponsoring agencies to initiate new, or to continue and strengthen existing, community-based child abuse prevention programs. Most of the funded projects focus on the increasing problem of the sexual abuse of children.



"We are pleased to be able to again provide the funds which will enable community agencies, both public and private, to continue to address the serious problem of child abuse," commented Frank Farrow, executive director of the Social Services Administration. "Through the creative use of these funds, agencies which deal directly with parents and children are able to provide vital preventive services," he added.

Among the grants ranging from $9,000 to $14,000 was one to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, for continuation of a positive parenting program aimed at the parents of young children and the expansion of the program to include teenaged parents.



In making the awards, over 35 proposals were reviewed by the HELP Resource Project, a special child abuse prevention unit of the Social Services Administration.

Your car is in danger. There are thousands of thieves ready to take it—to ride, to sell, to break up for parts. Some only want your radio or tape deck, but will break into your car to get it.

What can you do to make your car a less tempting target? Make it harder to get into, and harder to drive away.

Lock your car when you park, and take the key with you. If you park in an attended lot, leave only the ignition key. Be sure all packages and valuables are stowed away in the trunk.

If you park on the street, choose a well-illuminated spot. Turn front wheels sharply to right or left, making the car more difficult to tow away.

If you have installed an anti-theft device or alarm, USE IT. The longer it takes a thief to get into your car, the more likely he is to give up.

Auto theft is an ongoing problem. Protect your car with sensible precautions—and adequate insurance. Talk it over at:

Favorable Impressions

First impressions do not always give an accurate picture of a person's character. We have all been misled by them, however more often than not, they prove to be generally correct.

Our first impressions of the new president of Garrett Community College, Dr. David Puzzuoli, have all been most positive. It appears that the committee of GCC board members charged with finding a new president has done an outstanding job, for which we thank them. The time frame in which they had to work was a tight one.

We agree with the committee's apparent opinion that it was best to locate someone from well on the outside to come in and provide an objective, fresh start at the college.

Dr. Puzzuoli's educational background is outstanding, but the first impressions which please us the most are that he is a warm, open, people–oriented person and that he is an optimist. He is looking ahead to a brighter future for GCC, rather than back at the recent dark past. "The past is certainly not going to govern me" was his quote.

Even with the subsidence of many hard feelings and negative emotion among faculty, board members, and administration officials at the college, the task before Dr. Puzzuoli remains monumental. The cold, hard facts, which have nothing to do with emotions, are the sheer numbers. Can GCC survive financially?

With strong public support of the college and a continuance of the fence-building which has already begun between those who run the college, we believe that the college can not only survive, but thrive. Like Dr. Puzzuoli, we believe the book on GCC's recent past should be closed. While it is important to learn from our mistakes, it is counterproductive to continue to cast blame and keep slinging mud. Everyone loses.

The college has something special to offer, not only to our young high school graduates, but to almost everyone else. A wide variety of courses is available, both credit and non-credit, and learning is something that goes on throughout one's life.

Welcome, Dr. Puzzuoli.

To the Editor:

The battle in 1813 between the "U.S.S. Chesapeake" and the British ship "Shannon" was one of the low points (for America) in the War of 1812, but there were individual American sailors who acted gallantly in that encounter, even though the U.S. lost it. One such U.S. officer was Lieut. George Budd, serving as a purser on the "Chesapeake." Budd was born in Maryland, so the records say, and lived long after the battle, until his death in 1837.

However, as a devoted War of 1812 researcher, I have never been able to determine where (what community) Budd was born in Maryland, or in what year, so the early part of his life remains a mystery. I write this letter to The Republican in the hope that people knowledgeable on Budd's life will see it and try to contact me. I can be reached at the address given below.

Sincerely,

To the Editor:

I ask you: would the Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) stoop so low as to enter into a conspiracy to circumvent State law and dupe the taxpayers of this county/state? Here's the evidence. Read it and you be the judge:

January 15, 1985 - The Pennsylvania Electric Company (PENELEC) informed this Association that an offer had been made to DNR to sell to the State all the property they held in the Youghiogheny River (Yough) Corridor for building of the proposed hydroelectric power dams at Sang Run and above Swallow Falls (approximately 1200 acres).

January 20, 1985—The Baltimore Sun Newspaper reported that Governor Hughes had included $1 million of open space funds in the State budget for buying land in the Yough corridor.

February 1, 1985—Our Garrett County Commissioners sent a letter to Governor Hughes which, in part, stated that under Maryland law (Chapter 679, Section 11-T) the State is prohibited from any additional land purchases in Garrett County (above acreage now owned) utilizing open space funds.

February 12, 1985—Senator Bambacus introduced Senate Bill 757 to amend the above law. The amendment was so worded as to permit the State to proceed with the purchase of PENELEC property and other land in Garrett County. After considerable protest by county citizens and the Commissioners on taking land out of the county tax base, the Bill was withdrawn.

March 28, 1985—Enter the Natural Land Trust a tax free corporation of Philadelphia, Pa. Mr. David Miller of National Land Trust (formerly employed by DNR) informed this Association that they were planning to buy the PENELEC and other property in the Yough corridor and that Garrettland Realty had been selected to make the necessary appraisals, etc. He advised this Association that if they were successful in the purchase they expected to be reimbursed by selling conservation easements to the State of Maryland. They would also expect a revenue from the property through fees charged to the public for boating, fishing, hunting, hiking, camping etc.

June 1985—Mr. Keith Roberts, DNR employee in Garrett County responsible for planning and administering the Yough Wild River Act, resigned his position with DNR and went to work for the Natural Land Trust.

July 1985—Mr. Fred L. Eskew, Deputy Secretary DNR, sent a letter to PENELEC, with a copy to the Natural Land Trust and Senator Bambacus, which informed PENELEC the State would not be buying their Yough property and they were free to negotiate with the National Land Trust.

August 1985—Natural Land Trust made an offer of $500,000 to PENELEC for their property in the Yough corridor. Mr. Keith Roberts advised PENELEC is accepting their offer.

August 24, 1985—Governor Hughes sent a letter to Senator Bambacus in which he states, in part, that he indorses the purchase by the Natural Land Trust; that the General Assembly has authorized State purchase of up to 8000 acres along the Yough using open space funds and that he intends to so proceed.

The irony of the above situation is that the PENELEC property will not only be taken out of the County tax base (the Natural Land Tust is tax free) but the taxpayer will also be paying for conservation easements to be purchased by the State and the public may be denied use of the Yough corridor without paying a users fee. I call this a triple—wammy on the people in Garrett County.

More important, and tragic, is the expulsion of some 200 families from their homes and farms if the Governor proceeds with acquisition of 8000 acres. Does he plan to bulldoze the homes and plant the land in trees? Perhaps he might burn them and invite the fire companies in for practice drills.

President,
Youghiogheny River
Association

Dear Mr. Hinebaugh:

Senator John Bambacus informed us yesterday that the intent of HB 757 was to strengthen the county's position against state acquisition of its land. See a more detailed explanation in story on page 1

To the Editor:

A visit to my hometown of Oakland after a 13-year absence was a step back in time, and a leap toward the future. The industrious Amish still come to a city with one-way streets and brick sidewalks, quite a contrast. Deep Creek Lake, promoted as Maryland's best kept secret, is a boom town in itself with condos and convention centers. Radio Shack has replaced the First National Bank, but The Republican, even with word-processing equipment, still comes out on Thursdays.

Coal and lumber trucks thunder down Backbone Mountain; there's far more hope for miners' kids now, thanks to Garrett Community College and other educational opportunities.

After 17 years in the wide open spaces of southern Idaho, I found Garrett County's humidity and "tunnels" from overhanging trees a claustrophobic effect.

Former classmates (hopscotch opponents when we were kids) are now CPAs at Thayer Center. Handshakes and hugs from friends and relatives made 13 years disappear; a 2100-mile trip was made worthwhile.

Garrett County's biggest asset is its young people; if too many leave permanently, the area will wither and die. They say you can't go home again; but if you're from Garrett County, you can. Garrett County is often on my mind, but always in my heart.

Special thanks to my grandfather who spent his life in the coal mines, so I could have the good life in Idaho.

Sincerely,
Betsy (Pratt) Hitt

As Executive Director of the Health Systems Agency of Western Maryland, I would like to take this opportunity to personally thank you and the members of your staff who have recently reported the activities of both the Maryland Health Resources Planning Commission and the Health Systems Agency of Western Maryland, regarding the excess bed capacity issue in Maryland.

This reporting has been fair, objective, accurate, and timely, which demonstrates a responsiveness to your community. I realize that in the coming months I will have to call upon you and your staff to continue reporting issues surrounding the acute care hospital system in Maryland and especially Western Maryland.

I can assure you that the efforts of our Agency will be to respond promptly and succinctly to your inquiries. We value the effectiveness that your newspaper has in providing this information to the general public.

I look forward to continuing a cooperative arrangement with your newspaper staff, not only on the excess capacity issue, but other Agency activities as well.

To the Editor:

I live in Sussex, N.J., and receive The Republican regularly. I look forward to each issue because, as an "outsider," I see Garrett County as a microcosm of America; a throbbing, virile, pulse of our great nation. Your recent coverage of the Friend family history was especially fascinating to me and prompts me to mention another piece of American History that might be of special interest to the good citizens of Garrett County.

South of Nyack, N.Y., on the banks of the Hudson River, is a historical mansion known as the Onderdonck House. A bronze plaque, on a large stone in front of the mansion, inscribed by the Rockland County Historical Society of N.Y. states:

"On May 4, 1783 George Washington and Governor George Clinton stopped here on the way to Tappan to meet Sir George Carleton, Commander-in-Chief of the British Army.

"Arrangements were made for the final evacuation of the British troops from New York at the end of the American Revolution.

"Upon boarding and leaving the vessel 'Perseverance' the British honored Washington and our country with a 17-gun naval salute thereby first acknowledging the American nation in the traditional manner."

A short distance from the mansion, on the crest of the hill on the old King's Highway, is a family burial plot marked with a large stone. Its inscription notes that an early member of the Onderdonck-Hendryx line was interned there on June 17, 1776. On the reverse side of the stone is inscribed that the latest members of the Onderdonck-Hendryx line interned in the plot are Leonard Minikin (1968) and Carolyn Minikin (1963).

I thought that it might be of interest to your readers that Mr. and Mrs. Minikin are the grandparents of your State's Attorney, James Sherbin, who therefore, is a descendant of the first arrivals in our country. (The original Hendryx came here with Peter Stuyvesant).

Sincerely yours,
Sigmund Michota

To the Editor:

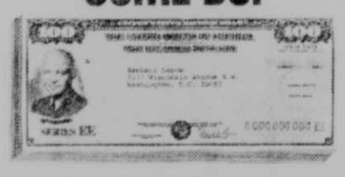
I am writing regarding the answers given by the Garrett Community College Board of Trustees on August 15, 1985. It is frightening to see events unfold as they have at GCC and never be offered valid explanation. The answers are inadequate and incorrect.

The board answers the questions that give them the least trouble. The rest of the questions are unacknowledged. There are no acceptable answers as to why they would not meet with the students or the Faculty Forum. The reply to leadership expectations and standards is insufficent. There are no answers to reply to the personnel policies and procedures.

The reply concerning job descriptions and requirements is false. Contracts received by the faculty include the time period of the contract, the salary, and the classes to be taught. No job description is included with the contracts. At no time is an instructor presented with such information.

Student evaluations being used to judge faculty performance is not true. The faculty is not given student evaluation forms, and therefore no evaluations are turned into the administration. The board has not answered the question of how the faculty is evaluated.

There are no answers concerning delay of contracts, required notification of termination, procedures concerning termination, guidance, counseling, or reasons for numerous faculty terminations.



The list goes on. The answers given by the Board of Trustees will not do.

SOME OF THE GREATEST THINGS IN AMERICA NEVER CHANGE.

SOME DO.

U.S. Savings Bonds. Paying Over 9%.

In 1621 a small band of colonists gave thanks for their first harvest. Today, Thanksgiving is still a time to give thanks for all that we have.

Some things never change.

One great American tradition has changed—U.S. Savings Bonds. Today's Savings Bonds pay higher variable interest rates like money market accounts. Currently, Bonds are paying over 9%.

Just hold Savings Bonds for five years and you get the new variable interest rates. Plus, you get a guaranteed return. This means you can earn a lot more, but never less than 7½%!

You can purchase Bonds at almost any financial institution, or easier yet, through the Payroll Savings Plan where you work.

Buy U.S. Savings Bonds. Like Thanksgiving, they're well worth remembering. To find out the current interest rate and more information, call toll-free 1-800-US-BONDS.

Our Turn

It's A Jungle Out There
by Pam Ashby

'Tis the harvesting and canning season once more. Oh, joy! Don't get me wrong, I used to love to can when I was a stay-at-home mom. But now. . . whew!

My husband and I, and anyone who dropped by unexpectedly, spent the greater part of this past weekend "putting up" shelled out beans and peaches.

Hubby Joe just recently took up the hobby, and I use the term loosely, of canning. Rather, it became a joint responsibility when I took a full-time job. And we both love to eat the home-canned fruits and veggies.

Early last spring, for the first time ever, Joe became very enthused about planting the garden. I was less than enthusiastic. I had too many irons in the fire already. I put my foot down. No garden!

After the garden was planted, I relaxed for a while. Then suddenly, in mid-June, there they were. Weeds, weeds everywhere. Joe soothed me and went about tilling the garden. At least the greenery between the rows was gone.

Near the end of July, I inquired of anyone who would listen, "Has anyone looked at the garden lately?"

My reply came in the form of sheepish looks of horror on the faces of my husband and three children. I grabbed a machete and bravely entered the jungle. . . alone. After all, it was time to can the green beans - if I could find them.

It was a gruesome sight when I finally found them. They had been murdered. Strangulation by some vicious-looking weeds. These sinister vines had literally choked the very life of nearly every innocent bean plant. I don't know what came over me. Actually, it was a smile. Now I wouldn't have to can the beans.

Last week my guilty conscience overtook me and I braved the jungle once more. I did it for the love of my family. They love shelled-out beans and I was about to become their hero.

Two hours later, my husband rescued me and cut the tangled vines from my arms and legs, but only after he hugged me for single-handedly saving over half a bushel of beans. There was enough for one canning. I could handle that. What I couldn't handle was the bushel of peaches my sister-in-law delivered that same day. The ones I forgot I ordered.

So, it's going to be one of those years where the vegetables have learned to co-exist with the weeds. And wouldn't you know it. The corn looks taller than ever, the tomatoes are ripening . . . and the Ashbys can can.

Curiosity . . .

by Mary I. Love

I value a tab on a key chain which shows a kitten frisking after a butterfly and a bee. It bears the legend, "Blessed are the curious, for they shall have adventures." One can take that literally, and think of the large-scale curious with their large-scale adventures: Columbus crossing the ocean, Byrd exploring the Antarctic, the astronauts.

Agreeing whole-heartedly that the curious have adventures, I would add another benefit: the curious are seldom bored.

Some years ago I was on the Ohio Turnpike, going from Toledo to Cleveland. It's a rather dull road, but ahead of me was a pick-up loaded with a cookstove, a motorcycle, and a live llama. Trying to imagine some background that would explain that unlikely combination brightened my day, and still occasionally haunts me.

Another time, on a Sunday afternoon when traffic was light, a hook and ladder truck was sitting in the middle of a through street in downtown Cincinnati. It was completely unattended, and as noticeable as it would be on Charles Street in Baltimore, or on Second Street in Oakland. It was there for some time, making cars and pedestrians side-step it. I found its presence strange, but even stranger was the fact that no one else seemed to think it odd.

Moving closer home is the lady in the picture, a life-sized construction looking a bit debauched, with a black wig over a blonde one and a smear of lipstick on her cheek. We found her posted serenely at the intersection of two dirt roads somewhere beyond Friendsville. We were admittedly lost, but she seemed at home amid the trees, with no houses, no mailboxes, no people, and no apparent justification for her presence. She seemed to be enjoying the unexpectedly sunny February day, as we were. She was so improbable that we couldn't resist taking a picture. I hope no one minds.

and procedures are acceptable and established, and operation guidelines of landfills as well," said Commissioner Ernest Gregg Jr. at a press conference Tuesday.

In the near future, the present Round Glade landfill site will be full, causing the county to find another suitable site. The commissioners contend they have been searching but negotiations between the commissioners and the DHMH have broken down.

"We are trying to get a consent order to continue to operate our present landfill while we look for a new site, but the negotiating process for that order has come to a standstill," said Commissioner Groves.

Commissioner John Braskey, who is a member of the board of directors of MACo, added that other counties are faced with similar problems in dealing with the mandates set by the State Health Department.

The fine for any person violating any section of the new ordinance will be not less that $25 nor more than $200.

In other commissioner news Tuesday, Commissioner Ernest Gregg Jr. reported that roads crews have completed most the scheduled summer maintenance thus far this season.

He stressed that work on the Chestnut Grove, Mt. Zion and Walnut Bottom Roads is progressing and that it should be completed by the end of the month. "We realize that residents in that area have been more than patient and we just want to assure them that the work will be completed before winter maintenance begins," stated Gregg.

Brenda Brosnihan: Building A Business, Fulfilling A Need For Local Residents

GYMNASTICS, dance, and aerobics are among the classes offered by Brenda's Body Shop to school-age children, each of whom is given the opportunity to participate in an annual spring recital. This event has involved nearly 150 children in the past two years and plans are already underway for the 1986 recital. A new power aerobics class for youth is now being offered by Brenda, who holds her classes on the third floor of the McLaughlin (now Helbig) building in downtown Oakland.

by Don Sincell

It's no secret that employment opportunities in Garrett County are not plentiful. Getting a job is one thing, but building a career and a solid business for oneself is difficult no matter where one resides.

However, when one can pinpoint a product or service to which the general public is attracted, and has the skills and business sense necessary to provide that product or service, the potential is great for becoming successful.

Brenda Brosnihan is a person who has coupled her own athletic ability with sound management procedures, resulting not only in a flourishing business for herself, but also in the presence of a valuable service not usually available to residents of rural areas.

As far back as she can remember, Ms. Brosnihan has been involved in a variety of baton, dance, gymnastics, and aerobics activities. She was one of those little girls barely old enough to walk, let alone march, who participated in umpteen parades as a member of a twirling and majorette groups. She attended classes week after week, year after year, working hard to develop her body and perfect her skills. She continued with her training in all of these areas through her school years and, following her graduation from Southern High School in 1978, she went on to study health and physical education at Garrett Community and Frostburg State colleges. At Frostburg she was a member of the dance club and the featured twirler for the band.

It was while instructing at a majorette camp in Roanoke, Va., however, that Brenda sensed a call to go into teaching and, in the fall of 1980, she began conducting classes at the National Guard Armory in Oakland. There were about 40 adults in her aerobics class and a total of 45 children in her gymnastics and baton classes.

It didn't take long for Brenda to realize the growth potential of what she had to offer, as more and more persons became interested in signing up for a class. So in the spring of 1981 she moved her classes into what is known as the McLaughlin (now Helbig) building in downtown Oakland. She set up her studio on the third floor (climbing the three long flights of stairs just to get there is a good aerobic warm-up) and ran a contest to determine the name of her newly found school.

Thus began Brenda's Body Shop, and since 1980 she has instructed nearly 500 children and over 1,000 adults. Besides the basic aerobics and gymnastics classes she offered initially, she now also leads a power aerobics class, an advanced gymnastics class, a class for youngsters she calls kinderdance, a regular dance class which features ballet, aerobic, jazz, and tap dancing, plus a rifle class, primarily for members of color guards. Her newest class, which is just now getting underway, is a youth aerobics team called the Aerobic Die-Hards, featuring the "Energizers", who are the more advanced youngsters. This group, along with the already established Mat Mates youth gymnastics team, will present public demonstrations this fall.

Brenda also is beginning a new class she calls "Mom and Me", which provides organized activities for young children across the hall from the studio while "Mom" is able to participate in aerobics. She was quick to point out that it is not just a baby-sitting service, because the children will be busy. Because of the number of children involved, the cost to the mothers is less than average baby-sitting rates.

She currently has an enrollment of approximately 140 children and 150 adults in the various classes, which has resulted in expansion of her teaching staff from one (herself) to five. Working with her on a fulltime basis is Tami Fike, while Carol Gregg, Dawn Panther, and Nan Gangler teach parttime.

When asked about her philosophies in relation to her chosen profession, Ms. Brosnihan stated that the various exercises, routines, and skills she teaches provide more than a healthier body.

"When your body is in good condition, you feel better, you have more energy, and your whole outlook is better," she said. Self-image is so important, not only for the children, but for the adults as well. We do not just teach exercises, but we teach people how to create a better self-image.

"For a while they complain about having to climb the steps to get to the studio," she continued. "Later, though, they switch to a positive attitude and say to themselves, 'Isn't it great that I am able to climb these steps so easily.' " She said that it takes patience and many weeks of work to really make a difference, however. "Many people expect miracles to happen with their bodies within five or six weeks, but unfortunately it doesn't work that way," she stated. "Most do begin to at least feel a difference after just a few sessions though."

The concepts behind Brenda's children's classes also involve much more than physical development and exercise. Her kinderdance classes, for example, which she says is not really a dance class, but "movement education for preschoolers" is designed to "appeal to the child's natural instinct for play, giving the child an opportunity to succeed in a familiar environment" as her brochure states. "Once a child succeeds in any task, it helps him to become more emotionally stable." Discovering how their bodies move, promoting perceptual-motor abilities and hand/eye coordination, developing listening and concentration skills, developing balance, a sense of direction, body and space awareness, flexibility, endurance, and just plan having fun are among the many other, perhaps less obvious, benefits of the kinderdance classes.

LET'S STRETCH — "A real workout" is how most of Brenda Brosnihan's students describe her one-hour aerobics class, which is designed not only to improve the appearance of one's body, but also the brightness of one's outlook. Several hundred local women have benefited from Brenda's Body Shop in Oakland since it opened some five years ago and class sizes continue to increase. Brenda, a native of Mountain Lake Park, also offers instruction and exercise for pre-schoolers in programs such as her Kinderdance class, shown below. Besides the obvious exercise for their young bodies, youngsters also improve such skills as hand/eye coordination, balance, flexiblity, and perceptual-motor ability via the many activities in the class.

A major recital, involving all 140-plus children in Brenda's gymnastics, kinderdance, and dance classes, has been held the past two springs as a culminating event before about a two-month summer "recess" that Brenda takes each year. "The Wonderful World of Walt Disney" was the title of the recital, or revue, this past May, held on the stage of Southern High School. The program, performed in front of several hundred parents and friends, utilized elaborate sets and incredibly detailed, colorful costumes. Each child had at least one role in the program, for which there was but one group rehearsal before the presentation. After the performance, each and every child received a certificate or trophy, presented individually by Brenda, for his or her efforts.

"Self-image is so important . . ."

The cost of the annual recital is staggering and, although fundraising efforts are organized by Brenda and a number of parents, the effort is, at best, a break-even project. The tension placed on Brenda and the rest of the staff is at times almost unbearable, but she says that it is all worth it.

"The recital is to show parents what we have been doing," Brenda said, "but it is mostly for the children. To see their excitement grow as the recital gets closer and closer is a wonderful experience that makes it all worthwhile."

She said the recital also gives the children a goal, something to look forward to, and helps build their self-confidence by performing in front of a crowd. Usually during the fall months the children are taught individual skills. After the first of the year, work continues with individual skills, but group routines are also included to prepare for the public recital. The 1986 recital will be based on the PBS children's program, "Sesame Street".

Besides operating Brenda's Body Shop, Ms. Brosnihan and two members of her staff, Tami Fike and Carol Gregg, spend many hours in training together for competition in national aerobics events. This summer the team participated in the Crystal Light sponsored regional events in Pittsburgh and Chicago. Out of 30 teams from all over the east in Pittsburgh, Brenda's team finished in second place, just missing the championship by a few points. Brenda also placed second in the individual competition, topping 158 out of 160 participants, most of them other instructors.

In Chicago the local team placed seventh out of 32 entrants, while Brenda finished eighth in the individual event. Brenda was disappointed with the judging in this competition because such a heavy emphasis (50% of the scoring) was placed on presentation and flash, and 50% on skill. "The officials of the competition stress to the audience that aerobics is a sport, and yet they place so much emphasis on 'show biz'," Brenda said. "Skill points should carry a much higher percentage of the overall score. Hopefully, some changes will be made in future competitions."

After Brenda scored so high in the individual competition, she had the opportunity to speak with Christine MacIntyre, the editor of Shape magazine, who told her she was interested in doing a feature story on Brenda. She is still waiting to hear from Ms. MacIntyre, however.

"The recital . . . is mostly for the children."

Brenda is married to Pete Brosnihan, vice president in charge of operations for Concepts Associates, a local construction company. They and their son, Petey, reside in McHenry.

What does the future hold?

"I hope to continue in aerobics competition for a while," Brenda said, "keep on learning, and keep on teaching."

This is good news for the hundreds of area residents whose bodies, and thus whose lives, have been made better by going to Brenda's Body Shop.

Quotes From Lutheran Article

The headlines from an article from the Lutheran magazine reads as follows: Wyoming Flood Damages Church.

"A torrential storm last month dumped six inches of rain in less than three hours in Cheyenne, Wyoming, killing 11 people and damaging 1,400 homes. Six inches of hail fell at the same time and the rain pushed it into drifts that clogged streets. Among the buildings affected was St. Paul's at 19th and House Streets. According to the Rev. David Rockwood, associate pastor, the storm ripped two metal doors from their frames and threw them across the room. The fellowship hall was flooded with 18 inches of ice. The rain also broke several church windows and caused minor roof damage. Pastor Rockwood, who recently went to Cheyenne from the Bittinger, Maryland, parish said, 'We have a coalition of churches preparing to address the long-term effects of this storm.' Pastor Rockwood, who was installed in July, found five feet of water in the basement of his own newly purchased home."

Volunteers Sought For Life Support Program In County

Volunteers for the new Life Support Program, sponsored by the Garrett County Area Agency on Aging, are presently being sought, according to Rebecca Oldham, spokesman for the agency.

The Life Support Program is sponsored, in part, by the state and attempts to match volunteers of all ages with nursing home residents who have little or no visitation from relatives or friends.

Oldham said the program is responding to the vast changes which have occurred for people over 65 in the United States since the turn of the century.

She added that of the over 23 million senior citizens in the U.S. today, 95% of them live in their own or family residences. The remaining 5% live in various institutions. "Of those 5%, many do have family and friends that visit with them regularly and are concerned about their well-being. Those, however, who are alone, are devastatingly alone and have given up surroundings that are familiar to them. Life-long objects and family scenes are out of their reach," she stated.

"The nursing home responds to their physical needs with the many interested people who work there, but, often, no one is available or concerned enough to give the individual care that is needed for the resident to feel a sense of worth. Everyone needs social contact and communication," Oldham stressed.

Concerned about this problem, the Maryland Office on Aging initiated the state-funded Life Support Program. Due to its success and recognized need, the program has recently been established in the county.

"Life Support volunteers are caring people of all ages who are willing to give about one hour a week to visit with nursing home residents. They will be oriented to the program before being assigned to their special friends, which they may help choose," said Oldham.

Persons interested in volunteering for the program should contact the Area Agency on Aging at 334-3990.

Colorful Dress And Exciting Tribal Dances Highlight Indian Pow Wow

Colorful traditional dress, exciting tribal dances, and a meaningful ceremony honoring veterans were the highlights of the American Indian Pow Wow held at the Garrett County Fair Grounds over Labor Day weekend. Representatives of approximately 25 Indian tribes were present for the gathering, some of them traveling from the far west for the event.

A combined colorguard of Indians and local Veterans' groups took part in the special dedication ceremony of "The Plaque" honoring Indian Viet-Nam era veterans. Present for this dedication was the Black Leggings Warrior Society of Oklahoma, which rarely leaves that area, but came to the Pow Wow for the honoring of the plaque.

CALIFORNIA AND OKLAHOMA are the homes of these two far-traveling American Indians. Marina Camplis of California is an Azteca-Xittlalli Indian dressed in ancient Aztec style, who danced barefoot, which is traditional for her tribe. Also pictured above is George Tahdooahnippah, of the Comanche tribe, who traveled to Garrett County from Oklahoma.

SCENE FROM THE PAST — Mountain man John W. Yorria discusses the old days with Kiowa Dixon Palmer at the American Indian Pow Wow.

THE HEARTBEAT OF THE PEOPLE — The drum is vital to the American Indian people. It is considered to be the heartbeat of the Creator, thus of the people, and is given much respect and honor. The head drummer-singer sets the tempo of the pow wow and is assisted by all the other singers.

PREPARING FOR COMPETITION — An elder helps a younger Indian prepare for one of the dance competitions. Indians of all ages take part in the dance contests, and preparation is important because if any part of the outfit falls off during the contest the dancer is disqualified.

ALL THE COMFORTS OF HOME — A teepee is truly a comfortable home, and several Indian families camped in their traditional homes over the weekend. The 22-foot teepee pictured has more room inside than expected, with room to sleep a large family, store supplies, and build a cooking fire.

Gregg Addresses Rotarians

James Gregg, president of the Preston County Board of Education, was the guest speaker for the August 22 meeting of the Terra Alta Rotary Club at Alpine Lake.

Gregg was invited by Duane Kelley and his topic was a discussion centered on the Board's proposed design to improve the educational program for the county. He said the serious deficiencies in the school buildings requires an intensive program of renovations, construction, extensions, additions and equipment, "in order to offer the students of Preston County an efficient building complex providing them with the best possible education." To achieve the project it will be necessary to incur debt and issue bonds. He said funds derived from current levies are insufficient to finance the project. Studies by the Board show that the school district must spend at least $11,690,000 for such purpose; this sum is expected to be obtained by issuing bonds.

The issuance of bonds, and all of the questions properly connected with the project, will be presented to the voters of the Preston County School District at a special election to be held on October 26. The project includes the construction of a high school for Bruceton Mills, construction of a new high school for Kingwood; construction of a high school for the Fellowsville, Newburg and Tunnelton areas (to be called South Preston High), construction of an addition to Terra Alta Elementary School and the construction of an addition to East Preston High School.

For this special election, 33 precincts throughout the county have been designated to accommodate the voters.

Homemakers Meet

The Terra Alta Homemakers met on August 20 at the home of Esther Pigott. Shirley Cramer was co-hostess. Lucy Kelley was devotional leader reading several scriptures and had a reading. "Ethiopia and Its Diverse Lifestyle" was Jane Hauger's lesson for the evening.

Members voted to participate in the Buckwheat Festival with an exhibit. An impromptu meeting will be held in the near future. It was voted to raise membership dues to $5.00. Pennies for friendship were taken and the meeting adjourned with the club collect.

The September 17 meeting will be held at the home of Ruth White.

Grange News

RAMS MAKE READY — A lot of new faces will be on the Southern High School gridiron this season as one of the most talented group of seniors from last year's 9-2 squad was lost to graduation. However, a number of experienced players are back and Ram fans are anticipating another successful season. Mental and physical preparation has been underway for several weeks at the Southern practice field as the Rams prepare to open their season this Friday evening at home against Beall. Above, Coach Tom Woods discusses strategy with the offensive unit.

HOPING TO BOUNCE BACK this season after a disappointing 2-7 finish last year are the Northern High Huskies under head coach Jack Settle, pictured left. The 1984 campaign was certainly not a total loss, however, as the final game was a big upset win over previously unbeaten Southern. Back for the 1985 season is quarterback Kevin Sines, one of the area's leading passers, plus some huge linemen. The Huskies will open their season Friday evening at home against Bruce.

Rams Attempting To Fill Big Shoes With New Players For '85 Season

"Young and thin" is how one member of the coaching staff described the Southern Rams varsity football team this season and after tomorrow evening the staff and fans should have a better idea as to what might be expected this year from the Rams, a team that has had back-to-back 9-2 seasons.

Progress has been slow the past few weeks, according to head coach Tom Woods, who said that the team has been plagued with injuries. Two players have been lost for at least the first three games, one will most likely be out for the season, and several others have been hobbling around with bad ankles.

Only seven of last season's starters are back this season, as the most talented group of seniors ever to play at Southern were all lost to graduation. Gone are All-Area tackle Scott Colaw to the University of Pennsylvania and All-Area quarterback J.R. Gibson to Catholic University in Washington, D.C. Gone is the area's top defensive player of the year, Steve Bennett, and one of the strongest slotbacks, Dave McLaughlin. Tight ends Allan Sharpless and Kirk Turney are also no longer in Ram uniforms.

However, the good news is that among those seven returning starters are junior tailback Bruce Bosley, who ran for 900 yards last season before missing the final two games with a knee injury; Steve Schrock, All-Area nose guard from last year and another powerful ball carrier; Scott Werdebaugh, 6-0, 196 pounds, and John Lewis, 6-0, 183 pounds, both with considerable experience, who will share fullback duties and start on defense; and junior Donnie Horner, a 5-10, 167-pound speedster who runs a 4.6 40-yard dash and lettered last year. Jay Stewart, 5-10, 266-pound starting tackle, is also back, as is junior tackle Warren Livengood, 6-0, 260.

"We're dealing with many new faces in several positions," Woods said, "and it's tough to know right now what to expect. We do know for sure, though, that we have a lot of work ahead of us."

Woods said he was pleased that so many players are on the roster, noting that he has the biggest squad ever at Southern. Some 70 youth came out the first day and 64 remained, which is more than a dozen over the average size squad. Only ten, however, are seniors, while 15 are juniors, and 17 are sophomores.

Zack Gibson, younger brother of J.R., is the only freshman, however most coaches would welcome a dozen or so freshmen with his ability. Gibson is expected to be the starting safety, the main punter, a second team place kicker, and will most likely see considerable action at the quarterback position.

Woods says that it appears senior Jamie Thomas (5-10, 169) will start as the signal caller, but Gibson is strongly challenging Thomas for the position.

Schrock and Bruce Bosley will share tailback duties, as Lewis and Werdebaugh will be at fullback. Horner will start at slot and Scott Lohr, a 5-9, 141-pound junior, will most likely start at split end. Mike Mongold, 5-10, 177-pound senior, and junior Tony Refosco, 6-2,171, will anchor the right end position.

Joining Stewart and Livengood on the offensive line will be junior Gary Wotring, 6-0, 180, at strong guard; Mike Smith, 5-10, 168-pound senior, at weak side guard; and Johnnie Mayne, 5-10, 171-pound junior, at center.

Also expected to see a lot of action on the offensive line are senior A.J. Murray, 5-10, 190, and junior Rick Layton, 5-10, 179. Sophomore J.R. Bosley, 5-7, 143, will at times fill the slot and tailback positions, while Clark Warnick, 5-10, 154-pound senior, and Kevin Ford, 5-10, 162-pound senior, will fill in at split end.

Composing the starting defensive secondary will be Gibson, Horner, and both Bosleys, with Lohr, junior Tom Smith (5-7, 138), and junior Brian Dixon (5-11, 161) as frequent substitutes.

Starting linebackers will be Werdebaugh, Wotring, and Mike Smith, while Lewis and Chuck Fitzwater, a 5-10, 166-pound senior, will serve as ends. Stewart and Livengood will start at tackle and Schrock will return as nose guard.

Others who could see considerable defensive action are Mayne on the line, Refosco at end, and Layton at linebacker.

"There will be times when we will have only two seniors on the field in our defensive unit," stated Woods, who said one of his biggest worries is lack of depth at the outside linebacker position.

Gibson and Horner have been kicking extra points, while junior Todd Tressler has been kicking off.

Another hurdle for the Rams this season, besides youth and inexperience, is the re-classification of the school from Class C to B. The Rams have been the dominate team in the Region I Class C in all but one or two seasons during the past eight years, but now find themselves competing with schools like Allegany of Cumberland in the playoff race. However, because the state playoffs have been expanded, Woods believes the Rams have a good chance of making it to that level, even if Allegany is there too.

"Our goals are the same, despite our new classification," Woods said. "We want a winning season, we want to win the conferences we're in (Potomac Valley and Highland), and we want to qualify for the state championship."

The injured players include junior Hunter DeBerry, a 6-0, 159-pound split end/defensive back, probably lost for the season with a broken arm; Layton, who is nursing a broken finger and will be out for at least two games; and Marty Sharpless, a sophomore flanker, who broke his wrist early in fall training and will be out until the third game.

The first big test for the Rams will happen right away, tomorrow evening, in the season opener against visiting Beall, a far more experienced squad that is hungry for revenge over Southern for being soundly defeated the past two seasons.

The Mountaineers, under new head coach Bill Patterson, himself a Beall and Frostburg State College graduate, return seven offensive and six defensive starters who will no doubt finish the season with a much better

Settle Looking To Kevin Sines To Put Husky Points On The Board

Although the Northern Huskies recorded a disappointing 2-7 record last year, one of their two wins was the final game of the season and the biggest upset in the area, a 21-14 defeat of previously undefeated Southern. Coach Jack Settle hopes that the victory over Southern and the leadership of quarterback Kevin Sines, who should be one of the area's best, will provide a springboard for a better showing this year.

However, Sines is the only skill-position player returning to the Husky roster this year as graduation took a heavy toll. Steve Zumpano, the All-Area receiver and a top defensive player is gone, as is Charlie Beiler, another versatile offensive player, George Walker, a veteran center, receiver Randy Kamp, and top defensive performers, Jeff Eggleston and Ron Stark.

"We have a lot of young people and we have been working hard to find out who best fits where in the puzzle," Settle stated. "We have seen steady progress, though, in our scrimmages and we have had few injuries. We should be ready to go against Bruce this week."

Sines, a 5-10, 185-pound senior, became the first Northern quarterback to ever pass for over 1,000 yards as he connected on 81 of 183 attempts for 1,092 yards and three touchdowns. He also has the size and ability to run the ball when necessary.

Settle believes that Sines has improved considerably during the past year, both in strength and confidence, and hopes that some of the new receivers will be able to complete his aerials.

Sines should be given the time to throw the ball, as one of the bright spots for the Huskies is the return of some key offensive linemen, such as guard Bill Friend, 6-2, 225, who is an All-Area candidate; senior tackles Gary Beitzel, 6-0, 240, and Bob Green, 6-1, 240; guard Dave Jones, a 6-1, 185-pound junior; and junior center Matt Eggleston, 6-2, 185.

Expected to start in the backfield with Sines are senior wingback Jeff Beitzel, 5-9, 155; senior fullback Paul McClintock, 5-9, 160; and wingback Jeff Rounds, a 5-10, 170-pound sophomore. Wideouts will be junior Wayne Tabor, 5-10, 155, and freshman Ed Tabor, 5-9, 145. Also expected to see considerable action in the backfield is Lonnie Robinette, a transfer senior from Michigan, 5-8, 166. Ed Lytle, a 5-6, 135-pound sophomore, will be Sines' backup at quarterback.

Anchoring the defensive line will be Friend, Green, and Gary and Jeff Beitzel, with a lot of assistance from junior Fred Glotfelty, 6-1, 299. Jones and Rounds are expected to start at defensive end, while Eggleston, Robinette, and Denny Hedrick, a 5-11, 215-pound senior, will be the starting linebackers. Tabor is also expected to play the linebacker position.

The starting secondary will be composed of Sean Frederick, a 5-10, 150-pound junior, at halfback, Sines at safety, and Lipscomb as the other halfback. Ed Lytle and Ed Tabor will serve in back-up capacities.

The kicking game, which Settle feels should be strong, will be handled by Gary Beitzel and Green as place kickers and Robinette as the punter. "Lonnie is really looking strong

Golf For Heart Tourney Slated For Saturday

The eighth annual Golf for Heart Tournament to benefit community programs of the American Heart Association-Western Maryland Division will be held this Saturday, September 7, beginning at 1:30 p.m. at the Oakland Country Club.

Trophies and door prizes will be presented at the awards dinner immediately following the conclusion of the tournament. in punting," Settle said. "He could be one of the best around."

Settle noted that, despite Sines ability to throw, he wants to establish a sound running game as well. "High school rules make a predominately passing game very difficult," he said. "A good running game is essential; but, of course, we will not hesitate to throw the ball."

Although the Bruce Bulldogs have had a string of disappointing seasons, Coach Settle believes it will be a different team that takes the field this Friday evening against the Huskies at the Cove.

"I believe this will be the best Bruce team in the past five or six years," he said. "They have a lot of experience and, even though they may not have much depth, injuries are not usually abundant coming into the first game."

Wayne Nicol, in his second year as coach of the Bulldogs, will have 11 starters back, including his entire backfield. Charlie Wilson, a 5-10, 165-pound senior, is in his fourth year as quarterback, while Alex Taylor, a 5-7, 140-pound senior returns as slotback and senior Dave Shaw, 5-9, 163, is back in the tailback position. Dave Burgess, a 5-9, 160-pound senior, will start at fullback and Robert Carr, another senior (5-10, 151), will play split end.

"We've had knock-down, drag-out games with Bruce and managed to come away with close wins the past three years," Settle said. "This will be one of the biggest, most experienced clubs we will face. Any senior-dominated team is going to be tough to beat."

Settle said he is generally pleased with the progress of the Huskies this fall. "I don't want to underestimate our kids," he said, "but we coaches have to keep reminding ourselves that many of our players are new and we must be realists. The seniors on the team have a 'never say die attitude', though, and the younger players are giving us 100 percent. We can't ask for more than that."

Assisting Settle again this season are Harv Speicher and newcomers Lynn Brenneman, a former Northern standout and player at Madison College, and Rob Devore, former Beall and Frostburg State player who is serving as the Huskies' offensive line coach.

"If we can balance our run/pass attack, I think we will be competitive this year," Settle said. "We'll just do the best we can and see what happens."

Kickoff at Northern is set for 7:30 tomorrow evening.

record than the 2-7 make of last year. Another marked improvement is the sheer number of players on the team, up from 26 last season to a present 57.

Among the offensive standouts returning are senior end Lamar Hall (6-1, 160), who is a state hurdler champion and a three-year starter for Beall; senior fullback Brian Edwards, 5-11, 179; three-year starter Shevin Kuperman, a 5-8, 156-pound speedster; and junior Brian Miller, another lightning tailback at 5-6, 162.

Just like the Rams, the Mountaineers are also attempting to fill the quarterback position with someone new. Kuperman, junior Bill McFarland, and senior Jeff Hunter are the candidates.

Anchoring the Beall defense is returning lineman Wayne Seifarth, a 6-3, 260-pound junior, and Eric Harman, All-HFC linebacker last year.

"Miller and Hall have a lot of speed and a lot of experience that is going to be tough for us to contain," Woods said. "This team will be one of the strongest on our schedule."

Beall runs primarily from the I-formation and defensively is expected to utilize a wide tackle six with a lot of blitzing. Because of the untested quarterback situation, Woods anticipates the Mountaineers will attempt to keep the ball on the ground most of the evening.

"We expect a tough, close contest," said Woods, "and hope for a large crowd in the stands." Kickoff is set for 8 p.m.

Assistant coaches for the Rams this season are the Bosley brothers, Dave, Jim, and Tom; Fred Gregg, and Joe Everd, all former Southern players.

Oakland Jets Open With Win Over Vikings

The Oakland Jets opened their Mt. Top Youth Football League season Saturday afternoon with a tough 7-6 win over the Parsons Vikings on the Southern High School field.

The Oakland Raiders also opened their season with a victory over the Parsons Browns, however statistics for that game were unavailable at presstime.

The Jets rolled up 233 total yards behind the running of Billy Welch, who carried the ball ten times for 91 yards, and receiver Marshall Pike, who pulled down three receptions for 36 yards. Pike scored the winners' only touchdown, in the first quarter, and Welch ran for what would prove to be the winning point.

Parsons' Mark Maxwell broke loose on a 91-yard run to paydirt for the Vikings' only score, but the extra point attempt failed.

Other offensive standouts for the Jets were Jamie Ashby, who had two receptions, and quarterback Tommy Ritchey.

Facing the Jet defense were Welch, Pike, Eric Jamison, and Robbie Reckart, who had a fumble recovery and a blocked punt. The Jets forced six Viking turnovers.

The Jets will play again this Sunday, September 8, against the Thomas-Davis Rams at Southern at 1:30 p.m. The Raiders will face the Terra Alta Dolphins at 3 p.m. and the Northern Steelers will host the Browns at 1:30 p.m.

Oakland Falls In Pen-Mar Tourney

Oakland was eliminated from the 1985 Pen-Mar Baseball League Tournament on Saturday afternoon by being defeated by Hyndman, 14-7, in a semi-final game. The Pennsylvanians then went on to whip Cumberland in a 22-14 slugfest to capture the title.

Mike Gustave, who came into pitch in relief of starter Stan Fitzwater, led Oakland's hitting with three, including a home run and a double. Mike Uram also recorded three hits, a double and two singles.

Mike Mathews paced Hyndman with four hits, while Mike Keel, Grant Crawford, and Bob Kendall each finished with three.

Devon Hosselrode gained the win on the mound.

Oakland was out-hit 18-14.

STARTING OUT YOUNG — The American Indian dance is enjoyed by all ages. This youngster stomped and danced just like his father at the American Indian Inter-Tribal Cultural Organization Pow Wow held last weekend at the Garrett County Fairgrounds. The dancing went on for two days, with contests mixed in with tribal and inter-tribal dances. Also featured were honoring dances for anyone, even spectators, to join in and honor a person of their choice.

Energy Tips

Extension Agent for Community Resource Development

A poorly vented attic can be a double loser for any homeowner. Not only does it collect moisture that can lead to deterioration of the rafters and sheathing but it can ruin the effectiveness of your insulation as well. In addition, an undervented attic can heat to 140° to 160°F in the summer, which can contribute to the house becoming overheated. In winter, a badly vented attic is prone to leak-causing ice dams and similar problems caused by excessive freeze/thaw cycling of the roof components.

To check how much attic ventilation your house has, walk around the outside of your home and measure or estimate the size of the vents. Add up the total square footage of vent area to obtain a figure for the total gross vent area. The obstructing effects of louvers and screens means that a square foot of vent provides less than a full square foot of actual free ventilation area. Continuous soffit vents, which are located on the undersides of roof overhangs, provide about .1 square foot of free vent area per linear foot. Gable vents, the louvered openings at the highest points of gable walls, provide about .3 square foot of free vent area per linear foot. Ridge vents, which run along a roof's peak, provide about .15 square foot of free vent area per linear foot. Other vents provide about .5 square foot of free vent area per square foot of the opening they cover.

The next step is to make sure the vents are clear. Sometimes roof and gable vents are installed over too small a hole, which obstruct half of the vent. Another common problem is insulation covering or blocking vents, especially in the soffit area.

Another point to check is the vapor barrier that should be under the insulation. There should be a treated paper or plastic sheet beneath the insulation, toward the living spaces of the home. If the vapor barrier is on the wrong side of the insulation, remove the insulation and turn it so the vapor barrier is beneath the insulation, against the ceiling of the living spaces below. If, while you are checking the insulation you notice that it is damp, that is a sure sign of ventilation problems. A final place to check for moisture in the attic is on the roof boards and rafters. If you see boards that are unnaturally dark or discolored, dark streaks around the nails, or dry, orange colored resin beads on the rafters, you may have an attic moisture problem.

Figure the amount of ventilation your home needs. Generally, for each 150 square foot of attic space you need one square foot of ventilation, however, a more detailed formula is available that suggests the amount of ventilation needed depends upon the type of vents you have.

If your existing vents provide less ventilation than the recommended amount, or if you found signs of moisture in your attic, you'll need to add more vents. Experts recommend that 50 percent of the ventilation area be low, in soffit vents, and 50 percent high, in roof or ridge vents.

For more information about roof vents, contact the Cooperative Extension Service office, 202 South Third Street, Oakland, Maryland, 21550: telephone 301-334-2145.

Coors showed me step by step how everything they do is designed to give you a beer with a difference worth tasting.

They have only one brewery. Right where the best brewing water is—the Rockies. And having one brewery makes sure that every Coors tastes as good as every other Coors.

They won't pasteurize Coors because heat can hurt the taste of beer. Any beer. So Coors purifies without heat—no other major brewer does.

Then Coors is packed cold, shipped cold, and stored cold to keep its brewery-fresh flavor all the way to your store or tavern.

Now, why does Coors—and only Coors—go to all this trouble? Simple. To give you a better tasting beer.

A beer that's a little less heavy, never bitter, but with all the spirit of a great beer.

Coors is the one.

GCC Computer Science Curriculum Redesigned To Meet Student Needs

Study in the area of computer science this fall at Garrett Community College has been newly designed to meet the needs of the different kinds of students who are interested in the computer field, according to Mike Logsdon, director of the Science Department at Garrett Community College.

After completion of CS 105, Introduction to Computers, which acquaints the student with the use of the microprocessor, the student selects either Track I or Track II, depending on whether they are primarily interested in operating a home computer and obtaining general computer skills, or are interested in pursuing computer science as a profession, if they plan to transfer to a four-year institution to major in computer science.

"This dual function of the computer science department gives us a great deal of flexibility in meeting the individual needs of computer students, which are different for each student, depending on his goals," Logsdon said.

Offered this fall at Garrett will be Introduction to Computers, a basic course that teaches the basic skills necessary to function in a world that depends on computers. Among the topics covered will be descriptions of computer systems and their components, a study of the evolution of the computer industry, data processing, computer in-put and out-put, user interfacing, data representation, storage of computer information, file organization, data communications, application software, programming languages, operating systems, systems analysis, program design, and careers in the computer industry. Mike Will, business instructor at Garrett will be the instructor.

Introduction to Computer Programming, taught by Hank Schwartz, will be concerned with introductory level programming using the BASIC language, which is the most common home microcomputer language in use today. Schwartz is employed as a Systems Programmer for MicroIntergration, Inc., a microcomputer communications software vendor from Friendsville.

Introduction to Computer Science, which is designed for career computer science students, will cover and teach students how computers operate and how they are used in all areas of business and science. Basics of algorithm development and implementation will be covered. This course will be taught by Donald Storck, a self-employed consultant who has had experience in systems analysis and operations. Storck was recently chief of Systems Development for the Office of Personnel Management in Washington, D.C. He has also had extensive experience in project management.

Also offered this fall will be CS 250, FORTRAN, which deals with the widely used programming language of the sciences of the same name. This course will be useful for students of the pure science, mathematics, or engineering as a tool for problem solving. FORTRAN will be taught by William Conry, a self-employed electrical engineer who has taught at both Penn State University and the Community College of Allegheny County in Pittsburgh.

"Computers are with us to stay, and we at Garrett are committed to providing the educational opportunities our citizens need to be a part of the computer age, whether they use a home computer or plan to pursue a career in the growing computer field," Logsdon said.

Refrigeration, Air Conditioning Offered At GCC

Refrigeration and Air Conditioning I, offered Monday evenings from 6:30 p.m. to 10:30 p.m. by Garrett Community College will be taught this fall by Harvey "Sonny" Winters, Oakland. Winters has been the operator of Winters Appliance Service for the past 15 years.

The course deals with both residential and light commercial refrigeration and air conditioning as well as automotive air conditioning. Included will be lectures, demonstrations and two hours of laboratory work per week related to the use, selection and maintenance of these systems.

For information on registering for this course, persons may call 387-6666. Registration for all Fall Semester courses will continue Friday until 4 p.m., and next week, Monday and Tuesday until 7 p.m.

Students may register until 6:30 p.m., Wednesday, September 11, through Tuesday, September 17, except for Friday, September 13, when registration ends at 4 p.m.

GCC Semester To Begin Tuesday

The fall semester of Garrett Community College will get underway on Tuesday, September 10, with student orientation, according to William Ewing, director of admissions.

A student assembly will be held in the GCC auditorium at 9:30 a.m., followed by a campus picnic. The afternoon will be devoted to academic advising, financial aid workshops and interviews, distribution of student identification cards, and the women's volleyball squad's traditional scrimmage against the faculty.

Classes will begin the following day, Wednesday, September 11.

GCC To Offer Wide Variety In Outdoor Education

"Outdoor education at Garrett Community College is much more than just learning to appreciate the recreational opportunities that Garrett County has to offer. It also deals with getting to know the out-of-doors and your abilities as a person, and learning to use the outdoors as an educational tool in a wide variety of learning situations," commented Ann Wellham, coordinator of the outdoor education program at GCC.

This fall, courses will be offered that emphasize both individual recreation and the use of the outdoors as a teaching tool. Introduction to Outdoor Education is designed to acquaint the students with the interdisciplinary approach to outdoor education, to encourage interest in outdoor activities, and to encourage professional educators to explore the possibility of including outdoor education in their curriculum. The course will include a consideration of the philosophical bases and objectives of outdoor education, the historical background of the outdoor educational movement, types of outdoor educational experiences, the use of outdoor education in studying all academic subjects, including arts, sciences, language arts, social sciences, and special education. The technicalities of running an outdoor education program, such as legal regulations, site management, and public relations will also be discussed.

According to Wellham, this course will be of value to both students pursuing a degree in physical education, and to members of the local community, such as teachers, 4-H and Scouting leaders, park personnel, and others who use the outdoors as a teaching aid and environment.

Hands-on recreational activity courses are also an important part of the outdoor education program at Garrett. "Students from Garrett, especially those from a more urban environment, have a unique opportunity to learn to appreciate outdoor activities that they can enjoy for the rest of their lives," Wellham commented.

Offered this fall is a survey course in Outdoor Recreational Activity, which provides students with the chance to sample a wide range of outdoor sports and activities, including canoeing, orienteering, horse-back riding, boating, Alpine and cross-country skiing, snowmobiling, and flying. "It gives students a chance to try out a lot of outdoor sports, and maybe to find one that is right for them," Wellham commented.

Horsemanship I is also offered in the fall semester, but the class is already full. "This class is a good opportunity to learn the basics of horse-back riding at a much lower cost than usual, but that fact makes it important to register early to ensure a place in the class," Wellham said. Horsemanship II, for students with some riding experience, is offered in the spring semester.

Also slated for the spring semester are courses in beginning and advanced skiing, and a course in backpacking. Other outdoor activity courses may be offered, depending on demand.

Wellham encourages members of the community to try an outdoor activity by enrolling in one of the courses. "Sometimes those of us who live in this area take it for granted, both in what we participate in, and how we utilize the outdoors for teaching our students and our children. It's a great opportunity to rediscover our own area," Wellham said.

Dr. Borch To Teach Religion Course At GCC

William L. Borch, Grantsville, will be the instructor for a course in Comparative Religion offered by the philosophy department at Garrett Community College this fall. Borch will also conduct a seminar entitled "Getting What You Want," which will be offered by the Arts Division of the college.

Comparative Religions is designed to allow the student to trace certain ideals and principles in religion from their ancient origins to their manifestations in the world's major religions. Among the questions to be considered will be the nature of the cosmos, deity, humanity and humanity's plight, salvation, conduct, and destiny.

"Getting What You Want" will be composed of a series of six seminars, held Monday evenings from 7 to 9 p.m., which will focus on such topics as stress management, establishing priorities, lifestyle planning, coping, adjusting, and other issues of life management.

Dr. Borch received a Ph.D. in philosophy, social relations and counseling from Bethany Theological Seminary in 1975. He was awarded a master of divinity degree from the Evangelical School of Theology, and a B.A. from The Kings College. He also studied at Penn State University, Lancaster Theological Seminary, and the Air University. He has been a minister for the past 26 years, including 3 years as a chaplain for the U.S. Air Force.

In his 23 years of parish ministry, Dr. Borch has had extensive experience in teaching, counseling, organization and administration. He is currently pastor of St. John's United Church of Christ, Grantsville.

He has 15 years of active and reservist duty in the U.S. Air Force and Army. He was the recipient of the Army Commendation Medal.

For information of either course, persons may contact Garrett Community College at 387-6666.

Instrumental Music Course Slated At GCC

The sound of trumpets, woodwinds, strings, and other musical instruments will be heard at Garrett Community College again this fall as the college offers the chance to play in a musical group for the first time in several years.

Instrumental Music will be offered Monday and Wednesday afternoons from 3 to 4 p.m. The course is open to persons with some experience playing a musical instrument. Instruments and music will be provided, and the course will focus on playing together as an ensemble. Students may choose to take the course for credit or not as they desire.

"We're looking for ways to integrate the college, the arts, and the community to provide cultural experiences for our students and the citizens of Garrett County," said Bob Crone, director of the Arts Division at the College. "We are hoping to offer courses in applied music for specific instruments to allow instruction for those who do not yet know how to play an instrument. We are also hoping to arrange performance on campus by a professional theatre company as a way of encouraging an appreciation of the arts in Garrett County."

Instructor for Instrumental Music will be George McDowell. McDowell is an instructor at the Zion School of Christian Education in Grantsville. He has taught for 15 years at the secondary and college levels, including a wide range of courses in all areas of applied music, theory and appreciation. He has performed with a number of bands and music ensembles, including the Maryland State Band, the All-Student Band U.S.A., The Frostburg State College Wind Ensemble, and the Potomac Concert Band.

McDowell attended Potomac State College where he received an A.A. degree in music education. He received a B.A. in music from West Virginia University, and a bachelor's degree in education from Faith Baptist Seminary in 1982. He was awarded his Th.B from the American Bible College, and a master's degree in education from the Faith Baptist Seminary. He was awarded an honorary doctorate of Sacred Literature from Berean Christian College.

McDowell will also teach a course in music fundamentals for the prospective elementary school teacher. Included in the course will be instruction in the Orff, Kodaly, and Suski methods of teaching music.

To register for either course, persons may contact the Registrar's Office at Garrett Community College, McHenry, or the college's Oakland Center.

Nursing Homes Hold Appreciation Event Together

"Together we share, closer we care" was the theme for the first Cuppett and Weeks, Dennett Road Manor Volunteer Appreciation Banquet, held at the Will O' the Wisp, Deep Creek Lake, on Thursday, August 22. This was the first year that both facilities collaborated on their dinners honoring volunteers for services, time and talent they had donated throughout the year.

The combined total of hours volunteered this year by individuals at both nursing homes was over 12,000. Approximately 100 people were present for the dinner. Rick Briggs, professor of gerontology at West Virginia University, was the guest speaker.

Special recognition was given to volunteers in the following categories: Teen Volunteers, College Instructors, Family Volunteers, Adopt-A-Resident, Independent Room Visits, Organizations, and the Disabled American Veterans.

Exceptional accolade was given to several persons for outstanding service in the past year at Cuppett and Weeks Nursing Home.

Melissa Freeman was named Teen Volunteer of the year. She worked at the facility every day in the afternoon activities, art work assignments, daily personal visits, and other events and projects related to the Activity Department. A sophomore at Southern High School, Melissa volunteered 225 hours since June of this year.

Employee Volunteer of the year was awarded to Frances Moorehead, nursing assistant. She donated over 300 hours of her time in the past year, and over $500.00 for prizes, props, presents, decorations and other materials for the Activity Department.

The Disabled American Veterans, Mt. Top Chapter No. 29, and Auxiliary received commendation as the Most Active Organization. They gave a combined total of over 600 volunteer hours to the residents of the home. The DAV has adopted all the veterans at Cuppett and Weeks. They have donated money for necessary equipment, prizes, and gifts for all the residents of the facility that totalled over $500.00 in the past year.

The honor of Volunteers of the Year went to Marilu and Gordon Rowe. They entertained and visited residents last year for a total of 400 hours. They provided music for residential tea parties, birthday parties, picnics and trips. They have been volunteering for three years at Cuppett and Weeks.

At Dennett Road Manor, Robin Davis and Terry Georg were declared Employee Volunteers of the year. Terry and Robin helped throughout the year with several projects involving the Activity Department.

Reverend John Ledden was honored with a special citation for being the first volunteer at Dennett Road Manor when they were first established.

Dennett Road Manor's volunteer of the year award was presented to Bill and Hazel Meyers. They provided Dennett Road with monthly movies, veteran programs, and were solely responsible for their new flag, flag pole and materials for the residents' garden.

Door prizes were won throughout the evening by the following guests: Mary Elliott, a straw hat wall hanging with flowers, donated by Carolyn Meyers; folding aluminum picnic table, donated by Stroehmann Brothers, Inc., was won by Carol Stewart; Amy Kiser was the winner of a butterfly wall hanging donated by Carol Cuppett; Michelle Smith was the recipient of a silver platter, compliments of Sheila Hauser; Virginia Rohrbaugh received a pillow, handmade by Mrs. Mary McRobie; Hallie Snyder was the winner of another pillow also made by Mary McRobie; Frances Moorehead and Melissa Freeman were the winners of plant gardents specially made by residents of Dennett Road Manor; and Tom Kuhn won an afghan, handcrafted by Elizabeth Stevens, a resident at Cuppett and Weeks. The grand prize, an overnight stay for two with complementary breakfasts at Alpine Lake, was won by Angela Geer.

Mel Silber provided entertainment for the dinner.

RECOGNITION AWARDS were given recently at a joint appreciation banquet held by Dennett Road Manor and Cuppett and Weeks Nursing Homes at the Will O' the Wisp. Indian Pow Wow

Visitors to the Pow Wow treated themselves to traditional Indian tacos, fried bread and corn soup or Garrett County's traditional Rotary Club French fries and Lion's Club fried chicken. A variety of bead work, jewelry, buckskin items, wood, stone, and bone carvings were available to look at and to buy.

Comments from spectators at this year's event showed that the Pow Wow was enjoyed by all who attended, with one local resident saying, "This is great, I hope they come back next year." And they are. Although the exact date has not been decided, The American Indian Inter-Tribal Cultural Organization has decided to return to Garrett County next year for their Pow Wow. That promises to be an event for people of all ages to look forward to.

Yough River

tax base of Garrett County," added the senator.

The commissioners were informed by Hinebaugh that on March 28, David Miller of the Natural Land Trust (formerly employed by DNR) contacted the Yough River Association and told them that the trust was planning to buy the PENELEC property in the Yough Corridor. The Natural Land Trust is a tax-free corporation headquartered in Philadelphia, Pa. Miller also told the association that if they were successful in the purchase they expected to be reimbursed by sell conservation easements to the state of Maryland, and would expect a revenue from the property through fees charged to the public for boating, fishing, hunting, hiking, camping, and so forth.

Hinebaugh wonders if the PENELEC property is bought by the Natural Land Trust, will the state then try to buy an additional 8,000 acres over and above the 1,200 acres owned by PENELEC. In his August 24 letter to Sen. Bambacus, Gov. Hughes says, "The state looks favorably on the purchase of all PENELEC properties within the Youghiogheny River scenic corridor by this private conservation organization (National Lands Trust) whose goals and objectives are consistent with the intent of the Scenic and Wild Rivers Act."

The governor's letter also says that he strongly supports the concept that preserving the wild river length of the Yough serves a legitimate public purpose and expenditure of public funds. He adds that the state has been on record in this regard to the Yough by establishing and regulating activities within the scenic corridor, that these actions speak strongly for the willingness of the state to pay for the preservation of unique state natural environment and recognizes that uncontrolled development may represent an irreversible loss to Maryland citizens.

Yough River Association Treasurer, Charlotte Sebold, stated at the meeting with the commissioners, that there can be no uncontrolled development along the Yough. "Everything we do now is controlled," she said.

This leaves county officials and Yough River Association members with a whole barrage of questions. Will the governor try to have legislation introduced that will change the present law to allow this purchase of 8,000 acres by the state? Is an effort being made to totally involve the entire county in state ownership? What would happen to the county tax base if that happened? And most importantly, what about the people, the land owners, the citizens of Garrett County, don't they matter to the state government at all?

"NOW, HUBBLE--WHAT'S THIS NONSENSE ABOUT A RAISE?"

up short of State allocated funds. Ryscavage, however, noted that because the project is being bid with a guaranteed maximum price and overage in the basic work would have to be paid for by the construction manager, Mellon-Stuart of Pittsburgh, and not the State of Maryland.

Ryscavage indicated that he was frustrated by this turn of events in that although he understands the Interagency's reason for not approving the award of bids he believes this decision was one in which the decision makers did not know or understand all of the facts. Ryscavage noted that because of this decision the beginning of the project will be pushed back another two to three weeks, which could have an effect on the completion of the work in the vocational education spaces which was scheduled for completion by the end of this calendar year. He added, however, that he did not believe the delay would have as great an impact on the entire project which is scheduled for completion on August 15, 1986.

Youth Exchange Student Arrives From Belgium

Julie Anne Marie "Claire" Toussaint, pictured center, Charleroi, Belgium, arrived at the home of her host family, Dr. and Mrs. C. William Fedde, Oakland, on Sunday, August 25.

A participant in the Rotary International Youth Exchange Program, Claire will live with the families of Oakland Rotarians for the next 12 months.

While Claire is in Oakland, the Fedde's daughter, Susan, will be spending the year in Claire's hometown in Belgium. Claire will attend Southern High School during the 1985-86 academic year, and Susan will attend Claire's home school.

The youngest of three children of Dr. Charles and Urbain Toussaint, Claire speaks French and Dutch fluently, and her English is improving rapidly. Described by her teachers in Belgium as being "an intelligent, courageous and hard-working student," Claire says she expects to learn "as much as possible" about everyday life in the United States. Following her stay in this country she plans to pursue a career in fashion designing.

Claire is one of nearly 7,000 young people representing 21,000 clubs in towns and cities in 159 countries participating in the 1985 Youth Exchange. Started over 30 years ago, Rotary International now operates one of the world's largest youth exchange programs. The Exchange is open to young men and women between the ages of 15 and 19. Applicants are selected by a sponsoring Rotary club on the basis of a written application and personal interviews.

Taxes from prior years brought in $90,881.23, while state taxes amounted to $229,924.23. Ad valorem taxes from Mtn. Lake Park totalled $30,194.30, while ad valorem taxes from Deep Creek Lake tallied $24,772.24 and Kitzmiller ad valorem taxes brought in $6,508.90.

Cigarette taxes amounted to $24,125.85 and state shared property tax totalled $23,440. A surcharge tax from the Liquor Control Board tallied $35,000. Transfer taxes added $1,553.17 to the total, while coal tonnage taxes added $11,876.73.

The state shared roads fund brought in $206,866.74. Revenue from other sources amounted to $83,014.89. A total of $144,627.48 was allowed in discounts, while $94,923.64 was given in tax credits. Prior year credits amounted to $2,247.92.

Rotary District Governor Visits

Rotary District Governor Robert J. Shrift, pictured left, was a guest of the Oakland Rotary Club, Thursday, August 29. Also pictured is Kenneth Ridder, president of the Oakland Club.

In his communication to the Club, Shrift spoke of polio by the year 2005. He also encouraged the continuation of projects on the district level, with emphasis on publicity, new members and Rotary Ann participation in club projects.

According to Governor Shrift, Rotary International will induct its onemillionth member soon.

Some of Shrift's duties as District Governor are: to strengthen existing Clubs and supervise any new Clubs forming in the district; to plan and develop district assembly programs; communicate with each Club on a monthly basis; and visit each Club in the district once each year.

A Rotarian since 1959 and a member of the Hollidaysburg Rotary Club since 1964, Gov. Shrift has hosted 11 Youth Exchange Students, attended three International Conventions, attended 20 District Conferences, and had 23-years perfect attendance at Rotary meetings. He was honored as a Paul Harris Fellow in 1979. In his community, Shrift is actively involved in Junior Achievement, Knights of Columbus, United Way and YMCA.

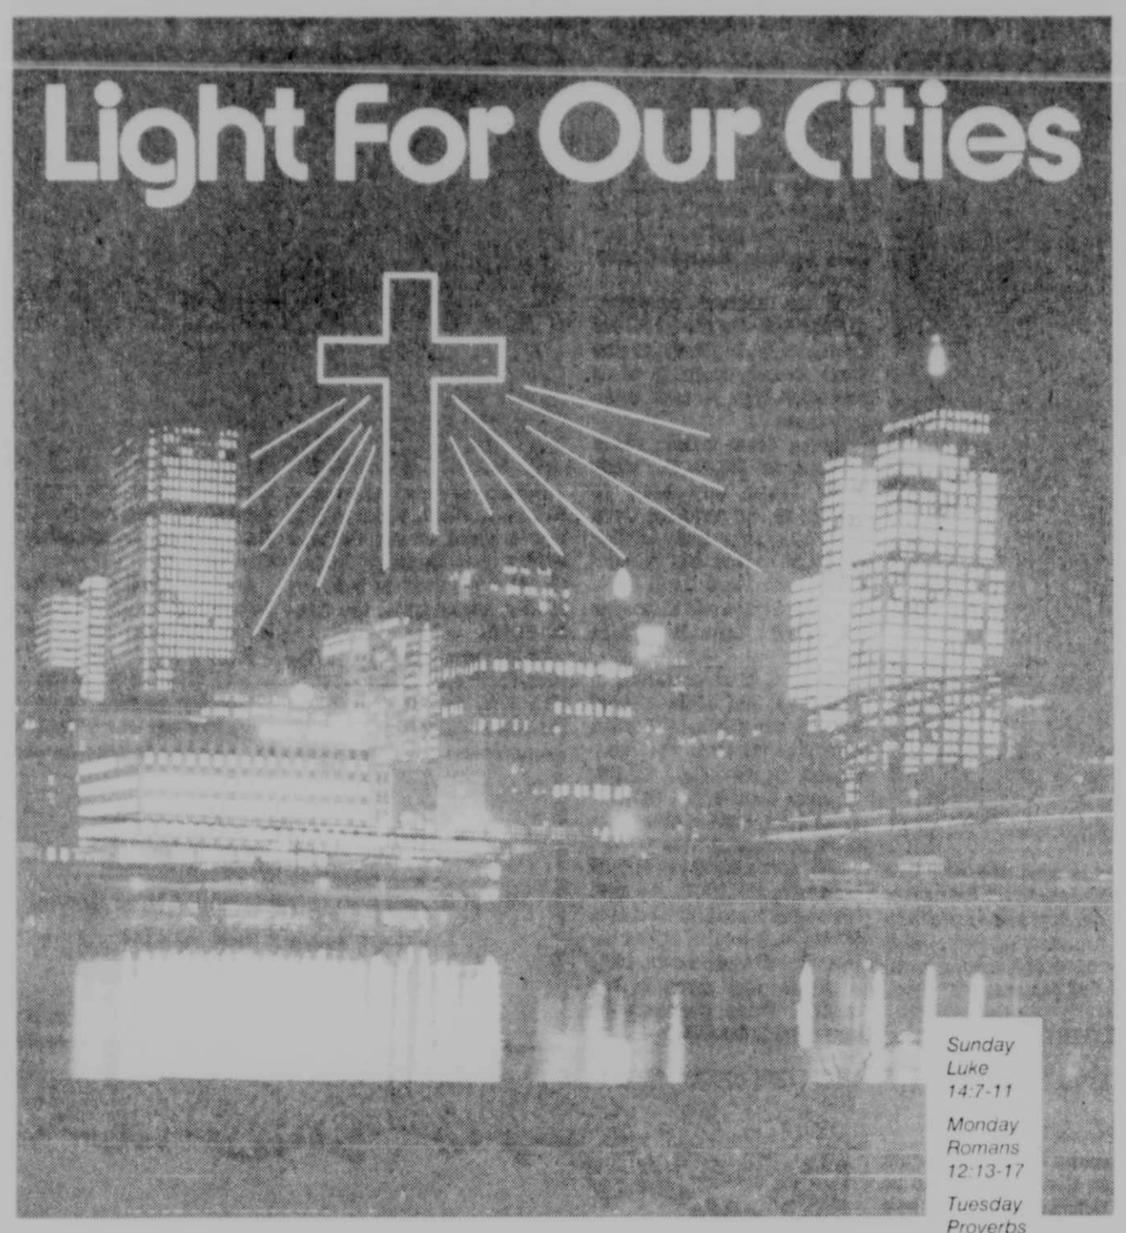
THE GOLDEN RULES OF GOOD HEALTH

Examinations are as natural a part of school days as grades, graduations and senior proms. But the one particular exam that we are thinking about is even more important than any of the others—your regular physical exam. It's the one test that you can't afford to flunk, at least not for long.



But, how can you "study up" for this kind of exam? It's really very easy. Proper rest (midnight studying is not recommended), balanced diet and regular exercise are a few ways to stay in shape. This year try to get top grades in your physical exam.

There's something dramatic about a city at night — like this view of Pittsburgh after dark. All the problems that beset our cities seem hidden as the skyline comes alive with a million gleaming windows marking the towers of man's industrial prowess.

Lost in the shadows are the steeples and graceful roofs of a hundred churches. Few of them are lighted at night . . . yet they are the center and source of the true light our cities need.

In every city, village and hamlet there is a golden triangle sustaining the lives of our families. It is the message of faith, hope and love that glows from our churches.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

THE MODEL
September 8, 1985

Background Scripture:
Philippians 3 through 4

Devotional Reading:
Philippians 4:10-13.

When I was a boy and later a youth, John Wayne was just about everyone's role model. He portrayed a style of manhood that all of us admired and many of us tried to emulate. He was the ideal man, we thought.

It's no wonder that Jesus Christ didn't really appeal to us all that much. And, although it is true that some of that lack of appeal lay in the presumably unmasculine artisitic portraits of him, it was more what he said and was, that seemed to lie at the heart of it. Unlike John Wayne, Jesus never prevailed over the "bad guys" with his fists or guns. In fact, he didn't even seem to prevail over the "bad guys." It was they who prevailed over him. Nor did the cavalry arrive in the nick of time to save him from Calvary (pun intended).

HAVE THIS MIND

On Sundays, of course, we gave lip-service to Christ, calling him Lord, Master, Saviour and a host of other names. But, when it came to solving problems and living with conflict, both personal and social, it was to John Wayne to whom we looked for the way in which we ought to behave. He was our model, not Christ.

Actually, I still have some trouble today in looking to Jesus instead of John Wayne. Of course, as a clergyman, I preach Christian love, extol peace, and exhort others to forgiveness and reconciliation. But last week something happened to reveal to me just what a hold John Wayne still has on me.

It was during the TWA hostage crisis in Beirut, Lebanon. At last came the announcement that the hostages were coming home. One of the TV commentators was asking a leading political figure if he thought the U.S.A. ought now to retaliate to teach the people of Lebanon a lesson. It was at that point that John Wayne took over my emotions and I responded in a manner that would have earned his approval.

But, no sooner had I felt the urge for revenge, than I realized that what I was feeling was a violation of my relationship with Christ. "Have this mind among yourselves which you have in Christ Jesus," counsels Paul; in other words, let your thinking and feeling be guided by what was in his heart and mind. And I realized that vengeance was not "the mind of Christ."

OTHERWISE MINDED

Paul says, "Let those of us who are mature be thus minded; and if in anything you are otherwise minded, God will reveal that also to you" (Phil. 3:15). In that brief moment, God did reveal to me that I was "otherwise minded"—still looking to John Wayne for my answers instead of Jesus.

I still revere John Wayne as an exciting actor and unique personality. But the model the world needs now more than ever is Christ

COMING ATTRACTIONS

New shows, old ideas make up TV season

By Marc Minnelli

They'll be new faces and old faces; familiar formulas and small-screen treatments of movie favorites; best bets and longshots. Just enough shows in the new TV season, in fact, to keep us channel switching for weeks.

Though CBS has already begun airing "Hometown," its small-screen version of "The Big Chill," NBC is jumping the gun by premiering three new series this week. "Hell Town," starring Robert Blake as an ex-con turned ghetto priest, debuts Wednesday, Sept. 11. "The Golden Girls," starring Beatrice Arthur, Betty White, Rue McClanahan and Estelle Getty as senior citizens living in Miami, and "227," starring Marla Gibbs as a neighborhood gossip, debut Saturday, Sept. 14.

The rest of NBC's new shows debut later this month. Two anthologies, Steven Spielberg's highly touted "Amazing Stories" and an updated version of "Alfred Hitchcock Presents," will air on Sundays. "Misfits of Science," a hi-tech action comedy starring Dean Paul Martin and Kevin Peter Hall, will air Fridays.

CBS is premiering all its new shows the week of Sept. 15. Wednesday is the big night the network — four new shows will air. "Stir Crazy," a small-screen version of the hit movie, stars Larry Riley and Joe Guzaldo; "Charlie and Company" stars Flip Wilson and Gladys Knight in what the network is billing as a "freshly realistic contemporary domestic comedy" (read "Cosby Show" rip-off); the comedy anthology "George Burns' Comedy Week" stars the veteran comedian; and "The Equalizer" stars Edward Woodward as a dapper private detective. After a 21-year hiatus, "Twilight Zone" returns to CBS on Fridays.

Later this month, a revamped "Diff'rent Strokes" will air Tuesdays on ABC; followed by the Alan Thicke-Joanna Kerns sitcom "Growing Pains" and the eagerly awaited Eli Wallach-Kenneth McMillan drama "Our Family Honor." The drama about two investigative journalists, "The Insiders," will be the "Dynasty" lead-in Wednesdays and "Spenser: For Hire," the crime series starring Robert Urich, airs Fridays. On Saturday, Jack Scalia and Jay Acovone star in "Hollywood Beat," ABC's answer to "Miami Vice," and Robert Wagner returns as insurance investigator J.G. Culver in "Lime Street." The weekend wraps up with Richard Dean Anderson, who stars as "MacGyver," a Superman of sorts.

And let's not forget "Dynasty II: The Colbys," which will fill the Thursday time slot "Lady Blue" leaves vacant in November.

The scorecard, please.

ASK ME ABOUT TV

By Val Carew

Please tell me which came first: Michael Landon's series "Bonanza" or his low-budget horror film, "I Was a Teen age Werewolf." — S.B., Alexandria, La.

Michael Landon

Landon made the fright flick in 1957. Two years later, after being spotted in the series "The Restless Gun," the actor began a 14-year run as Little Joe Cartwright on NBC's "Bonanza." Landon followed "Bonanza" with the NBC series "Little House on the Prairie." He currently stars as probationary angel Jonathan Smith in "Highway to Heaven."

Help! I'm having an argument with my cousin. I say Loni Anderson is not married to Burt Reynolds, and she insists the two have tied the knot. Who's right? — T.J.S., Colorado Springs, Colo.

You are. Though stories are always printed about Loni and Burt's "marriage," they are not married — at least not at press time.

Does "Wheel of Fortune" hostess Vanna White have any children? Has she hosted any other game shows? — D.B., Kearny, Ariz.

Miss White, who was born on Feb. 18 in North Myrtle Beach, S.C., became the permanent hostess of "Wheel of Fortune" in December 1982. Although the NBC show is the first show she's hosted, Miss White has appeared in several feature films, including "Looker" and "Graduation Day." She is single and has no children.

Vanna White

(Do you have a question about TV? Write Val Carew at 200 Park Ave., Room 602, New York, NY 10166. Questions cannot be answered personally but those of general interest will be answered in future columns.)

Each week, Steven Spielberg will take viewers on fantasy travels back to the future, into the past and around the unexpected in "Amazing Stories." What's even more amazing is that top names (Timothy Hutton, Martin Scorsese) will direct episodes, which are reportedly budgeted at $1 million each. The Sunday series premieres later this month.

BEHIND THE SCENES

Soap producer seeks actors with strength

By Marta Tarbell

John Conboy has played a key role in the sudsing of America. First he produced "Love is a Many Splendored Thing," then "The Young and the Restless," and, in 1980, he developed and produced "Capitol."

John Conboy

"The idea for 'Capitol' was to take audiences behind the marble curtain in Washington, so that they would finally understand why Nancy Reagan loves to wear red or what Pat Nixon really felt about the Watergate tapes," explains the Los Angeles-based producer. "This is not a show about smoke-filled rooms or who's voting for what.

"'Capitol' is different from nighttime television in that we have more fantasy and reality than nighttime television has. And the show," he adds happily, "has achieved cult status." The CBS soap is so popular, in fact, that Conboy is teaching a class about the show at the University of Southern California.

Conboy can claim a lot of the credit for that fact — but he doesn't. "As producer, I do very little," he says, "as long as everyone else does their job. And every good producer knows how to choose the right people."

Conboy is famous for choosing the right people. He takes credit for discovering Tom Selleck, Donna Mills, Tony Geary, Paul Michael Glaser, David Birney and David Hasselhoff. What does he look for?

"They don't have to be beautiful, but they do have to be clean. I look at the quality of their skin, their eyes and hair," he explains. "I don't go by their screen tests, because somebody who might be great could be so nervous that they won't test well. I like to see people in my office. If they can get my attention and make me laugh in my office, then they can get my attention on the screen."

Is there a common denominator among actors and actresses who go on to stardom?

Conboy thinks for a moment. "Selleck is a very healthy man," he says. "He is very concerned about the job of being a human being. So is Donna Mills. Healthy, together people know this is a business. They treat people with respect, and, as a consequence, they get it back. That's true of most people I've worked with who have made it. If you're not healthy, you're not going to make it. There were probably a lot of actresses who were better than Bette Davis, but she was strong, and she endured. It's important to be strong — especially on television. TV is an intimate medium; you can't lie on it."

WEDNESDAY

In "Hell Town" Robert Blake stars as Father "Hardstep" Rivers, a street-tough, ex-con turned priest working in impoverished East Los Angeles. The dramatic series premieres Wednesday, Sept. 11 on NBC.

(Stations reserve the right to make last-minute changes.)

Clockwise from center: Rue McClanahan, Betty White, Estelle Getty and Beatrice Arthur star as "The Golden Girls," a quartet of women spending their golden years in Miami. The new comedy series premieres Saturday, Sept. 14 on NBC.

Actress hikes and bikes to stay fit

By Renee Ross

In today's high-voltage world, it's not always easy learning how to relax. Just ask Maggie Cooper.

Maggie Cooper

"Whether you have a career, family or both, it's important to keep yourself relatively stress-free so you don't end up overwhelmed," says Miss Cooper, who portrays corporate lawyer Mary in the new CBS series "I Had Three Wives."

"There are more pressures today, particularly on women. I know that when I come home from work and find bills and letters piled up, it's difficult to find time to handle them," the actress says.

"My husband Gary and I get lots of invitations to film screenings and parties," she adds, "and the first inclination is to say yes to everything. Then we wind up exhausted, with no time for ourselves. I've finally learned what's most important, I've set priorities and I've made adjustments in my life."

The 5-foot-7, 120-pound actress has made exercise a major choice. "It goes back to my childhood," Miss Cooper explains. "I grew up in the Pacific Northwest, where I used to hike a lot. Now I live in one of Los Angeles's canyons, and most mornings, I hike up and down hills for an hour.

"I also try to go to the gym," she adds. "I work out on Nautilus machines and a Lifecycle — a computerized bicycle — for 48 minutes. I'm proud of that, because when I started using it a year and a half ago, I could only ride for 12 minutes without being exhausted!"

Recurring leg pains put an end to Miss Cooper's jogging days. "I used to run a few times weekly," she recalls, "but to avoid pressure and jarring of the knees, my doctor suggested I find another form of exercise. That's when I discovered the Lifecycle, although any kind of stationary bike will give you a good workout.

"Exercise gives me the greatest benefit when I'm under stress or tension," she adds. "There's also the physical value, because you're bringing fresh oxygen into your blood and sweating toxins."

Miss Cooper happily avoids being branded a workout fiend. "Exercise should be fun and uplifting, rather than a negative energy depletion," she says. "When you worry and become obsessed with something, it ceases to be a positive experience. Luckily, I'm not like that. I love exercise, but if I am tired at the end of the day, I'll just wait and go to the gym the next day."

Bea Arthur hopes to score a golden hit

By Gillian George

"When you look and sound like I do," says Beatrice Arthur, "you can be sure nobody's going to ask you to play Juliet. That's OK, but I'd hate to tell you what some people have had the nerve to ask me to play in recent years. Honey, we are talking major garbage!"

Beatrice Arthur

Though it's hard to believe, it's been nearly eight years since the imposing actress last played the overbearing Maude Findlay and uttered her final "God will get you for that!"

On Saturday, Sept. 14, Miss Arthur will be welcomed back to television when "The Golden Girls" premieres on NBC. Critics are already hailing the show as the new season's wittiest, most intelligent and best-written series. And while the creation of such high expectations has proved to be the kiss of death for many another series, Miss Arthur isn't worried.

"I ought to know a good script when I see one and believe me," the 59-year-old actress says, "the pilot for this one was terrific. I don't need the money and I'm certainly not going back to work for the sake of going back to work. 'The Golden Girls' has all the earmarks of a winner."

Miss Arthur says she had no doubts about committing herself to "The Golden Girls," although she doesn't feel the same way about "Amanda's," the other series she's done since "Maude." That show, the actress says, was her "only professional embarrassment.

"It was horrendous," Miss Arthur adds. "The whole horrid mistake was brought on by my own naivete. The show was suggested to me by someone who was associated with 'Maude' and I just assumed that anyone (producer) Norman Lear was associated with would be top-drawer. Boy, was I ever wrong."

Thus, except for occasional guest shots, Miss Arthur says she's been idle for the past eight years. Her 25-year marriage to director Gene Saks ended during her "Maude" stint, but she enjoys spending time with her two sons, both of whom are planning careers in show business.

"What do I say to them about making it in show biz?" she asks. "I say, 'Do what I did. Get out there and just work. I don't care where, what or for whom — at least in the beginning. Just go out and do it.'"

Arleen Sorkin has viewers on their heels

By Kimberly Redmond

Arleen Sorkin, the actress who plays Calliope Jones on "Days of Our Lives," is a funny lady! Please tell me about her. — R.L., Baltimore, Ohio

Arleen Sorkin

Miss Sorkin is a member of The High Heeled Women, a New York City-based comedy troupe, that has won the Association of Comedy Artists Charlie Award for Comedy Group of the Year (1983). The actress has appeared in the film "Trading Places," as well as several off-Broadway and summer productions. Miss Sorkin lives in Hollywood, but frequently commutes to New York to fulfill High Heeled Women engagements. By the way, the HHW have written a tome: "From Here to Maternity," a spoof of motherhood.

Whatever happened to the actress who portrayed Juliette Hanovan on "As the World Turns"? I thought she had a lot of potential, but she was suddenly written off the soap. — K.E., Baltimore, Md.

Tracy Kolis, the actress hired to portray Steve Andropolous' little sister on the CBS soap, is currently appearing on "All My Children" in the role of Sandy Turner.

Can you tell me whether Andrew Stevens, who was once married to former "Charlie's Angels" star Kate Jackson, has ever appeared on a soap opera? — S.R., Naples, Fla.

Stevens didn't appear on any daytime soap operas, but he was on the short-lived nighttime soap "Emerald Point NAS." Perhaps you're thinking of Dennis Cole, ex-husband of another "Angel," Jaclyn Smith. Cole appeared on "The Young and the Restless" as Lance Prentiss.

Joan Collins in 1962: Vampy, vintage vixen

By Cindy Adams

"It won't bother me to be 40 years old — or even 50 — because I'll avoid those low-cut dresses that let old, baggy flesh hang out. I won't try to look 35 at 50. I'll wear high necks and long sleeves. And I won't expect to play any sexy roles."

Joan Collins — then

The quotes belong to Joan Collins. The year was 1962, the actress was 29 years old and she was speaking to me during the filming of "The Road to Hong Kong." Joan had replaced Dorothy Lamour in the Bob Hope-Bing Crosby flick.

At the time, La Collins also said: "I don't want to say anything against Dorothy. I mean, it's pointless to knock someone who's older."

We were sitting and chatting. Joan wore a wee turquoise bow in her casual, upswept hairdo. Her eyeshadow matched the bow.

She answered the phone eight times in 30 minutes. She told two callers: "Miss Collins is not in."

Then she said: "We actresses have egos that must be subjugated. Every age has compensations. When you're very young, you can get away with things you can't later on — like wearing those mussy haircombs. When you're in your 30s, you become more chic. You begin playing leading women. I'll be doing that for the next 10 years."

Then the phone rang for the ninth time. "Call back later," Joan said.

"I loathe being a sex symbol although I guess I am one," she sighed.

Joan Collins — now

The phone rang for the tenth time. Joan told the caller she'd meet him that evening.

My, how times have changed.

Maryland Closes Year With $47 Million Surplus

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein said the state of Maryland closed Fiscal Year 1985 on June 30, 1985, with an unobligated general fund surplus of $47,582,547. "The $47.6 million unobligated surplus means that Maryland is operating in the black, and this is good news for Maryland's citizens, taxpayers, and the financial community," Goldstein said The comptroller noted that the positive financial news was precisely what Marylanders needed to hear to give them an accurate picture of the state's financial condition.

"We had estimated the surplus to be approximately $10.7 million, but continued strong growth in state income and sales tax revenues, the high level of real astate activity, and strong lottery sales and interest earnings helped to provide $26.7 million in unanticipated revenue," Goldstein said. "State agencies also returned $11.8 million more than expected to the treasury as unspent funds at the close of the fiscal year.

Goldstein said Maryland's surplus came primarily as a result of the strong economy that sent sales tax revenue over the one billion dollar mark for the first time ever in a single year. For Fiscal Year 1985, sales tax revenue totaled $1,098,526,866. "That's 11.2% over the Fiscal Year 1984 sales tax collections," Goldstein said. "But even more remarkably, it is within one-tenth of one percent of our revenue estimate; quite an accomplishment when you're talking about more than one billion dollars in collections."

Individual and corporation income taxes produced $1,909,311,848 for the General Fund, up 12.8% over Fiscal Year 1984 and within two-tenths of one percent of the revenue estimate.

"The strong performance of Maryland's two largest sources of General Fund revenue, the income and sales taxes, continues to be a positive statement about Maryland's economy and our state's financial health," Goldstein said. He noted that both the consumer and construction-related categories of sales tax collections posted strong gains in Fiscal Year 1985 and said that both individual and corporation income tax revenues also showed strong growth.

Net State Lottery revenue totaled $250.2 million, or $6.9 million more than was estimated, while interest on investments yielded $41.7 million, or $6.7 million more than anticipated. Maryland's total General Fund revenue for Fiscal Year 1985 amounted to $3,814,209,650, just eight-tenths of one percent more than the revenue estimate for the year. Goldstein pointed out that the $47.6 million dollar unobligated surplus was enough to operate the state for just over two days under the Fiscal Year 1986 state budget.

Oakland Radio Station Receives News Awards

The news department of radio station WMSG/WXIE in Oakland received four awards at the Maryland News Network Convention held August 23 to 25 at the Belvedere Hotel in Baltimore.

The station's coverage of the 1984 general election was judged as the best long-form feature program in the state for the past 12 months. Similarly, WMSG/WXIE's coverage of the "Storm of 85" was named the best long-form public-affairs program aired during the past year.

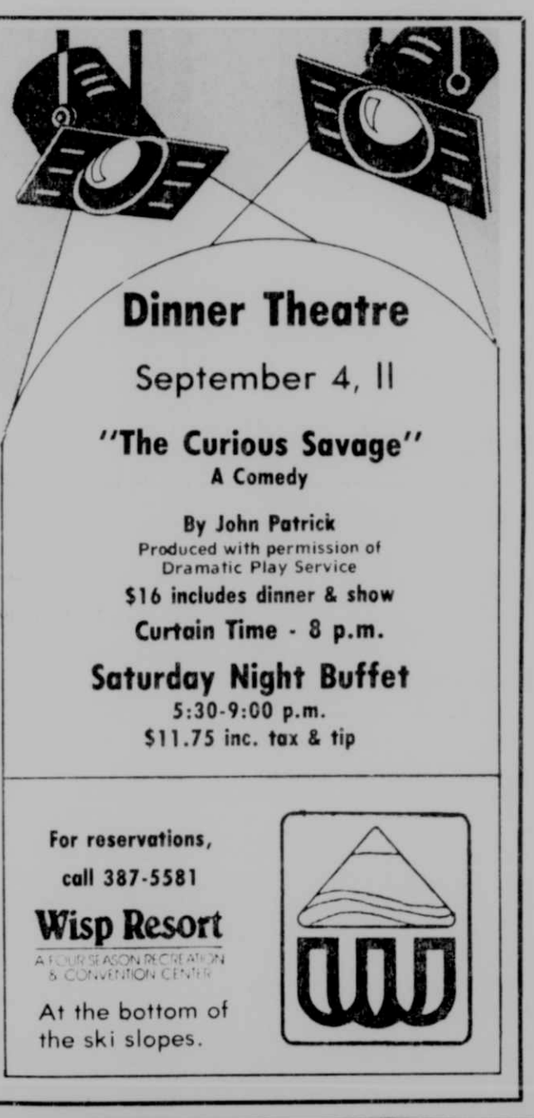
Morning Anchorman Patrick Gregg and News Director Paul Mullan (McCloud) received an award for the best hard-news/-investigative series for "The Battle of the Bog". That five-part series described the controversy surrounding the efforts of environmentalists to prevent the Garrett County Processing and Packaging Corporation from harvesting peat in the 18,000-year old wetlands.

Gregg and Mullan were also given a merit award for correspondent contributions to the network.

The Maryland News Network began operation on July 1, 1984 and now has over 20 affiliates statewide. Each affiliate, regardless of size, was invited to enter the awards competition.

"I'd like to thank our ownership and management for making the commitment to the news department," said Mullan. "But I'd really like to recognize Pat Gregg and Peggy Jamison for their hard work and long hours."

Jamison recently left the department for a job as associate county planner and HUD block grant coordinator for Garrett County.



Mullan added, "We'll have to work just as hard this year, if not harder. I just heard that Jim Swartz, Maryland News Network president, signed WFBR in Baltimore as an affiliate and you can bet they'll be tough competition."

Gregg is a 1979 graduate of Southern High School and graduated from the journalism program at Garrett Community College in 1981. After serving an internship at the Washington Bureau of the Cable News Network, Gregg graduted from the University of Maryland Radio, Television, and Film program in 1983.

Mullan graduated from Bishop Walsh High School in 1977 and earned a bachelor of science degree in political science from Frostburg State College in 1981. He came to WMSG/WXIE in 1981 after serving as program director and operations manager at WCMD/WJSE in Cumberland.

Local Couple To Do Mission Work In Portugal

John and Linn Crowe, son and daughter-in-law of Ross and Opal Crowe of Gortner, plan to leave Tuesday, September 10, for Portugal. They will be workers under the Bible Christian Union, an interdenominational mission board based in Lebanon, Pa.

Their first two years will be spent in language study in the city of Coimbra. After that, the Crowes plan to be in the northeast region of the country, starting new churches where less than one-tenth of one-percent are evangelical believers.

Crowe grew up in Oakland and attended Southern High School. He received his bachelors degree from Bridgewater College, Bridgewater, Va. He then attended Columbia Graduate School of Bible and Missions in Columbia, S.C., where he received his masters of divinity degree.

Mrs. Crowe received a Masters in Bible and Missions at Columbia Graduate School of Bible and Missions. They have three children, Ashby, age seven; Andrew, age five; and Julie, age three.

Crowe has been pastoring with the Christian and Missionary Alliance in Charlotte, N.C., for six years. He resigned the pastorate in May of 1984 to prepare to go overseas. They will be gone for three to four years at a time and then return for a nine to twelve-month furlough.

They anticipate being in Portugal indefinitely, explained Crowe, who said, "We have sensed a definite call from God to reach out to this spiritually-needy country.

Navy Seaman Mark Younkin, son of Mrs. Linda C. Younkin, Route 1, Swanton, has completed Submarine School at New London, Conn., and has been assigned to the USS Bergall, homeported at Norfolk, Va.

A 1984 graduate of Southern High School, Younkin enlisted in the Navy Delayed Entry Program in September, 1984. He began active duty in March of this year by attending recruit training at Great Lakes Naval Center near Chicago. Following basic, he was enrolled for further training in submarine systems at the Navy Submarine Base in New London. Here, he studied various mechanical, electrical and electronic systems which are found aboard the modern nuclear-powered submarine. This included hydraulic, pneumatic, air conditioning, ventilation, and propulsion systems along with communications, computer and weapons equipment.

The USS Bergall is a fast-attack submarine. Its primary mission is to seek out, track, and destroy enemy surface ships and submarines. While serving aboard this ship, Younkin will undergo training in a technical field of his choice and later be assigned for additional schooling at the Norfolk Naval Base.

MDHMH Notes New Requirements On Immunizations

Labor Day marks the traditional end of summer, and the state health department is reminding parents that updating a child's immunization record should be as much a part of preparing for the school year as shopping for new clothes and supplies.

Parents should be aware of several changes in the state law regarding immunization requirements for entering kindergarten and for middle school-age students, said Robert E. Longenecker, director of the Immunization Program of the department's Preventive Medicine Administration.

Children entering kindergarten this September will need to have received five doses of vaccine against diptheria, pertussis, and tetanus (DPT), and four doses of oral polio vaccine, one dose of each of these serums after the child's fourth birthday.

In addition, these children must have had one dose each of live vaccines against rubella and measles on or after their first birthday. Specifying the time of dosage ensures the maximum protection from the vaccine.

Also this September, new regulations require students in grades seven through nine to give proof of a minimum of three doses of tetanus and diptheria vaccine, three doses of oral polio vaccine, and a dose each of live rubella and live measles vaccine.

Extending immunization requirements to older children brings Maryland into conformity with laws of most other states. "Maryland is one of the few states without these requirements for older students, and having updated immunization records will allow us to identify students at risk as soon as a communicable disease appears in a school," Longenecker said.

He emphasized that the recent prolonged outbreak of measles in Southern Maryland reinforces the need for a more complete immunization program and for updated records in Maryland's schools.

In Memoriam . . .

In memory of Elena Doty, whose birthday was January 20, 1897.

Is there no balm in Gilead?
Is there no physician there?
Is there no God in heaven to hear my mourning prayer?
The last time I implored Him, I know He heard my cry.
He never yet has failed me, nor has He passed me by.
But now my heart is heavy, my eyes are dimmed with tears.
I've never had to walk alone through my four score and ten years.
Our lives are so uncertain.
We know not from day to day the evils that beset us,
That is why we pause to pray.

By husband, Edward; son, Wesley; & daughter, Marilyn

Hughes Appoints Task Force To Study Liability

Governor Harry Hughes, citing a potential "threat to the delivery of services" in Maryland, announced this week the appointment of a 22-member task force to recommend solutions to the problem of skyrocketing liability insurance costs.

Chaired by Lt. Governor J. Joseph Curran, Jr., the Liability Insurance Task Force will study the entire range of liability problems, including those faced by medical professionals, local governments and private entities.

"The lack of available and affordable liability insurance coverage," Governor Hughes said in a letter to the panel, "potentially poses a direct threat to the delivery of services essential to the well being of Maryland citizens."

Although many of the factors influencing the insurance market are "national or international" in scope, he asked the task force to explore legislative and/or administrative remedies to make liability insurance more available and affordable in Maryland.

Hughes charged the panel with studying the development of market assistance plans; the feasibility of expanded self-insurance coverage particularly for local governments; and the possibility and desirability of sponsoring insurance pools particularly for high risk service industries.

He also asked them to consider reviewing previous statutory changes to "sovereign immunity" of local governments. And he urged the panel to coordinate, when necessary, recommendations on legal reforms with the Joint Executive and Legislative Task Force on Medical Malpractice Insurance.

The panel has been asked to submit its final report to the Governor by December 1, 1985.

In addition to Lt. Governor Curran, the members of the task force are: Senator F. Vernon Boozer, Towson; Senator Jerome F. Connell, Sr., Glen Burnie; Delegate George H. Littrell, Jr., Frederick; Delegate Donald F. Munson, Hagerstown; City Councilman Thomas J.S. Waxter, Jr., Baltimore, representing the Maryland Association of Counties; County Councilman Norman W. Lauenstein, Essex, representing the Maryland Association of Counties; Mayor Gerard J. Quinn, Sharpsburg, representing the Maryland Municipal League; Mayor Donald W. Bradley, Hurlock, representing the Maryland Municipal League; State Insurance Commissioner Edward J. Mahl; Vincent H. Howley, executive director of the Maryland Automobile Insurance Fund; W. Minor Carter, Baltimore and August P. Alegi, Washington, D.C., representing the insurance industry; Robert C. Verderaime, Baltimore, and Donald C. Allen, Baltimore, attorneys; Richard D. Ehrlich, Cockeysville, representing industry; Joseph J. Masmiller, Baltimore, representing the Maryland Chamber of Commerce; Evelyn Slaght, Baltimore, representing the day care industry; Louis A. Altarescu, Baltimore, Melvin D. Krolczyk, Baltimore, Osborne A. Payne, Baltimore, Kathleen M. Ziffer, Kensington, consumer representatives.

Contractors Without Licenses Issued Warning

The state of Maryland is issuing a warning to unlicensed home improvement contractors informing them that the Court of Appeals has ruled they run the risk of not being paid for their work.

The court's opinion states that contractors are violating the law by not obtaining a state license and, therefore, the courts cannot be used to enforce payments on these illegal contracts.

The warning was issued recently by the Maryland Home Improvement Commission because the home improvement business generally increases in the spring, encouraged by the advent of warm weather and income tax refunds.

The commission further notified unlicensed contractors that not only do they face the threat of not being paid but they also will be prosecuted for doing business without a license, punishable by a fine of up to $5,000 and imprisonment of up to two years.

The Maryland Department of Licensing and Regulation, which administers the Home Improvement Law, also has warned homeowners to be sure that they deal only with licensed contractors.

Secretary of Licensing and Regulation Frederick L. Dewberry said, "Licensed contractors know Maryland law and realize they will be penalized for any violations. Homeowners should also ask for references on several jobs performed by the contractor within the past year. A little caution before signing a contract can avert costly problems later."

An information guide for homeowners expecting to enter a contract for home improvement work is available by writing: Maryland Home Improvement Commission, Department of Licensing and Regulation, 501 St. Paul Place, 8th Floor, Baltimore, Maryland 21202-2272, or phone 301-659-6309.

Northern GOP Women Meet, Hear Edwards

The Northern Garrett Republican Women's Club met August 27 at Hill Top Inn, Grantsville.

Delegate George Edwards, the speaker, was introduced by his wife, Linda Edwards. He spoke on bills which he was instrumental in passing during the April and July sessions. They included snowmobiles crossing highways other than freeways, personal property tax on farm machinery, open pit mining and licensing of same, written permission to hunt on property by owner, black bear named on mammal list for protection, and salary increases for elected officials to take effect after next election. He also stated the police can now get involved in 12 hours after a child is missing.

The business meeting followed with Carolyn Ganoe presiding. Twila Mae Fike led the devotions.

Mrs. Ganoe reported on the Southern and Northern picnic held in July at Broadford Park. A letter of appreciation was read from National President Betty Rendel for the donation to the Dorothy Kabis Scholarship Fund.

Members present besides those mentioned were: Helen Keller, Leanna and Clara Layman, Hazel Margraff, Wilma Wilburn, Cora Bowser, Jean Friend, Hazel Jenkins, Louise McKenzie, Mary Broadwater and Cleda Baker. Refreshments were served.

The club will meet again September 24.

U.S. Air Force Squadron Will Meet At Wisp

The Sixth Service Squadron of the U.S. Air Force, WWII, will return to the Wisp Resort area to hold its 35 Annual Reunion, September 6-8.

This group first arrived in this area in 1951 at the Mountain Lake Park Hotel and on the third weekend in August held its reunion there until the hotel was closed in 1962.

The unit was organized at Langley Field, Va., in 1940 and was de-activated after the end of WWII in 1945. The group served in many areas in the United States then spent three years in the European Theatre. From their base in England, the first and last daylight raid was flown on the enemy in Europe. After service in England the unit moved to Istres in Southern France and stayed there until the unit was de-activated.

Although many of the members have died, there are still approximately 130, along with spouses who still attend these reunions. Former Oakland resident, Fred Tichnell, handles the job of keeping the members together. He also invites every veteran to stop by and visit the group at the Wisp Resort this weekend.

Something To Think About
R. Mark Durst
DIRECTOR

BREAKING NEWS TO A CHILD

It is important that a youngster be informed IMMEDIATELY of the death of a loved one. If possible, he should be told by a parent or someone close to him, in a familiar setting such as the home. A delay in informing the child only increases the likelihood that he will learn of the death under less than ideal circumstances.

The need to break the sad news expeditiously does not mean that it should be done with any less gentleness or sensitivity. One experienced professional suggests that the adult begin with a discussion of nature, of the flowering and fruiting of plants, of their fading away in the fall and winter. Emphasis should be on the beauty of life rather than on the morbidity of death.

Even honest explanations should be free of terrible and terrifying details. A child can identify too closely with a story of accident or illness and may begin to fear for his own life.

SHOULD YOU TRADE IN YOUR CAR FOR A NEW ONE?

Most of the major car companies are now advertising the lowest interest rates we have seen in years. Because of this, it is becoming quite a temptation to trade an old car for a new one. Often this is not an easy decision, but it can be made easier by looking at the facts and figures more closely. To do this, a computer program, comparing the costs of your old car and a new car, can be run at the Garrett County Extension Office in the Courthouse Annex.

Bring the following figures into the office between the hours of 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. and a print-out will be provided for you and may help you in making your decision. This will be done free of charge.

*What is the current cost of gasoline?

DATA FOR PRESENTLY OWNED CAR

Old cars usually cost 11¢ per mile for repairs, oil, filters, tag and taxes. New cars cost 9¢ per mile.

*Do you want to use these figures or do you want to change them? What cost will you be using?

*What is the value of your present car?

*How many years could you keep your present car?

*What would the value of your present car be after the number of years listed above?

DATA FOR NEW CAR

*What is the price of the new car you are considering?

*Are you buying this car on credit?

*If yes, what will the interest be on your new car loan?

*How many months will the car be financed?

*What would the value of the new car be in the same number of years as if you kept your present car?

*How many miles per gallon of gasoline would your new car get?

If for some reason the program cannot be run when you drop the information off at the office, it will be run within a day and mailed to you, or you can stop by for the print-out. For more information, call 334-2145.

Fire Marshal Notes Statistics For Fiscal '85

The Maryland State Fire Marshal's Office has recently completed one of its most productive years in the history of the agency, according to State Fire Marshal Rocco J. Gabriele.

During fiscal year 1985, which ended on June 30, more fire safety inspections were conducted by the State Fire Marshal's Office than ever before in the 21-year history of the agency.

In the past fiscal year, approximately 12,645 inspections were conducted statewide, which represents an increaseof 43 percent over the fiscal 1984 figure of 8,827 inspections, which had been the agency's all-time previous high. The fiscal 1985 inspection totals were also three times more than the figures of fiscal 1983 when Fire Marshal Gabriele took office.

The busiest month for fire inspectors was May 1985, when 1,668 inspections were made.

Fire code inspections are conducted to ensure compliance with Maryland's fire safety regulations, and include occupancies such as places of public assembly and multi-family residential facilities, where a total of 4,790 inspections were conducted.

As for investigations, in fiscal year 1985 the State Fire Marshal's Office investigated a total of 1,754 fire, explosive and chemical incidents, which was the largest number of investigations in the past five years. Of the 1,754 total investigations, 1,310 were fires. Of this number, 675 were classified as accidental, 532 were incendiary or arson, and 103 remained undetermined and under investigation. The number of arson investigations rose by seven percent from 498 cases in fiscal 1983 and 1984, to 532 in fiscal 1985.

The months of July 1984 and January 1985 were the busiest for investigators, when 220 and 165 cases, respectively, were investigated.

The highest number of arson fires investigated occurred in April 1985 with 51 and in February 1985 with 46 such cases.

Arrests for arson and fire code violations dropped slightly in fiscal 1985 from 228 in FY84 to 198 this year.

Harford, Cecil and Kent counties, for the second straight year, logged the highest number of persons arrested for arson and code violations with 60, while the Western Maryland region of Allegany, Garrett and Washington counties reported the second highest number with 39.

In summing up the successes of the Maryland State Fire Marshal's Office during the past fiscal year, Gabriele stated, "I am quite pleased with, and thoroughly endorse and support the efforts of the entire staff. Their dedicated work during this record breaking year is an indication of our commitment to help reduce this state's fire and burn problems."

A NEW HOME for Vaughn and Lisa Sweitzer and their two children was created August 24, by eight Mennonite volunteers from the Marlboro Mennonite Church in Hartville, Ohio. The house, located on the Aiken-Miller Road, Accident, is the second to be completed under the Habitat for Humanity. The cornerstone for the home, pictured above, left, was laid August 21. Volunteers erected the remainder of the house in nine hours, completing the shingling of the roof in the rain. Local volunteers, along with the Sweitzer family, did the excavating and laying of block for the home, and will also complete all interior work, electric, and plumbing.

Breaking, Entering Theft Reported By Oakland Police

The Oakland City Police Department reported a breaking and entering theft which occurred in the area last week.

Chief John K. Sines reported that sometime between 9:30 p.m. August 27 and 1:00 a.m. August 28 someone entered the Coin O Laundry, Crook Street, Oakland, apparently through a window in the front of the building.

Sines said that the culprit must have had some sort of key, using it to remove an undetermined amount of change from approximately 10 of the new dryers which were recently installed.

Western Maryland Leaders To Cover Tax Reform Plan

More than 50 mayors and public officials from Western Maryland will meet here Wednesday, September 11, to gauge the financial impact of President Reagan's proposed tax reforms on their communities.

The officials will meet for the region's first "Western Maryland Government Exchange." Organized by the University of Maryland Cooperative Extension Service, the Exchange is a daylong strategy session for local leaders from Garrett, Allegany, Frederick, and Washington counties.

According to conference organizers, the President's proposed elimination of deductions for state and local taxes could put additional financial pressure on Western Maryland's small towns and rural communities.

Currently, taxpayers who itemize can deduct local and state taxes from their incomes. Such deductions are particularly advantageous from taxpayers in Maryland, where state and local taxes are among the nation's ten highest.

But if that tax break is eliminated, Maryland residents may find their tax burden to heavy to shoulder, the organizers stated.

"Take away the deduction for state and local taxes, and Maryland residents who once supported higher taxes for schools, sewers and roads, and other services may have second thoughts," says Phil Favero, a public policy specialist with the University of Maryland Cooperative Extension Service, and a conference speaker. "Consequently, this part of President Reagan's tax reform package could become an obstacle for local officials trying to marshal support for local services."

In addition to analyzing the President's plans for tax reform, the Western Maryland officials will look at the growing use of computers in local governments and sewer and water rate structuring. Frederick City attorney Milnor Roberts will also address the increasing reluctance of insurance companies to provide protection for local governments.

A survey conducted by the Extension Service determined the topics to be discussed at the exchange. In that survey, more than 100 local leaders from Maryland identified the program's topics as some of the most critical issues facing local governments in the region.

The exchange will begin at 8:45 a.m. at the Ramada Inn Conference Center in Hagerstown. For more information, persons may contact, Patricia Easterday, Allegany County Cooperative Extension Service; telephone: 301-724-3320.

Farming in Maryland

Pork Producers' Referendum Set For November 6

The approximately 1,800 Maryland farmers who market slaughter hogs will vote November 6 of this year on whether or not they wish to continue a check-off program to raise funds for promotion of pork products.

A request for the referendum from the Maryland Pork Producers Association (MPPA) has been certified by Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Wayne A. Cawley, Jr.

The present check-off authorization expires on January 1, 1986, and is at the rate of a flat 20 cents per market hog. The proposed rate to be voted on in the referendum is one-quarter of one percent which would amount to 25 cents per $100.00 of the selling price of a slaughter hog.

An example of the new assessment would be as follows: a 220 lb. slaughter hog sold the week of August 19 at West Friendship brought 46 cents per pound or a dollar total of $101.20. If the proposed assessment rate (.0025) were applied to this selling price for the hog, the farmer would kick in $.253 or just over a quarter. At present, he would kick in a flat 20 cents.

The assessment is voluntary. Producers not wishing to contribute can request a refund in writing. Monies raised in Maryland are used for in-state promotions and shared with the National Pork Producers Council.

Balloting is open to all Maryland producers of market hogs. Those wishing to be certified to vote in the referendum should contact their local County Cooperative Extension Service Office.

"SEE DEAR. NOW ISN'T THIS BETTER THAN GIVING A REDUCING SALON ALL THAT MONEY?"

Farmers Urged To Check Quality Of Stored Grain

With more than 470,000 bushels of loan grain stored on Maryland farms, Olin S. Davis, Jr., chairman of the Maryland State Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Committee, is urging producers to continue to check the quality of their farm-stored grain to assure it remains in good condition.

"Proper maintenance of farm-stored grain, whether it's in the grain reserve or under loan, is the full responsibility of the farmers," he said. "When wheat or other grains are stored on the farm for extended periods, regular inspections are required in order to detect insect infestation or grain deterioration. The market value of infested wheat may be substantially reduced if the insect damage is sufficient to lower the grain quality."

Davis said ASCS is currently inspecting random samplings of wheat, oats and barley in the reserve. Where problems exist, producers will be instructed to recondition the grain, rotate it with new crops or repay the loan. "Farmers should not rely on our spot checks as a substitute for their regular inspections, however," he said.

"We expect farmers to continue good management practices and regular inspections to protect and maintain the quality of farm-stored grain. The slightest relaxation of these procedures could result in storability problems and poor quality grain. Anytime farmers are in doubt as to the quality of loan grain, they should contact our office at once," Davis concluded.

Farmers are also reminded to obtain ASCS authorization before commingling, rotating, moving or selling grain under loan. Penalties will be imposed when the grain is removed or disposed of before repayment or before a release authorization is obtained from ASCS.

Storing Grains

With the price of oats being so low many of you probably will be putting oats in storage. With the price being as such, you cannot afford to lose any of it to insects. Probably the two most economical insecticides to use would be Methoxychlor and Malathion. Methoxychlor should be sprayed inside the storage area and then spray the Malathion onto the grain.

Dairy Program Comments Due September 16

Dairy Farmers have until September 16 to comment on the USDA proposal to increase the milk price support level to 75% of parity on October 1, 1985. Current law provides that the support for milk be set at a level between 75% and 90% of parity. USDA estimates that the minimum level will be $16.22 per cwt. on October 1 for milk testing 3.67% butterfat. This would be an increase in the current support level of $11.60 per cwt. However, if new farm legislation is enacted effective October 1, this proposal will not be implemented. Comments on this Dairy proposal should be sent to the Director, Commodity Analysis Division, Room 3741 South Building, USDA-ASCS, P.O. Box 2415, Washington, D.C. 20013. To be considered, the comments must be written and received at the Washington office no later than the September 16 deadline. If you would like additional information contact Geep Halterman at the local ASCS office. Geep's phone number is 334-9646.

Forage Analysis

I don't like to sound like a broken record, but have you been testing your crops for the nutritional value? With the economic situation in the farming industry as such, one of the best tools to help you in developing a "Least cost" ration to feed your animals is knowing the nutritional value of your crops. The easiest time to take the sample is at harvest time.

SELL AS-IS OR UPGRADE

Should a homeseller rehab for extra profit before placing his home on the market? There are strong arguments pro and con on this subject.

An experienced agent can offer constructive suggestions on upgrading as part of the total marketing effort to help sellers realize a maximum return on their housing investment. On occasion, a situation may exist where rehab expenses would exceed a seller's budget and the seller should decide to sell the house as-is.

Also, a seller may find that the cost of improving the home will end up costing a lot more money than the increased market price would bring.

Major improvements in a home, just for the purpose of getting a higher selling price is an "iffy" situation. Final costs almost always outstrip original estimates as do time estimates and extreme living inconvenience. All in all, it's usually a better practice to price the home in the condition it is presently in and let the buyer make the improvements.

Local Telephone Pioneers Begin Terms Of Office

Officers for the Telephone Pioneers of America council serving Cumberland, Frostburg, Oakland and neighboring areas took office recently.

Janet Knisley, Cresaptown, was elected president of the Mountain Council of the Telephone Pioneers, while Cheryl L. DuVall, Cumberland, was elected vice president. Pioneer officers were installed at the organization's annual meeting in Ocean City.

The Telephone Pioneers of America, the world's largest volunteer organization, consists of 750,000 members nationwide. They are retired and active employees of AT&T and the seven operating companies formed at the break-up of the Bell System, said Knisley. In Maryland, C&P Telephone and AT&T employees and retirees are members.

The group was started in 1911 by a few retired telephone employees who were looking for a way to stay active and help people in the community, Knisley explained. Employees must have at least 18 years of service with their company to be eligible for membership.

"The Pioneers are as active a volunteer group as any other organization in the community," Knisley said.

Statewide, the Pioneers have volunteered more than 15,000 hours and have raised more than $30,000 for the Regional Burn Center in Baltimore. Maryland Pioneers also raised $8,500 for the restoration of the Statue of Liberty. Among other projects, the Pioneers visit nursing homes, provide aids for handicapped children, and establish scholarships at local colleges.

At the 1985 annual meeting, the Pioneers installed local and statewide officers for one-year terms beginning July 1. Incoming Maryland Chapter officers are: Leroy W. Fisher, president; Donald W. Hiltz, vice president; Cynthia H. Compher, administrator; Gordon H. Spittel, life member representative; Alma M. Trieber, assistant life member representative; Sarah N. Greene, immediate past president; and Albert F. Schneider, Region Eight vice president.

Local council presidents taking office were: Nick Moss, Colonial; Joseph B. Ballou, Jr., Friendship; Irving M. Adkins, Jr., Lower Shore; Patricia A. Kangieser, Metro-East; Janet Knisley, Mountain; George Whiteley, Northern; Wilma R. Bennett, Southern Maryland; Melvin Kendall, Upper Shore; Donald McKinstry, Valley; and John E. Hinton, Western.

PIONEER PRESIDENT — Telephone Pioneers Mountain Council President Janet Knisley, left, is congratulated by Sarah N. Greene, outgoing Maryland Pioneer president, and Leroy W. Fisher, incoming Maryland Pioneer president. The Telephone Pioneers of America consists of 750,000 members. The Mountain Council, representing the Cumberland, Frostburg, Oakland, and surrounding areas, announced new officers for a one-year term beginning July 1.

PUBLIC NOTICES

PUBLIC NOTICE

Pursuant to Section 1102 of the Oakland Zoning Ordinance, the Oakland Mayor and Town Council will conduct a public hearing on September 26, 1985, at 7:00 p.m. in the Town Hall, 109 S. Third Street. The Council will review a proposal originated by the Oakland Town Council to establish a new Historic zoning district within the town limits. Specifically, the Council and Planning Commission propose to establish a HD-Historic District classification in that area of North Second Street from Center Street to Omar Street as well as the property occupied by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Station. These two areas have already been recognized by the National Register of Historic Places as Historic Districts. In addition to the proposed zoning map changes, the Council will also review a proposal by the Council and Planning Commission to amend the text of the Oakland Zoning ordinance as follows: 1) Amend Article II by adding a definition for Historic District;

212-A Historic District

An area of the Town of Oakland which meets one of the following criteria and which has been so designated in the Town zoning map:

1. Included within the Town's Historic District as set forth on a map prepared by the Department of State Planning, in conjunction with the Maryland Historic Trust and/or which has been designated on the National Register of Historic Places.

2. Found by the Town Council of Oakland, by its resolution to be of special historic value, worthy of protection and preservation, for the well-being and good of the entire Town.

Article 3

2) Amend Section 300 of Article 3 to include HD-Historic District in the establishment of Districts.

3) Amend the Table of Use Regulations in Article 4 by adding a new column for the HD-Historic Disirict classification and providing regulations for uses 1 through 52 in the HD zone.

Copies of the specific changes to the Table of Use Regulations are available at the Town Hall and all interrested citizens are urged to attend the hearing.

THE LIFE-LIKE QUALITY of a bird carving is one of the most important factors in the judging of the carving at a show, and Gary Yoder's unique talents have earned him the title of World Champion, leaving no question about his abilities. Yoder has also earned several other titles at numerous shows, coming home with ribbons, cash prizes, and wider recognition. Pictured above are several of Yoder's carvings which he has saved for his personal collection, each having a special meaning for him. Most of the carvings that Yoder completes today are sold immediately to persons on a waiting list of at least 100.

Bird Carving Is Pleasure Before Business For World Champion Gary Yoder

by Brenda Beiler

Hardly a summer day goes by when one doesn't see a bird flying overhead or hear one chirping nearby. Yet, the average person doesn't stop to think about what species of bird it was, the setting it was in, or how it was balanced as it perched on a branch. Often one is too busy to stop and consider these aspects and the impact of this small, yet important part of nature.

However, birds are a very vital part of the life of bird watcher and World Champion Carver Gary Yoder of Grantsville.

He explained that he has always had a fascination for birds, which was developed further by Ruth Yoder, a now retired school teacher from Yoder School who made bird watching a part of the third and fourth grade curriculum. Even before he started school, he learned about birds from his brothers as they passed information along to them.

Yoder then began sketching and painting birds as well as other wildlife. He took two carving lessons at Penn Alps in Grantsville when he was eleven, learning the actual process of carving. After that he learned most of his techniques from books and talking to other carvers.

Yoder has been working independently for sixteen years, and has been employed at Penn Alps for fourteen summers, since he was thirteen, spending each summer in the same small cabin.

He said that he could make more money if he continued to work at home throughout the summer months, but he prefers to work for Penn Alps during the summer.

He went on, "I do most of my major work during the winter, spending four to six months to complete two or three birds in one carving. I spend long, concentrated hours totally isolated from anyone else. Penn Alps is basically my summer vacation. I use it to get away and spend time with other people."

The first step in bird carving is, of course, the idea for the carving. Yoder said that his ideas are obtained mostly by the process of elimination.

He said, "Ideas run through my head every day, and most are either pitched out or forgotten. Sometimes the shape of a particular stick can trigger an idea. In that case, I design the bird around the branch. The hardest choice is deciding what kind of bird to make."

He went on, "You have to constantly think two or three steps ahead, and you need to know the whole picture. I know what the piece will look like before I start it."

After an idea for a carving is formed, Yoder does a major detailed drawing, which is then made into a pattern that includes all the different parts in profile. The pattern is then traced onto the wood and cut out with a band saw. Next, the silhouette is roughed out, and a rough carving is made.

A clay model helps to put the bird into three dimensions rather than two.

After the final carving is completed, feathers, texture, and legs and feet are added. The final step is to paint the carving and put the final touches on the bird.

Upon looking at a carving, one would probably come to the conclusion that the carving step would be the most difficult. However, Yoder said, "Carving simply involves training the eye to see detail and learning what to look for. Give me an afternoon with anyone and I'll teach them to carve feathers."

Yoder uses 100% bass wood for his carvings, which is a soft wood with a straight grain, making it one of the easiest carving woods. It can be purchased locally, but it is slightly difficult to find because it normally is only used for carving due to the fact that it rots very easily.

He very seldon carves an entire piece out of only one piece of wood. Instead, he uses separate pieces and glues them together.

Besides wood, the basic materials used for his birds are glass eyes, steel wires for the legs, joints, and tendons, polyester resin for water, and wire with an epoxy putty covering for branches.

Yoder said, "Woodburning makes the feathers look more realistic. I do a lot of exaggeration of feathers for detail, more than a bird would actually have if it were shrunk to that size. The secret of a feather is in its edge. Some feathers are inserted, and others are carved onto the bird."

When working on a carving, Yoder borrows a "study skin", or stuffed bird, from a museum to use as a guide. He also uses photos and drawings, and sometimes even live birds, for reference.

Yoder stressed that the originality of the carving comes from the actual bird, not someone else's idea in their artwork. "I take others' ideas and refine them to be original.

"However", he said,"as a beginner it is good to copy from others' work and paintings to get the general idea of how everything fits together."

Yoder uses acrylic paints for his birds, because oils took too long to dry and leave a shiny finish.

He said, "I'm more comfortable with a brush than with a knife. Maybe part of the reason is that a mistake with a brush is easier to repair than a mistake with a knife. You don't make mistakes when you paint, you're just not finished yet."

He stated that it doesn't take much money to get started carving, but it can lead to a large sum for grinders, burners, and other power tools. Yoder prefers a knife to a grinder, because the grinder tends to vibrate too much.

He also uses some dentist's tools for small detail work. Several dentists have given him used drill bits for this purpose.

According to Yoder, "Detail work is not the most important aspect. But, being a birder, I have to put the detail in. The spirit of the bird is more important than the detail. Without that basis, detail means nothing. The power is in the life of the carving."

Yoder stated that proportion is more important than the detail, and basic proportions are the hardest for him to do.

"The balance of the legs and feet is extremely expressive, just like human hands. After the eyes, the legs and feet are the most expressive."

He has tried carving other things besides birds, but now, if it doesn't go with the bird, he doesn't carve it. He said, "Birds are what I know best. I've studied them since I was a kid. Ninety percent of what I do is just research. You have to know your subject, or you can't carve it."

He went on, "You can't separate the bird from its surroundings. This gets very involved, because you need to know what time of year it is, if the bird would be molting, if the plants would be flowering, and so on. If you mess up, sooner or later someone would catch up with you."

Yoder prefers birds that he has seen and is familiar with. He has only carved two birds that he has never seen. "That hurt", he said, "people could tell I'd never seen the bird."

Yoder said, "The hardest bird to do is simply the next bird you're planning to carve." He went on to say that every kind of bird has a particular problem. "The hardest for me is a bird in flight, mainly because of my lack of knowledge of flight mechanics", he said.

However, there are technical problems with every bird, such as inserting feathers and dealing with rippled wood.

Yoder has attended and entered carvings in a number of carving shows, the latest of which was in Ocean City last April. He has been attending this show since 1972 or '73, and said that it is one of the best shows, including tables in the categories World Champion, Professional Amateur, and Novelist.

In April, about 800 carvers attended, with nearly 2500 pieces on display. The category was birds of prey.

Yoder entered three birds, coming home with three ribbons. He won in the World Champion Miniature category, with a purchase award of $7,500. The foundation gets the winning carvings, which are then displayed at Salisbury State College.

He won a $300 purchase award in the Lem and Steve Ward Shoot and Stool contest, and an honorable mention in the Professional Songbird category.

Yoder said, "The show is rewarding, and to me, the prizes are secondary."

Reputation is important, and each time a carving wins, the prices for all his carvings go up. For example, his small mallards sell for $400, his least expensive carving. When he first began carving, they sold for $30.

Yoder has also displayed in shows in Long Island, Salisbury, and Wisconsin's Bird Art Exhibit, which is by invitation only.

Yoder has a waiting list of at least 100 names, and will accept no more orders, except for major pieces of $5000 or more, simply because he has never made more than ten bird carvings in one year.

Not many local people have one of his carvings; most are in Pittsburgh, Baltimore, and Washington.

Yoder has saved his first prize winning carving and a few others, such as first woodburning, first feather inserting, and first birds in flight.

In all his years of working at Penn Alps, he has only had five or six pieces broken by someone else. He said, "I break them often myself, but they're not hard to repair. I'm used to using different pieces and covering up joints."

Despite all his talent, prize winning carvings, and experience, Yoder remains humble. He said, "I'm not a businessman. I don't push my work. I just carve birds."

Arts and crafts shows, square dancing, mountainmen competitions, an organ recital, an antique show and sale, a road rally, a 10-kilometer race, bagpipe music and the Second Annual Autumn Glory Tractor Pull, plus Garrett County Turkey dinners are more of the attractions.

For more information persons may contact the Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council.

CELEBRATES 106th BIRTHDAY — "Age sits with decent grace upon her visage, and worthily becomes her silver locks, and she wears the marks of many years well spent, of virtue, truth, and wise experience." These words of Nicholas Rowe seem to aptly describe Miss Alice Duggan, a resident of Cuppett and Weeks Nursing Home, Oakland, who reached a milestone that only a tiny percentage of human beings achieve. She was born on September 6, 1879, which means she turned 106 years old last Friday. She is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Silas Duggan, who were residents of Frostburg and the parents of four daughters and one son. A resident of Cuppett and Weeks for 11 years, Miss Duggan has one surviving sister, Gladys Arnold, 87, Frostburg, and a nephew, Joe Warner, Charlottesville, N.C. She has remained single her entire lifetime (so far, that is) and devoted 25 years to teaching music in her home. She still enjoys listening to music. "She enjoyed gardening, reading, baking, and she especially loved flowers," recalls her sister, Mrs. Arnold. "Alice's disposition is one that everyone should want to have," stated Martha Podelco, R.N., also pictured above. "She is never a problem and seems to be very happy."

ALL THE WAY ACROSS THE USA — Jerry Traylors, of Parkersburg, W.Va., passed through Garrett County on U.S. Rt. 48 this past week on the final segment of a transcontinental run from San Francisco to New York City. What makes his feat so special is that he is required to do the run on crutches, having been afflicted with cerebral palsy all his life. The purpose of the trek is to enhance awareness that being handicapped does not mean one cannot set, and achieve, high goals. Traylors has given over 200 talks on his journey at hospitals, schools, and other public forums. On his way through Morgantown last week he gave an inspirational talk to the West Virginia University football team, who then proceeded to crush Louisville on Saturday, 52-13, in a game for which Traylors was made honorary captain. "I just told them, if I can do this with my body, surely you guys can go out and win a football game." See story on page three.

County Officials Still Seeking Landfill Solution

Solutions to the Garrett County landfill problem are still being sought and Garrett County Commissioner Elwood Groves II and Roads Administrator Paul Shockey travelled to Annapolis last Wednesday to attend the MACo landfill committee meeting. Present at the meeting was Adele Wilzack, secretary of the Department of Health and Mental Hygiene.

Commissioner Groves said the committee is now focusing on the major issues for landfills in county government.

The commissioner said all present at the meeting realized the importance of environmental regulations surrounding landfills, but that those same regulations are economically impossible for many counties across the state.

At a press conference Tuesday, Commissioner Ernest

Hearing Involving Peat Company Is Postponed

Garrett County Processing and Packaging Corporation stockholders were scheduled to travel to Baltimore tomorrow for a hearing in federal court that would decide if they could resume harvesting peat on their property near Bittinger. However, GCP&P Manager Ken Buckel informed us yesterday that the corporation's lawyers have worked out negotiations postponing the hearing until a later date.

In the meantime, work may continue on the adjoining property being leased by the company with only a specified number of inches of peat allowed to be harvested. This came about after the Sierra Club asked for a restraining order which closed down the peat company's operations in order to "preserve the bog."

A compromise was made in front of Federal Judge Howard on August 21, which has permitted the company to continue under the restrictions that no work be done on the property owned by GCP&P, and that work may continue on adjoining property leased by the company with only a specified number of inches of peat harvested.

The company gained permission to finish the harvest of several acres of humus (the layer above the peat) which had been ready for harvest before the restraining order was placed on the company, but only after an inspection was made by two Sierra Club representatives.

Buckel explained that his is no longer the only peat company to be cited. Other bogs in the Pocono Mountain area of Pennsylvania have been closed down, in order to be preserved. Buckel says that he doesn't know how those companies will fight the lawsuit, and feels that there is a good chance that environmentalists will oppose any company getting a permit.

State appraisers visited GCP&P's peat bog last Thursday, and the company is to meet at the end of the month to discuss the possibility of purchase

Local Famine Relief Monies Used To Purchase Seeds For Ethiopians

The Garrett County Ethiopian Famine Relief Committee, which raised over $13,000 this past spring for famine relief in that country, received word this past week that the money was used to purchase 11,000 pounds of chick pea seeds.

Marianne Liberatore, from the Save the Children organization, stated that the Garrett County contribution of $13,242, which was the largest single check in the country for Ethiopian famine relief at that time, was forwarded to Save the Children by Congressman Gary Ackerman. Ackerman was the founder of Children for Children in New York City, an organization involving the school children of New York who single handedly raised over one-quarter of a million dollars in relief aid.

"We are truly grateful to each and every one of you from Garrett County, and fully appreciate that this very generous gift represents a tremendous community effort," Ms. Liberatore stated.

"Congressman Ackerman had spoken to us earlier about the gift and your desire that it be designated for something specific and of long-range value. Consequently, we have conferred with our project director in Ethiopia who pressed the urgent need for seeds for planting and asked if we might obtain your approval of the gift for this purpose. He indicated the chick pea seeds would be an excellent selection, due to their high nutritional value, accustomed use in the local diet, and timeliness for the coming planting season.

"Since the Congressman's office has subsequently indicated your agreement to such a plan, we are now asking our program department to obtain the approximately 11,000 pounds of chick pea seeds afforded by your gift, and to identify this wonderful and substantial gift as the work of Garrett County for Ethiopian Relief."

Gary Thompson, chairman of the Garrett County committee, and other members stated they were pleased with the choice of chick pea seeds, noting that the 11,000 pounds of seeds would no doubt produce hundreds of thousands of pounds of food for the people of Ethiopia.

Save the Children also sent a framed certificate to the local committee, noting the contribution of Garrett County.

The monies were raised locally via student projects, efforts by local churches, businesses, and individuals, including a 200-mile relay run from Oakland to Washington, D.C., which raised over $4,000.

Thompson stated that the Ethiopian Famine Relief Fund account at the First United National Bank & Trust is still open and persons are invited to continue to contribute.

Society Plans Historical Tour

The annual fall tour of the Garrett County Historical Society will take place on Saturday, September 21, beginning at 9 a.m. Present plans are to leave from in front the Ruth Enlow Library at 9 a.m. and return about 3 p.m. The route selected for the tour this year runs across the southern part of Garrett County.

First stop on the tour will be on Route 219 south where there is a marker for the McCullough Path. There will be a brief talk about the path and the Indian campsights which were in this area.

Proceeding along Route 219 south to Gortner, the tour will make a stop at the home of General Kelley, Civil War hero. The site of "Ashby Fort in Yough Glades," dating from 1774 is located on nearby Cherry Creek. It will also be visited at this stop.

Continuing south on Route 219 and then east on U.S. Route 50, the tour will go to Fort Pendle-

West Virginia Mishaps Claim Lives Of Two

A vehicle accident claimed the life of a Gormania, W.Va. man early Sunday morning.

According to Mineral County Deputy Sheriff James Emdler, Edward O. Bosley, 64, was driving a 1984 Chevrolet Blazer on Route 50, eight miles southwest of Keyser when he apparently lost control of the vehicle at approximately 12:30 a.m. The Blazer then left the highway and traveled in a ditch for 124 feet.

Emdler stated that the Blazer may have traveled backwards across the road and flipped into the air, throwing the driver from the vehicle.

The vehicle came to a stop in a field approximately 30 or 40 feet from Bosley.

Born August 18, 1921 in Gormania, W.Va., Bosley was a son of the late Evers O. Bosley and Estella O. (Dilgard) Bosley. He was preceded in death by his wife, Julia (Bendis) Bosley, in October, 1983.

He was the owner of the Old Mill Restaurant in Gorman from 1965 until his retirement last year and previously was employed 21 years as a shearer operator for Bethlehem Steel in Sparrow's Point, Baltimore, and a member of the Thomas-Fairfax Lodge 174, AF&AM, Davis, W.Va.; the Cumberland Consistory and Scottish Rite bodies of the Ali Ghan Shrine Club; Walter Chapter 43, O.E.S., Davis; Knights of Pythias in Gormania and the Gormania Presbyterian Church.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Donna S. Jones, Oakland; three sons, Wayne E. Bosley and Gary V. Bosley, both of Oakland, and Craig T. Bosley, Gormania; two sisters, Mrs. Lois B. Seal and Mrs. Shirley B. Coffman both of Baltimore; a brother, Kenneth V. Bosley, Oakland, and 12 grandchildren.

Friends were received at the Stewart Funeral Home, Oakland, where a memorial service was conducted by members of the Thomas-Fairfax Lodge 74, AF&AM.

A service was conducted in the funeral home Tuesday by the Rev. David Waterworth. Interment was in Pope Cemetery, Gorman.

Another West Virginia accident claimed the life of Chad Lee Johnston, 30, of Mount Storm, W.Va.

Quinn Found Not Guilty Of Manslaughter

In a recent circuit court trial, Garrett County Chief Judge Fred A. Thayer found Francis Xavier Quinn, 47, Upper Marlboro, to be not guilty of a charge of manslaughter.

Quinn was charged with the December 8, 1984 shooting of Richard C. Markley, 26, Edgewater.

Quinn reportedly mistook Markley, his hunting companion, for a deer while hunting in a field off the Manadier Ridge Road, near Bittinger. Markley received a gunshot wound in the abdominal area and died later that evening while in surgery at Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

Judge Finds Two Guilty Of Drug Charges

During a recent trial in circuit court, Garrett County Chief Judge Fred A. Thayer found Jack A. Glotfelty, 23, Oakland, to be guilty of charges of unlawful distribution and possession of marijuana.

According to reports, Glotfelty sold a bag of marijuana to a police officer on March 27, 1984. On June 27, 1985, Judge Thayer ordered a pre-sentence investigation for Glotfelty.

The judge sentenced Glotfelty to three years in the Department of Corrections, then suspended two years of the sentence, and placed him on two years supervised probation.

Glotfelty was represented by G. Gary Hanna, a Cumberland attorney.

In another case, the judge found Patricia J. Glotfelty, 23, Oakland, to be guilty of charges of possession of marijuana, common nuisance, and possession of drug paraphernalia.

The charges were filed by Cpl. M.R. Mattingly following a June 7 incident on Memorial Drive, Oakland.

Glotfelty was sentenced to one year in the Department of Corrections. The judge then suspended the sentence, placing her on one year supervised probation and fining her $250 and court costs.

FORGET THEM NOT — September has been proclaimed Forget-Me-Not Month in Garrett County. In front of stores, banks and on street corners for two weeks beginning September 16, county residents will see ladies and gentlemen wearing the dark blue hats of the Disabled American Veterans, Mt. Top Chapter 29 and the auxiliary. They will be carrying blue simulated forget-me-not flowers and their contribution cans. The DAV is an organization of Disabled American Veterans, chartered by Congress, that helps disabled veterans help themselves. The forget-me-not drive will help provide funds to be used locally for veterans, veterans in nursing homes, family or dependents of deceased veterans. Hazel Meyers, DAV auxiliary commander, said, "Veterans did not forget their duty. They paid a great price for our freedom and now may need our help. Please don't forget them." Pictured above, seated, left to right, are Commissioners Ernest Gregg Jr., Elwood Groves II, and John Braskey, signing the Forget-Me-Not proclamation. Shown standing, left to right, are John S. Williams; Margaret Williams, chaplain; Bill Meyers, commander; and Hazel Meyers, auxiliary commander; all of DAV, Mt. Top Chapter 29.

Senate Hearing Attempts To Allay Fears Of Yough Property Owners

Members of the Yough River Association, Richard Browning, chairman of the board, and John E. Hinebaugh, president, testified at a public hearing of the Senate's Economic and Environmental Affairs Committee in Annapolis on Tuesday. The hearing concerned the state regulation of rivers, and was to be a review of the current state policy regarding the regulation of rivers by the Departments of Natural Resources and State Planning. The hearing had been called by committee member Sen. John Bambacus to get into public record any intended policy of the DNR in regard to river management, purchase of private property by the state, and preservation of the river corridor, especially as concerns the Yough River in Garrett County.

"I asked Sec. Brown some very direct and probing questions," Bambacus said. "We need to get some things factually correct and then move on. I wanted to allay some fears expressed by the property owners in the Yough Corridor and the tax payers of Garrett County."

At the request of Sen. Stone, chairman of the committee, Hinebaugh spoke first, explaining that he was envious of the management given the Patuxent River by the Department of State Planning, in that they had prepared a management plan for the river and established a commission to carry out the management plan. On the other hand, the Department of Natural Resources which regulates the other Wild and Scenic Rivers in the state, including the Youghiogheny, still has no management plan for the Yough River after ten years.

He also stated that after two years, the Scenic and Wild Rivers Review Board has not met and/or appointed a local Yough River Advisory Board, which by law is the only means local property owners can participate in the management of the river.

Senator Bambacus took the floor next, and according to Hinebaugh, explained in effect that at the time the hearing had been scheduled the subject was viable, but was now a moot point because the governor is trying to abolish the Department of State Planning.

The senator then gave the committee some background information on Garrett County and its people before turning the floor over to DNR Secretary Dr. Torrey Brown and DNR's Annapolis Representative Frank Oslislo.

The two compared the two rivers including their size. The Patuxent flows through five counties while the Yough is contained only in Garrett County in Maryland. Senator Bambacus then took the opportunity to question the two state officials. "Has the state ever exercised eminent domain or condemned land in the Yough Corridor?" asked Bambacus. Sec. Brown answered, "No." Bambacus asked, "Do you ever plan to use eminent domain or condemnation?" Again Brown answered, "No." Brown went on to explain that the only intention of the DNR is to buy from willing sellers.

Oslislo told Bambacus that the DNR has a draft management plan, and that the Scenic and Wild River Review Board will meet sometime in October. At that meeting they are expected to appoint the local Yough Advisory Board. He said

Chemical Leak On Route 48 Halts Traffic

Both the east and westbound lanes of U.S. Route 48 at Finzel were closed to traffic Sunday night by area police due to a leaking 55-gallon drum of a hazardous chemical. Police also evacuated residents within a quarter-mile radius while awaiting the arrival of state officials.

State Police identified the chemical as di-isocyanate, a chemical used in many cleaning agents and pesticides.

The driver of the truck, David Odom, 32, Kentucky, and Tfc. James A. McDonald, 48 Frostburg, who State Police say stopped the truck, were flown by Medevac helicopter to Memorial Hospital, Cumberland following possible contact with the chemical. A hospital spokesman reported that both men were treated and released from the hospital.

State Police were contacted of a possible leak of a tractor trailer on U.S. Route 48 at approximately 4:44 p.m. McDonald stopped the truck east of Finzel at 4:57 p.m. and determined that there was indeed a leak.

State Police reported that the truck was carrying 74 55-gallon barrels owned by the Olin Corporation, Stamford, Conn. The shipment was being transported to the Callahan Chemical Company, Palermo, N.J.

Police said that Route 48 was closed from Route 36 to Lower New Germany Road, and traffic was rerouted onto U.S. Route 40. Truck traffic had been stopped since about 5:00 p.m., due to the law preventing eastbound trucks from using U.S. Route 40 through Frostburg. At 10 p.m., police began to move the truck traffic through Frostburg. It was estimated that between 150-200 trucks were backed up as a result.

Among units dispatched to the scene by Garrett County Central Alarm were Eastern Garrett and Grantsville firemen, Northern Rescue Squad, State Police, the Garrett County Sheriff's Department, and the State Health Department.

Civil Defense in Allegany County dispatched Frostburg firemen and the air-electric truck from Clarysville.

The Hazardous Materials Van and personnel of the State Fire Marshal's Office, State Waste Management Team, State Highway Administration and Department of Natural Resources were also notified.

Deputy Russel Drenning of the Sheriff's Department assisted the State Police.

Commissioners Endorse IRBs For Publishers

The Board of Garrett County Commissioners passed a resolution Tuesday endorsing the Sincell Publishing Company for Industrial Revenue Bonds for building expansion and the purchase of new equipment.

Robert Sincell, publisher, and Donald Sincell, editor of The Republican newspaper, which is printed by the Sincell Publishing Company, along with their attorney, Ralph Burnett, met with the commissioners Tuesday morning at a public hearing for the IRB's. Also attending the hearing was W. Dwight Stover, county attorney.

Donald Sincell explained to the commissioners the need for a newer, more cost-efficient printing press and the expansion of the building to accommodate a larger press.

The press now being used by that company is a 1928 letter press. Sincell said they hope to be able to purchase an offset press which would allow for additional pages for each section of the newspaper.

Sincell noted that such a press would save time, money and electricity, as well as improve the quality of printing. He also felt confident that other newspapers would utilize the new press making it more cost-effective and allowing for the possibility of hiring several additional employees in the future. The company presently employs 23 fulltime persons and has, traditionally, hired one or two summer employees.

The purpose of an Industrial Revenue Bond is to give the borrower lower interest rates. When county governments give their approval of such bonds, the county has no obligation on the part of the borrower. Local lending institutions normally serve as the purchaser of these bonds, however, the borrower is ultimately responsible for repayment of the bonds. In order to receive the bonds, though, county governments must recommend businesses they believe will benefit the community.

Effective January 1, the Federal Government enacted new guidelines for IRB's because, in the past, they lost income due to unlimited granting of the bonds without regard to what a facility might do for a community.

Under the new guidelines, a certain amount of money was alloted to each state this year. All of those monies have already been distributed, but the commissioners said additional discretionary funds are available for worthwhile projects that will benefit communities, yet still alleviate indiscriminate spending, which occurred in some counties in the past.

Sheriff Evans Releases August Activity Report

Garrett County Sheriff M. Van Evans this week released the activity report for the month of August, 1985.

Records indicated that 302 complaints were answered by the department throughout the county. Numerous patrol checks were made checking homes and businesses for security.

A total of 115 papers were served relating to civil, law, criminal, equity, juvenile and miscellaneous matters.

Deputies arrested 20 individuals on various charges including: breaking and entering, theft, assault, destruction of property, failure to appear in court and others.

Jail inmate population was 35 at the beginning of the month. To that total, 31 were added and 35 were released, leaving inmate population at 31 at the end of the month.

Monthly activity added 20,000 miles to departmental vehicles while answering complaints, serving papers, transporting prisoners, making patrol checks, etc.

Oakland Plans Public Hearings

Two public hearings were planned by the Oakland Mayor and Town Council during their September 9 meeting.

The first public hearing will be held on September 26 at 7 p.m. in the town hall. At that time, the council will review a proposal to establish a new historic zoning district within the town limits. The area suggested for this historic district is North Second Street from Center Street to Omar Street as well as the property occupied by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Station. These two areas have already been recognized by the National Register of Historic Places as historic districts. Council will also review a proposal to amend the text of the zoning ordinance.

The second public hearing will be held on October 17 at 7 p.m. in the town hall. Council will review a proposal to adopt a new cemetery ordinance on that date. All interested citizens are urged to attend both hearings.

Sections of Center and Second Streets will be paved by Keystone Lime Company of Springs, Pa., beginning this month.

Council agreed that water department employees should advise customers to contact a plumber to correct all problems not in the town sewer lines.

Commission Looks At County Sewer, Water Projects

The Upper Yough sewage improvement project, the Kitzmiller water system, and the Gorman sewer system were some of the topics discussed by the Garrett County Sanitary Commission at their September 3 meeting.

Upper Yough Sewer Improvement Project

The Upper Yough sewer improvement project includes the Trout Run Treatment Plant, the intercepter line to Bausch & Lomb, the Bausch & Lomb plant, and a collector system for Shady Acres.

The sanitary commission selected the firm of Greenhorne and O'Mara, to provide design services and construction, for that improvement project. Rehabilitation of the sewer lines in the area can begin as soon as the commission gets the contract document. The contractor will then receive notice to proceed.

According to Wendell Beitzel, sanitary district administrator, one condition of the EPA grant was that the rehabilitation work had to be completed before work could begin on the improvement project.

Bids were opened for the Industrial Park water line extension. All bids were rejected because of design-related problems. The problems involved a conflict with an AT&T transmission line and specifications on mechanical-joint pipe. The commission decided to reject all bids and resubmit the project with the design changes.

The Office of Environmental Programs is exerting pressure on the district to adopt a pre-treatment ordinance for all industrial users. Beitzel says that the office is being extremely forcefull, saying that the district should develop an agreement with Bausch & Lomb to develop pre-treatment for waste. The sanitary commission will meet with the state office and Bausch & Lomb to try to work out details of an agreement to satisfy the requirements of the state and EPA.

Deep Creek Sewer System

Beitzel reported that Jeff Gilbert, resident engineer, is the only engineer left on the Deep Creek project.

The odor problem is pretty much under control, stated Beitzel. The controls being used will be continued until a permanent solution is found.

A request was made for an extension line to serve the property of Humberson Homes, across from Lakeview Exxon. The commission agreed to provide the service if Humberson Homes agreed to pay all costs and provide engineer's plans for the extension.

The district is having difficulties again with the Will O' the Wisp pumps. This is an operational problem, and it appears that the district will have to install a bigger sewer line to serve that facility.

The Deep Creek system worked real well over the big Labor Day weekend, with no problems, reported Beitzel.

The district is waiting for the delivery of lab equipment, and will then be seeking a lab technician. When the lab is put into operation, the system will be complete.

The replacement of the Route 219 bridge sewer line will begin in October by Walker Diving Contractors.

Kitzmiller Water

The telemetry is finally in operation and the entire system if fully operational and working. People are making connections, and the contractor is moving to close out all punch-list items and complete the contract.

Mtn. Lake Water

The sanitary district has applied to Farmers Home Administration for funding to make improvements to the Mtn. Lake Water Company. These improvements would consist of a new water storage tank. The tank now being used has a 90,000 gallon capacity which is inadequate for water storage and fire protection.

The system is nearing its capacity as far as water supply is concerned with the existing springs in the system. The town wants to improve and add springs to increase the supply of water to the system.

FmHA approved the pre-application, and submitted it to the state clearing house, which is expected to respond favorably to the project. The district has prepared a formal application and will meet with FmHA.

Gorman Sewer

The district has received word from the Office of Environmental Programs that they can proceed to advertise the project for bids.

The district has been dealing with the Chessie System railroad, and is willing to lease the land where the facility will be located but, the district feels the amount asked for the lease was too much and would cause substantial increases in maintanence and the cost of the system. Plans are made to discuss with an attorny the possibility of condemnation of the site.

Kitzmiller and Bloomington Sewers

The sanitary commission is still waiting for state permission to advertise these projects for bids.

Garrett County Receives WRA Stormwater Grant

James W. Peck, director, Water Resources Administration, Department of Natural Resources, announced the awarding of a $25,802 grant to Garrett County to assist in implementing the county's stormwater management program. This grant was funded under a program established by the Maryland General Assembly as part of the Chesapeake Bay Initiative Legislation.

The environmental goals of both the state and local stormwater management programs are to reduce stream channel erosion, reduce pollution carried by runoff, reduce local flooding and reduce the adverse impacts resulting from development.

The grant is to provide funding for local government personnel for stormwater management plan review and inspection and enforcement. In order for a county or municipality to be eligible for the grant-in-funds, the local jurisdictions must have a WRA approved stormwater management program and ordinance. The ordinances, passed by the local governing body (county council or city council), give the local jurisdictions the authority to implement and enforce a local stormwater management program.

Garrett County is one of seventeen counties and six municipalities to receive stormwater management grant-in-aid funds for fiscal year 1986.

Bloodmobile To Visit Grantsville September 23

"It takes all types to maintain our community blood supply; all blood types, and all types of people," so says Lela H. Bender, Grantsville Blood Donor Program chairman.

Mrs. Bender and the Garrett County Chapter of the American Red Cross encourages local residents to be the type to donate blood on Monday, September 23, when the American Red Cross Bloodmobile visits the Grantsville Fire Hall from noon until 6 p.m. "Your donation of an hour's time and a pint of blood can help four people," Mrs. Bender said. "The sick and injured of our community—accident victims, persons with leukemia or hemophila—need blood daily."

She noted that all blood collected in the four-state, 28-county Johnstown Red Cross Blood Region, of which the Garrett County Chapter is a participating member, is taken to the Johnstown blood center, where it is typed to determine its ABO and Rh factors, tested to detect the presence of hepatitis B, syphilis and HTLV III antibody, and separated into various blood components, then readied for distribution to the region's 54 hospitals.

Last year, the Johnstown Region collected 95,394 units of blood and prepared 232,492 units of components. Blood components include red cells, which transport oxygen and are transfused during surgery; platelets, which form blood clots and are often needed by leukemics and other cancer patients undergoing chemotherapy; and fresh frozen plasma, which is used for clotting problems.

"Blood must be available when it is needed," added Mrs. Bender. "It is too late to recruit blood donors once a patient needs blood after an accident happens or illness is diagnosed."

She added that, although all blood types are needed daily, at the present time there is an especially great need for individuals with O and B negative blood types to give.

To make a blood donor appointment, persons may call 301-895-5467.

Cerebral Palsy Does Not Prevent Completion Of Transcontinental Run By Jerry Traylors

by Don Sincell

"I'm not courageous. I'm only having fun."

That's how Jerry Traylors responds when people attempt to place him on a pedestal for his unbelievable conquest over cerebral palsy.

Traylors, a resident of Parkersburg, W.Va., for the past six years, passed through Garrett County last week on his way from San Francisco, Calif., to New York. Running across country is a major feat for a person with a healthy, normal body. Doing it on crutches is nothing short of remarkable.

"I'm not remarkable. Life is remarkable!" was the response of the incredibly optimistic 31-year-old Nebraska native, who has run 22 full marathons (26.1 miles), over 200 shorter races, and has climbed 14,110 feet up Pike's Peak three times.

"I'M NOT REMARKABLE. LIFE IS REMARKABLE!" is a quote by Jerry Traylors, Parkersburg, W.Va., who passed through Garrett County this week on his way from San Francisco to New York City, covering the entire distance on crutches. He left San Francisco on Febraury 23 and expects to complete the run on October 6. Born with cerebral palsy has done little to slow Traylors down in his pursuit of athletics and life in general. A motivational speaker by profession, he has also completed 22 full marathons and has climbed Pike's Peak three times.

Born with cerebral palsy and almost no use of his legs, Traylors underwent 14 corrective operations as a child and spent his youth in either body casts, body braces, or leg braces. Since his parents lived in a small community over 200 miles from Children's Orthopedic Hospital in Lincoln, Neb., young Jerry was separated from them during much of his treatment. He says he always felt their love and support, however, as he fought to turn a handicap into the strength and faith in himself he has today.

The purpose of Traylors' cross-country run is to bring attention to the plight of those individuals with similar limited mobility and how their opportunities can be heightened with the positive guidance, treatment, and blessings he has received. Since leaving San Francisco on February 23, Traylors has given over 200 motivational talks at hospitals, nursing homes, schools, and other institutions. By profession, he is a motivational speaker, however all of his talks the past six months have been free of charge. With these talks, he attempts to encourage fundraising activities to increase recreational and cultural activities for the elderly and the handicapped.

Primary sponsors of the run are Rotary Clubs International, whose local chapters have hosted Traylors as he makes his way across country.

Traylors has been averaging about 18 miles per day and hopes to complete his transcontinental run on October 6 in New York City. When he reached Garrett County last Friday, he had completed just over 3,000 miles. He then motored back to Morgantown where he spoke to a special education graduate class at West Virginia University, a class at Monongalia General Hospital, a class at the WVU Medical Center, the Police Department, and the WVU Mountaineer football team just prior to their season opener against Louisville. Traylors was made honorary team captain for the Louisville game and his inspirational talk to the WVU players must have paid off, since the Mountaineers won the game, 52-13.

Traylors spent Sunday night at the residence of Dr. William Pope in Mtn. Lake Park. Traylors and Pope, who is also an avid runner, have known each other for a number of years.

"Persons with handicaps can overcome their limitations and reach goals they never thought were attainable," Traylors said. "This is the main point of my run across the country."

He stated he was quite tired from his journey, noting that it takes about five miles of running each day before the discomfort goes away. He was quick to add, though, that he just might make a run across Europe next. It will be no surprise if he does just that.

1985 Gypsy Moth Damage Light In Garrett Co.

Garrett County sustained only light gypsy moth defoliation compared to Allegany County and counties to the north in Pennsylvania, according to Robert Dekker, forest entomologist with the Department of Agriculture.

Dekker explained that some scattered light defoliation was present in Garrett County, mainly in the Finzel and Big Savage Mountain areas. "The defoliation is tied to where the oak is," said Dekker. The pure oak stands on the high ridges of northeastern Garrett County showed damage in the light category, which means that up to 30-percent of a tree's crown has been damaged.

This amount of light damage is not visible from the air, stated Dekker. He went on to say that aerial surveys are done annually by the Maryland Department of Agriculture. For two years the surveys were done using a U-2 aircraft furnished by NASA, however, because of the expense involved, a small plane was used this year.

Dekker stated that the gypsy moth has still not made a strong hold in the county, although an increase in egg masses has been noted in northeastern Garrett County. Because the gypsy moth favors pure oak, the mixed hardwood forests in the county provide a natural resistance.

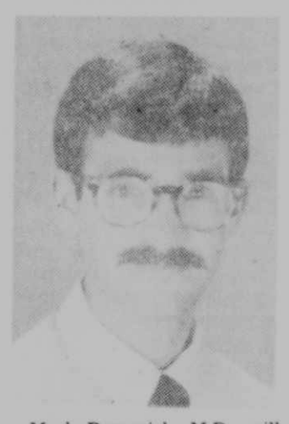
"We still don't know exactly what caused egg masses from sucessfully hatching this spring in Garrett County," said Dekker. "We're not sure that the higher elevation prevented egg hatch, but we did notice a lot of egg mortality in areas 1,500 feet above sea level and higher."

Dekker thinks that it looks like there may be some visible damage next year, especially in the Big Savage Mountain area, where approximately 1,000 egg masses per acre have been counted. A count of 250 egg masses per acre or more qualifies an area for spraying. "Possibly portions of state forest and residential areas will be considered for spraying next year," said Dekker.

A cooperative suppression spraying program is funded 50 percent by the federal government, 25 percent by the state government, and 25 percent by the county government. "It is also more difficult to spray the residential areas affected in Garrett County," said Dekker, "because the homes are so isolated."

Allegany County sustained gypsy moth defoliation to 53,518 acres of forest during 1985, with the county's mountain areas receiving the most extensive damage.

Statewide defoliation in Pennsylvania totaled 581,113 acres with 90 percent of this defoliation occurring in the state's south central counties. Bedford County had 102,000 acres defoliated, with Somerset County's higher elevation having only 3,100 acres damaged.



Dekker said although most of the defoliated trees have since refoliated (produced a new flush of leaves), this does not imply everything is back to normal.

Refoliation causes a depletion in a tree's food reserves which will certainly affect the tree's condition in years to come. Tree mortality data is not yet available because of the recency of this year's defoliation.

Currently, the gypsy moth is in the egg stage and will be until next spring. Homeowners who find and destroy egg masses will reduce caterpillar numbers the following spring. Egg masses can be found on tree trunks and branches but can also be found hidden under debris left in the yard.

Egg masses should be scraped off and can either be buried, burned or placed in kerosene. Removal of debris in the yard helps eliminate hiding places for egglaying female moths.

Deputies Arrest Deer Park Man For Assault

A Deer Park man was arrested Saturday night and charged with assault, according to reports filed by the Garrett County Sheriff's Department.

Randall E. King was arrested after he reportedly assaulted his wife, Wanda C. King, at their residence late Saturday. Deputy Russell Drenning and Deputy P.J. Pratt responded to the call and incarcerated King.

The accused has since been released on $5,000 bond.

In other Sheriff's Department reports, Patricia S. White, Mtn. Lake Park, reported Saturday that someone had either thrown or shot a marble through a storm window and an interior window at her residence.

Deputy Larry Gnegy investigated and said there were no suspects and that the value of damage has not yet been set.

OVFD German Band Seeks New Members

Band practice for the members of the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department German Band is underway, according to the group's director, Manning Smith. However, more musicians are needed for the band's one and only performance of the year, Oktoberfest, held during the Autumn Glory Festival.

All local musicians are invited to attend the next rehearsal of the band, which will be held Wednesday, September 18, at 7:30 p.m. at the Oakland fire hall.

The group plays a wide variety of music, but the majority is polkas, and popular American and German marches. Brass and wind instruments are especially needed, Smith said.

Keep 'Em Rolling . . .

The Garrett Choral Society has built quite a name for itself over the past five years, not only from the numerous outstanding concerts it has presented, but also from its several major stage productions. "Amahl and the Night Visitors" was the first such musical, followed by "Oliver," "Fiddler on the Roof," and last year, "South Pacific."

With each musical, the audiences grew in number as more and more persons became aware of the theatrical and musical excellence produced by the directors, cast, stage and technical crews. Hundreds of persons are waiting with bated breath for the next production.

Plans are now underway for that next musical, which will be "Hello, Dolly;" however a major problem has arisen that could halt not only this production, but perhaps all future endeavors.

The response to the try-outs for "Hello, Dolly" held last week at Southern High School was poor, according to the directors. There were only a few new faces there, and not many more of the "old stand-bys" who have been involved with most or all of the previous productions. Part of the problem may be that the general public believes involvement with the musicals is restricted to members of the Garrett Choral Society. This is not the case. Others may believe they must be able to sing well in order to participate. This, too, is not so. There are many roles, both on stage and off, that do not require an excellent singing voice. Acting experience is also not necessary.

We fear that too many persons just take for granted that there will be more musicals and that there is no problem getting the personnel to produce them. People want to be entertained, but they are not willing to work to bring about the entertainment. Their support as spectators is certainly appreciated by the Society, however if everyone stopped at this level of support, there would be no musicals.

There is no question that being a participant in the musicals requires a commitment of time and hard work, because the directors, Nancy Learey and Jane Avery, refuse to present a musical that is not of top-notch quality. The members of previous casts share similar feelings. The reputation of the Society and its musicals is known over a several hundred mile radius of Garrett County and has come too far to allow a shabby performance to destroy it.

Although rehearsal time is lengthy, especially for the lead roles, every effort is made to organize a schedule that is as comfortable as possible for all of the participants. The great majority of persons who have participated in one or more of the musicals say that the satisfaction of a good performance, coupled with the fun of presenting it, far outweighs the expense of time and hard work. The entire crew becomes one big family, even though there are persons involved who have never even met each other before rehearsals begin.

One final attempt will be made to secure the necessary personnel to produce "Hello, Dolly." Final try-outs are set for September 16 and 17 at 7:30 p.m. in the Southern High School cafetorium. Men are especially needed. We hope all those persons who have enjoyed previous Garrett Choral Society productions, hope to see them continue, and have any desire whatsoever to get involved in presenting one, will go to the try-outs. The try-outs are easy and one need not feel obligated to study or prepare for them.

Let's keep these super musical productions rolling.

To the Editor:

The following article is in regard to the state takeover of the Cherry Creek Glades in Garrett County. The peat company (Garrett County Processing and Packaging Corporation) has been stopped from harvesting peat and the State Department of Natural Resources is now appraising their property.

I have tried to put a little humor into a very serious situation in the hope it will attract readers. In some small way, the article may help to instill a need for balance or moderation in the over aggressiveness of the preservationist.

According to the Peat Company, Sierra Club members say they found a porcupine quill in the Glades. If you can believe that, you might believe the following article.

Sincerely,
John E. Hinebaugh

PORCUPINE DISCOVERY IN GARRETT COUNTY

An amazing discovery has been made in the Cherry Creek Glades area located almost in the geographical center of Garrett County. Scientists brought into this area by the Sierra Club, along with officials of the State Department of Natural Resources, (DNR), have found what has been postively identified as a "Porcupine Quill". Laboratory examination has revealed that the porcupine quill is not more than two years old, which is sufficient scientific evidence that porcupines inhabit the Cherry Creek Glades.

Although none has been seen, it is theorized that the species of porcupines in the Cherry Creek Glades is the same species (erethizon dorsatum) as found in the upper eastern part of Canada; and are a hold-over from the time the ice age receded and left the many primeval swamps or bogs in the mountainous area of Garrett County.

In consideration that this is one of the greatest scientific discoveries of the century, immediate action has been taken by the Sierra Club and DNR to evacuate the Cherry Creek Glades to protect and assure the porcupines will not be disturbed. This action is also considered necessary to protect the general public. Porcupines are ornery critters and equipped with an armature of long sharp spines, or quills, growing along the back and sides of their bodies. The quills of the South American porcupines grow to a length of one-foot; however, the barbed quills of the Canadian species seldom exceed a length of eight inches. The quills can be erected by action of muscles of the skin and, if disturbed, the animal can propel its quills, like arrows or darts, for a distance of up to 100 feet. If injected into the human body, they are extremely painful and deathly toxic and immediate hospitalization is required.

Because of the commercialization in the Glades, the Sierra Club, in conjunction with DNR, has had to go to extreme measures to assure protection of the porcupines. Part of the Cherry Creek Glades area is owned by the Garrett County Processing and Packaging Corporation, a family operated business which for many years has harvested peat from the Glades. It is only natural that this company would be reluctant to vacate the Glades, dismiss their employees and liquidate their assets in order that the porcupines will not be disturbed.

Unfortunately, but necessarily, the Sierra Club, assisted by DNR, has had to resort to extreme measures to get this company out of the Glades. With innovative wisdom, the Sierra Club first filed suits in the U.S. District Court on the basis that peat harvesting is mining and they do not have mining permits. Then they brought in the Feds. They got the Environmental Protection Agency to issue an order to halt the peat harvesting on the basis they are filling a wetlands area. You see, when the company rakes the area to be harvested, the peat is lifted up and then it falls back, and there we got'em - that's filling a wetlands area. Now that we got them backed into a corner, the DNR can proceed with appraisals and make them an offer they can't refuse.

It is realized that workers will lose their jobs and that is bad, but there are not that many, so it will hardly be noticed in the high unemployment rate in Garrett County. Besides, there is unemployment insurance and welfare after that runs out. In the long run, this may be an economic boon to Garrett County, You see, porcupines are ant-eaters. If they are allowed to multiply and their numbers become plentiful, they can be exported to southern states to halt the invasion of fire ants from South America. But then again, this may not be such a good idea. Maybe we should protect the fire ants.

To the Editor:

In this way again this year, I'd like to thank some special folks who helped make our Garrett County Fair a success. There are many who helped and each one cannot be named, however, their assistance is very much appreciated.

Our special thanks goes to our local radio station with Paul McCloud and Dan Daniels as well as their sponsors who made it possible for them to be with us during the fair. Bernice Kepple at The Republican was a great help with news releases to promote the fair. Thanks, Bernice! Dean Hilligas, it was nice of you and please come again.

We had three special groups who shared their time and talent with us free of charge. We enjoyed each group and a big thanks goes to the Crellin Orchestra and Choir, the New Beginning, and the School Talent Winners. You were all fantastic!

There's a lady who for years has worked without pay, not even a free lunch. She cleans the office the week before the fair and works from 8 until 11 each day of the fair. Then she cleans the office again. Our hats go off to you, Jane Wagner.

Mellinger Enterprises gave some directors a speedy way to get from gate to gate or job to job. Thanks for the four-wheeler.

I know I have not mentioned all those who gave so much, but space won't permit it. There is one more I feel needs mentioned and is appreciated. Dale Glotfelty put new spouting on the buildings, hiring two men and working a day. To Fairboard, Dale said, "No labor charge." Thanks so much, Dale.

These are some of the folks that really make the fair and keep it growing. Thanks to all of you.

that they are now running an investigation of the people nominated for the local board.

In regard to any lack of communication between the state and county officials, Brown said the state had tried to establish monthly letters of communication but that the county was unreceptive. In a phone conversation with Garrett County Commissioner Elwood Groves, he stated that he has no idea what was meant by Brown's comment, that at no time during his term of office does he remember any attempt or reasons for that type of correspondence.

Brown also commented that the state has tried to sell land it owns in Garrett County but have been prevented from doing so by the people of Garrett County.

It was explained at the hearing that if the PENELEC property was purchased by the Natural Lands Trust, which is a non-profit organization, the land would be taken out of the tax base of the county, however, an arrangement can be made for them to pay a tax equivalency to the county.

Also asked about this statement, Commissioner Groves said that without a tax equivalency the impact would be the same as if the state would have bought the land, however, any agreement like that would be very voluntary and tentative.

Bambacus asked Brown if it didn't look questionable that two former DNR employees, David Miller and Keith Roberts, took positions with the Natural Lands Trust. Brown said that he had no control over former employees and that it was only coincidence.

Senator Bambacus promised to send The Republican a copy of the hearing transcript as soon as it was available and said that Sec. Brown would be happy to discuss the hearing. Unfortunately, when the secretary's office was contacted, the reporter was told that the secretary was out of town until Friday.

Health Dept. To Administer Flu Vaccines

The Garrett County Health Department released a schedule this week concerning the administration of influenza vaccines. Three types of vaccines will be available at various clinics to be held around the county beginning October 1.

According to a spokesman for the health department, influenza virus infections occur every year in the United States, but vary greatly in incidence and geographic distribution. Infections may be asymptomatic or they may produce a spectrum of manifestations, ranging from mild upper-respiratory infection to pneumonia and death. Influenza A and B are unique in their ability to cause periodic widespread outbreaks of fibrile respiratory disease in both adults and children, the spokesman said.

The influenza vaccines for 1985-86 will be: A/Philippines/2/82, A/Chile/1/83, and B/USSR/100/83.

The health department strongly recommends the vaccines for: older persons, particularly those over 65; all persons, children and adults, who are at increased risk of adverse consequences from infections of the lower respiratory tract because of a pre-existing medical condition, such as heart diseases, lung diseases, diabetes, chronic kidney diseases, severe anemia, and conditions which suppress the body's immune system; emergency personnel, such as firefighters, police officers, hospital workers, and rescue workers; and cigarette smokers.

Persons who should contact their physician before taking the vaccine are: persons allergic to eggs; persons who have been paralyzed with Guillian Barre Syndrome; pregnant women; and persons who have a fever.

The vaccine will be offered for $3 at the following locations and times: Oct. 1, Deep Creek Lodge, McHenry, 1-4 p.m.; Oct. 2, St. John's Church of Christ, Grantsville, 1-4 p.m.; Oct. 2, Grantsville Health Department, 6-9 p.m.; Oct. 3, Randy's Place, Accident, 1-4 p.m.; Oct. 8, Jennings Community Building, 1-4 p.m.; Oct. 9, Old Mill Grill, Friendsville, 1-4 and 6-9 p.m.; Oct. 10, Finzel Fire Hall, 1-4 p.m.; Oct. 15, Swanton Community Building, 1-4 and 6-9 p.m.; Oct. 16, Gorman Fire Hall, 1-4 p.m.; Oct. 17, Bull's Restaurant, near Bloomington, 1-4 p.m.; Oct. 22, Crellin Community Building, 1-4 p.m.; Oct. 23, Kitzmiller Community Building, 1-4 p.m.; Oct. 24, Center Street School, Oakland, 1-4 p.m., and Health Department, Oakland, 6-9 p.m.; Oct. 29, Deer Park Community Building, 1-4 p.m.; and Nov. 1, Health Department, Oakland, 2-6 p.m.

CAP Leads For Missing Airplane Nearly Exhausted

The Civil Air Patrol search for a missing single-engine airplane piloted by Nelson Harvey, 33, Baltimore, is nearing an end, according to Sgt. Vincent Price of the Rescue Center of Scott Air Force Base, Illinois.

Harvey left Baltimore on August 30 in poor weather conditions en route to Xenia Airport, Ohio to meet his father, Dane Harvey. However, the pilot did not file a flight plan.

A search was conducted by the Civil Air Patrol based on the Harvey's probable route of flight.

Approximately 140 persons, including firemen from Grantsville, Accident, Addison, Pa., Salisbury, Pa., Bittinger, Friendsville, and Deep Creek, and members of the Northern Rescue Squad joined in a search of the Grantsville area Sunday after 30-second emergency locater signals were picked up by the Pennsylvania Civil Air Patrol at various times Saturday. Personnel also searched the area from the air in the Medevac helicopter. Price said that by Sunday night the signals had stopped.

The search continued throughout the week, extending in a four-corner pattern from Baltimore to Harrisburg to Morgantown to Indianhead.

Price said that a review will be conducted to determine whether all leads in the search have been exhausted. However, he said that the actual search is over, and the CAP is likely to close the mission to locate the missing plane.

Navigational Changes Noted At Site Of Route 219 Bridge Construction

During the next few weeks construction efforts will begin on the replacement of the Route 219 bridge across Deep Creek Lake according to Michael R. Gregory, lake manager.

This construction activity will necessitate a re-routing of boat traffic through the vicinity for the next year. As a result, boaters in this area will soon notice the placement of regulatory buoys which will direct boat traffic through the construction area.

A no-wake speed limit will be posted for the protection of boaters and workers alike, Gregory said. As such, boaters passing through this area will be required to reduce their vessel's speed and travel through this area in such a manner that their vessel produces no wake. Boat traffic will be limited to one lane of travel in each direction through this area.

The buoy system designating these travel lanes will follow the cardinal system of navigation. This system entails the use of black-topped, red-topped, and red-striped buoys. A vessel is required to pass only to the north or east of a black-topped buoy. Similarly, a vessel is required to pass only to the south or west of a red-topped buoy. Finally, a vessel may not pass between a red-striped buoy and the nearest shore. A boater traveling from the south end of the lake toward McHenry or the dam area will travel through a channel marked by a black-topped buoy on his port (left) side and a red-striped buoy on his starboard (right) side. In contrast, a boater traveling from the north end of the lake toward the State Park or Turkey Neck will travel through a channel marked by a red-topped buoy on his port side and a red-striped buoy on his starboard side.

Gregory said boat operators should also be aware that they may periodcially by prohibited from traveling beneath the old and new bridges during certain phases of construction. Normally, such delays will only be for a brief period of time; however, in the event problems arise, the delay could be prolonged.

Finally, he said, boaters should realize that there are certain inherent dangers in and around any water construction site. "Prudent boat operators should make all reasonable attempts to avoid this area during the construction phase," he stated.

Persons wishing any additional information concerning these navigational changes may contact Gregory at the Lake Management Office at 387-4111 or 387-4112.

Our Turn

They're Coming Outta The Woodwork!
by Susan Alvarez

Yes, fall is coming. It's time for the annual emergence of that human species that defies definition - the football fan. There are several varieties of football fans, usually found in one of these categories:

The Car Decorator - This fan arrives at the game with streamers, "Go Team" signs, and has a bullhorn playing the fight song. It's funny though, one seldom sees a car decorator on the road whose team has just lost.

The Howard Cosell Imitator - This fan has an up-to-the-minute analysis of the game including such commentary as "Why the heck don't they throw the ball" or "Kick it!". This fan is always seated within hearing range of at least a thousand other fans, who, by the end of the game are ready to form a lynch mob.

The Self Decorator - This fan, closely related to the car decorator, attends the game wearing team hats, socks, shirts and/or jackets. He usually manages to poke someone sitting near him with the stick bearing his banner. And at the very least manages to shake a pom-pom in someone's face.

The Statistician - This fan not only knows every player's name, he knows the players' parents' names. He is a walking encyclopedia of the knowledge on the team's TD's, pass receptions, fumbles, total yardage, etc., and makes sure everyone around him knows it.

The Eater - This fan just has fun going back and forth to the concession stand for popcorn, hot dogs, or anything else available. He watches the game so he can get up and run to the concession stand at an exciting moment so no one will be in line in front of him.

No matter what type of fan one may see at a football game, one thing is certain; they are their own brand of athlete. It takes stamina to yell, cheer, jump up and down, clap, push your way through crowds, climb to your seat, groan and moan, and holler down to the coaches what they oughtta be doing for an entire afternoon.

West Virginia State Police stated that Johnston was operating a 1979 Ford Pinto when the vehicle crossed the center line into the path of a Mack truck driven by Michael Livengood, 32, Kingwood.

Johnston, formerly of Brenton, W.Va., apparently sustained a broken neck and massive internal injuries, and was pronounced dead at the scene of the accident by Grant County Medical Examiner Dr. John Glover.

Livengood was treated and released from Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

BANNED BOOKS WEEK—CELEBRATING THE FREEDOM TO READ

by Mary I. Love

Long ago, Mountain Lake Park had its own library. It was founded by the Woman's Civic Club at the Park, and most of the books were contributed by Civic Club members at an annual Library Tea, held at the Club House (now the city hall). The library was located there in the summer, and in the winter moved to one of the few houses in the Park occupied in cold weather.

There were probably two or three thousand books in the library, some classics and many best sellers of the day, for Civic Club members tended to be avid readers who regularly gave the library the books they had bought the preceding winter. There were the fiction best-sellers of the time, and also current biographies, travel, and history books. These recollections are likely fairly accurate, for my first job was as the summer librarian, five hours a week at $5 a month.

It was not an arduous job, and it provided lots of time to read, although the library was fairly well patronized. Many of the readers liked to talk about their reading, although occasionally a child would come in and ask for "a book for Mama, and she doesn't care what it is." The works of Grace Livingston Hill or Faith Baldwin were usually appropriate in those circumstances.

Once a young man dashed in, urgently seeking Shakespeare's tragedies and also "Tarzan of the Apes", a combination that brightened my day.

One faithful patron was a self-appointed censor. Anything she felt was indecent or profane she crossed out with a faint pencil mark, and listed on the fly-leaf the page numbers of the offending material. My contemporaries and I always waited eagerly to study the books she returned. Her sensibilities were easily aroused, and her methods increased our vocabularies rapidly.

That censorship was ridiculous, and a far cry from the vicious smothering of books and ideas that is advocated by some groups, and that Judy Devlin is protesting with her eloquent display on banned books at the Book Mark'et in Oakland during Banned Books Week this week.

Some of Shakespeare's plots are grim and his language forthright, but life's facts and plots are also sometimes grim and can't be softened by polite words or by deliberate indifference. This is true also with books by Mark Twain, James Baldwin, Judy Blume, Solzenhitzin, and others. Even Mother Goose has been banished at times. Things we don't like won't go away if we ignore them; they just become more terrifying, or more tantalizing.

Another Mtn. Lake Park censor comes to mind; a highly educated woman, a graduate of one of the first colleges for women, and proud of her learning and progressiveness. She had no time for church or religion.

One summer, though, she was babysitting her eight-year-old granddaughter, and was appalled by the child's ignorance of the Bible. She undertook to read parts of it to the youngster, and was dismayed by the candor of the King James version. Indeed, she felt so much of it inappropriate for young children that she dropped the project.

Once censoring starts, where does it stop? Who decides?

Those two women in Mtn. Lake Park, so different in their motivations, were both censors. One, in that religious resort, decided the Bible was unfit for children. The other's censorship made it easy for children to learn the dirty words. Together they show some of the dangers of censorship or book-banning. Who is wise enough to judge, when one person's inspiration is another's heresy?.

Sharps To Teach Investment And Planning Courses

Garrett Community College will offer two courses in investing and one in financial planning this fall semester, all of which will be taught by Robert P. Sharps, certified financial planner.

The Business Department will offer a three-hour credit class, Personal Investing, which will cover investment concepts and strategies, such as risk vs. reward, the characteristics of various investments and their markets, establishing and managing an investment portfolio, retirement planning including IRA's, and other selected topics. The class will be held on Thursday evenings from 6:30 to 9:30 at the Oakland Center.

The Continuing Education Department will offer two short courses, Personal Financial Planning and Personal Investing. These will be held on consecutive Tuesday nights from September 24 to October 8 and from October 15 to October 29 at the Oakland Center. The Investing Class will be an abbreviated version of the credit course while the class on Financial Planning will introduce the various concepts and strategies in the areas of personal financial management, tax planning, investing, risk management and estate planning.

"All three classes are very timely topics as evidenced by the increasing number of media ads dealing with both subjects," Sharps said. "If the 1970's were the decade for tangibile investments like real estate, the 1980's seem to be the decade for financial investments like stocks and bonds. The two continuing education courses are excellent introductions to these subjects. The credit course will provide the basics for those individuals who are starting or planning to start investing. Last fall, half of the students in the credit course enrolled on an audit basis for their own personal and professional development."

Registration At GCC Continues

Registration for the fall semester credit classes at Garrett Community College continues through next week, according to William P. Ewing, director of admissions. Over 130 courses will be offered at both the McHenry Campus and the Oakland Center.

GCC Offering Craft Courses

Lake Park on Tuesday afternoons from 1 to 4 p.m. Students in this course will learn to make wood projects for decorative or utility purposes with hand tools. Possible projects are bird houses, book holders, cutting boards, towel racks, spice racks, picture frames, book ends and decorative animals.

Contemporary crafts with a more varied focus will be offered at Town View Village in Accident on Tuesday evenings from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. Students in this course will learn layout, assemblage, and finishing of projects made from a wide variety of materials including wood, fiber, paper, paint, needlework, and others, as they produce decorative and gift items.

Both of these courses will be team taught by Ron Skidmore and Nancy Geisler who taught similar courses last year. Students may register for these classes at the Registrar's Office of Garrett Community College any day this week or at the first meeting of the class on Tuesday, September 17. A loving tribute to my father who passed away one year ago September 14, 1984

A Son's Thoughts

Where my father has gone there is no darkness,
For his light shines in my eyes as we see one another.
Though he does not speak, I hear his voice,
And I know he sees me as I see him, at any moment we choose,
And though I cannot touch him, I feel his presence.
He is my teacher, my strength and my guide.
He tells me to do all things with pride.
Although he is gone, he does not leave.
He is in my body, as I in his, to be rejoined as the Lord sees fit.
His travel is done as he waits for me, and once again together we'll be.
I wish every son could have a father like mine!
To guide and strengthen until the end of time.

Your Son, Elmer, Jr.

ABOUT TO RAM A MOUNTAINEER are three members of the Southern High varsity, who not only defeated Beall last Friday evening, 8-0, but held the Mountaineers to a total offense of just four yards. About to put the clamps on this unidentified Beall running back are Rams Johnnie Mayne, No. 62; John Lewis, No. 33, and Mike Smith, No. 50. Southern will host Phillip Barbour this Friday evening.

Defense Sparkles As Rams Edge Beall In Opener, 8-0

An outstanding defensive effort, which held the visiting Beall Mountaineers to just four yards in total offense, highlighted an 8-0 victory by the Southern High Rams in the season opener for both teams Friday evening.

The Southern defenders were never fooled by the Mountaineers, who were dropped in their backfield on numerous occasions and finished with a rushing yardage of minus 13. Beall's total offense would have also been in the negative column had it not been for their final play from scrimmage, which was a sweep around right end that picked up six yards.

The Southern offensive unit also had a better game than the score indicated, as they were able to move the ball well between the 20-yard lines. However, as they neared the goal line, either the Beall defense tightened and held the Rams on downs, or the Rams fumbled away the ball. On four occasions Southern had the ball inside Beall's ten-yard line, but failed to score. They fumbled the ball nine times on the evening, losing three of them.

Junior Donnie Horner accounted for the only touchdown of the game, a 29-yard counter trap run to cap a seven-play, 61-yard scoring drive midway through the first quarter. The pass for the conversion fell incomplete.

Beall took the opening kickoff, but failed to move the ball and punted to the Rams who took over on their own 39-yard line. Four rushing plays by tailback Bruce Bosley netted 17 yards, followed by an 11-yard run by quarterback Jamie Thomas and another three-yard shot by Bosley, which set the stage for Horner's score.

The only other points of the game were scored in the third quarter when the Beall center fired a snap over the head of the punter and through the end zone.

Bosley, who gained 900 yards in nine games last season, was right on the mark with 105 yards on 24 carries.

The win was a costly one, however, as early in the game Thomas sustained what was thought to be a stoved thumb. After the game, it was discovered that he had broken the thumb and will be out of action for at least three weeks.

The injury to Thomas leaves Zack Gibson, the only freshman on the team, as the starting quarterback. Gibson, who started in the defensive secondary and is the Rams' leading punter, alternated at quarterback with Thomas throughout Friday's game. Sophomore Bobby Bernard, who was the starting quarterback for the jayvee team, has been moved up to varsity to back up Gibson while Thomas is out and Jamie Colaw is now the leading signal-caller for the jayvees.

"We were very pleased with the agressiveness and tackling performance of our defense," Ram Coach Tom Woods stated. "The first play from scrimmage, when our defense threw Beall for a four-yard loss, seemed to set the stage for the whole game.

"Our offensive line also did a good job, because we had anticipated an even defensive formation from Beall and they gave us an odd line-up. But our kids adjusted well and were able to handle it."

Leading the outstanding defensive performance for the Rams were John Lewis, defensive end, who finished with 11 tackles, linebacker Scott Werdebaugh, and Steve Schrock, senior nose guard, who applied pressure on the Beall backfield all evening.

Woods also stated he was pleased with the play of his entire secondary, noting that they covered the pass well and also displayed good tackling.

He said he was happy with the running of Bosley, Horner, and Werdebaugh in the Ram backfield. "Jamie Thomas also executed the option extremely well," he said.

Among the disappointments to Woods were the fumbles, which he attributed to "first-game nervousness and just plain carelessness," and also the inability of the Ram offense to capitalize when inside the ten-yard line.

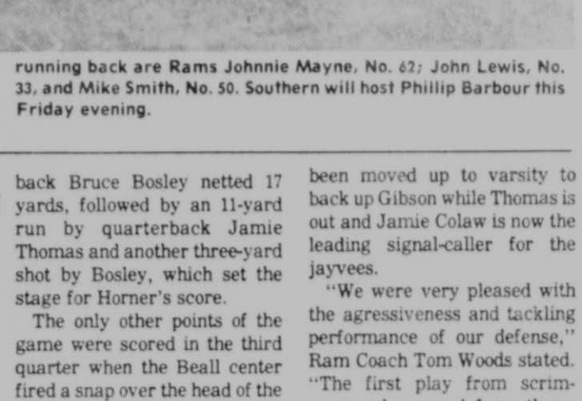
"We lost much of our 'big play' capabilities from last year's team," he said, "and we knew that we would have to rely on steady drives and basic football. So we must be able to capitalize on our fourth down and short yardage situations when we are deep in the opponent's territory."

Woods did state, however, that he saw good signs of "big play" capabilities on this year's squad, primarily from Horner, Bosley, and Gibson.

"We have also had to caution our boys this week that our defense may not be as good as they think they are," he said. "We may have had one of those games where we just happened to be in the right spots at the right times defensively. We have a long way to go, though."

The next test for the Rams will be this Friday evening at home against Phillip Barbour, a team which Woods believes is considerably improved from last year and could provide a tough test for Southern.

Phillip Barbour opened last week with a 23-15 loss to Grafton, the defending AA West Virginia state champions.



Leading Phillip Barbour's offense are all-state honorable mention tailback Todd England, a 5-10, 170-pound senior, who recorded 112 yards against Grafton last week and 100 yards against the Rams last year; senior quarterback Bill Wilmouth, 6-2, 160; and tight end Chad Sell, 5-11, 175. Sell also plays linebacker on the defensive unit, which is anchored on the line by Brent Murphy, a 6-2, 280-pound tackle.

They run from the pro set and I-formations and use primarily a 5-2 defense. They utilize an even mix of run and pass plays.

"Phillip Barbour plays in the tough Clarksburg/Fairmont league," Woods said. "They are comparable to us size-wise, and England is one of the best backs we will face all season. The fact that they got 15 points against Grafton, and held them to 23, indicates that we are most likely in for a difficult game.

"We have to cut out our fumbles, which we have worked hard on all week, and we must

LEAGUE CHAMPS — The team representing Coors Light captured the Mt. Top Softball League championship in playoffs held this past weekend. Coors had earlier won its division title with a league record of 33-3 and then defeated Deer Park, Accident Garage, Crellin, and Accident Garage again in the finals. Including playoff games, their final record was 37-4. In the photo, left to right, front, are Larry Wilt and Jim Jones. In the second row, same order, Clint Taylor, Dan Baker, Melvin Gank, Roger Eversole, Bill Cline, and Steve Taylor. In the third row, same order, are Bob Reeves, Ron Newcomb, Gary Simpson, Dave Schwinabart, Steve Edgar, and manager/player Roger Niner.

The Garrett Community College women's volleyball team, which opens its eighth season tonight against Frostburg State College, is facing a rebuilding year, as only two starters from last season's squad are back and former GCC player, Sue Mason, takes over as head coach.

Kim Martin and Amy Tate, both from Clendenin, W. Va., are the returning Lakers, while the rest of the roster will be composed of freshmen and transfer students from Maryland, West Virginia, and Virginia.

"This team may be young, but there is plenty of talent and potential," Mason stated. "We have been working hard for two weeks and I feel we are ready to begin an exciting season."

Mason said she is depending heavily on Martin, who will serve as the team captain, to take control on the floor as the Lakers' main play-maker. She will rely on Tate for her blocking and hitting ability.

"If Kim and Amy show leadership, our freshmen will come along fine," Mason said.

Speaking of the freshmen, she stated that she anticipates strong blocking and spiking from Lisa Llewellyn, Clarissa

Laker Hurlers To Open Fall Season Against Beaver CC, West Virginia

The 1985-86 edition of the Garrett Community Lakers baseball team will open its season this weekend with a pair of home doubleheaders. The Lakers will start a 14-game regular season schedule on Saturday at 1 p.m., hosting Beaver Community College. On Sunday they will tangle with West Virginia University to open a nine-game exhibition slate, culminating in the Alumni game on October 13.

Leading the Lakers this season will be two All-Region XX selections, Benny Shreve and Rick Harasti. Shreve, a shortstop, set school records in his freshman season with 64 hits and 53 runs scored while leading the Lakers in nine categories. Harasti, a centerfielder, posted a .381 batting average and tied Shreve with 16 stolen bases.

Coach Lawrence Nesselrodt, who returns along with 12 players from last year's 24-18 squad, stated, "I'm anticipating that the early start which the fall schedule allows will enable us to optimize our talent, both individually and as a team. With a strong nucleus returning to help mold and develop a talented freshmen class, I'm looking for big things from this group."

The list of returning starters includes Northern High's Phil Carr, Jim Keller at third base, last year's outstanding defensive player Lynny Shook, and Kent Freeman, who tied for leading home run hitter last year.

The returning pitching staff is a strong one, as six sophomore pitchers were responsible for 18 of 24 wins last year. Chris Huyett, winner of last year's Pitching Award with five wins, heads the list, along with Bill Liller, Denzil Evans, Brian Jones, Vaughn Yenich and Stacey Viands.

Four Southern High School grads have joined the Lakers squad this year, including first baseman Danny Holler, outfielder Dave McLaughlin, pitcher John Nelson and second baseman/pitcher Scott Stem.

"We're looking forward to a great season, and I really hope that the fans will lend their support at the games, especially those who have never seen the Lakers in action," Nesselrodt said.

Oakland Jets Whip Rams, 19-0

The Oakland Jets upped their season record to 2-0 Sunday afternoon in Mt. Top Youth Football League standings as they blanked the visiting Thomas-Davis Rams, 19-0, on the Southern High field.

Billy Welch scored the first two touchdowns of the game, both in the second quarter, as he racked up 60 yards on ten carries. Marshall Pike, who recorded 41 yards, added the final six-pointer in the third quarter.

Jet quarterback Tommy Ritchey completed six of ten passes for 87 yards. Jamie Ashby hauled in three completions for 52 yards, while Pike caught the other three for 35 yards.

Defensively, the Jets caused four Ram turnovers, including two blocked punts, a fumble recovery by Ashby, and an interception by Ritchey. Robbie Reckart was credited with one blocked punt and two sacks, while Eric Jamison had the other blocked punt and one sack. Pike, Welch, and Mark Paugh also gave strong defensive performances.

The Rams managed only two first downs against the Jet defense.

John Qualls paced the Rams' defensive unit, while Matt Ruckel received a long pass which nearly resulted in a touchdown for the West Virginians.

The Jets will host the Parsons Browns this Sunday, September 15, at 1:30 p.m. on the Southern field.

Phyllis Helbig was the winner of the 50-50 drawing sponsored by the Youth League. She donated her prize of $42.50 back to the league.

capitalize on our opportunities if we expect to win," he said.

An added dimension to the Ram offense this week will be Steve Schrock in the backfield, as well as at his nose guard position. Schrock has been hampered by a chest injury which Woods feared could be aggravated if he were to carry the ball; however the injury has healed. Sophomore flanker J.R. Bosley is also expected to see more action this week.

Woods noted that the gate proceeds last week set a school record, with over $3,000 collected. "We certainly appreciate this support for our program from the ever-loyal Southern fans," he concluded.

Kickoff is set for 8 p.m.

Jordon, and Stephanie Burks. Dianna Walkling has been labeled the team's best passer by Mason.

"Our other play-maker will be Rita Jackson," she said. "Since day one she has improved as a setter and I'm counting on her to play an important role."

Mason said her most improved and "most spirited" player is Cheri Duncan, while Pat Angelis is expected to be utilized at all positions.

"I can't predict the outcome of our season, but I will say that we are playing some very strong teams, and to win we will have to play near perfect ball," Mason concluded.

Southern Jayvees Defeat Beall

A 25-yard touchdown run was the only scoring the Southern High jayvee football team could manage against Beall Monday evening in Frostburg, but it was enough as the Rams held on for a 6-0 win, the first ever by Southern over Beall in jayvee competition.

Doug Nesselrodt and Jamie Colaw paced the Rams' defense, while Colaw also started at quarterback. Bobby Bernard, who was expected to start at quarterback, was moved up to the second string quarterback position on the Ram varsity team after Jamie Thomas suffered a broken thumb.

Brent McKenzie and Chris Emerick led the Beall offensive unit.

The Ram jayvees are slated to travel to Northern on September 23.

BEARING DOWN on Bruce High Bulldog, David Burgess, are a number of Northern Husky defenders in last Friday's opening game for both schools at Northern. The Bulldogs gained revenge after three consecutive losses to Northern by defeating the Huskies 35-14. Also identifiable in the photo are Huskies Bill Friend, No. 72; Lonnie Robinette, No. 32; and Jeff Beitzel, No. 33. Northern will travel to Central Preston this Friday.

Huskies' Opener Spoiled By Veteran Bruce Squad, 35-14

Although the final statistics indicated a near even game, some breakdowns in the fourth quarter by a young Northern High defensive unit allowed a veteran Bruce offense to break Friday's contest wide open and defeat the Huskies, 35-14, at Northern.

It was the season opener for both teams, as Bruce is finally able to field an experienced, senior-dominated team after several dismal seasons of rebuilding. The Huskies, on the other hand, have little depth this year and have a number of young, inexperienced players in the starting line-up.

The score remained close until the final six minutes of the game when it seemed the thin Husky defense succumbed to the strength of the Bruce offense and the warm, humid weather. Two of tailback Dave Shaw's three touchdowns for Bruce came in those final six minutes, which sealed the win for the Bulldogs.

Charles Wilson opened the scoring for the visitors as he crashed into the end zone from the one. The kick for the conversion failed.

Bruce went on top 14-0 when Shaw recorded his first touchdown from nine yards out in the second quarter and the run for the conversion was good.

The Huskies came back in the second quarter with their first touchdown as Rodney Lipscomb jumped on a Bulldog fumble in the end zone and then grabbed Kevin Sines' pass for the two-point conversion.

The Yardstick

Bruce		Northern
13	First Down Rush	2
0	First Down Pass	5
0	First Down Penalty	2
13	Total First Downs	9
4	Passes Attempted	22
3	Passes Completed	12
1	Passes Intercepted By	1
12	Yards Passing	122
230	Net Yards Rushing	108
2-34	Punts Average	2-44
7-65	Penalties Yards	10-50
2-2	Fumbles Lost	4-3
242	Total Offense	230

Bruce moved out to a 20-8 advantage when Shaw raced in from the four early in the fourth quarter, but the Huskies quickly answered wih a second touchdown by Lipscomb, this time on a 65-yard run from scrimmage. The pass for the conversion failed, making the score 20-14.

It was then that the Northern defensive ranks fell apart, allowing Shaw to score from four yards out and Wilson from the one. Alex Taylor received a pass from Steve Mertz for one conversion and Shaw kicked for the final point of the game.

Shaw recorded 171 yards on the evening on 32 carries, while Lipscomb paced Northern with 89 yards on ten carries. Dennis Hetrick and Matt Eggleston were the leading tacklers for Northern, as Jeff McRobie and Shaw sparkled on defense for Bruce.

Sines, expected to be one of the area's top quarterbacks, connected on 12 of 22 passes for 122 yards and, according to Husky Coach Jack Settle, could have had about 200 yards since a number of passes were dropped by receivers.

The Bulldogs led the Huskies in total offense by only a 242-230 margin and in first downs, 13-9. Northern lost considerable yardage as numerous plays were called back for minor infractions. The Huskies were penalized 50 yards on ten calls, most of them illegal procedure calls.

"We really did play a lot better than the score indicates," Settle said, "and we were pleased with our kids' overall performance. We were able to move the ball against them both on the ground and in the air. Our penalties and defensive breakdowns really hurt us, but both were to be expected since so many of our players are inexperienced. Our four turnovers also cost us, because it gave them good field position every time."

Settle felt the real turning point in the game was in the fourth quarter when the score was 20-14 and the Huskies fumbled the ball on their own 35. "That mistake really took away our momentum," he said. "We could not recover."

The Bulldogs' final touchdown was set up when the Huskies ran a fourth and 15 play deep in their own territory. "Why be conservative when our only hope was to try to score?" he said. "I would much rather lose trying to do something."

Settle said he was pleased with the performances of Sines, Lipscomb, and the Tabor brothers, Wayne and Ed, receivers. "They all improved dramatically as the game progressed, as did our entire offensive unit," he said.

"We were not overly pleased with our defense, though, and we have made a number of adjustments this week that we hope will help," he noted. "Our defense was on the field too much against Bruce and really got worn out. Our offense ran only three plays in the entire third quarter, and yet Bruce did not score in that period."

The Huskies' next opponent is Central Preston, a team that won a tough 8-0 decision last week over a much-improved East Preston team. Most of Central's skilled players are back, such as Daryl Dupert, 6-2, 178-pound senior quarterback, who completed 11 of 17 passes last week; David Chidester, 5-9, 150-pound tailback, who scored Central's only touchdown last week on a screen pass play; Larry Gibson, 5-10, 150-pound senior wingback; fullback Jack Adams, 5-10, 165; and tight end Todd Warnick, 6-1, 170. Adams and Warnick are also starting linebackers.

"This team is vastly improved over last year," Settle stated. "They seem to have good depth on their offensive line and Dupert is a real threat. They use an even mixture of the run and pass."

Central uses a multiple-I offense and split backs, coupled with a 5-2 monster defense

"Fred Nestor (Central's head coach) runs a good strong program," Settle said, "and everyone knows how hard it is to win on their field. We feel ready to play, though, and we have no major injury problems."

The Huskies defeated the Cavaliers last season.

EXPECTING GREAT THINGS this season is the Northern High School girls' volleyball team which includes a number of key players from last season's 11-2 squad. The Huskies took third place in the district last year and are considered a favorite for the district title and perhaps even the state championship. They are coached by Vonda Yunker. In the photo, left to right, front row, are Kim Frantz, Lisa Swauger, Missy Durst, Karen Frank, and Julie Yommer. In the second row, same order, are Laura Sines, Tammy Swauger, Jenny Dailey, Sherri Frantz, and Janie Friend. In the back row, same order, are Sonya Yalovich, Julie Robeson, Shayne Couch, Amy Swauger, Donna Stanton, and Debbie Rounds. Not present for the photo were Darlene Seaman and Becky Dolan.

Northern Volleyball Team Hopeful Of Spot In State Tournament

It is a difficult task to improve on a 11 and 2 season record, but that is just what Coach Vonda Yunker and her 1985 Northern High School volleyball team are hoping to do this year.

The Lady Huskies lost just one player from last year's squad. "The key characteristics of this year's team are determination, desire, and aggressiveness," Yunker said.

"Sitting in the locker room immediately after last season's third place district playoff finish, the girls asked what they could do to get better, win the district and compete in the state tournament next year," related Coach Yunker. "The answer they received was 'work harder on all parts of your game'. They have done just that."

Fourteen girls went through a 12-week weight lifting and conditioning program this spring and started practice on August 15.

The renovation project at Northern has brought a few changes, but Yunker said for the most part, the girls and the coaching staff like the split shift

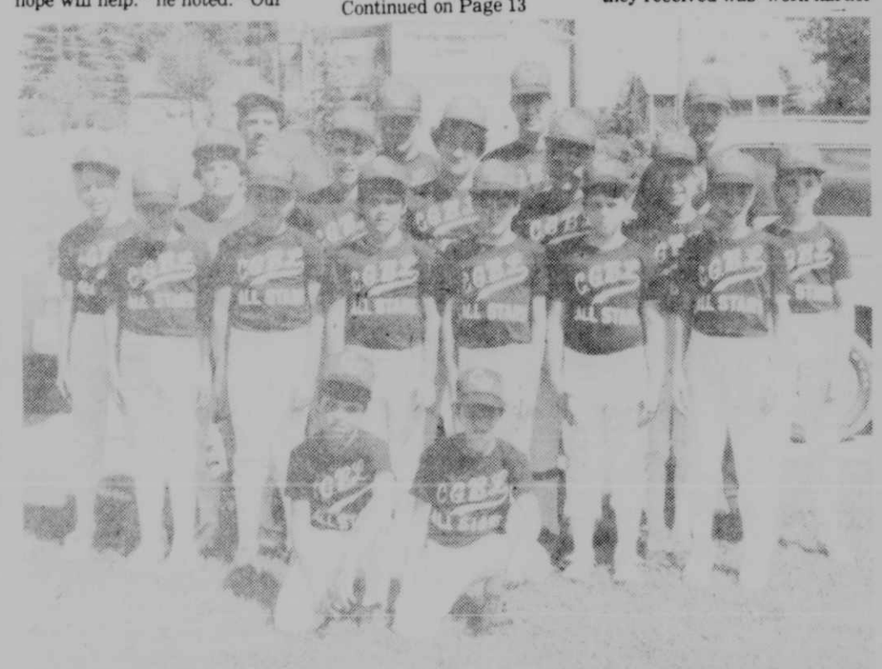
In Loving Memory

Of our dear husband and father, Elmer C. Grimm, Sr., who Passed away one year ago September 14, 1984. He is greatly missed by his family.



Loving Memories

Your gentle face and patient smile, with sadness we recall.
You had a kindly word for each and died beloved by all.
The voice is mute and stilled the heart, that loved us well and true.
Ah, bitter was the trail to part, from one so good and true.
You are not forgotten loved one, nor will you ever be.
As long as life and memory last, we will remember thee.
We miss you now, our hearts are sore,
As time goes by we miss you more.
Your loving smile, your gentle face,
No one can fill your vacant place.

Sadly missed by his Wife, Hallie;
Children, Dortha Jean, Phyllis Kay,
and Elmer, Jr.

Oakland Raiders Edge Dolphins

The Oakland Raiders picked up their second win in as many starts by edging the visiting Terra Alta Dolphins, 8-0, Sunday afternoon in Mt. Top Youth Football League action. The Raiders won their season opener the previous weekend by whipping the Parsons Browns, 26-7.

Although the game against Terra Alta resulted primarily in a defensive struggle, the Raider offense still managed to record nearly 350 yards in total offense.

The first score of the game was a safety when Mike Hornyak and Jim Schrock trapped a Dolphin in his own end zone. Later, Bobby Orr scored the game's only touchdown on a 31-yard run from scrimmage.

Mondo Polce, Hornyak, Mike Dever, and Matt Redinger led the Raider defense in unassisted tackles, while Chad Ward, Jack Fitzwater, and Hornyak led in assists.

Coach Jim Shaffer stated that he was pleased with the performance of his team's defensive unit and expects the offense, under the direction of quarterback Mike Fulmer to return to full strength this week against the Parsons Vikings at 3 p.m. Sunday on the Southern High field.

In the opening contest against the Browns, Hornyak paced the Raiders with 171 yards and one touchdown, a 16-yard run, as he attempts to fill the shoes of Zack Gibson, last season's tailback who led the league in rushing.

Also scoring were Fulmer on a 13-yard bootleg run and Orr on runs of ten and four yards.

Fitzwater and Ward, who each recovered a fumble, led the Raiders in tackling, along with Dever, Polce, and Orr.

schedule. The girls arrive at the school between 8 and 8:30 every morning. They run their conditioning mile and do about one-half hour of agility and stretching exercises. By 9 a.m. they are ready to start individual and team skill drills, and scrimmage takes place from 10:30 until 11:30. Then the girls' locker room is transformed into a large dormitory, with curling irons, hair dryers, and school clothes occupying every corner of the gym. Because of the time and transportation factor, the girls must go directly from practice into their school day.

The leadership role will be assumed by the five seniors on the squad. Julie Robeson, an all-area first team selection last year, will be one of the most powerful hitters in the district, according to Yunker.

Missy Durst, second team all-area last year, will again take over the playmaking and setting chores.

Amy Swauger, the leading server for the Huskies a year ago, has increased her vertical jump and has become more aggressive around the net.

Karen Frank, a steadfast server, has worked hard to sharpen her defensive skills, Yunker said, and will be counted on in back-row specialty situations.

Senior Sherri Frantz, who is probably the most improved player, will see action as a server and a backup setter.

Juniors on the squad include Jenny Dailey and Tammy Swauger, both starters on last year's team. "These girls are smooth in their play and excel in all phases of the game," stated Yunker. Shayne Couch, Dee Dee Seaman, Janie Friend, and Sonny Yalovich are all up-and-coming juniors who only need game experience before they reach their potential, she stated.

The sophomores are led by Laura Sines, who saw a lot of playing time last year as a freshman. Donna Stanton, Kim Frantz, and Julie Yommer keep making steady progress each day, Yunker said, and should provide the nucleus for the future.

"Freshmen Lisa Swauger, Debbie Rounds, and Becky Dolan have shown enthusiasm, determination, and a willingness to work hard," coach Yunker commented.

The match format has been changed this year, with only single matches being scheduled. All Northern home matches will begin at 7 p.m., followed immediately by the junior varsity match.

Party Brings Back A Lifetime Of Memories For Porter Wilt

by Bernice Kepple

A large crowd of friends and relatives gathered last Saturday under the oak trees on the lawn at the home of Porter M. Wilt to help him celebrate a very special occasion, his birthday. In the center of one of the huge tables piled high with food was a birthday cake with a large number 89 on it. Sitting in his chair among family and friends, Mr. Wilt could think of many memories made in his 89 years, here and on the adjoining farm, for this has been his family's home since the early 1930's.

Mr. Wilt can look back over his life with a clarity that belies his age. He remembers names and dates from the early years of his life better than most of us remember what we did yesterday. Bits of history and humor come out in the stories he tells whenever family and friends gather at his home on Spring Glade Road. Through him, younger generations can hear what it was like to travel from Keyser's Ridge to Oakland on a dirt road that is now Route 219 before Deep Creek Lake existed, or how people coped with deep snow in the days of horse–powered plows and shovels, or about prohibition and the Great Depression.

In his younger days, Mr. Wilt was a builder of quality furniture. He built the house his family lived in, and made a living building and selling window frames and furniture from a shop at home. But he didn't stop there, he hand crafted his own violin, repaired antique furniture, and made many small items like the baseball bat he gave to a neighbor boy for his tenth birthday. One of his accomplishments was planning and building the large log house at Potomac State Forest when he was a member of the Civilian Conservation Corps.

Mr. Wilt's wife was the late Helen Tasker Wilt, who died in 1972 at age 76. In the early 30's they moved their family from Cumberland, where Mr. Wilt worked as a carpenter, to Garrett County. The family consisted of seven children, Harvey, Charles, Lawrence, Mabel, Mary, Lloyd, and Elwood. All his children were home for his birthday on Saturday except Harvey, who lives in Ohio, and Lawrence, who is deceased.

A tool shed he had built in 1931 on property north of Oakland on Spring Glade Road was enlarged to make a home for his family. The site was chosen because of a good spring of water near by, which is still being used by the present owners of the property. As soon as the small house was under roof, Mr. Wilt went to Newport News, Va., and worked in the shipyards to support his family.

While he was away, his family became accustomed to their new home. I suppose in so large a family, the older children helped by watching the younger children. This must have been the case one day when Mrs. Wilt heard the older boys yelling that baby Elwood had fallen into the spring. She rushed out in time to save him from anything worse than a very cold bath.

About this time President Franklin Roosevelt created the Civilian Conservation Corps (CCC) for the employment of hundreds of thousands of men across the United States who were out of work. The primary work assigned the new Corps was controlling and reversing soil erosion and replanting millions of acres of forest. Service in the Corps was voluntary, and being out of work again, Mr. Wilt felt it was a good time to volunteer.

During his years in the CCC he worked in camps as far away as Snow Hill and as close as Swallow Falls, but the work he is proudest of was done at Potomac Camp located at the present site of the Potomac–Garrett State Forest Headquarters. Because of his skill as a carpenter, he was chosen to plan and build the two-story log house which for the last 10 years has been the residence of Forestry Supervisor John C. Walters.

His work on the house began in 1936 and took about a year to complete. He started out by drawing up the plans on a piece of paper. "A hammer, saw and square were all the tools you had when I built this, and the majority of the CCC boys didn't know a hammer from a saw, so the work didn't go very fast," Mr. Wilt told us. "I stayed all one summer alone in a little building, kind of a combination tool house and office," he said. "It sure got lonely."

Today we see many log homes constructed with square logs, making them fit tightly together, but Mr. Wilt says that at the time he built the house at Potomac Camp it was an original idea. "I had the logs milled in Loch Lynn - fellow named Leighton - I told him how to saw them with three sides flat and one side rounded.

"We built the window frames and floors from lumber we had planed in Morgantown. That was the closest place the work could be done." Mr. Wilt said. "Usually there were four of us working on the house, just seems that there was no way to do what we did ourselves."

By the time John Walters came to Potomac State Forest, the house although basically sound, was in terrible condition. "Ten years ago they were on the verge of tearing the house down," said Walters. "When we revamped the place, we tried to save as much as we could. We basically saved the dining room as it was. The living room floors, paneling, stairway, and fireplace are still original," he said.

The large living room fireplace was made of stone by Noah Gnegy, who also did the masonery work on the outside front steps. An added feature of the fireplace is a decorative shield carved into the stone above the mantel. The living room ceiling is beautifully done in chestnut with exposed beams.

At some time in the past, two kitchen walls had been burnt, requiring the kitchen to be completely modernized. All modernizations in the house were tastefully done to blend in with what was original

On one side of the house, the logs had rotted and needed replaced. The little tool shed and office building Mr. Wilt had lived in alone the summer he built the house came to the rescue. It was torn down and its logs were used to repair the house.

Mr. Wilt left the CCC after the house was completed in 1937. On a recent visit, he looked out over the well-kept grounds with the large trees, and said, "When I was here there were no trees, nothing but a rough-looking field." He was very pleased to see that what he had built was still being used and ap-

THIS TRULY TRADITIONAL LOG HOME at Potomac State Forest was planned and built by Porter Wilt while a member of the Civilian Conservation Corps in 1936. The house serves as the residence and office of Forestry Supervisor John C. Walters and his family. Ready to tear the house down 10 years ago, the Forest Service, instead, revamped the entire house, keeping it as original as possible.

BECOMING 89 YEARS OLD was reason enough for Porter Wilt to celebrate with family and friends. Mr. Wilt is the granddad of 27, and the great-granddad of 20. Pictured above being held by their great-granddad are nine-month-old Justin, left, and Jason Humberson, the sons of Greg and Nancy Humberson of Friendsville. Greg is the son of Mr. Wilt's daughter, Mary. Standing is Chris, left, and Mike Bittinger, the sons of Wayne and Marilyn Bittinger of Spring Glade Road. Marilyn is the daughter of Mr. Wilt's son, Elwood. The Bittinger boys started kindergarten this year. Pictured below, Mr. Wilt receives an appropriate gift, a saw, from his granddaughter, Beverly. This saw has a picture of ducks in flight painted on it though, and Beverly jokes with him, saying, "It's just to hang on the wall, Granddad, you don't need to see how sharp it is." Pictured, left to right, are: Mr. Wilt's brother, Harvey, from Baltimore; Mr. Wilt; his daughter, Mable Stiles from Kingwood, W.Va; his sister, Viola Bray from Cumberland; and his granddaughter, Beverly Wilt from Deep Creek Lake.

BITTINGER-GLADES

Church News

Worship services were conducted on Sunday in the Bittinger parish by the Rev. B.B. Maurer, Morgantown, W.Va., with Communion services.

The Rev. Maurer is Professor Emeritus, West Virginia University, and a retired pastor of the Lutheran Church in America. He has written a series of historical sketches of several congregations, complete with photographs and membership lists. The series provides an authentic portrayal of small Lutheran congregations in Northern Appalachia. The churches he has written about are St. Johanne's, St. Clara, W.Va.; Holy Trinity, Newburg, W.Va.; St. Paul's, Grafton, W.Va.; St. John's, Davis, W. Va., and Lake Lynn Chapel, Lake Lynn, Pa. These histories are for sale in various places in the W.Va. area. In addition, he has written two books; Mission in the mountain state and Mountain Heritage, a book of 344 pages. Dr. Maurer holds a Ph.D. degree from W.Va. University. He is of the opinion that in the structure of the new church, the Bittinger area church will be a part of the W.Va. Synod of 64 congregations.

Emmanuel's LCW will meet on Friday, September 14, at 7:30 p.m., at the church. Doris Knox and Jenny will lead the topic, "Gifts Galore."

Lectors on Sunday were Carole Peck, St. John's; Judy Taylor, Emmanuel; and Bonnie Resh, Zion. Phyllis Buckel was Communion assistant at Emmanuel.

Zion's LCW Meets

The LCW of Zion Lutheran Church, Jennings, held their monthly meeting in the church on September 4. Attending were seven members and three visitors, Mrs. Mamie Yommer, Mrs. Viola Campbell and Mrs. Julius Gilpin.

Leota Baker led the program on "LCW Offerings Interpretation," the offerings to Lutheran Church Women and explained the auxiliary's budget and the various channels through which the offerings are used.

A poem "Proclaim Through Giving" was read by Ethel Hetrick and the Scripture lesson from Psalm 145 was read in unison. A mini-drama entitled "The Voice You Hear May Be Your Own" was presented by Nellie Yommer, Dorothy Burow and Viola Campbell.

Mrs. Nellie Yommer presided over the business meeting. In the absence of the secretary, the August minutes were read by Mrs. Joe Resh.

The LCW periodical "Guidelines" was given by members who were present.

A "thank you" note was received from Rev. Chuck Rice, pastor of Our Savior's Lutheran Church, Box Elder, Montana, upon receipt of a package of clothing sent recently. (This is the only American Indian congregation of the Lutheran Church in America), and their needs are numerous, due to the drought suffered this year.

Ten dozen wash cloths were received for the Lutheran Home in Kane, Pa., as a result of this annual project, and more clothing was shipped to the Rocky Boy Lutheran Indian Mission.

A gift offering given in memory of Ernest Handwerk, by his wife, Freda, was forwarded to Lutheran Church Women, designated for the Youth Ministry.

Offerings received as a tribute to the memory of the last surviving charter member of Zion congregation, Daniel D. Yommer, who died last month were also forwarded to LCW specific-ministries. This offering was designated for the ministry with deaf persons.

The meeting closed with the missionary benediction and Mrs. Alta Broadwater leading the group in singing.

The next meeting will be October 1, with Nellie Yommer as leader. Hymn practice will be at 1 p.m.

Local Student Places Fourth In National Event

Denise Bee, now a sixth grade student at Southern Middle School, was informed recently that she was the fourth place winner in the Great Newspower Reading/Writing Contest, held last spring when she was a fifth grader at Dennett Road School.

The nationwide contest, sponsored by Harris Media Associates to encourage critical reading and thoughtful writing, involved selecting an article from a local newspaper and, in a brief essay, explaining why the article gave them "news power". Miss Bee chose an article from the Cumberland Evening Times concerning the astronauts' restoring power to a satellite. She entered the contest as an activity in her gifted and talented class at Dennett Road, taught by Rosetta Rodeheaver.

Denise is the daughter of Ralph and Delores Bee, Fingerboard Road. Her prize included a selection of sports equipment.

Friends Of MLP To Meet Monday

The Friends of Mountain Lake Park will meet at the city hall on Allegheny Drive this Monday, September 16, at 7:30 p.m., according to Donald W. Sincell, president.

Sincell stated that topics of discussion will include the future of the organization, as well as prospects for a 1986 Mountain Lake Park Days event. The meeting is not expected to exceed one hour.

All persons, whether or not they are residents of the town, are invited to attend and participate, according to Sincell.

State Police Charge Five With DWI

Maryland State Police reported that five persons were charged with driving while under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs in the past week.

Dennis Wayne Beckman, 28, Oakland, was charged with DWI by Tfc. D.G. Riggleman following an early morning incident on Sunday.

According to reports, Beckman was traveling north on U.S. Route 219 in a 1979 Dodge Ram Charger. The driver then saw a vehicle traveling south which appeared to be across the center of the road. Beckman applied the brakes, causing the vehicle to go out of control, overturn, and strike a mailbox. He was apparently not seriously injured in the mishap.

Rea John Quinn, 50, Canonsburg, Pa., was charged with DWI by Tfc. R.M. Hershberger at approximately 3:30 p.m. Saturday on the Hoyes Run Road.

According to the police, Quinn failed to negotiate a sharp left hand curve with his motorcyle. The vehicle then left the road, ran onto the shoulder, and skidded on its side. Quinn was thrown from the vehicle, but was apparently not seriously injured.

Tfc. Gary Resh charged Hyst Lee Schobert, 23, Connellsville, Pa., with DWI on Sunday on Route 40.

Jimmy Lee Poland, 30, Frostburg, was charged with DWI on Route 40 Saturday by Tfc. R.M. Hershberger.

Tfc. R.C. Resh charged James Patrick Cleary, 24, Pittsburgh, Pa., with DWI near the Arrowhead Grocery last Wednesday.

Police Report Area Mishaps

Maryland State Police reported two area mishaps which occurred in the last week.

William Darwin Swan, 17, Hedgesville, W.Va., was traveling west on U.S. Route 48, west of the Chestnut Ridge Road, on Monday in a 1971 Toyota Corolla when the vehicle ran into the center median, slid sideways, and overturned. Police said Swan apparently fell asleep.

Tfc. R.J. Resh investigated the incident, charging Swan with negligent driving.

Swan was transported to Sacred Heart Hospital, Cumberland, by the Northern Garrett Rescue Squad. A report on his condition was not available.

A single vehicle accident occurred September 3 on the Savage River Road.

James Parker Marchinke, 23, Westernport, was traveling north in a 1980 Mercury Capri when the vehicle skidded off the road, striking a utility pole and a tree. According to police reports, Marchinke and several passengers in the vehicle left the scene, reported the accident, and returned.

Landfill

Gregg said, "Garrett County is looking at three to three and one-half million dollars in closing out the current landfill and developing a new landfill. That represents over one-quarter of our annual budget. It's just an impossibility without some form of state aid."

Groves said the MACo landfill committee will be submitting their recommendations in the form of legislation to the legislative committee. "Our aim is to get a delay on the DHMH mandates and regulations," said Groves. "The state is showing us a state of the art concept of landfill. Fine. But they're going to have to come up with a major subsidy to help us supplement the cost. We want to comply with regulations, but we can't afford to."

Groves and Shockey had the opportunity to speak with Wilzack at the meeting last week and said a personal agreement was made between the secretary and the county officials. The agreement being that an engineer consultant would look over the present consent order for the landfill and evaluate it. If the county is not satisfied then they must make a counter offer and submit it directly to William Eichbaum, assistant secretary for Environmental Health Programs.

"This should greatly reduce the amount of red tape we've had to deal with in the past," said Groves. "Traditionally, the time alloted to meet state regs has not been sufficient. A direct connection should help."

Appointment

In other commissioner news, it was announced Tuesday that J. Bradley Frantz has been appointed to the Emergency Medical Systems Council.

Frantz replaces Gary Mulich, who stepped down from that post saying Frantz would have more expertise in that area since he is the manager of Garrett County Emergency Management.

Nichols at TCC

The commissioners also announced Tuesday that Hugh Nichols, director of the Baltimore Regional Planning Council, would be speaking at a Tri-County Council meeting on Wednesday.

Commissioner Gregg said Nichols was largely responsible for the approved completion of U.S. Route 48 at Sideling Mountain. There was a transfer of funds from the Baltimore Subway project to the National Freeway. (A complete story on the Tri-County Council meeting held at the Grantsville Holiday Inn will appear in next week's edition of The Republican.)

preciated.

During 1936 when he was building the house at Potomac Camp, he also decided to enlarge the little house on Spring Glade Road. On weekends when he was home, he and the older boys would get as much done as possible, then Mr. Wilt would organize work that the boys could get done during the week when he was gone.

The first plan was to dig a basement under the little house. This became difficult after large tree stumps were discovered under the house. One in particular gave them problems, and it was decided to use just a little dynamite to loosen things up a bit. What it loosened up was everything but the stump, including the floor of the house above the blast. One of Mr. Wilt's daughters remembers her mother's rug sticking up like a pyramid over the hole blown in the floor.

It seemed as though another plan had to be devised, and the new plan called for a completely new foundation to be dug, large enough to move the little house onto plus make some additions. The new foundation was completed about 40 feet away from the little house, and everything was prepared to move the house onto the foundation. Before Mr. Wilt left for Potomac Camp that week, he told the boys, Charles, Lawrence and Harvey, the oldest of them being about 15, that he thought they could move the house. He had told them how it should be done and had confidence that they could do it.

Work started for the boys with mother and the girls watching and helping. Things went smoothly until they started to roll the house toward the foundation. Something didn't seem right, and the family could just see their house collapsing into the foundation. They decided to stop until they could talk with their father, and Charles went to a phone and called Potomac Camp, leaving a message for his father that things were not going too well and maybe he could get back to them and tell them what they were doing wrong.

As sometimes happens, by the time Mr. Wilt received the message it was completly changed. He was told that something had happened to Charles. The family remembers him driving up to the house, looking very white. They thought he was mad, and their mother tried to explain what was going wrong and why the boys couldn't get the house on the foundation.

"He stood listening to mother getting whiter and whiter," says one of his daughters, "and finally he said, 'I don't care about the damn house! What happened to Charles?' "

The house was completed over the years. More rooms were added including a dining room which looks out over the front of the property, and is paneled with one-inch tongue and groove chestnut boards. "The chestnut boards were cut in 1918, just after the blight hit the native American chestnut, and they laid in a barn a lot of years because no one thought they were worth anything. I got them cheap," said Mr. Wilt. He designed the ceiling in that room, using the chestnut boards in a star-shaped manner that brings the ends of all the boards to a point in the center of the ceiling.

When the second floor was added to the house, Mr. Wilt decided to try and build a quarter-circle stairway. "I had watched and helped a man build a circular stairway in another house, and I just wanted to see if I could do it," he said. It turned out beautifully, made of cherry, with a graceful curve, and was all done with very primitive tools.

Mr. Wilt worked for several years teaching carpentry for the National Youth Administration in Lonaconing, and then went to Ohio and worked in a window factory. Around 1945 he came back home to stay and had soon opened his own shop.

Many people in the county have samples of what was built in that shop. He made anything, windows, kitchen cabinets, and some really fine furniture. His corner cupboards were especially popular. One he still has in his home is made of cherry and when asked how long it took him to make it, he replied, "I had all the time in the world and I just worked at it till I was done, about a day and a half." He remembers selling one that was similar but bigger for $250.

Her daughter Mabel recalls meeting a woman at a craft show in Morgantown recently who remembers that Mr. Wilt built the cabinets for the kitchen of their new home years ago. "He came to the house and only went into the kitchen for a few minutes and made a couple of little marks on a piece of paper," the woman said. "In a couple of days he called to tell us he was ready to deliver the cabinets. I cried and told my husband that I just knew they wouldn't fit because the man had built them in such a short time. But, when they were installed they were a perfect fit.

His children remember the hand-cranked phonograph he made for them and how their friends would come over and they would all listen to records and dance. They had a happy home and were a loving family.

That family has grown to include 27 grandchildren and 20 great-grandchildren, including two sets of twin great-grandsons. When they all gather for his birthday he can certainly look around with pride. All of his family and friends and neighbors wish Porter Wilt many more happy birthdays, and lots of chances to make more happy memories.

Yough Resort Property Owners Plan Meeting

A group of individual property owners at the Youghiogheny Mountain Resort banded together several years ago and formed the Youghiogheny Mountain Lake Property Owners Association, Inc. According to Lucille F. Monar, vice president of the group, they now have more than 200 members. The original purpose of the association was to meet with the owners, Piney Mountain Corporation, to discuss concerns and to plan social events and activities for the membership.

The next regular meeting of the association is scheduled for September 14 and will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the resort clubhouse. The agenda includes a discussion of the lawsuit now pending in Circuit Court against Piney Mountain Corporation relating to road maintenance, security and the closing of the clubhouse and swimming pool for the past two years. On the lighter side, plans will be made for a social to be held before winter sets in.

Many members have homes in the resort and quite a few are full-time residents of Garrett County. Any individual property owner, association member or not, is invited to attend the meeting.

Secretaries To Promote County After Three-Day Local Tour

Five secretaries from DNR-Maryland Forest, Park and Wildlife Service recently spent three days touring State lands in Garrett County. The purpose of the tour was to better prepare them to answer the thousands of telephoned questions they receive about Garrett County each year.

Arriving in Garrett County late Sunday evening, they were lodged in one of Herrington Manor State Park's 20 vacation rental cabins. Ten of these cabins are available for rent year round and two are handicap accessible.

The program got underway early Monday morning with a walking tour of Herrington Manor's lake and picnic areas along with the hiking/skiing trails. The tour included a view of the major renovations now underway at the beachhouse.

Ernie Metz, Garrett project forester, then guided the group through several key forest stand improvements projects, logging operations and private tree farms between Oakland and Friendsville. He also explained his dealings with Water Resources regulations and the Soil Conservation Service concerning logging operations. The value of State Forest and private woodlands in the local economy was also outlined by Metz.

At Savage River State Forest, Maryland's largest, Forest Manager Warren Groves not only reviewed the many recreational opportunities available on the forest lands and timber management, harvest programs, but also detailed the 1989 Whitewater Race area. At this point, Jim Rogers, park manager at New Germany and Big Run State Park toured his areas of responsibility with the group. Rogers presented a short history of the Bondtown area at Big Run State Park and the area timbering history.

At New Germany the group walked around the historic Swauger Mill site, mill pond and grave site in the cabin and picnic area. These areas serve thousands of visitors during the summer season and are the parks focal point during the snow season for cross-country skiers and other cold weather enthusiasts.

Returning late in the evening to Swallow Falls, they hiked through the virgin hemlocks and pines to Swallow Falls, the Youghiogheny River Corridor and Muddy Creek Falls. Tuesday morning Mike Gregory, manager of Deep Creek Lake, took them for a boat tour of the lake and described the many resource management considerations involving the lake as well as the recreational opportunities the lake affords.

The tour then continued to Potomac-Garrett State Forest and Forest Manager Joe Mechem as leader. About mid-afternoon the group returned to Deep Creek Lake State Park where Ward Ashby, park manager, guided the group through the entry way of the Brant Coal Mine. The Brant mine was one of many family operated small mines in Garrett County. Visitors can safely view the mine opening, mine carts, tracks and related facilities.

Later Tuesday evening the group returned to Herrington Manor and attended the evening interpretive programs. During the program, all five secretaries were given a certificate attesting to their being better prepared to answer questions relating to facilities in Garrett County and to personally recommend the county to thousands who call them each year.

Local Catholics Plan Catechetical Weekend Study

Roman Catholic catechists in Allegany and Garrett counites will begin their teaching year with weekend workshops designed to help them improve their skills.

Four different topics will be presented in eight locations on September 13, 14, 20 and 21 by the staff of the Division of Religious Education, Archdiocese of Baltimore. "It's a bit like the circuit rider priests of the late 1700's," explained Antoinette Wiseman, area coordinator of Catholic Education Services, in announcing the workshops. "Instead of catechists traveling to a central location which is often inconvenient for busy volunteers, the workshop presenters will travel to the catechists."

Each workshop will be conducted twice; on a Friday evening and on a Saturday morning in different locations. "The repetition of the same topic on Friday and Saturday provides a second chance for a teacher who cannot attend the first time, and an opportunity for everyone to attend a different workshop on different days," Mrs. Wiseman continued.

A-Vs and Their Use Within the Catechetical Setting will be offeed on Friday, September 13, at St. Peter's in Oakland and repeated on Saturday, September 14, at St. Peter's in Westernport; Catechetical Methodology, on Friday the same weekend at St. Patrick, Mt. Savage and again on Saturday at St. Ann, Grantsville. The following weekend, Prayer and Methodology will be presented on Friday, September 20 at St. Joseph, Midland and repeated on Saturday, September 21, at St. Ambrose in Cresaptown, while Meeting the Challenge of Adult Catechesis will be held on the same Friday at St. Michael, Frostburg, and again on Saturday At SS. Peter and Paul, Cumberland.

Three clock hours toward catechist certification will be awarded for each workshop. Pre-registration at a fee of $2.00 per person can be made by calling Catholic Education Services at 777-9082; Registration at the door is $3.00.

Beginning on Wednesday, September 25 at St. Ambrose, Cresaptown, a Teacher Learning Program will also be offered to provide basic training.

From siding to main line

Among railroaders the "high iron" is paramount. That's the main line. That's where the action is. And every nerve in a railroad system is dedicated to keeping traffic moving swiftly and safely along the "high iron."

Yet sidings are important, too — for waiting . . . for coupling . . . for making up the trains that will roll on the "high iron."

There are lots of kids on sidings!

The Church depends on you — parents, leaders, citizens in this community — to bring them where the main line begins.

The future is limitless for that boy or girl who gains a vision of his or her destiny in life, and the spiritual stamina to achieve faithfully God-given potentials.

IS YOUR CHILD OVER ACTIVE?

Often a small child, with a large amount of excess energy, who is very restless, aggressive and impulsive is simply described by loving parents as "all boy" or "she's a little devil." However, it is possible that there is an underlaying cause that could have ill effects on social development as he or she grows older.

Call it to your doctor's attention if you think your child is hyperactive. The earlier the problem is identified, if there is a problem, and helped, the better the social adjustment that will be made. There are certain prescription drugs available for therapy that can be of great help.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

THE MYSTERY
September 15, 1985

Background Scripture:
Ephesians 1 through 2.

Devotional Reading:
Ephesians 1:11-23.

Have you ever stood out under a starry sky or on the rim of a great canyon and wondered, "What's it all about?"

Why is there a universe? Why are we here? What is our destiny? What's the purpose behind it all? For thousands upon thousands of years people have sought to solve the mystery of life.

It is still a mystery. But it is not a mystery because we don't know "What's it all about?", but because the answer to all these eternal questions sounds too mystifying for us to comprehend.

THE PLAN

The writer of Ephesians tells us plainly: "For he has made known to us in all wisdom and insight the mystery of his will, according to his purpose which he set forth in Christ as a plan for the fullness of time..." (Ephesians 1:9, 10). What's it all about? Well, the answer is that behind it all there is God's plan and the universe moves ever onward to the fulfillment of that plan. Everything in this world, everything in life has behind it one single purpose.

And what is that purpose when Christ clears for us the mists of mystery? Says the writer of Ephesians: "...to unite all things in him" (1:10b). So, the mystery is not in that we don't know what God wants, but that what he wants boggles our minds.

What makes this plan of God such a mystery is the state of the world in which we live today. It does not appear that we are on our way to uniting "all things in him." If anything, our world seems little more than a maze of armed camps: in Northern Ireland, the Protestants against the Catholics; in Lebanon, the Christians against the Moslems and the Suuni Moslems against the Shiites; in India, the Hindus agains the Sikhs; in Sri Lanka, the Sinhalese against the Tamils; in much of the world, the Communists against the Democracies; in South Africa (especially but not exclusively) the blacks against the whites.

STARTING HERE

If the distance from where we are to where we ought to be seems so great—and it is—we need to realize that there is first an intermediate step that we haven't taken. Ultimately, the whole of creation is to be made one in him, but first this oneness needs to be demonstrated to the whole universe by the Church. As in the early days Christ broke "down the dividing wall of hostility" between circumcised and uncircumcised, so the Church is intended to continually demonstrate God's plan by bringing people together.

Tragically, too often the churches have perverted the mission of the Church—instead of bringing people together, driving them ever further apart. But that is not God's plan: "He came and preached peace to you who were far off and peace to those who were near."

The mystery of God's plan will be fulfilled only when we go and do likewise.

Hoffman has honor of bringing classic to TV

By Marc Minnelli

"Poignant, shattering and devastating."

"Unforgettable ... all is right and nothing is wrong."

Dustin Hoffman as Willy Loman

These are some of the praises first-night critics heaped on Arthur Miller's explosive "Death of a Salesman" when the play, which examines the life, values and familial relationships of a traveling salesman named Willy Loman, opened on Feb. 10, 1949. Nearly four decades later, years after Lee J. Cobb immortalized the aging, defeated Loman; years after the drama won the coveted Pulitzer Prize; years after Hollywood turned the work into a memorable (albeit slapdash) 1951 film, attention is still being paid.

In 1983, Miller was talking with Dustin Hoffman. The playwright made a suggestion: Why didn't the actor return to Broadway in a revival of "Death of a Salesman"? Hoffman, thinking that, at 45, he was too young to play the 60-year-old salesman, scoffed at the idea. Miller pointed out that Cobb was 37 when he first played the role. "When Arthur first brought up the idea," Hoffman recalls, "I told him he was crazy."

But the actor's biggest fear was the inevitable comparisons he felt would be made between his performance and that of Cobb. "When you're a movie star coming up against Cobb's theatrical image," he explains, "don't think the critics aren't laying for you. But for months, Arthur and I had daily conversations about the part, and finally I said, 'Let's go for it!' "

Several weeks later, on March 24, 1984, Hoffman, supported by a cast including John Malkovich and Kate Reid, opened in "Death of a Salesman." And though the actor's fears were substantiated — those critics who remembered Cobb's performance did indeed make comparisons — Hoffman won nearly across-the-board raves.

"Salesman" became a hit of the theater season, and for those not fortunate enough to have caught the play during its limited run, a three-hour version airs Sunday, Sept. 15 on CBS. The small-screen version, which reunites most of the Broadway cast, was directed by German filmmaker Volker Schlondorff and produced by Hoffman and Miller.

Hoffman says he's grateful to have had the opportunity to work with Miller. "It seems that in our culture, you have to die to get your due," the actor explains. "Here's a guy who wrote something that's just a miracle. As an actor, I had the honor of bringing it to life."

Former Soviet star: U.S. is fitness-crazed

By Renee Ross

Fame has its blessings and burdens in any society, says former Soviet matinee idol and pop singer Alexander Kaletski, who traded his life in the Russian spotlight for freedom in the United States.

Alexander Kaletski

"Celebrity is similar in both countries because the most talented people usually reach the top," says Kaletski, 39, who emigrated to America in 1975. "The monumental difference is that in America, once you become successful, you're more creatively free. You can buy, make or do almost anything you want.

"In the Soviet Union, when you become famous, you are watched and controlled by the government because the public is looking at you as a symbol. And fame doesn't give you too much happiness. There, famous people often drink a lot," Kaletski adds, "and their looks deteriorate quickly. That's because you can drink for free if you're a celebrity in Russia, but you can't do anything else. It's depressing."

After a dazzling career as a TV and film star/songwriter, Kaletski staged an elaborate ruse: After convincing officials he had to visit a relative outside the country, he obtained an exit visa and left the Soviet Union. In the largely autobiographical novel "Metro" (Viking), Kaletski reveals the spirit of the Soviet Union's small, but lively, bohemian underground.

Kaletski, now an American citizen, points out another difference between the Soviet Union and the United Sates — our preoccupation with health and fitness. "It's fantastically crazed and concentrated here," he says. "In Soviet culture, it would be almost unacceptable to see people so involved in how they look. They only think of the time they waste.

"In the Soviet Union, it's great if you look good when you're 25," adds Kaletski, who explains that his own fitness program includes twice-weekly tennis matches. "By age 30, many people forget about looking good."

Kaletski shares his optimism about an improved future between the two nations. "I believe that Russia's younger generation is on the side of freedom and America," he says. "They don't know how to get out of their system, but they're ready.

"I really appreciate my freedom as an American because I didn't always have it," adds Kaletski. "Freedom is like air. If it's always around you, you're not aware of it. But take it away, and you realize its value."

ASK ME ABOUT TV

By Val Carew

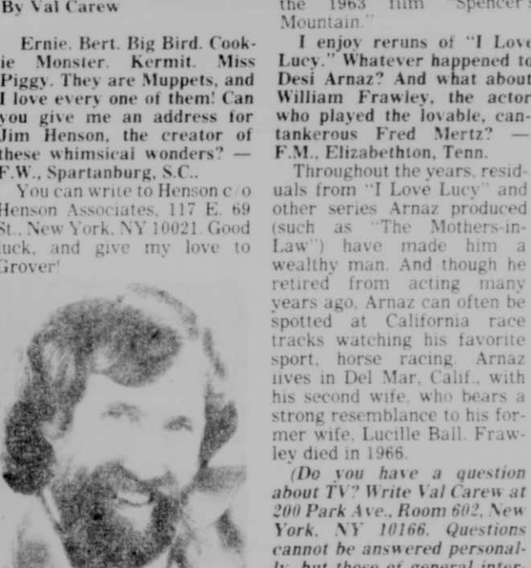
Ernie, Bert, Big Bird, Cookie Monster, Kermit, Miss Piggy. They are Muppets, and I love every one of them! Can you give me an address for Jim Henson, the creator of these whimsical wonders? — F.W., Spartanburg, S.C.

You can write to Henson c/o Henson Associates, 117 E. 69 St., New York, NY 10021. Good luck, and give my love to Grover!

Jim Henson

A local TV station recently began airing reruns of "The Waltons." Can you tell me a little of the show's history? — F.F., Colorado Springs, Colo.

"The Waltons" premiered on CBS on Sept. 14, 1972. The series' last network broadcast was on Aug. 20, 1981. The pilot of the series was the film "The Homecoming — A Christmas Story." It can usually be seen on television during the holiday season. Earl Hammer adapted "The Homecoming" from his own novel; he had previously converted it into the 1963 film "Spencer's Mountain."



I enjoy reruns of "I Love Lucy." Whatever happened to Desi Arnaz? And what about William Frawley, the actor who played the lovable, cantankerous Fred Mertz? — F.M., Elizabethton, Tenn.

Throughout the years, residuals from "I Love Lucy" and other series Arnaz produced (such as "The Mothers-in-Law") have made him a wealthy man. And though he retired from acting many years ago, Arnaz can often be spotted at California race tracks watching his favorite sport, horse racing. Arnaz lives in Del Mar, Calif., with his second wife, who bears a strong resemblance to his former wife, Lucille Ball. Frawley died in 1966.

How has Ricardo Montalban survived the lean years? The answer to this and other questions can be found in "An Interview with Ricardo Montalban," airing Friday, Sept. 20 on PBS. (Check local listings.)

Producer explores art of dance in 'Mirrors'

By Frank Lovece

When James Lipton speaks about "Mirrors," the upcoming TV movie based on his book about dancers, something eerie happens. His words reflect — almost exactly — the words found in an NBC press release.

James Lipton

"Anyone can understand why Baryshnikov dances, why Nureyev dances, why Pavlova and Nijinsky danced — why they became stars, why the public hailed them, why they made lots of money, why flowers were flung at them," Lipton says without pausing for breath. "But what fascinates me are all the dancers who will never be stars, whose carriages will never be unhitched and drawn through the streets by a raging and adulatory public. What about all the dancers I've known in my life who'll make less money than theater ushers, and find themselves thrown out at the age of 35?"

Lipton thinks some answers to his questions can be found in "Mirrors," the two-hour movie he adapted from his critically acclaimed book. "Mirrors," starring newcomer Marguerite Hickey and Antony Hamilton, airs Monday, Sept. 16 on NBC.

Indeed, Lipton is so obsessed with the world of dance that he might have been a dancer himself. Instead, the former law student turned years of writing and theatrical training into two books — "Mirrors" and "An Exaltation of Larks." He's also produced two Broadway shows and such varied TV fare as President Carter's Inaugural Gala, all of Bob Hope's specials and Loretta Lynn's small-screen ventures.

"Most works on dance, as good as some of them have been, simply tell the classic Cinderella story," Lipton explains. "But in real life, dance isn't like that. Dancers spend years putting their bodies through tortures that most of us can only imagine, and usually for only a small reward.

"There's a scene in the movie," Lipton adds, "where Karen (Miss Hickey) and Gino (Hamilton) have to learn a difficult, six-minute ballet sequence overnight. It's their big break, and they're willing to do anything, even though they're under the eye of a grueling, cruel choreographer. We shot that scene in 12 hours, the same time-frame as the story, because Marguerite and Tony wouldn't quit! We tried to stop them, but they wouldn't let us. They wanted to keep working and perfect the scene. And poor Marguerite was bleeding from her bruises when it was over.

"This," Lipton adds, "is dance in real life."

Guzaldo's life is made 'Crazy' by new series

By Gillian George

Joe Guzaldo likes to think of himself as an actor who isn't afraid to take chances. He's proud that his career has been varied, but in 27 years, the actor insists he never envisioned anything as bizarre as the climactic scene in the debut episode of "Stir Crazy," the new series in which he stars. "Stir Crazy" premieres on CBS and Global stations this week.

Joe Guzaldo

There Guzaldo was, dressed as a geisha girl, in the middle of a food fight, sushi whistling past his ears and burly lawmen on his tail as he escaped from prison.

The hilarious action is typical of the shenanigans in which Guzaldo and his "Crazy" co-star Larry Riley find themselves. The series is based on the popular 1980 Richard Pryor-Gene Wilder movie in which two innocent men are wrongly accused of murder. In the small-screen version, they are sentenced (without benefit of a proper trial) to 132 years behind bars.

The concept may not be too original, but Guzaldo insists he's "proud that the treatment and the writing are amazingly fresh."

There's an appealing goofiness running throughout "Stir Crazy," but the show also has a higher degree of intelligence than most sitcoms. And the dialogue (much of it, at least in the pilot, by author Bruce Jay Friedman) crackles with credibility.

Guzaldo, who seems a lot like his character — especially in his bubbling enthusiasm — has no qualms about admitting that he feels "like the luckiest guy in the world. Who would have thought that, just four days after moving to California to try my luck, I'd get a call from CBS that would make me the star of a national TV show?"

Guzaldo paid his dues, mostly back home in Chicago, where he appeared in low-budget theatrical productions. He says that one of his fondest memories will always be calling home to his father's beauty salon to give his parents the good news about "Stir Crazy."

"Dad shut off every dryer in the salon," the actor recalls with a smile, "and made the big announcement. The place went wild!"

Guzaldo's shooting schedule is so busy that he claims he doesn't have time to date. Nor does he have time to find a home in Los Angeles. "There's plenty of time for all that later," he says. "Right now, I'm just trying to get used to the stretch limos and the crazy hours."

Pilon graduates from school to soap operas

By Kimberly Redmond

Daniel Pilon, the actor who plays Max Dubujak on "Ryan's Hope," has become one of my favorite actors. Could you give me information on his previous work? — D.S., Madison, Wis.

Daniel Pilon

Pilon, a former history teacher who has a master's degree from McGill University, spent two years working for Montreal Canada's Expo '67 before he was asked by a Canadian movie director to appear in a film about Quebec. Pilon later attended the London Academy of Music and Dramatic Art, studied voice and acting and made several movies in Europe before returning to Canada. Pilon was also featured in the John Wayne film "Branigan."

After moving to Los Angeles, Pilon was featured on various series, including "Dallas." He appeared on the nighttime CBS soap at the same time he was starring in "Ryan's Hope." Pilon also starred in five episodes of "Romance Theatre," a syndicated series that was filmed in Lima, Peru, where the actor met his future wife, Susana.

I always enjoyed Catherine Mary Stewart's performances as Kayla Brady on "Days of Our Lives." What's happened to the actress, now that she left the soap? — A.B., Nashville, Tenn.

Since leaving her "Days" behind, Miss Stewart has starred in the sci-fi films "The Last Starfighter" and "Night of the Comet." This year, she starred opposite Doug McKeon in "Mischief." The actress was also in the miniseries "Hollywood Wives." Later this year, she will be seen in the CBS miniseries "Sins."

Pen Pals Formed By Found Balloon

A pen pal relationship was recently formed between the Mark and Donna Durst family of Oakland and the family of five-year-old Jenilee Robinson from Ontario, Canada. The families discovered each other when a balloon was found by the Durst children, Ryan, Erika and Adam. The balloon had been launched by Miss Robinson for a church school project.

The Dursts helped their children respond and soon they received a letter from the Canadian family and now, several months later, the families are still keeping in touch.

The Robinsons told the Dursts that Jenilee has become very popular because she corresponds with an American family.

Entertainment Tax Revenue Drops

State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein said today that Marylanders spent $314,765,255 on taxable entertainment during Fiscal Year 1985, about 3.9% less than the $327,945,135 spent during the previous fiscal year.

"Spending for movies increased, while spending for admissions to athletic events and on coin-operated amusement devices declined sharply," Goldstein said, noting that Fiscal Year 1985 was the first year without a fall season of professional football in Maryland in many years.

Maryland's counties, cities and towns received $18,970,125 in admissions and amusement tax revenues during Fiscal Year 1985, or 4.8% less than the $19,935,972 distributed to the subdivisions for Fiscal year 1984. Garrett County received $84,908, compared to $90,069 in FY '84.

Spending for entertainment included $55,541,408 for movies (up 4.1%) producing $3,641,219 in tax revenue. The declining popularity of coin-operated amusement devices was reflected by the $40,369,003 spent in that category during Fiscal Year 1985, a steep drop of 21.5%, compared to the $51,422,095 spent during the previous fiscal year. Tax revenue generated by the devices totaled $3,084,265, a decline of more than 18% compared to the $3,766,103 generated in that Category in Fiscal Year 1984.

Sports fans spent $26,862,576 for admission to athletic events, down 24.2% from the $35,470,013 spent during the previous fiscal year. The $1,979,557 in tax revenue produced in that category was a decline of 32.8% from the $2,945,847 in tax revenue generated in Fiscal Year 1984. Spending for gold activities increased by 16.3%, to $18,332,197 and provided $1,028,703 in admissions and amusement tax revenues. Live theatre and concertgoers spent $8,606,852, yielding $518,951 in tax revenue.

Patrons spent $9,400,318 for admission to night clubs and $81,340,513 for refreshments and other merchandise in night clubs and other locations to which an admission is charged.

Admissions and amusement tax rates are set by local elected officials, while the tax receipts are collected by the State Comptroller's Office and distributed to the local subdivisions.

American Red Cross Reaffirms Policy On Directed Donations

The Johnstown Region of American Red Cross Blood Services, of which Garrett County is a part, recently reaffirmed its policy against directed donations, the provision of blood and blood products to blood recipients given by individuals selected by the donor and his family.

Mario Ritter, M.D., medical director of the Johnstown Region, explained that the possibility of transfusion-associated Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome (AIDS) has resulted in numerous requests throughout the 28-county region for directed donations.

He reassured blood recipients and their families of the safety of donated blood and blood products, reiterating a joint statement made by the Red Cross, the American Association of Blood Banks and the Council of Community Blood Centers.

"There is no reason to think that segregating individuals into selected donor panels will provide safety over and above the level provided by current arrangements. In addition, a system of directed donations may create intense pressure on family and friends who may therefore be untruthful about their ability to meet donor requirements."

Dr. Ritter said that steps taken by the Red Cross and other blood-banking systems to prevent the transmission of AIDS by blood transfusion include questions in the blood donor medical history interview to screen out those possibly at risk and the testing of all blood and blood products for the presence of the HTLV-III antibody, which may indicate exposure to the HTLV-III virus, which is believed to cause AIDS.

In the spring of 1983, blood collection systems began to inform all potential blood donors of the symptoms of AIDS and provided a means for individuals in high-risk groups to exclude themselves as blood donors.

The medical health interview given all blood donors questions them about the appearance of AIDS symptoms, contact with individuals who have AIDS, and travel to Haiti and Zaire, areas at high risk for contracting AIDS. Those who have symptoms associated with AIDS, have been in contact with AIDS victims, or have been to Haiti or Zaire are deferred from giving.

The medical health interview contains questions designed to protect both the health of the donor and the recipient; for example, those individuals with colds or flu, a history of heart disease, or who have had hepatitis or yellow jaundice are deferred from giving blood.

In March 1985, the Johnstown Region joined other blood collection systems in testing all blood and blood products for the HTLV-III antibody. Since then, Dr. Ritter explained, the Center for Disease Control has reported that the screenings performed may have removed as many as 1,000 potentially infectious units of blood from the U.S. blood supply.

"Continued use of this highly sensitive test procedure for HTLV-III antibody, in combination with voluntary avoidance of donation by members of high-risk groups," he commented, "will virtually eliminate the risk of acquired immune deficiency snydrome transmission by the nation's blood supply."

He explained that a positive test for the HTLV-III antibody does not necessarily mean that an individual has AIDS, but that he or she has been exposed to the HTLV-III virus. "Our experience with this disease is so new, we don't know if individuals who test positive will all go on to develop the disease."

All units of blood are screened for the HTLV-III antibody using the enzyme immunoassay (EIA) test, similar in nature to the test performed on all units of blood for the hepatitis B virus.

All units that test positive are retested, and those that test positive on the retest are removed from the blood supply, and blood samples are sent for re-evaluation using the "western blot" test.

"With these steps to prevent the transmission of AIDS through blood and blood products, our blood supply is safer than ever," Dr. Ritter said. "There is no need for directed donations."

He continued, saying that directed donations could, in fact, endanger the community's blood supply. "There is risk that widespread attempts to direct donations, while not increasing the safety of transfusions, will seriously disrupt the nation's blood supply system.

"Voluntary donation is essential for meeting our nation's needs for blood and blood products. There is a real concern that donors may refrain from routine blood donations while awaiting requests to provide directed donations and, thereby, could disrupt the blood supply to the point that routine and even some emergency needs for transfusions may go unmet.

"Blood must be readily available at all times. It's too late to recruit blood donors once the emergency occurs."

Health Education Center Receives Federal Grant

Senator Charles McC. Mathias, Jr. (R-Md.) announced recently that the Cumberland Area Health Education Center has received a $40,500 special initiatives grant from the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services for a geriatrics training program for local health professionals.

The program, scheduled to start October 1, will provide seminars for doctors, nurses, psychologists, social workers and pharmacists who work with the elderly in Garrett, Allegany, and Washington counties. Allegany County currently has the highest percentage of elderly in Maryland, with 50% of health patients age 65 or older.

The Cumberland Area Health Education Center is operated by the University of Maryland at Baltimore School of Medicine and is funded by the State of Maryland. This is the third federal grant awarded to the Center since it opened in 1976.

For more information on the program, persons may contact Donald Spencer, executive director of the Cumberland Area Health Center, at (301) 777-9150.

His wife, Rhonda, is the daughter of Robert R. and Rosetta Rodeheaver, of Oakland.

He is a 1974 graduate of the U.S. Air Force Academy, Colorado Springs, Colo.

Cadet Fred A. Bell III, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred A. Bell Jr., Oakland, has completed a J.S. Air Force ROTC field training encampment at McClellan Air Force Base, Calif.

Field training, attended by cadets normally between their second and third year of college, gives an opportunity to evaluate each student's potential as an officer, according to an Air Force spokesman.

The summer's curriculum consists of orientations on jet aircraft, career opportunities, human relations education and equal opportunity training. Physical fitness and survival training is also emphasized.

The field training is four weeks, but cadets in the two-year ROTC program receive an additional two weeks of instruction in the development of air power and the contemporary Air Force.

Bell is a student at West Virginia University, Morgantown.

Melrose S. Hanft, daughter of Walter C. and Myrtle M. Hanft, Rural Route 2, Accident, has completed training in fundamental military skills at the Army ROTC basic camp at Fort Knox, Ky.

The basic camp is designed to give junior college graduates and college sophomores who have not taken ROTC courses the chance to enter the program. The camp also qualifies high school graduates for the ROTC program at any of the nation's six military junior colleges.

During the encampment, cadets received training in basic rifle marksmanship, military drill and ceremonies, communications and individual and small unit tactics.

Hanft plans to enter the ROTC program at Loyola College, Baltimore, and is a student at Towson State University.

Airman Randy J. Knotts, son of Delbert K. and Dotty M. Knotts, Rural Route 1, Oakland, has been assigned to Sheppard Air Force Base, Texas, after completing Air Force basic training.

During the six weeks at Lackland Air Force Base, Texas, the airman studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special training in human relations.

In addition, airmen who complete basic training earn credits toward an associate degree in applied science through the Community College of the Air Force.

The airman will now receive specialized instruction in the medical services field.

He is a 1985 graduate of Southern High School.

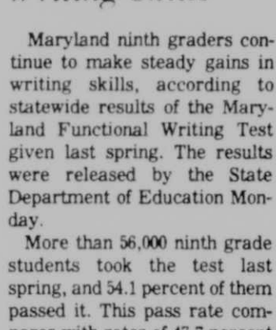
Sgt. Gary W. Rodeheaver, son of Ruth J. Wilson and Donald E. Rodeheaver, both of Accident, has been named outstanding non-commissioned officer of the year for the 3rd Brigade.

The non-commissioned officer was chosen from a select group of peers who were judged on military bearing and knowledge, professional skill and exemplary behavior.

Rodeheaver is an armored-vehicle mechanic with the 1st Battalion, 52nd Infantry in West Germany.

He is a 1982 graduate of Northern High School.

Army Sgt. 1st Class Samuel J. Sisler, son of Florence Sisler, Rural Route 3, Oakland, has arrived for duty at Fort Benning, Ga.



Sisler, a dining facility manager with the 197th Infantry Brigade, was previously assigned in West Germany.

He is a 1965 graduate of Southern High School.

Marine Lance Cpl. Joseph A. Jenkins, son of James R. and Brenda C. Jenkins, Friendsville, recently reported for duty with 2nd Marine Division, Camp Lejeune, NC.

He joined the Marine Corps in June 1984.

Local Student Taking Drafting, Design Course

Steven John Williams, son of Darrell and Catherine Williams, Friendsville, has been accepted to the Arundel Institute of Technology in Baltimore. He has enrolled in the two-year drafting and design course.

Williams has received the Chesapeake and Potomac Assoc. of Private Schools scholarship and the Best Products scholarship for the 1985-86 year.

He was also the recipient of the Garrett County Vocational Award in drafting and graduated in the top ten percent of his class at Northern High School.

Maryland Students Making Gains In Writing Skills

Maryland ninth graders continue to make steady gains in writing skills, according to statewide results of the Maryland Functional Writing Test given last spring. The results were released by the State Department of Education Monday.

More than 56,000 ninth grade students took the test last spring, and 54.1 percent of them passed it. This pass rate compares with rates of 47.7 percent in 1983, the first year the test was given, and 51.4 percent in 1984.

"The results indicate a small but significant improvement," commented Deputy State School Superintendent Joseph L. Shilling. "In an area as complex as writing," he said, "such improvement comes only with a lot of hard work by teachers in all subject areas."

In taking the test, students are asked to write one brief narrative composition and one brief explanatory composition. These writing samples are assessed according to 15 specific writing objectives.

Hospice Seeking New Volunteers; Class Scheduled

A new class will begin this evening, September 12, at 6:30 p.m. at the McHenry campus of Garrett Community College for the training of persons interested in being a hospice volunteer.

More volunteers are needed to help with the caseload of terminally ill patients in Garrett County, according to Wayne R. Johnson, executive director of Hospice of Garrett County. People with some spare time and want to help are asked to contact GCC Oakland Center at 334-8266 to register. The cost is $10.

Classes run from September 12 for 10 weeks and will include topics such as death and dying, bereavement, listening skills, hospital care, funeral arrangements, community resources, What is Cancer and Understanding the Cancer Patient. Each three-hour class will be held in a different location according to the topic being discussed.

"This is a very worthwhile class even if one should decide not to actively participate with Hospice," Johnson said. "We hope, however, if one takes the class they would offer time to Hospice patients and their families."

Your landlord's fire protection, for instance, covers the structure, but not your personal property. A tenant's policy covers YOUR clothing, YOUR furniture, YOUR stereo.

Liability coverage will protect you from lawsuit in case someone is injured in your home or elsewhere (not in an auto; that's another type of coverage) as a result of your activities, or if a guest's belongings are lost through your negligence. You'll also be protected if you cause damage to the landlord's property.

How much insurance? Enough to cover your belongings and protect your assets.

"Coors goes to a lot of trouble to avoid a little heat."

Why?
Because heat can hurt the taste of beer...any beer. So Coors keeps their beer cold as long as possible.
After it's packed cold at the brewery, all Coors beer is shipped in refrigerated trucks and insulated rail cars to Coors distributors around the country.
And the cold doesn't stop there.
All Coors distributors keep Coors in special cold rooms inside their warehouses. It costs a lot more and it's kind of a hassle; but Coors knows it gives you a beer with a difference you can taste.
That's why Coors—and only Coors—goes to all that trouble. To give you a better tasting beer. A beer that's a little less heavy, never bitter, but with all the spirit of a great beer.

Coors is the one.

Anita Rodeheaver, Stephen Cononie Exchange Vows In August Ceremony

Wedding vows were exchanged August 3 by Anita Elaine Rodeheaver and Stephen John Cononie. The double-ring ceremony was held at the Oak Grove Church of the Brethren, McHenry, with Rev. Donald Matthews and Father Martin Feild officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Rodeheaver, Accident. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Cononie, Windber, Pa.

Mrs. Gay Rodeheaver was the pianist and Mrs. Nina Wagner was vocalist.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father and given in marriage by her parents. She wore a gown of taffeta featuring a sweetheart neckline with a dropped Basque bodice and puffed sleeves edged in lace. The full skirt fell in tiers edged with lace and accented by taffeta roses. She wore long white gloves and a picture hat of lace with a back flip and pouf face veil of waltz-length bridal illusion.

Her only jewelry consisted of pearl earrings and necklace. She carried a cascading bouquet of white roses, pink carnations, stephanotis, baby's breath and fern.

Matron of honor for her sister-in-law was Sherry Rodeheaver, Del Rio, Texas. Bridesmaids were Pamela Morseberger, Stowe, Pa., friend of the bride; and Annette Cononie, Windber, sister of the bridegroom. Michelle Lohr, Brunswick, Ohio, cousin of the bride, and Connie Cononie, Windber, sister of the groom, registered the guests and distributed the wedding bulletins.

Serving as his cousin's best man was Mark Paulochik, Windber. Ushers were Gary Schein, Laurel, cousin of the groom, and Philip Rodeheaver, Accident, brother of the bride.

A reception was held following the ceremony at Will O' the Wisp, Deep Creek Lake. The cake was baked by Terri Georg and served by Mrs. Shirley Lohr, aunt of the bride. The three-tier cake featured pink roses and a lighted pink water fountain topped by wedding bells. Music was provided by Patrick Gregg and the wedding and reception were video-taped by Dave Davis.

For a trip to Sannibel Island, Fla., the bride chose a white linen suit with blue accessories. Upon their return, the couple set up residence in Gaithersburg.

The bride is a graduate of Northern High School and Tri-State Beauty Academy. She is employed by the Hecht Co. Hair Salon in Gaithersburg. The groom is a graduate of Windber Area High School and is employed by Potomac Valley Landscaping, Potomac.

A rehearsal dinner was hosted by the parents of the bridegroom at Penn Alps, Grantsville.

The bride was honored at several bridal showers; one given by her cousins, one by her co-workers, and one by the mother and sisters of the groom. Out-of-town guests attended from Florida, North Carolina, Texas, Ohio, Pennsylvania and Maryland.

Griffith-Rodeheaver Vows Recited In Double Ring Ceremony June 22

Tracey Loraine Griffith and Gerald Allan Rodeheaver were united in marriage on Saturday, June 22, at Grace Lutheran Church in Friendsville. The double-ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Stephen F. Yelovich.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry H. Griffith, Friendsville. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton H. Rodeheaver, Bruceton Mills, W. Va.

Given in marriage by her parents and escorted to the altar by her father, the bride was attired in a traditional floor-length gown of white Maracaine jersey. Her gown featured a Queen Anne neckline, a long, full sheer sleeve gathered with a sheer band and a semi-empire waistband with a slimline skirt flowing into a cathedral train. The bodice and waistline were accented with imported Venise lace.

A fingertip-length tier of silk illusion along with a blusher, fell from point d'esprit Camelot headpiece accented with seed pearls and Venise lace. Appliques of Venise lace also adorned the fingertip-length tier.

The bride carried a bouquet of cascading silk roses and carnations accented with baby's breath. White silk streamers tied in love knots completed the bouquet of roses.

Shelly Lloyd, Friendsville, served as matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Debra Ross and Sherry Sisler, both sisters of the bride.

The attendants were attired in lavender full-length gowns and carried bouquets of silk roses and carnations, accented with baby's breath and streamers. Each wore baby's breath in her hair.

The groom was attired in a white tuxedo trimmed in white satin. He wore a lavender boutonniere.

Randy Spear, Friendsville, served as best man. Ushers were Mark Bennett, Friendsville, and Gary Rodeheaver, Bruceton Mills. The groomsmen were attired in grey tuxedos and also wore lavender boutonnieres which matched the attendants' gowns.

Trena Griffith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Griffith, Morgantown, W. Va., served as flower girl. She wore a floor-length white polyester gown trimmed in lavender. Her hair was also adorned with lavender flowers.

Michael Bingley, nephew of the groom, served as ring bearer and was attired in a grey tuxedo with a lavender boutonniere. He carried a white heart-shaped pillow.

The mother of the bride wore a full-length rose dress and the mother of the groom wore a lavender dress, both with matching corsages.

The fathers were attired in grey tuxedos and wore boutonnieres that matched the mothers' dresses.

Wedding music was provided by Cindy Frantz and soloist was Jackie Martin who sang "The Wedding Song."

Spencer Schlosnagle registered the guests.

A reception followed the ceremony at the Friendsville fire hall. A three-tiered cake was baked and decorated by Loreta Harding, Friendsville. The cake was accented with purple roses and a wedding court.

Deep lace ruffle framed front and back bodice. The skirt fell from a raised waistline and had front lace panels ending in a deep lace underflounce skirt and full tiered lace chapel train. The lace accented bishop sleeves had deep lace and ribbon trimmed cuffs. Her headpiece was a nylon acetate lace cap with a tulle fingertip veil edged with lace to match her gown.

She carried a white lace fan with silk pink roses, white daisies and burgundy mini azaleas and pink streamers.

In keeping with tradition, the bride wore her grandmother's watch, she tucked a pink handkerchief, that was borrowed from her aunt, in her sleeve and wore a handmade blue garter.

Serving as her maid of honor was Carrie Martin, cousin of the bride, who wore a pink lace gown with high stand-up collar, deep lace ruffle trimmed bodice and long lace sleeves. She wore a garland of silk pink roses, white daisies and burgundy mini azaleas. She carried a white lace fan that matched the bride's.

LOOKING FOR ADVICE

Often there is an important real estate decision to be made, such as to sell or keep and rent out inherited property. With such big dollars at stake, it would make sense to have a professional sit down with you and put all the pros and cons down on paper so you can make a rational decision.

Most experienced residential specialists can be hired on a fee per service basis as consultants. The compensation can be arranged on an hourly, daily, weekly, or by-assignment basis. You're buying the specialist's experience and knowledge just as you would if you were hiring the services of a lawyer or accountant.

Important questions need to be answered and you need professional input. Should you sell? What return can you expect? What will be the tax consequences of the sale? Is it the right time to sell? Would the house be a good rental property? Would it be wiser to rent or put the profit into financial instruments? It pays to have the facts before you make any business decision.

Parents Invited To Class Ring Night At SHS

For the first time ever, parents of juniors at Southern High School will be given an opportunity to be present when students order class rings, according to a release from the school.

Representatives of Josten's will be at Southern High School on Wednesday evening, September 18, to display the official Southern High School class ring for the class of 1987 and to take orders. The program will begin with a short movie at 7 p.m., followed by a discussion of ring choices led by Steve Posey, company representative.

Refreshments will be available as the students and their parents view the displays and prepare to place orders. A $25.00 deposit is required with each order. Rings ordered on Wednesday evening will be delivered prior to the Christmas holiday.

The official class ring for the Class of 1987 was designed last spring by junior class officers Dwayne Liller, Leigh Knotts and Christine Chaney, with the assistance of Mrs. Sonia Pratt, Southern High School art teacher, and an artist from Josten's ring division. The ring design incorporates symbols that are special to Southern High School students. A large selection of other rings and many options will be available for viewing by parents prior to ordering.

Posey will return to the school at a later date to take orders from those students who are unable to attend the special event on Wednesday evening.

Information about the class rings has been distributed to students this week to take home to share with parents prior to placing orders.

THE OAKLAND HIGH SCHOOL CLASS OF 1940 held its 45th reunion on Saturday, July 27, with a dinner at the Oakland Country Club. Over 60 classmates and their guests attended the gathering. Former teachers attending the reunion were Ernest Spoerlein, Carl Everly and Dorothy Edwards Frame. A spokesman for the class said the reunion was in keeping with a plan originated in 1970 to have a reunion of the class every five years. The final reunion of the class will be the 50th year in 1990. During the business portion of the reunion, John Grant was selected as chairman, and Harry Turney as co-chairman in charge of arrangements for the 50th reunion. The date for the last reunion is scheduled for the last Saturday in July, 1990.

Eleven Killed In Traffic Mishaps

Reports received from law enforcement agencies throughout the State of Maryland disclosed that 11 persons lost their lives in traffic accidents during the week ending September 8.

Of these fatalities, four were drivers, three were passengers, three were pedestrians and one was a bicyclist. Preliminary investigation of these accidents revealed that alcohol was a contributing factor in three deaths, speed in two and driver error in seven.

Fatalities in Maryland through September 8 total 499, compared to 433 during the same period last year.

SANG RUN

Mrs. Pauline Railey visited Mrs. Doris Rodeheaver Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Terry Skipper and Mrs. Guy Mayle, Charlotte, N.C.; Mrs. Freda Mae Schramm, North Plainfield, N.J.; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Mayle, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Gaster, Baltimore; Keith Mayle, Harold Mayle, Lineboro; Mr. and Mrs. Ray Mayle, Wendy and Glenn, Waldorf; Mr. and Mrs. Brett Chambers, Indian Head, visited Mr. and Mrs. Milton DeWitt the past week to attend the funeral of Mrs. E. May Mayle. Other visitors were Mr. and Mrs. Michael Mayle and sons, Weymouth, Mass., and Mrs. Dorothy Thomas, McHenry.

Correction Noted

An article in last week's edition of The Republican concerning the new parsonage for the Swanton-Kitzmiller United Methodist Charge incorrectly stated that the building of the parsonage was largely due to the efforts of the Swanton charge. It should have stated that it was a joint effort of the Kitzmiller, North Glade, and Swanton United Methodist Churches. We apologize to those congregations omitted and to Pastor Ogden for the error.

Events Slated At Herrington Manor, Swallow Falls

Several events have been slated for this week at Herrington Manor/Swallow Falls State Parks, according to Buck Jarusek, park interpretor.

There will be a campfire program at Herrington Manor Thursday, September 12, at the Amphitheater. The program will be on mountain herbs and their use. It will start at 8 p.m. and will last 1½ hours.

There will be a 4½ mile track walk on Friday, September 13, at 10 a.m. The walk will deal with tracking wild game. Part of the Herrington Manor Folk Program, the walk will begin at the Herrington Manor Boathouse and will last 2½ hours.

On Saturday, September 14, there will be a beaver dam walk starting at the Swallow Falls Office at 3 p.m. This walk will be along Tolliver Creek to a beaver dam. It will be 2½ miles long and will last 2½ hours.

At Swallow Falls, there will be a campfire program in the park amphitheater. This program will be a trapping demonstration, along with winter slides of the area. This program will start at 8:30 p.m. and will last 1½ hours.

There will be a canyon trail walk on Sunday, September 15, at Swallow Falls. The walk will be along Muddy Creek and the Youghiogheny River. Visitors can expect to see virgin timber along with natural waterfalls. It will begin at the park's large lower parking lot at 10 a.m. and will last 1½ hours.

All of these activities are open to the general public. Persons desiring more information may contact Herrington Manor State Park at 334-9180.

Refosco Notes Southern High Parking Changes

Southern High School has instituted some changes in parking lot procedures this year to improve the safety of all individuals at dismissal time, according to Arthur Refosco, principal.

The administration has instructed that all passenger vehicles be parked facing Oak Street and exit on to Oak Street. No vehicles other than school buses are to use the area between the flag pole and the front of the school between 3 p.m. and 4 p.m. All passenger vehicles are to yield the right of way to school buses. The speed limit on the parking lot is 15 m.p.h.

Parents wishing to pick up students at the end of the school day are requested to follow these parking and traffic regulations as well, Refosco said. Limited parking space is available and individuals are requested not to loiter on the lot. Public cooperation with these changes is requested, he concluded.

The Oakland FFA Alumni are planning to attend the Doeblers Annual Hybrid Corn Field Day on Sunday, September 15. Doeblers is located near Jersey Shore in Clinton County, Pa., and has approximately 2,000 acres in corn-seed fields, an eight acre research plot, a seed-sizing plant, and all new equipment.

Doeblers are paying all transportation costs and will provide a meal for the group after their arrival at the field day.

The bus will be leaving the Southern High School Vo-Ag Building at 6:30 a.m. and returning sometime that evening.

All FFA Alumni and interested farmers are welcome to attend and may register for the trip by calling 334-1580 between 8 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. or (304) 789-6095 after 5 p.m. and on Saturday.

Committee Cites Need For Sound 1985 Farm Bill

"We need sound farm policy that helps Maryland farmers, but also has fiscal restraint," stated Olin S. Davis, Jr., chairman of the Maryland Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee. Davis reiterated the Reagan Administration's bill goals at the close of a recent committee meeting in Baltimore.

New legislation is needed to replace the four-year law which expires at the end of this month.

Davis' comments on behalf of the State ASC Committee closely followed the resumption of the farm bill debate by the Congress in Washington last week, and the committee's conference with Secretary of Agriculture John Block. "We just 'met' with Secretary Block by telephone, and as his representatives on Federal farm policy here in the State the committee wanted to pass on some of what was discussed," Davis said.

"Our major objectives are the same as when the legislative process began earlier this year," Davis said. "Three objectives are central to the Administration philosophy.

"First, we must become more competitive in world markets. Reducing price and income support levels is essential, so that we send a clear signal to our competitors that we are serious about regaining lost export markets. We must no longer hold the price umbrella for the world.

"Second, we are committed to a policy of compassion for farmers. That means we want to spend enough money to carry our producers through a transition period as we work toward a reduction in farmer dependence on government.

"And, third, we recognize the need to reduce the Federal deficit. So, we believe the new farm bill should adhere to the Congress' spending limitation. That will mean less and less annual Federal outlays for farm programs."

He also itemized some things being proposed as part of the new farm bill that the State Committee agreed were unacceptable.

"Mandatory controls are unacceptable. Most farmers want less government control, not more," Davis said.

"Marketing loans with unlimited budget exposure are not acceptable. The cost could be tremendous with a program that would allow farmers to take out loans at one price and pay them off at the market price," he continued.

"We oppose freezing target prices. This would encourage more agricultural production than we need, because of the guaranteed price.

"We also oppose the proposed dairy diversion program. We've already tried that, and it doesn't work. The cost to government would be high. The cost to consumers would be high. And, it would get the government deeper into the dairy business with inequities in the dairy industry as a result.

"And, finally," Davis said, "We oppose a simple extension of the present farm legislation. Why keep programs that price farmers out of the world markets at a tremendous cost to taxpayers?"

Farmers Urged To Install Roll Bars On Tractors

More farmers in America would escape death or injury if they had ROPS, according to Gary L. Smith, safety specialist for the University of Maryland Cooperative Extension Service.

ROPS, Smith explains, is an acronym for "Roll Over Protective Structure," a specially designed frame that fits over the cab of a tractor and protects the farmer if the machinery tips over.

He cites figures from the National Safety Council and the National Institute for Farm Safety, which along with other organizations are trying to persuade farmers to install ROPS on their tractors and to use their safety belts.

"Several hundred American farmers are killed in tractor overturns each year, and many more are disabled," Smith says.

Only 25% of the 4.5 million tractors in the U.S. are equipped with ROPS, Smith adds, even though studies show that the number of severe injuries and deaths associated with tractor roll-overs drop when ROPS are installed and used in conjunction with safety belts.

"It also helps the farmer's balance sheet," says Smith. "A farmer's investment in a ROPS today will prevent lost time, costly medical expenses and crop losses in case of an overturn accident."

Many manufacturers are offering special prices on ROPS to get farmers to adopt them, according to Smith.

Some older tractors, however, cannot be retrofitted with the structural devices, he says.

Corn Crop Hits Record High; Loans Available

The nation's 1985 corn crop is forecast at 8.27 billion bushels, eight percent above last year's 7.7 billion bushel production and a record high. The previous record was 8.24 billion bushels in 1982. The total includes 59.8 million bushels of Maryland corn, according to USDA's August crop production report.

Olin S. Davis, Jr., chairman of the Maryland State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, said corn loans will be available for the Maryland farmers who participated in the 1985 farm programs. The loan rate is $2.82 per bushel. To obtain a price support loan on their 1985 crop, corn growers must have suitable storage on their farms, or have the use of an approved warehouse.

Maryland farmers expect to harvest 650,000 acres of corn this year, compared with the total 590,000 acres harvested last year. The average yield per acre is forecst at 120 bushels, up from last year's 115 bushels.

According to Davis, Maryland farmers enrolled 300,000 corn acres in the 1985 feed grain acreage reduction program. "These farmers may wish to store their corn crop after harvest to take advantage of future price increases," he said. "If so, a price support loan will provide them with operating cash at this time." He said the stored grain serves as security.

Corn prices on the farm are expected to average between $2.50 and $2.70 a bushel this season.

The ASCS official said the eligibility of 1985 corn for the farmer-owned grain reserve will be determined by USDA after the regular 9-month price support loans mature.

Farm Bill Review

. . . . . A Garrett County Viewpoint

by Bernice Kepple

We all know that the 1985 Farm Bill is currently being tossed about by Congress, but how many of us know what the Farm Bill (or lack of a Farm Bill) will mean to small and part-time farmers in Garrett County and across the nation. Have no doubt, it will affect us all. The government's idea of a farm doesn't include the type of farming a lot of us do. As a matter of fact, small farmers don't exist in the minds and plans of those "in charge."

Lynn Miller, editor of The Small Farmer's Journal, attended the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Journalists' Conference on the 1985 Farm Bill in Washington, D.C. Miller reported in his publication a number of statements made at the conference by USDA officials that left no question as to the direction they will be taking.

I've chosen just a few of those random USDA quotes to prove the point.

"I would like to see a redefinition of 'farm' to include those of a gross income of no less than $40,000."

"USDA price support payments should not go to small farms, especially if they are receiving any off-farm income."

"The continuing agriculture depression of the 1920s dragged down small towns and eventually pulled the nation into the great depression. The crisis in agriculture that we see today is not as bad as 1920. At that time there were 25 foreclosures per thousand farmers. Now we are seeing 2.5 foreclosures per thousand farms," stated Dr. Wayne Rasmussen, USDA historian.

I'd like to note that according to government statistics there were over 30 million farmers in 1925. Today there are 2.5 million farmers which makes the percentage of foreclosures equally devastating.

To go on with the encouraging words from USDA officials: "We need to maintain growth in agricultural productivity through new research findings. Bio-technology and genetic manipulation is the most important area of research. We must place a higher priority on increased productivity versus less-costly inputs."

Just what we need, increased productivity, which usually means decreased profitability, and shouldn't they mean "less-costly imports"?

And to show what may be in the future for some of us, the USDA officials said, "This season four percent of the farmers may not make it."

"There are 650,000 mid-sized family farms, of those one-third have liquidity problems and financial stress."

"FmHA has no choice but to foreclose on inefficient farms," this statement was made by Frank Naylor, Under Secretary for Small Community and Rural Development.

With attitudes like these, and the amount of confusion surrounding the Farm Bill, how can anyone understand what the implications might be? Extension Agent Jim Simms says that it takes a Philadelphia lawyer just to read the bill.

Add to this the Reagan Administration's budget resolution passed in July which targets $35 billion for agricultural programs for the next three years. The cost of the provisions already proposed by Congress range from $50 to $60 billion, explaining why Jack Matthews of the Maryland Farm Bureau, for one, expects a presidential veto of the bill even if it manages to get through both the Senate and the House. President Reagan is on record as saying that the farm program in this country costs too much.

Matthews thinks most congressmen feel the same way and will try to please their constituency by putting a lot of "goodies" into the bill because they know it won't pass anyway.

A good strong secretary of agriculture might be able to clear up some of this mess, but I don't think we can count on John Block when rumors have it that he may be asked to resign prior to the 1986 elections to protect midwest Republican senators who will be running for reelection.

After a recess during the month of August, Congress resumed action this week and the 1985 Farm Bill is now in committee. An aide to Senator Paul S. Sarbanes says that even members of congress don't know what the final bill is going to look like. "We are as up in the air as anybody else," the aide said.

The current farm program dates from 1981 and expires on September 30. It seems clear that no 1985 Farm Bill will be passed by that date. If that is the case, two alternatives exist: temporary legislation can be passed extending the current program giving Congress time to complete a new farm bill; or if nothing is done, the law will revert back to the original 1949 farm program. That alternative might look good to dairy farmers, since the milk price support level would jump to about $16.25 per hundred weight on October 1 from the present $11.60, but most realize that they would pay dearly on down the road.

I will attempt to cover the 1985 Farm Bill as it moves around Capitol Hill and maybe untangle some of its complexities, but your help is needed. Call or write The Republican with your concerns and questions regarding the 1985 Farm Bill so that all Garrett County farmers can learn about it together. Remember, it's your livelihood and destiny in the hands of these officials in Washington, D.C.

Farm Credit System Faces Severe Crisis

Donald E. Wilkinson, governor of the Farm Credit Administration in Washington, D.C., confirmed last week that the Farm Credit System, the nation's largest farm lender, is facing its most severe crisis since the Depression and could be forced to begin liquidating within two years unless the federal government comes to the rescue.

Wilkinson said increased losses in the system's mortgage lending arm will result this year in the first operating loss since the 1930's for the 37-bank, $74 billion system.

At a recent news conference, Wilkinson said that he will begin exploring with Congress and the Reagan administration ways in which the government can help the system survive a severe crunch expected to hit within 18 to 24 months.

"If we are unsuccessful, we will begin to face the necessity of possible liquidation of portions of the Farm Credit System," including some of its regional banks, Wilkinson said. "This, I think, would be a very unfortunate situation to permit to happen."

While many are unaware of the extent to which the system is tied into America's financial network, Wilkinson said, many institutions, including banks and insurance companies, are major holders of Farm Credit securities.

He declined to specify the size of federal bailout that will be needed, but said it will be "multibillions of dollars." Members of Congress familiar with farm lending have put the potential cost to taxpayers at $5 billion to $20 billion.

Of the $74 billion in farm loans the system holds, more than $11 billion are classified as "non-performing," meaning they are past due and not generating income. Senate Majority Leader Robert Dole said after a meeting last Thursday with a top FCA official that the system may be holding $25 billion in "poor-quality" land loans.

The Farm Credit System, founded early this century to make easier credit available to agriculture, is cooperatively owned by its farmer-borrowers and raises money through bond sales.

Willie Nelson Plans Concert To Help Farmers

FarmAid, a 12-hour live concert to help the nation's struggling farmers, is to be held at the University of Illinois' football stadium in Champaign, Ill., on September 22. The concert was suggested by country singer Willie Nelson and will be modeled after Live Aid, the trans-Atlantic concert that raised millions of dollars for starving Africans earlier this year.

Since FarmAid was his idea, the singer-songwriter has said he would have to make sure the money goes "where it has to." At least 25 percent of U.S. farmers are in serious financial trouble for a variety of reasons, including high interest rates and declining land values, authorities say. The total U.S. farm debt of about $212 billion will carry interest in 1985 of about $21 billion, $58 million a day.

Farm leaders from around the country gathered last week for a meeting with Nelson and Illinois Governor James R. Thompson to discuss how to spend the millions of dollars expected from the FarmAid concert. Nelson called the meeting to get input from farmers and grassroots organizations on what to do with the money raised, stated the governor's spokesman.

Nelson has suggested the money could be used for low-interest farm loans, but added that "people have to figure it out who are smarter than me." Organizers say that it is difficult to speculate on how much money a concert like this could raise, but added that it might generate $40 to $50 million.

All 78,000 tickets for the show, which sold for $17.50 each, were sold in three days last week. In addition to Nelson, the concert will feature the Beach Boys, Billy Joel, B.B. King, Waylon Jennings, Bob Dylan, and about two-dozen other top name performers from rock, country and blues music.

Should You Cut Alfalfa Now?

The answer to that question is NO! A lot of Alfalfa fields are severely damaged by cutting in late fall followed by a killing frost before the Alfalfa can make the ideal regrowth. It is recommended that the Alfalfa plant has 6 weeks to establish after the last cutting before a killing frost. After a couple of killing frosts you may then harvest the Alfalfa or graze on it. If you put your animals on it make sure they do not over-graze.

Dairy Support Price Could Hit $16.25

Don't hold your breath, it is unlikely and virtually impossible, but no action by Congress before October 1 could mandate a milk support price of about $16.25 per cwt. With no action of the 1985 Farm Bill prior to the August Congressional recess and a limiting budget resolution passed the day of adjournment there is a strong possibility that the debate on the Farm Bill will extend past the September 30th deadline. If this happens and action is not taken to continue the current dairy support program effective legislation would revert to the last permanent act, the 1949 Agricultural Act. The 1949 Act requires a minimum support level of 75% of parity. This would mean a support price from the current $11.60 to about $16.25 per cwt. Obviously an increase of nearly $4.65 in the support price would be short lived, but cause a real turmoil and be harmful to the total dairy industry. Secretary of Agriculture John Block does not favor a continuation of the $11.60 per cwt. support price, but would rather see the passage of the 1985 Farm Bill. It is, however, reported that Congressional leaders would support a resolution to continue the current $11.60 price support level if a four year Farm Bill is not ready by September 30, 1985.

Maryland Farm Accident Rate Shows Decrease

Wednesday's child is, supposedly, full of woe. But farmers in Maryland now have something to cheer about on Wednesdays, for according to recently released statistics, Wednesdays are probably the safest day of the week to work.

However, Saturday's child, who has to work hard for a living, is most likely to have an on-farm accident, the same figures say.

For the first time in 10 years, the farm accident rate in Maryland has dropped, according to Gary L. Smith, a safety specialist with the University of Maryland's Cooperative Extension Service.

According to a survey, on-farm accidents dropped more than 40% from those reported in 1974.

Figures on Maryland farm safety in 1984 are based on a survey of 584 farms in the state conducted by the Maryland Farm Bureau women's committee and chapters of the Future Farmers of America.

According to the survey, Saturdays are the most dangerous days to work, followed closely by Fridays and Sundays. Wednesdays are the safest.

Nearly half of all on-farm accidents during 1984 happened in the period just before lunch and that just after lunch, according to Smith.

Predictably, most accidents occurred during the period March to October when planting, tending and harvesting operations are at their peak, Smith adds.

While just over half of all accidents resulted from working with a tractor or other piece of machinery, a nearly equal number took place around the farmstead, in the building area rather than out in fields.

What kind of farmer suffered the most in 1984? According to Smith, half of all accidents happened on dairy farms while those farms only make up less than 15% of the farms in the survey.

Of the 42 accidents reported, more than half were classified as severe and required medical care. And while there were no fatalities in 1984, 4% of the accidents were classified as permanent injuries.

For each injury, the average farmer lost just over two weeks of work and it cost him just under $400 to pay medical bills resulting from the accident, Smith says.

The accident rate translates to 9.1 accidents per 100,000 worker-days.

Hot, Dry Weather Speeds Harvesting

Maryland farmers received only scattered showers this past week with temperatures as much as six degrees above normal. This allowed farmers nearly seven days suitable for fieldwork, according to the Maryland Crop Reporting Service. Major work completed during the week consisted of harvesting corn silage, some grain corn, tobacco and the few vegetables which were still left in the field.

Corn condition fell to mostly fair on the Eastern Shore, but remained in mostly good condition west of the Bay. Corn that had reached the dough stage stood at 95 percent on September 8. This is slightly behind 1984's 100 percent but equal to the normal pace. Ninety percent of the corn crop has dented, well ahead of 1984's 65 percent dented and 15 percentage points above the average amount dented.

With dry, hot weather the corn crop is maturing rapidly. By September 8, 35 percent of the corn crop had matured, well ahead of the 15 percent in 1984 and slightly ahead of the normal 30 percent mature by this date. Corn silage was 40 percent cut and in the silo by September 8. This lags behind the 50 percent cut by this time last year and the 45 percent cut in an average year.

Grain corn harvest got under way during the week with five percent of the crop now harvested. This is slightly ahead of the three percent harvested by this date in 1984 and the normal three percent harvested.

The third cutting of alfalfa hay is completed in all areas of the State, equal to last year and the average third cutting completion date. The fourth cutting of alfalfa hay was completed on 35 percent of the acreage. Last year 25 percent of the crop had been cut four times by September 8. The average fourth cutting for this time of year is 35 percent. Some fifth cuttings may be done later in September. The fourth cutting of other hay was 40 percent completed by week's end.

Peach harvest was completed during the week, just slightly ahead of 1984 and average harvest of 95 percent. Apples remain in mostly good condition with harvest 35 percent complete. This is equal to last year and slightly ahead of average 30 percent harvested.

Vegetable harvest is nearly completed. Watermelons and cataloupes are all harvested now except for a few scattered fields. All other major vegetables have already been harvested.

WEATHER

Weather for the week ended September 6 was hot and dry with temperatures averaging 4 to 6 degrees above normal. High temperatures were mostly in the mid 90's with one station reporting a high of 98 degrees. Low temperatures, which occurred early in the week, were mostly in the mid to upper 50's. Precipitation averaged only .13 inches with the majority of the rain falling in Western Maryland and the lower Shore.

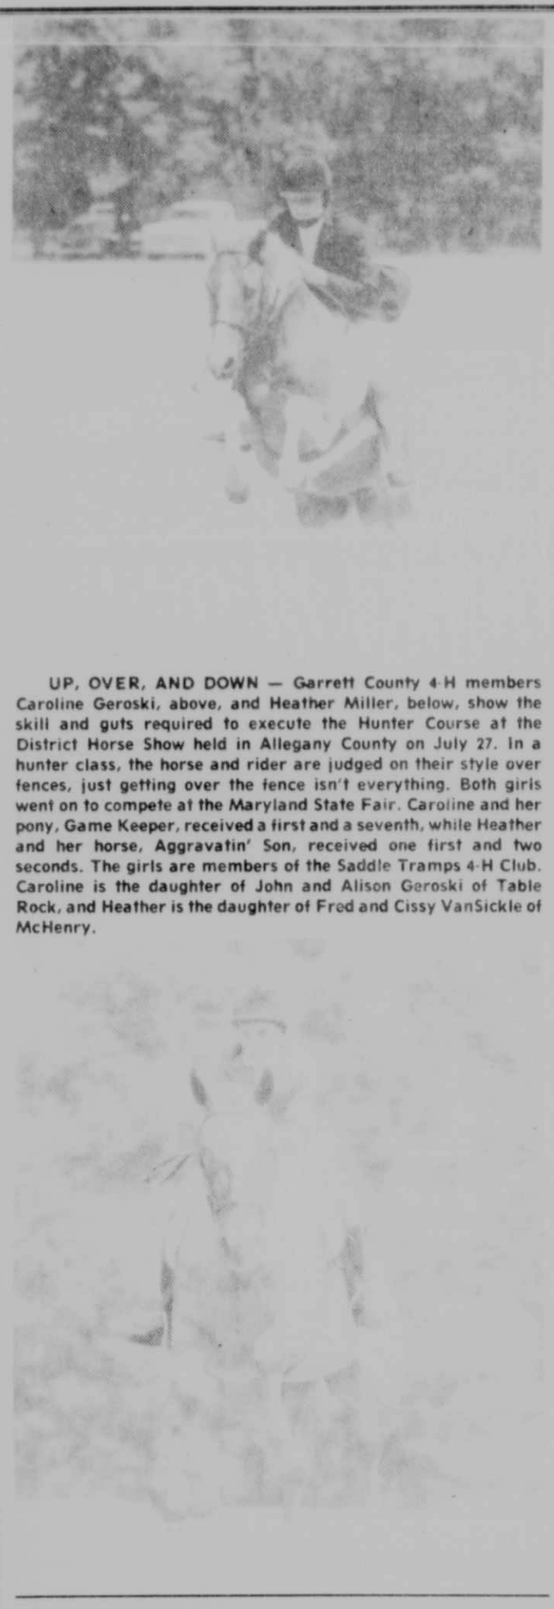
4-H Equestrains Shine At State Fair In Timonium

Garrett County sent six 4-H Horse Project members to the Maryland State Fair in Timonium to participate in the 4-H State Horse Show. According to Extension Agent Ted Sprangel, they came home with many ribbons and represented Garrett County well.

The following individuals placed in the top ten of the following classes:

Cindy Cerroni of McHenry, riding Good Intent Sox, placed first in Stock Seat Equitation, first in Command, third in Western Pleasure, fifth in Trail, seventh in Horsemanship, and tenth in Western Riding.

Liz Sisler of Friendsville, riding Seek A Choice, placed fourth in Western Halter for Geldings, fifth in Sr. Grooming and Showmanship, sixth in Horsemanship, seventh in Stock Seat, and seventh in Command.



Heather Miller of McHenry, riding Aggravatin' Son, placed first in Hunter Under Saddle for Horses, second in English Halter for Geldings, and second in Hunter Seat Equitation.

Caroline Geroski of Oakland, riding Game Keeper, placed first in Jr. Handy Hunter, and seventh in Hunter Under Saddle for Ponies.

Stephanie Wilt of Rawlings, riding Buckeye Win, placed first in Command, second in Halter for Horses, second in Grooming and Showmanship, second in Western Pleasure, second in Western Riding, third in Trail, sixth in Western Equitation, seventh in Western Horsemanship, and Reserve Champion Halter Horse for the show.

Amy Glotfelty of McHenry, riding Logo, placed fourth in Pony Halter, and ninth in Western Pleasure Pony.

The 4-H members were invited to attend the State Fair Horse Show after qualifying at the District 4-H Horse Show in Allegany County on July 27.

UP, OVER, AND DOWN — Garrett County 4-H members Caroline Geroski, above, and Heather Miller, below, show the skill and guts required to execute the Hunter Course at the District Horse Show held in Allegany County on July 27. In a hunter class, the horse and rider are judged on their style over fences, just getting over the fence isn't everything. Both girls went on to compete at the Maryland State Fair. Caroline and her pony, Game Keeper, received a first and a seventh, while Heather and her horse, Aggravatin' Son, received one first and two seconds. The girls are members of the Saddle Tramps 4-H Club. Caroline is the daughter of John and Alison Geroski of Table Rock, and Heather is the daughter of Fred and Cissy VanSickle of McHenry.

Judge Getty Postpones Retirement

Judge James S. Getty of the Maryland Court of Special Appeals announced that his retirement has been postponed for at least one month.

Judge Getty had planned to retire August 31. However, during a recent trip to Annapolis, he made the decision to stay active for another month.

Judge Getty stated that Judge Robert C. Murphy, chief judge of the Court of Appeals, and Judge Richard P. Gilbert, chief judge of the Court of Special Appeals, persuaded him to make the decision. The two judges informed Judge Getty that his services are needed to avoid a backlog due to the fact that Gov. Harry R. Hughes has not yet taken action to fill his vacancy.

Judge Fred A. Thayer of the Garrett County Circuit Court is one of the five persons who are being considered to fill the vacancy.

John "Red" Fuller, a parolled killer who is paying his debt to society through ministry, will speak at the Sang Run Pentecostal Church, Wednesday through Sunday, September 11-15, at 7:30 each evening.

Twenty years ago Fuller shot and killed an elderly woman during an armed robbery. The murder was a culmination of seven years of burglaries, robberies, jail sentences and escapes. He was 20 years old at the time.

Now, at 41, Fuller spends his time trying to repay his debt and help other people avoid the life he led for so many years.

Fuller's home life was poor, his father was an alcoholic, and at age 13 he took to the streets, and to crime. By the time he was 17, he had been in and out of reform school twice, had been convicted of receiving and concealing stolen property and was on his way to the state penitentiary for three years.

After his parole at age 19, Fuller broke into a house to steal weapons. He intended to use those weapons to go back to the prison and kill the guards who had mistreated him in prison. But he was caught during the burglary, and received yet another jail sentence. This time, however, he broke out of jail and ran away to Georgia, where he met a young woman who was also a fugitive.

One night he and the girl decided to pull an armed robbery. It was during that robbery that Fuller shot the woman and was sentenced to life in prison, even though the state had asked for the death penalty.

Fuller spent the next 18 years in prison, thinking he would never be parolled. He escaped four times, became addicted to drugs, and became friends with other convicted killers.

But in October of 1978, Fuller's life began to change, largely because of the efforts of the late Rev. Jack Solomon, a Pentecostal evangelist who held services at the prison. Fuller later became the first and only inmate ever licensed by the United Pentecostal Church to practice ministry while still incarcerated, and soon established a church in the prison.

Since his release, Fuller who subsequently married Solomon's widow, has preached in 33 states. "I'll never be able to repay the debt to the family for the life I took," Fuller said, "but I feel like I've paid my debt to society."

Sheriff Finch Is Remembered At Convention

The Maryland State Sheriff's Association held its 19th Annual Conference in Ocean City, September 6-8 and dedicated its program to the memory of Garrett County's late sheriff, Franklin G. Finch.

A special ceremony was held on Saturday, September 7. Mrs. Rosalee E. Finch, Sheriff Finch's widow, was presented with a special commemorative plaque from the Maryland State Sheriffs' Association in memory of Sheriff Finch's dedication to law enforcement and devotion to the citizens of Garrett County. Part of the special presentation consisted of a reading of the June 27, 1985 Editorial from The Republican Newspaper. In addition to the special presentation and ceremony, the convention booklet was also dedicated to the memory of Sheriff Finch.

Mrs. Finch was accompanied by her two daughters, Rebecca and Stacy, and Louise Martin, who worked for the late Sheriff Finch.

State Jobless Rate Declines, County's Rises

A slight decline in Maryland's estimated unemployment rate, from 4.5 percent in June to 4.4 percent in July 1985, is reflective of the State's stable labor force, according to statistics released by the Maryland Department of Employment and Training. The lowest unemployment rate for a July since 1973, this month's rate is nearly a full percentage point below the 5.3 percent recorded in July 1984.

Garrett County's jobless rate on the other hand, rose slightly in July, from 9.0 in June to 9.5 percent. However, the July rate was down considerably from the July 1984 figure of 11.5 percent. Between June and July, Maryland's civilian labor force increased by an estimated 16,347 persons to total 2,306,924. The number of persons employed grew by an estimated 16,312, for a total of 2,204,688. The number unemployed increased by only 35 to reach 102,236. Both the labor force and employment hit all-time record levels. Over the year, the labor force has expanded by 30,353 persons, employment has grown by 49,014 and unemployment has declined by 18,661.

In Garrett County, 1,091 persons out of a workforce of 12,064 were unemployed in June. In July, 1,144 out of a workforce of 12,093 were jobless.

Of the State's total unemployed, an estimated 33 percent received unemployment insurance benefits in July 1985.

During July, seasonal hiring occurred in local and federal governments: business, architectural and engineering services; membership organizations; finance, insurance and real estate industries; agribusiness; and construction. However, layoffs were noted in education, school bus driving, trucking, water transportation and in apparel, textile and primary metals manufacturing.

The national unemployment rate also edged down from June's 7.5 percent to 7.4 percent in July. In June, only Kansas, New Hampshire and Massachusetts had lower unemployment rates than Maryland. Unemployment among black persons, nationally, rose to 16.0 percent in July from June's 15.2. In Maryland, the unemployment rate among black persons, reported annually, was 9.3 percent in 1984. In the Baltimore metropolitan area, the unemployment rate eased down from 5.3 percent in June to 5.2 percent in July. During July, hiring was noted in local and federal governments; in finance, insurance and real estate industries; and in non-electrical machinery manufacturing. Layoffs were observed in education, food processing, apparel and textile manufacturing, school bus driving, trucking, water transportation and trade.

Unemployment in Maryland's suburbs of the Washington, D.C., metropolitan area was stable at 2.9 percent.

Western Maryland's employment rate rose from 7.4 to 7.8 percent. Layoffs were noted during the month in textile mill product manufacturing and in education.

In the balance of the state, the unemployment rate edged up from 5.6 to 5.8 percent. In that area, employment gains were recorded in food processing and in local government, while employment losses were noted in school bus driving and education.

Statewide, during July, Maryland's unemployment rates ranged from 2.4 percent in Montgomery County to 11.9 percent in Somerset County, was the only county with a double-digit rate.

AFSCME Roads Contract Signed By County Board

A two-year contract was signed Tuesday by the Board of Garrett County Commissioners and the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees (AFSCME) for employees at the Garrett County Roads Department, according to Commissioner John Braskey, who made the announcement at a press conference that same day.

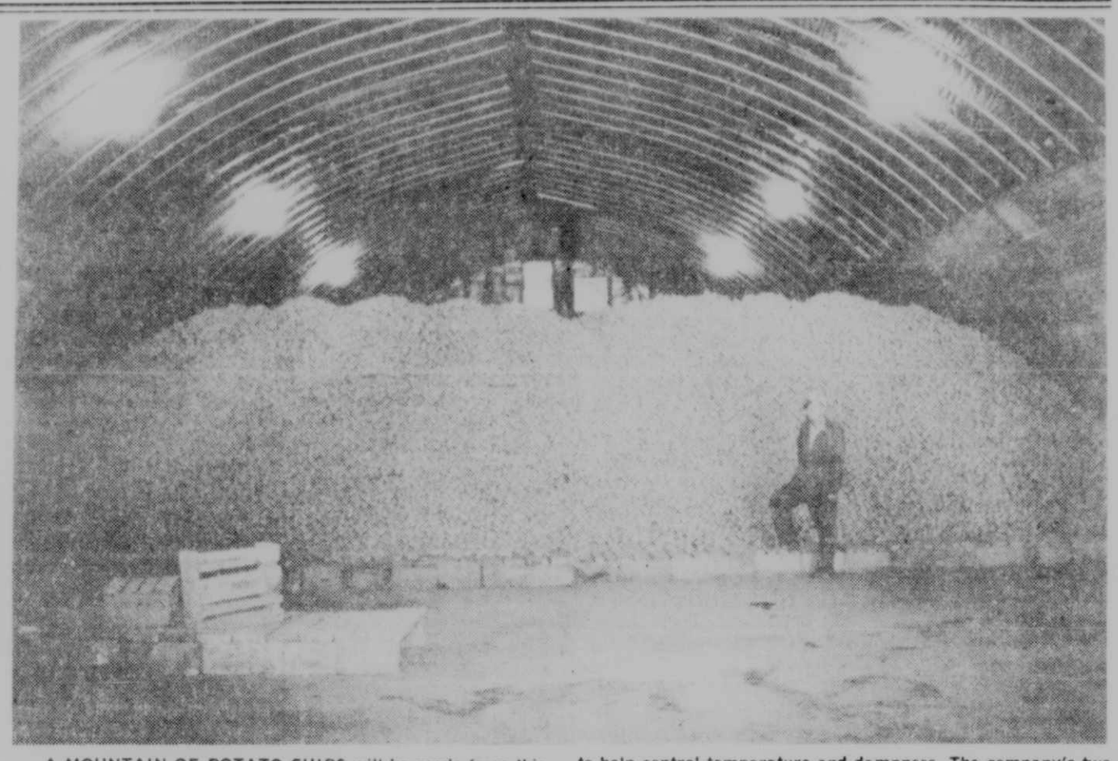
The two-year union contract provides for a yearly 6% wage increase for both this year and next. It also upgraded the pay scale classes for tandem truck drivers and mechanics.

Present for the contract signing were the commissioners, county clerk, Robert J. Fousek; roads administrator, Paul Shockey, union representative, Harold Fox Jr.; union steward, Mary Lyons; and roads employees, Michael Phillipi, James Baker and Julius Kinser.

Braskey said the chief negotiator for the county was Robert Fousek.

Public Info Meeting

At Tuesday's press conference, Commissioner Ernest Gregg Jr. announced that the commissioners would be conducting a public information meeting concerning the possible implementation of a special rescue squad tax.



The proposed special tax, which would represent $.02 per every $100 assesed in real estate tax, is being considered to aid in the funding of the two local rescue squads. Currently, $.05 per $100 assessed is distributed to the 11 local fire departments in the county.

The meeting, which is scheduled for October 1, at 7 p.m. at Garrett Community College, is being set to provide vital information and to solicit public sentiment on such a tax, Gregg said.

Approve Budget

Commissioner Elwood Groves II said Tuesday that the board had approved the final draft of the Garrett County Board of Education budget.

The final budget figures were presented to the commissioners on Tuesday morning by Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, superintendent of Garrett County Schools.

A MOUNTAIN OF POTATO CHIPS will be made from this barn full of potatoes grown and harvested by Harvey Brothers Farms, Inc., and stored in their barns near Deer Park. Bob Harvey is pictured in front of the mound of potatos that is contracted to Snyders of Berlin to be made into potato chips. The wooden boxes in the foreground are used to form forced-air ducts to help control temperature and dampness. The company's two storage barns can hold a total of 70,000 hundred weight of potatos. With every 100 pounds of potatoes making 27 pounds of potato chips, chip lovers everywhere should be happy with the potato harvest this year at Harvey Brothers Farms. See story on page 7.

Pilot Found Dead As Search Ends For Missing Plane

A search for a single-engine airplane piloted by a Frostburg native ended Monday night when a local citizen spotted it in Wetzel County, W. Va., according to reports filed by the West Virginia State Police.

The deceased pilot, Nelson C. Harvey, 33, Baltimore, was found in the pilot seat of the downed aircraft, police said.

Harvey was reportedly flying the plane from Baltimore to Xenia Airport near Dayton, Ohio, to meet his father, who resides in that area. However, authorities said no flight plan had been filed.

Wetzel County is located in the northwest portion of West Virginia.

On September 8, approximately 140 firemen and rescue squad personnel from Garrett County searched for the plane in the northern end of Garrett County.

IT'S UP . . . IT'S DOWN . . . IT'S UP — The 320-foot radio tower for Christian radio broadcasting station WAIJ has been erected for the second time in one year. The tower was erected last fall in the Grantsville area. In June, vandals cut a set of guy wires on the east side of the tower that supported the structure causing it to hit the ground with 2,000-3,000 pounds of pressure. Damages were set at over $60,000. The culprits have never been apprehended. The station has remained in operaion on a slightly limited basis while the tower was down.

Enrollment Figures At Garrett Nearly Equal With Previous FTEs

Registration figures, as of yesterday, at Garrett Community College are running about equal with last year's full-time equilvalency (FTE), according to the dean of academic affairs, Dr. Lillian Mitchell.

At a GCC board of trustees meeting Tuesday evening, Dr. Mitchell said the final FTE rate at the end of last year stood at 157.42 and at the end of the work day Tuesday, this year's FTE rate was 150.48.

The FTE rate, one day later, on Wednesday afternoon was slightly over 153.

"With registration at the college running through September 24, it's not inconceivable that we may even exceed last year's FTE," said Dr. Mitchell.

A head count of total students registered for the fall semester this year was reported at 513 Tuesday at the board meeting. A breakdown of that total shows 219 of those students are full-time, while 294 are parttime students. Last year's total was 569. Dr. Mitchell predicted that at least 20 additional registrations would have been received yesterday.

Acting president, Dr. David Puzzuoli noted that out of 177 new applicants last year, 100 actually registered, or 56% of the total. This year, out of 179 new applicants, 134 actually registered, or 75% of the applicants.

"With many of our neighboring colleges showing a decrease in enrollment figures, I feel our numbers are highly significant here at Garrett," said Dr. Puzzuoli.

Audit Report Delayed

Jim Murray, representing the firm of Rodeheaver and Associates, reported that the audit report was incomplete at this time and asked the board of trustees to submit a formal application for an extension on that report which must be filed with the state by October 1.

The board unamimously approved that decision. Murray stated he would have a complete audit report for the trustees by the next board meeting in October.

Last Series Of Rabies Clinics Slated Next Week

The last series of rabies clinics scheduled for 1985, sponsored by the Garrett County Health Department, will be held next week throughout the county.

The fall rabies clinics offer area residents a chance to have their dogs and cats vaccinated against this disease at a low cost.

Over the past two years, Maryland has led the nation in the total number of reported rabies cases. In 1984, Garrett County reported 23 cases of this disease, while 13 cases have been reported thus far in 1985. In addition, the epidemic is continuing to spread to new, previously unaffected areas of the county.

The Garrett County Health Department strongly urges all residents of the county to protect themselves and their families by having all their domestic cats and dogs vaccinated against this disease. The vaccinations given will protect both dogs and cats which are over one year old. Animals between three months and one year old will be protected for one year by this vaccine.

Clinic times and places are as follows: Oakland Armory, Monday, September 23, from 5-6:30 p.m.; Bittinger fire hall, Tuesday, September 24, 5-6 p.m.; Swanton Community Building, Wednesday, September 25, 5-6 p.m.; Kitzmiller Community Building, Thursday, September 26, 5-6 p.m., Friendsville fire hall, Friday, September 27, 5-6 p.m.

A fee of $3 per animal will be charged to cover the cost of the clinics. Dogs should be on a leash under the control of a responsible person at all times. Cats should be brought to the clinics in a wire cage or a tightly secured box with air holes.

Pet owners are reminded that this is the last series of rabies clinics for this year.

Southern Band Captures Two Class A Titles

The Southern Garrett Band and color guard participated in double competition Saturday in the West Penn Circuit and returned home victorious from both.

The marching band captured first place in the Class A competition at McGuffy High School in Claysville, Pa. on Saturday afternoon, while the color guard won best silks and rifles. The band also won for best percussion.

The band then travelled to McKeesport, Pa. for their second competition of the day at McKeesport High School and marched away with first place in the Class A division. Once again, the color guard took best silks and rifles. The award-winning band is under the direction of Richard Clever.

A spokesman from the Band Boosters said yesterday that the Southern Garrett Band Winterguard has been invited to participate in a competition in London, England. Guards from throughout Europe are also expected to participate in this prestigious event, according to the spokesman.

Note: A complete story on the London invitation and a feature of the Winterguard will appear in a future edition of The Republican.

Scenic & Wild Rivers Review Board Meeting Called For October 2

Dr. Torrey C. Brown, secretary of the Department of Natural Resources has confirmed that a meeting of the Scenic & Wild Rivers Review Board has been scheduled for Wednesday, October 2, in Annapolis. Brown stated that the specific purpose of this meeting will be to review the recommended membership to the Youghiogheny River Local Advisory Board.

All of those individuals recommended have been approved by the board of Garrett County Commissioners, and Sec. Brown was advised of this by letter on September 13.

The members of the Scenic & Wild Rivers Review Board include: Sec. Brown from the DNR; Constance Lieder, Sec. of the Department of State Planning; Adele Wilzack, Sec. of the Department of Health & Mental Hygiene; Wayne Cawley, Sec. of the Department of Agriculture; and Garrett County Commissioner Elwood L. Groves II, who shall be a voting member of the board only on matters pertaining to the wild portion of the Yough River.

In a letter to the review board members, Sec. Brown explained that on July 13, 1983, he was requested by the Garrett County Commissioners, Senator John N. Bambacus, and Delegate George C. Edwards to reorganize the then existing Yough River Local Advisory Board. He then states that he agreed with their request to disband the Yough board and to reappoint a new board "within three months." This course of action was formally approved by all Scenic & Wild Rivers Review Board members on October 24, 1983.

Brown further stated that he felt part of the delay in finalizing the board membership has been caused by a disagreement between the Garrett County Commissioners and the DNR regarding the appointments, because of the commissioners position that no special interest groups be represented on this board.

He went on to say in the letter that they are now at the point of agreement and that the local advisory board should be appointed. The October 2 meeting has been called due to the request of Sec. of State Planning Lieder to review the nominees credentials. As her reason for this request she said, "I do not know anything about the persons nominated nor anything about their qualifications. Lacking that, I respectfully de-

Northern Students Outstanding With Functional Writing Scores

The county and state scores of the Maryland Functional Writing test for ninth grade students were announced at a public meeting of the Garrett County Board of Education last Thursday afternoon.

At Northern High School, 85.6 percent of the ninth graders passed the test, while the total at Southern High School was only 22.4 percent.

The average number of students passing in the state was 54 percent, and the county average was 46.6 percent.

Al Ringer, assistant superintendent in curriculum and instruction, made the announcement, stating that the scores of Northern High School students may be the best in the state.

At Northern, a total of 160 ninth graders took the test, with 137 students passing it. At Southern , 57 out of the 254 students who took the test passed it. Eighteen students in the county passed with a perfect score—all at Northern.

Ringer stated that the score needed for passing is a 5.5. The average score at Northern, including those who failed the test, was a 6.4.

Ed Green, Northern High School principal, said, "I am extremely proud of our student body and teaching staff. They both worked very hard to prepare for the test, and although I am happy that they scored well, it is more important that they have become better writers."

Ringer said, "I am very proud for the students at Northern and feel very badly for those at Southern. We, as a system, have much work to do in preparing students to write as they are tested by this particular test.

"I don't have a good explanation for the difference, because the same material was sent to both schools. We need to determine what Northern did to prepare for the test that Southern didn't do."

Ringer continued, "These test scores will have a big impact on the future of the students. Even if 50 percent of those who failed in ninth grade pass the test in each of the coming years, 50 or more students won't graduate because they haven't passed.

"This is an instructional, student, and parent problem, and we must unite forces to do better."

Board members also discussed the County Council of the Parent Teacher Association. President Julia Sines stated that she was concerned for the council and asked that PTA presidents take a census to determine whether the council should be continued.

Several PTA presidents voiced their concerns about the numerous bus routes in the northern end of the county due to the renovation of Northern High School. They feel that some action should be taken to make out-of-county visitors aware of bus schedules in the county, especially during the winter months. Suggestions

Garrett County Habitat is an affiliate of international Habitat, a housing ministry dedicated to eliminating substandard housing. No government funds are used in the construction of Habitat housing. All money is raised locally by the Fund Raising Committee.

For more information persons may call 334-1731 or write P.O. Box 363, Oakland, Md.

PERFECT SCORES on the Maryland Functional Writing Test, which was administered last spring, were recorded by 7 students at Northern High School, where 85.6 percent of all students passed the test. This represents one of the highest, possibly the highest, pass rates for any high school in the state of Maryland. Of the 160 ninth graders at Northern who took the test, 137 received passing scores with a combined average of 6.4. The passing score for the test is 5.5. Students above are the students who earned perfect scores and were presented certificates by Paul Harr, Garrett County Basic Education coordinator. Pictured left to right, front row, are Eric Yommer, Jenni Golden, Sheli Bittinger, and Rodney Lipscomb. Grand Jury For September Term Convenes; Makes Recommendations

The Garrett County September Term Grand Jury convened on September 9-10 to review various county officials and departments. No indictments were presented, but Cpl. Michael Mattingly of the Maryland State Police outlined a recent case as an example of the investigative process of his department.

During the two-day review, the Grand Jury heard reports from the sheriff of Garrett County, M. Van Evans; Garrett County roads administrator, Paul Shockey; superintendent of Garrett County schools, Dr. Jerome Ryscavage; Garrett County treasurer, Arzella Parsons; and the Board of Garrett County Commissioners, Ernest Gregg Jr., John Braskey and Elwood Groves II.

Treasurer

The county treasurer explained the county budget and the billing process. Parsons also outlined the appropriation system and the investment of county monies. She recommended that the Grand Jury investigate reasons the county does not receive its state income tax refund much sooner than the receipts of over a year. The concern of the jurors is that the state is using the county share of tax monies and drawing interest, which they feel should be the county's additional revenue.

Board of Education

The superintendent of schools presented an overall view of the Garrett County educational system and updated the plans of renovation to Northern High School.

Dr. Ryscavage presented the completed school board budget and reported on sources of revenue and student performance on CAT tests. He noted that 100 additional students were enrolled this year over last. The superintendent also answered questions concerning Garrett County teachers' salaries versus the state's schedule.

Sheriff's Department

Sheriff Evans gave a brief history since his service in the department concerning the number of deputies, salaries, standards and qualifications of deputies and availability of manpower.

The sheriff also reported that the department, through their own savings, recently obtained a four-wheel drive vehicle. Evans again requested the Grand Jury to aid in the requisitioning of funds for more manpower, the upgrading of the salary of existing staff and the retention of overtime allocations.

Roads Department

Roads Administrator Paul Shockey reported on the condition and maintenance of the county roads. He told the Grand Jury that 70% of the roads budget is used for fall and winter maintenance, especially in snow removal, and that the balance is used for spring and summer maintenance.

He also detailed his departments plans for the conversion of dirt roads to paved roads.

County Commissioners

The commissioners responded to questions and recommendations presented to them concerning landfill, hospital, community college, resort center, Wisp area, county jail, coal industry, court system, airport and Youghiogheny Corridor.

Following those reviews, the Grand Jury broke into committees and visited the following areas and made recommendations and/or comments concerning each building and its operation.

Garrett County Memorial Hospital

The Grand Jury committee was given a tour of the hospital by Charlotte Bock, director of nursing. Listed are their comments:

1. The hospital appears to be in excellent condition.
2. Cleanliness, good maintenance, modern and updated equipment seemed to prevail throughout the hospital.
3. The committee was extremely impressed with the facility.
4. We think the county is fortunate and should be proud in having such an outstanding facility in the local hospital.

Garrett County Courthouse

A Grand Jury committee toured the courthouse, the sheriff's department, including the food preparation area, several prisoner holding areas and office areas and made the following comments and recommendations:

1. We found the entire area very well organized, clean and with adequate space.
2. The sheriff expressed some frustration over the security of the entrance area into the jail. However, we can make no recommendation at this time because the sheriff stated that they were still in the planning stage to change the situation.
3. We do, however, agree that this area poses a security problem.
4. Why do prisoners who require medical examinations have them done by an outside doctor and not the Garrett County Health Department doctor?
5. Our recommendation is that the commissioners help the sheriff's department in hiring at least two additional men for his mobile force.

The committee also visited Emergency Management communications center and said they were both impressed and encouraged to see progress being made in linking all forms of public assistance.

Animal Shelter

Camile Wolfe, a veterinary technician at the shelter, gave the Grand Jury committee a tour of that facility explaining their operations. The committee said that all past recommendations were met with the exception of an exhaust fan being installed in the dark room. The following comments and recommendations were made:

1. We found the general conditions very good.
2. We are concerned that the college dropped the classroom program and we recommend that the college review the program for feasibility of continuance of the program.
3. It has been pointed out to us that there would still be services provided at the shelter even if the classes are dropped.

Roads Department

The Grand Jury committee was hosted on a tour of the department by Shockey and said they found the garage to be neat and orderly. They made the following recommendations for the county commissioners to approve the capital budget bill for:

1. Fencing and lighting around the three county garages.
2. Drainage needed at the Oakland garage.
3. Drain spouts over doors.
4. Fence around ash pile at Grantsville garage.

Board of Education

Following a tour of the administrative facilities, the Grand Jury committee recommended that a cost comparison of a new facility versus the cost for renovation of the existing building be made. Their negative findings on the tour follow:

1. Ceiling damaged by water leaks from roof.
2. No sprinkler system.
3. Fire extinguishers not readily marked or visible.
4. Fire exits not clearly identified.
5. No hand rail on fire escape.
6. Potential electrical hazards with exposed wiring and unsafe cords on some clocks and equipment.
7. Limited storage space. Hallways are being used, adding to fire hazards.
8. Broken floor tile and soft spots.
9. High ceilings and windows—a factor in fire safety and fuel efficiency.
10. Trash being held in open space at a public entrance.

The Grand Jury was also concerned over children using the Planetarium on the second floor of that facility with the existing fire hazards and the type of steps leading to the second floor.

Elwood Wilt, foreman of the Grand Jury spoke for the members, saying, "We wish to express our gratitude to those public officials who appeared before us and provided information for us with which to work."

Two Arrested For Possession Of Marijuana

Two men were arrested for possession of marijuana Saturday around 8:05 p.m. in the parking lot of St. Peter's Roman Catholic Church, Oakland.

Philip Ray Coddington, 18, Mtn. Lake Park, is being held in the Garrett County Jail on $10,000 bond. John Wayne Rowan, 18, Mtn. Lake Park, was released from the jail on $150 bond.

According to the Sheriff's Department, the two men were found sitting in a parked car with a small amount of what appeared to be marijuana and marijuana pipe made from brass plumbing fixtures.

Deputy L.E. Gnegy reported that an anonymous complaint led him to the parking lot of the church. He was assisted by Officer Randy Sines of the Oakland City Police Department.

A theft which occurred September 6 around 10:30 p.m. was investigated by Deputy Richard Kutchman.

According to reports, someone entered an unlocked shop located off the Boy Scout Road and removed numerous tools, all the property of the Priests of the Holy Cross, South Bend, Indiana. Losses are estimated at $1936.50.

Deputy Russell Drenning investigated a report of vandalism on the Pee Wee Road, Kitzmiller.

According to reports, unknown vandals broke the windshields, rear windows, and side windows out of three trucks belonging to the Buffalo Coal Company, Inc., Bayard, W.Va. The incident, which was reported by Melvin Judy, superintendent of the coal company, occurred sometime last weekend while the trucks were parked on a strip job. Damages totaled $1,200.

Timothy H. Sutter, Westminster, reported a breaking and entering theft which occurred at his summer cabin on a private road near Swanton.

According to Deputy Russell Drenning, who investigated the incident, someone entered the rear window of the cabin sometime between September 2 and September 14. Stolen items included a tool box, sleeping bags, a cassette recorder, eight cassette tapes, and an African machette. Total value of the items is estimated at $1,262.

Deputy Charles P. Nolan investigated a report of a breaking and entering theft which occurred after 8:30 p.m. September 10 on the Crellin Road.

According to the report, someone broke into a garage belonging to Ernest Paul Tressler, Mtn. Lake Park and removed a number of items. Total value of loss and damage is estimated at $360.

Nolan stated that anyone with information on the theft should call the Garrett County Sheriff's Department at 334-2141.

A destruction of property incident on the Underwood Road was investigated by Deputy P.J. Pratt.

Ronald C. DeWitt, Oakland, reported that, sometime on September 14 or 15, someone shot and killed a one-year old bull in a pasture field on his farm.

Pratt stated that the bull was valued at $350, and the Department has no suspects at this time.

Kathleen E. Poerstel, Silver Spring, reported a breaking and entering at her cottage on the end of Pergin Farm Road.

Deputy Richard Kutchman, who investigated the incident, reported that sometime during the first two weeks of September someone entered the cabin by prying a lock off the basement door. Once inside, the culprit turned off the heat, water pump, and hot water heater. Several lights in the house were also turned off during the incident.

The Department also reported that two men were charged with driving while under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs on Monday.

Deputy P.K. Buckel charged Thomas Ray Bowers with fleeing and eluding a police officer, driving without a license, operating an uninsured and unregistered motor vehicle, DWI, and operating a motor vehicle without eye protection. Bowers was apprehended at 10:40 p.m. on Oak Drive, Mtn. Lake Park.

Weldon Keith Nicholas, Jr., 26, Oakland, was charged with DWI by Deputy P.J. Pratt at 7:05 p.m. in the Deer Park area.

Judge Finds Miller Guilty Of Ski Theft

During a recent trial in Garrett County District Court, Judge Jack Turney found James E. Miller, 19, Cumberland, to be guilty of a charge of theft.

Miller's sentence had been deferred from an earlier date, after being convicted of stealing snow skis and bindings worth $450 from a car at the Wisp Ski Area January 16.

Miller was sentenced to one year, which was then suspended. The judge then placed him on 12 months supervised probation and fined him $50. Miller will be allowed to perform community service in Allegany County in lieu of the fine.

Miller was represented by Stephen C. Wilkinson, a Cumberland attorney.

The judge granted probation before judgment for Richard L. Craver, 33, Swanton, and Henry C. McClelland, 41, Oakland, after finding them both guilty of charges of wanton trespassing.

The complaint was filed by Ralph W. Stawser following an August 7 incident when the men climbed over a six-foot fence and entered the Round Glade Zoo.

Both Craver and McClelland were placed on six months unsupervised probation and fined $20.

The judge also granted probation before judgment for Marcia J. Gibelino, 22, McHenry, after finding her guilty of selling alcoholic beverages to a minor. Gibelino was fined $200 and placed on 12 months unsupervised probation.

THE MEADOW WOODS EAST is now under construction to provide needed low-cost housing for the elderly. Through the efforts of R. Thomas Thayer from the Elderly Housing Project Association II, Morgan France from Franklin Associates, Inc., Richard Devlin from Devlin, Inc., the Farmers' Home Administration and two local banks, loans for the construction have been approved. The Farmers' Home Administration, under the Rural Housing Act inducement plan, encourages developers to provide low-cost housing for the elderly who need rental assistance. Since the government does not make loans for interim financing through FmHA, Frist United National Bank and Trust and the Garrett National Bank have lent their support in the form of low-cost loans to get the project off the ground. After the project is completed, FmHA will assume the loans at a reduced interest rate. The Meadow Woods East project will be the third of its kind, being preceded by Town View Village in Accident and The Meadows in Mtn. Lake Park. When completed, the one-bedroom housing units will be available to persons over 62 and will be limited to two persons per unit with a total income of no more than $16,500 a year. The units will be directly connected to Garrett County Emergency Management for fire and emergency situations and will have a resident manager. The complex will feature a community room as well as a laundry room on each floor. Entry to both floors will be ground level and two handicapped/wheelchair units will be provided. There is already a waiting list of 40 for the 29-unit complex, but eligible persons are still encouraged to inquire for applications at Garrettland Realty. The completion date is set for March of 1986. Jan Bernard is the contact person. Pictured above are representatives of the various sponsors present at the recent loan-signing. Left to right, are Nancy Spiker, FmHA; Richard Devlin, contractor; Morgan France, engineer; R. Thomas Thayer, EHP Association II partner; David M. Nordeck, vice-president at the Garrett National Bank; and John H. Dixon, assistant vice-president at the First United National Bank and Trust.

Cpl. Elmer D. Selby for the Maryland State Police filed the complaint following a June 21 incident when Gibelino sold a six-pack of 12 ounce bottles of beer to Jason Arthur Paolucci, 19.

Diane S. Sears, 21, and Diane Paugh, 27, both of Baltimore, were found to be not guilty of a theft of $94 worth of blankets, bedspreads, washcloths, and towels from the Sky View Motel, Frostburg, on July 23.

Both Sears and Paugh were represented by John R. Toston.

Mark Lewis Riley, 18, Oakland, was found to be not guilty of a charge of the theft of a weight bench from Anne E. Riley, Deer Park, on August 8.

Student From West Germany To Spend Three Months In Oakland

Jens-Christoph Rieger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Klaus Rieger of Alfter, West Germany, is an exchange student at Southern High School.

Sponsored by the Council on International Educational Exchange and the National Association of Secondary School Principals, he will be living with Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Lambert and their sons, Stan and Chris, Oakland, for his three-month stay in America.

CIEE and the NASSP are the same organizations that have sponsored the three student exchange programs between Southern High School and the Gymnasium Sulingen in West Germany. During these three exchanges the Lambert family hosted the teachers of each group. Mrs. Lambert is the German instructor and coordinator of the German exchanges at Southern High School.

Jens says he wanted to come to America "to make contact with young American people and to see what they are doing and thinking." He also wanted to see American cities, such as New York, Los Angeles, and Chicago, and also the typical American countryside.

Following a three-day period of orientation and a tour of New York City, Jens came to Oakland on August 31, and will remain until November 27.

In Germany he is in the 11th grade. While here, he will be studying English, world history, United States history, biology, advanced trigonometry, driver's education, and French I.

Jens has studied Latin for five years and English for four years. He hopes to improve his command of the English language during his time in the United States to the point that he might be able to dream in English.

Representatives of the Council on International Educational Exchange told Mrs. Lambert that Jens was the most highly recommended exchange student of the 30 students who came to America from Germany this fall.

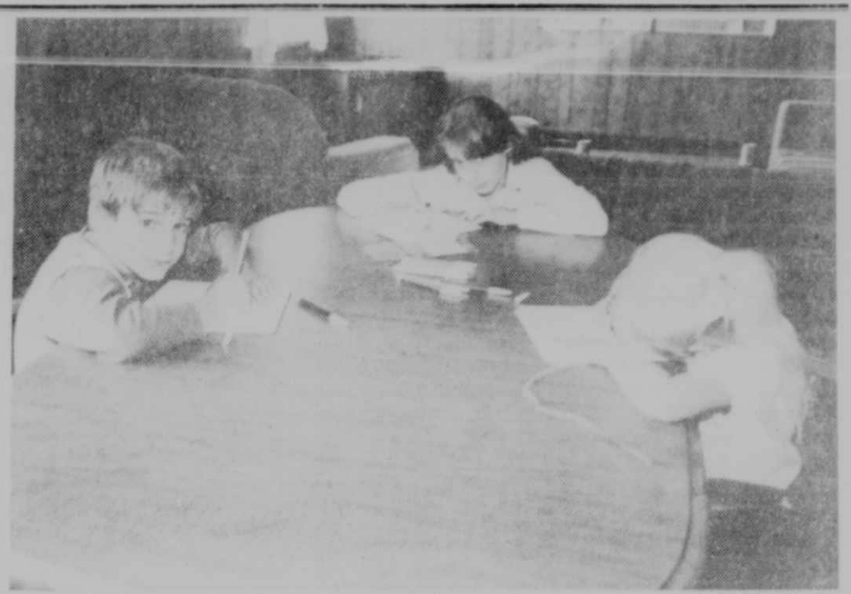
In addition to being an above average student, Jens plays the guitar and enjoys ballroom dancing. Most of the teenagers in Germany enroll in formal ballroom dancing classes, and Jens hopes to continue these classes when he returns to Germany.

He also is active in athletics, although the schools in Germany do not have athletic teams. He plays hockey and tennis on youth teams of a successful club in Bonn, as well as hockey on the adult male team. He also teaches two groups of children between the ages of five and seven how to play hockey.

In his free time he also enjoys photography, listening to popular music, visiting exhibitions of art, reading reports and essays about historical and geographical subjects, skiing in the Alps, swimming, and cooking.

Yoder Awarded Top Scholarship To Maryland U.

Competing with over 60 applicants from various community colleges in Maryland, Bradley K. Yoder, Grantsville, has received one of eight Chancellor's Prize Transfer Scholarships to the University of Maryland, Baltimore County. While at Northern High School, Yoder received the Maryland Distinguished Scholar Award and then attended Garrett Community College with a major in science.



The $3,000.00 Chancellor's Prize Transfer Scholarship is the top academic award for a Maryland Community College transfer student. To be competitive for such an award, a community college student must have at least a 3.5 academic average at the college. Yoder is now majoring in biochemistry at UMBC. This major is considered to be one of the school's most challenging academic programs, emphasizing scientific and technical research.

According to Dr. George Dailey, transfer coordinator at Garrett Community College, this award to a GCC student underscores the fact that the college offers "recognized quality education" to its students.

"We are all extremely delighted that Brad reeived this most distinguished award," Dailey said. "He is an excellent student who brought honor not only to himself, but also to GCC. It shows that quality students are attracted to GCC, and that based on the education which they receive can compete on an equal footing with students from other community collges throughout the state."

Yoder was encouraged to apply for the scholarship by Cissy VanSickle, director of financial aid at GCC. Mrs. VanSickle maintains an extensive listing of all types of scholarships available to transfer students, and provides assistance and advice to all students applying for these awards.

In Loving Memory

Of our dear husband and father, Elmer C. Grimm, Sr., who passed away one year ago September 14, 1984. He is greatly missed by his family.

Loving Memories

Your gentle face and patient smile, with sadness we recall.
You had a kindly word for each and died beloved by all.
The voice is mute and stilled the heart, that loved us well and true.
Ah, bitter was the trail to part, from one so good and true.
You are not forgotten loved one, nor will you ever be.
As long as life and memory last, we will remember thee.
We miss you now, our hearts are sore,
As time goes by we miss you more.
Your loving smile, your gentle face,
No one can fill your vacant place.

Sadly missed by his Wife, Hallie;
Children, Louise, Dortha Jean,
Phyllis Kay,
and Elmer, Jr.

A Brilliant Job . . .

Several months ago in this column we blasted the Maryland Functional Writing Test, claiming that, while we agreed totally with the concept, the test itself was poorly designed and arbitrarily graded. We cited a few examples of failures by students who had produced, in our opinion, excellent examples of functional writing. We also noted other horribly written pieces that somehow made passing grades. The test took similar abuse by other newspapers, such as the Baltimore Sun.

Although we still have some reservations about the test, we are no less thrilled and proud of the ninth grade students of Northern High School, nearly 86 percent of whom passed the test this past spring. This was more than double the percentage who passed the previous year and is possibly the highest percentage in the state of Maryland this year.

The language arts teachers, both at Northern Middle School and Northern High School, along with their respective administrations, are to be commended for doing a brilliant job in preparing these students for the test.

At first we feared that the teachers simply taught the students how to take this particular test, and that perhaps the high score was not really indicative of the students' true functional writing ability. However, after speaking with Gerald Snelson, head of the English Department at Northern High, this fear has been virtually erased.

Snelson pointed out that it is almost impossible to prepare for a specific test when the subject matter is something as subjective as writing. Writing is not an exact science, like math or physics, and, although there are some basic techniques that can be taught, it is the thought processes of the student that must be trained and refined before he or she can be a good functional writer.

This is precisely the approach that Snelson said he and the other teachers used: to help the students learn how to organize their thoughts in their minds before even attempting to put them down on paper.

He also stated that, because the test is given statewide, to students from every conceivable environment and representing different races and backgrounds, it is streamlined in an attempt to make sure each student can identify with the topics and questions on the test. This makes most of the questions quite personal, requiring the students to let down their defenses and expose some possibly sensitive feelings, a task that is extremely difficult for many ninth graders. Snelson said the students were instructed to be honest and they were assured that only persons unknown to them, downstate, would see their tests.

Although Snelson and the other teachers were delighted with the results, they were at the same time rather shocked and slightly puzzled, particularly because of the wide discrepancy with the scores at Southern High School, where less than 23 percent of the students passed the test. Snelson said preparation for the test was a joint effort in the county, not just in the northern section, and that similar approaches were used by teachers in the southern end of the county to prepare students. He was quick to caution that the figures could fluctuate radically again next year.

We, too, are puzzled by the discrepancy and can only hope that the Southern teachers and students are successful next year in making as dramatic a comeback as the Northern folks did this past year.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

It was with sincere regret that Jane Avery, Asa McCain and I made the decision to cancel the forthcoming show, "Hello Dolly" which was to be sponsored by the Garrett Choral Society. It was most heart-warming to see so many young people audition for the show, and to have them so very anxious to be a part of it that they came to all of the auditions. This tells us (or someone) that there is definitely a need to be filled for our youth in Garrett County.

We wish to thank all of you who did audition for the show. Your talent is exceptional and we are most frustrated that we cannot "go" with the show. Your dedication is most apparent, and we'll miss the glow of friendship which always occurs during rehearsals. The timing was just poor.

Directing the shows has always been a pleasure for us all, and we regret to see this era come to an end.

Thank you all for your patronage to the shows we have given.

Yours truly,
Nancy Learey

In February 1986, the Southern High Winterguard will be travelling to London, England, for a national competition and a day full of sightseeing. When we first started talking about the possibility of the trip, it seemed so distant and nearly impossible with all the funds needed.

All summer the colorguard and band members involved have worked on fund-raisers to start our accounts for the year. Without the help of three important parents: Judy Wilt, Don and Carol Butler, we could not have gotten as far as we are now. These parents have pushed and organized our fund-raisers. They have also organized the Southern Winterguard Boosters and now all the parents are involved and excited about getting us to England. I would like to thank these three parents for helping us so much and to let them know how important they are to us.

Another obstacle we had to face was the possibility of our trip being turned down by the Board of Education. The meeting was held on September 12 and no objection was passed. I thank all of the board members for letting us have the chance to travel to London. This will not only help us as performers, but will be a learning experience that no one could forget.

We still have a long way to go before we are on the plane to London, but with everyone's help so far, it now seems very possible. To everyone that supports the Southern High Winterguard—thanks so much.

Sincerely,
Colorguard Captain,
Teresa Rivenbark

"Wellness Together," the cooperative effort of local health agencies, Garrett County Memorial Hospital and Garrett County Health Department, officially began at the 1985 Garrett County Agricultural Fair. We would like to thank all the fine volunteers from these health organizations who gave their time and expertise to the successful beginning of this project.

American Red Cross, American Cancer Society, American Lung Association, American Health Association, American Diabetes Association, Epilepsy Association of Maryland, Hospice of Garrett County and March of Dimes were all represented by volunteers and educational materials at the booth, promoting healthier lifestyles for Garrett Countians. Generous donation of its booth by Englander's Pharmacy in Oakland is also appreciated.

Ricky Moon, Susan Parsons, David Fratz, Marie Coddington, and Charles Gordon are the lucky people who won the $30 first aid kits given away each night of the fair. Congratulations!

We look forward now to the production of a 1986 calendar with classes, seminars, and workshops that will help Garrett Countians review and restructure their health habits for the benefit of all. Thanks to all the people who responded to our surveys, visited our booth and volunteered at the fair.

To the Editor:

I am writing this letter to express publicly the way I feel towards Appalachian Crossroads staff and residents.

I was an employee of Appalachian Crossroads for about 1½ years. It was the best program to work for. I just recently left to be married and live in another state.

I hated leaving the organization, the co-workers and residents.

I worked with people who were very considerate and dependable. They became not only co-workers, but friends who backed me up and gave constructive suggestions.

These people are honest, caring people who are working in a human services field. No one can be more people-oriented and understanding of peoples faults, handicaps or learning disabilities than the staff of Appalachian Crossroads.

It takes a lot of caring, patience, understanding, and training to work in the mentally retarded, or any handicap field. But it also takes people with a desire to help others, a real and honest caring for other people. It takes people who look for good in others and don't look for the handicaps, but do look for ways to get by, over or around them so that people with handicaps can function as normally as possible on a day-to-day basis.

I worked at the 219 facility with my supervisor, Debbie Sisto, my co-worker, Linda DeWitt, and three of the best clients, Richard Bennett, Marlene Wilson and Charles (Buck) Bucklew. I will miss all of them and I want everyone to know that these five people are all good friends and nice people. Good luck to Appalachian Crossroads and especially to those at the 219 Facility.

Sincerely
Jean Hutzel

To the Editor:

Even though our everyday lives are filled with families, school, business and worries, we should take time out to thank some olf those who bring joy and love into the lives of our elderly and sick. There are many of us who have loved ones in nursing homes here in Garrett County and we are not always able to visit and spend time with them, as we should or would like to.

There are many people working in these homes who give of themselves beyond what their job description calls for. They spend their eight hours or so, for which they are paid, and then several more hours and even days of giving of themselves, their time and most important, love and caring.

There are four such people whose job title is the Activities department of Cuppett and Weeks, Dennett Road Manor and Goodwill Mennonite Nursing Homes, but whose motto is "We Care." They are Sheila Hauser, Lisa Frazee, Joanne Harsh and Idella Bender. These ladies, along with the staff and volunteers, deserve a real thank you from our communities. They give love, care and attention also to the more than 33 American Veterans who reside there and for this, we of the DAV and DAV Auxiliary, say "God bless you."

Sincerely,
Bill and Hazel Meyers

To the Editor:

I think the people of the Board of Education Food Service should take a look at what they are doing.

One lady turned in her resignation last June, but she said they would not accept it, saying she could not be replaced. This woman put her fellow workers through hell for a whole week. This was very hard for them.

We have no relatives in Mr. Buckingham's office. Could everyone do this and still have a job?

Resolution Approved

Also Tuesday, the board of trustees unamimously approved a resolution honoring former board member, William Goldsborough.

Goldsborough resigned that position last month stating "personal commitments" as the primary reason. He said he stayed with the board through some "very rough times" and felt it was time to step down as he wished the college "continued community support."

Not long after his resignation from that board, Goldsborough suffered a mild stroke and heart attack, but is now recuperating at home, according to his wife, Doris.

The resolution stated that Goldsborough, who had served on that board since its inception, "had been a dedicated and conscientious member . . . giving unselfishly of his time and effort for the benefit of the college" and they expressed their "sincere appreciation for the many years of service Goldsborough has given to the college and the community."

Contract Awarded

The board of trustees approved the awarding of the cafeteria concession to Miriam and Markel Maust.

Dr. Puzzuoli stated that the food service contract had essentially remained the same this year with the exception that they would not provide for the summer session because it was unsuccessful this past summer semester.

The contract will run from September to May, providing hot meals for the students and staff at the college.

Another contract which will end in November is that of a college attorney. Dr. Puzzuoli was instructed by the board of trustees to present a recommendation for that contract by the November board meeting.

Articulation Agreement

An articulation agreement between the college and the Garrett County Board of Education was discussed by the board of trustees Tuesday and decided to act on it after hearing the board of education's review of it and pending state community college regulations surrounding the agreement.

The agreement involves the two organization's exchanging of services and facilities which could provide county citizens with extended educational opportunties.

The agreement could also reduce overlap and duplication of instruction and equipment in educational programs that are similar in content.

JTPA Program

The Job Training Partnership Act program presently implemented at the college has been very successful, according to Lowell Bender, director of continuing education at GCC.

Bender said the placement rate at the college has been very high and that for the first time they will be running a performance-based program which meets the criteria of the Western Maryland Consortium.

Bender is projecting that 25 or more eligible students will be participating in masonry/carpentry and machinists courses being offered this fall. The courses were recommended by the Private Industry Council, citing a need for trained workers in that field.

Meeting the performance-based criteria can mean extra funding for those programs in the future, said board member Pat Fischetti, who is also a member of the Private Industry Council.

Financial Report

GCC Comptroller John Culp reported Tuesday that the college has spent 14% of its currrent budget over the past two months, citing a 2% decrease over last year's spending.

"To put that into figures, we have spent $309,000 of a $1,169,050 budget thus far," stated Culp.

In a cash flow projection, the comptroller said the college would probably only have to borrow $50,000 at mid-year, as opposed to $100,000 borrowed in previous years during a period when cash flow was a problem due to the lapse in state funds received at that time of year. The money is only borrowed for a period of 30 days "to see the college through until the state comes through with additional money."

Action was taken by the board, on the recommendation of Dr. Puzzuoli, that the chairman of the board be notified 24 hours prior to the securing of a loan. In the past, the chairman had to be notified 24 hours after the money was borrowed.

SBCC Head Visits

Dr. James Tschechetelin, executive director for the State Board of Community Colleges and three members of his staff visited the college this Monday and Tuesday and spoke with various members of the administration, faculty and staff.

At the board meeting Tuesday, all present who had spoken to Dr. Tschechetelin agreed that it had been a positive meeting with an exchange of "positive comments and constructive recommendations."

Dr. Puzzuoli reported that the executive director seemed pleased with the progress of the college and with "the willingness of all parties to resolve their differences of the past."

He said he was happy to see "progress in correcting issues that needed corrected."

Trustees Work Session

The board of trustees will hold a work session on Saturday, September 28, beginning at 9 a.m. to review the policies and procedures handbook.

A copy of the present handbook was presented to each board member to study in preparation for the session.

Chairman of the board, Katharine Smith, advised each board member to review the handbook and be prepared to make suggestions for additions or deletions to the book.

The next board meeting will be held October 15 at the college.

The names of those persons seeking approval to the Yough River Local Advisory Board are: Hazel Duvall, Donald P. Sebold, Mary Jane Yoder, Melvin Dunithan, Deborah Pepper, James Spear, Brison Thomas, Robert Thomas, Elwood L. Groves II, John E. Hinebaugh, and Shaun Sanders.

Brown also reveals in his letter to the review board members that Keith Roberts, the Yough planner who has worked on the project the past two years just left state employment to work for the Natural Lands Trust, and that recruitment for his replacement is in progress. "The new Yough Board will not be called to meet until a new planner has been selected and has had time to become familiar with the background of the project," said Brown.

SCHOOL'S IN!

School children, especially those in northern Garrett County, can be loading a bus as early as 5:30 a.m., and unloading as late as 7 p.m.

BE ALERT!

We, at The Republican, take pride in presenting all the latest in local news. However, a tragic story involving a child is a story we'd rather not have to write.

Our Turn

See You at 3:11 a.m.
by Pam Ashby

At 6:00 a.m. the radio alarm clock sounds. T. K. and Pat are already in stitches so I figure it must be time to rise and shine. I love D.J.'s who find humor in the news so early in the morning.

A half an hour later, I'm not sure but I think I pass a stranger in the hall. It could be the man I married nearly 15 years ago. It must be his turn to pack lunches.

For the next hour and a half, there's a blur of activity that boggles the mind. Five people are feverishly preparing for work, school and/or the babysitter.

At 8 a.m., more or less, I'm either sitting in front of my computer or looking for news in all the right places. Hmmm . . . sounds like a great song title.

The next few hours are highly productive as I track down all the news that's fit to print.

At noon, there's a mad dash to the local grill to see if there's any of the $2.50 special. Usually there isn't so the remainder of the lunch hour is spent running errands in town or hightailing it home to toss a load of laundry in the washer.

Afternoons are spent deciphering all the information gathered in the morning and putting it on a floppy disc. Unless, of course, it happens to be "paper day" when all that professionalism goes downstairs to print, shuffle, stuff, carry, address and mail this fine publication.

At 5 p.m. it's a race to the parking lot to leave that space so desperately fought for in the morning. Then it's home to fix dinner or a reasonable facsimile.

Sometime between 5:30 p.m. and 7:30 p.m., the family manages to get fed regardless of football practice, cheerleading practice and other assorted after-school meetings.

At 7:30 p.m., it's either off to a church meeting, back to work, or very rarely, an evening at home - which is spent doing laundry, mending or balancing the checkbook.

Somewhere in the vicinity of 8 p.m., the children are nestled all snug in their beds, while visions of setting my priorities dance in my head.

At 10 p.m., I get a phone call from a guy named Joe, who claims to be my husband, and said he had to work late, forgot to call and did I miss him. My gosh! I could have sworn he was home for dinner. I try to remember if I put four or five plates in the dishwasher after dinner.

At 11:30 p.m., two strangers fall into bed, gaze into each other's bloodshot eyes, and he asks, "When can I meet you for a date?"

Checking my schedule book, I answer sleepily, "See you at 3:11 a.m. Friday. Uh . . . uh . . . Joe. Right?"

I think it's time for a weekend away.

So You Want A Garden

by R. Craig Speicher

So, I understand from reliable sources you're finally ready to plant a garden. Well, I must say, it's certainly about time! My garden is already harvested. Please, next year try to be a little more punctual!

But there is at least one thing about gardening that you don't have to worry about; having a garden is very constitutional. Yes, indeed. The U.S. Constitution clearly provides a legal basis for gardening. May I quote:

"Fourscore and seven years ago our fathers brought forth on this . . ." Er, wait a minute.

Ah, here we are: ". . . life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness." So you see, you don't have to be afraid that someday you will stand before the Supreme Court in handcuffs and straight jacket because you got caught praying in your garden. I'm serious! Handcuffs and a straight jacket are never used concomitantly, as any lawyer who charges $500 an hour will joyfully tell you, for a fee of course.

So, you've decided to plant your garden, and are all ready to jump in and get dirty.

Not so fast! Have you checked thoroughly for Killer Fishworms? You have? Well, in that case, let's go!

Your job is to get the garden plowed, cultivate it, make the rows and plant the seeds. My job is to pray for rain.

You have two choices of whom you hire to plow your garden. You can get your friendly neighborhood farmer, or I can do it for you if you get me a tractor. I really think you should let the farmer do it, because the last time I plowed a garden the rows ended up looking like that big S-curve in the road near the Goodwill Mennonite Home, located in suburban Grantsville.

Next, you use a rototiller to cultivate. This means you must make a billion, jillion, gadzillion trips back and forth across the garden until the ground is squeezably soft, soft enough to permit furrowing. I realize that this will take seemingly forever, not including the time you need for several dozen trips to Sam & Sons Rototiller, Bulldozer and Violin Repair, so the sons of Sam can fix your retarded rototiller. But trust me, six years from now you'll look back on your adventures with the rototiller and laugh about it all, if the blisters on your hands have healed by then.

Now you're ready to make the rows. This should be fairly easy. What you do is just make a straight row in the dirt with a hoe—or, in the case of a heavy-duty garden, with a bulldozer—starting right about here, and finishing over there. Do you understand?

You do? Well, please explain it to me, because I'm confused!

OK, we're ready to plant. Let's grow something different this year, say, mizuna, waedenswil, marrows or cottontails. Any of these will give you lush, bountiful crops.

Well, what have we here? You've plowed, cutlivated, furrowed and seeded, and now you want me to pray for rain, right?

Hey, I was only joking about you having a garden! Ha, ha. Why, surely you understand that if you plant a garden this late in the year, you won't get a thing from it. Especially if you've forgotten—as I noticed you have—to use fertilizer.

But don't despair. You can have a garden next year! (Assuming, of course, that you have a digital watch to tell you the proper time to start gardening).

Nine Killed In Traffic Mishaps

Reports received from law enforcement agencies throughout the State of Maryland disclosed that nine persons lost their lives in traffic accidents during the week ending September 15. Of these fatalities, four were drivers, four were passengers and one was a pedestrian. Preliminary investigation of these accidents revealed that alcohol was a contributing factor in three deaths, speed in two and driver error in nine.

Highway fatalities in Maryland through September 15 total 508, compared to 451 during the same period last year.

Beckman Not Charged With DWI

Due to a mistake on State Police records last week, it was falsely reported that Dennis Wayne Beckman, 20, Oakland, was charged with driving while under the influence of alcohol following a vehicle accident on September 8. State Police confirmed that, in fact, Beckman was charged with negligent driving, not DWI. We regret the error.

Make seat belts a habit. They save lives—maybe yours. According to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, seat belts reduce the chances of serious or fatal injury by 50 to 65 percent.

Contrary to popular misconceptions, accidents don't happen "somewhere else at high speed." More than 80 percent of crashes occur at speeds under 40 miles per hour, most of them within 25 miles of home.

After a car comes to a stop in a collision, there is a second collision: when the unbelted passengers slam into some part of the car, or each other.

Your seat belt, properly fastened, absorbs some of the impact of a collision and distributes the rest over your hips and shoulders, which can best withstand the force.

Little children—even infants—should ride in approved car seats. Older youngsters can use regular seat belts.

Drive safely. And protect yourself from the OTHER driver with seat belts and good insurance. Get the knowhow you need at

Farm Bill Review

. . . . . A Garrett County Viewpoint

by Bernice Kepple

September 30 marks the end of the current law governing farm policy across the nation, the Agriculture and Food Act of 1981. Seperate versions of the 1985 Farm Bill are before both the House and Senate Agriculture Committees now, being discussed, "marked up", and approved. These are called omnibus bills because they cover many things or situations at once. Creating a problem is the fact that every section of the United States has a different major kin of farming, providing a large percentage of income for farmers in that area, with congressional representatives pushing the portions of the bill that will benefit their constituency, the farmers and agri-businessmen in their area.

But it's past the middle of the month now, with the bill still in committee. Decisions must be made soon. Political forces, batting the bill around trying to make it look good for the Democratic party or trying to keep it from hurting the Republican party, hopefully will not forget the purpose of the bill, a fair policy for all farmers. Dean Chalios, special assistant to Senator Paul S. Sarbanes, tells us that events should happen fast in the next week. The bill was to go before the House yesterday, but a decision has been made to send it to the House Rules Committee tomorrow, causing another delay. The Senate committee hasn't completed its bill yet, and it's looking doubtful that the bill will make it through Congress by the September 30 deadline.

The alternatives for Congress are to extend the current law while final details of a new program are worked out or to allow the farm programs to revert to a 1949 law that would be both expensive and cumbersome. Some congressmen believe that major changes are not appropriate at this time, when financial problems have pushed many farmers to seek more, not less, help. Others, however, think that the law requires a major overhaul. They argue that the 1981 law "locked in" expectations of continued export growth, inflation, and other conditions that are no longer valid.

With all the many different farm issues at stake, broad outlines of the 1985 Farm Bill debate have taken shape. "Free market" proponents believe that Federal crop loan rates and subsidy payments are too high. Reducing or eliminating them, they say, would better align production with demand, lower Federal budget costs, and sharpen the country's competitive edge in the world market. But some lawmakers with farm constituencies have expressed strong opposition to these proposals, arguing that they would only make current difficulties worse and drive even more farmers out of business. Some have urged that present price support levels not be cut but perhaps be better targeted on small or medium-sized farmers. Moreover, they contend that stricter control of production may be needed for some years to limit supply and to curb Federal budget outlays at the same time.

In the course of this debate, one general view has gained wide acceptance. Economic variable outside of farming, such as interest rates, and taxes, probably have more of an impact on the health of the farm industry than do the various Federal farm programs. For that reason, there is a growing thought that the traditional programs and the agriculture committees may not be able to cure, only treat, present agricultural bills.

So what is actually in the 1985 Farm Bill? Actually, in addition to the administration's bill, there are bills or proposals before Congress sponsored by individual senators or representatives, plus a Farm Bureau proposal. The Farm Bureau farm bill, H.R. 1965 and S. 908, stresses market orientation and gradual change. The legislation, introduced by Rep. William Emerson of Missouri and Senator Mitch McConnell of Kentucky, was developed by a large base of farmers across the country and represents producers in every commodity, geographic region and financial group. The Maryland Farm Bureau is making a plea to area farmers to support H.R. 965, with some exceptions. (See seperate Farm Bureau story in today's Republican.)

In next week's column I'll get into the real meat of the Farm Bill and how it compares with the current law. I'll also compare the administration's bill with some of the other proposals, and give an update on what happened in Congress during the week. Your comments and questions are welcome, along with your concern for the future of agriculture as a family enterprise.

Farm Bureau Asks Farmers To Contact Congressmen Immediately

Maryland Farm Bureau is making a plea to all farmers and Farm Bureau members to contact Congressional Representatives with support for H.R. 1965, introduced by Rep. William Emerson of Missouri, and most importantly, opposition to some of the amendments which have been made to the bill by the House Ag Committee.

"We need to flood our Maryland Congressional offices with calls as soon as possible," exclaimed Maryland Farm Bureau Public Relations Manager Jack Matthews. He went on to explain that the bill was to go before the full House yesterday, however, because it is scheduled to go before the House Rules Committee tomorrow, it will not be presented to the full House until Monday or Tuesday of next week.

Farm Bureau opposes four areas of the amended bill. The first of those areas opposed is the dairy title which includes assessments and diversion programs. The bill as presented would require all dairymen to pay for the cost of a dairy herd reduction program, the cost of government purchases in excess of five-billion pounds, an assessment for a Dairy Research Trust Fund and $1 per head for all cows and calves sold for beef. Any savings in this program would not be passed on to consumers.

Matthews stresses that Farm Bureau policy opposes assessments and diversion programs. He notes, however, that Rep. Olin of Virginia will introduce an amendment to reduce support price as of January 1, 1986, if Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC) purchases exceed 10-billion pounds, and subsequent adjustments according to the level of purchases. Matthews advises farmers to urge their Congressmen to support the Olin amendment, but oppose the assessment and diversion parts of the bill.

The second of the four areas opposed by Farm Bureau is the two-year target price freeze. Farm Bureau favors a one-year freeze, according to Matthews. As the bill is presented, wheat and corn target prices for 1986 and 1987 would be frozen at the 1985 level of $4.38 for wheat and $3.03 for corn. After 1987, the Secretary of Agriculture would set prices at between 110 and 125-percent of a three-out-of-five-year average, but could not go below $4.38-$3.03 levels.

Matthews says that Farm Bureau favors a freeze in 1986, then an adjustment at 110 percent of a five-year average, excluding high and low years, with a five-percent adjustment limit.

The third of the four areas Farm Bureau opposes is the beef and pork check-off programs. Matthews explaines that the present House bill would require a $1 per head for beef (including dairy cows and calves) point of sale check-off to be paid by sellers for a national beef promotion program, and three-tenths of one-percent check-off would be collected for every hog. There is no refund provision and referendums would not be held until two years after the programs started.

Farm Bureau policy, according to Matthews, calls for producers to vote (referendums) before implementing check-offs and setting up procedures for farmers to request refund.

The last opposition suggested by Farm Bureau is to the Bedell amendment asking for a marketing certificate program. The Bedell marketing certificate program would provide for a referendum of wheat and feed grain producers to establish a voluntary program. If the referendum passes, marketing certificates would be issued to farmers who sign up for the program. The farmer could then borrow against his crop at $4.50 for wheat and $3.25 for corn. The marketing certificate would equal his normal yield, times his allowable planted acreage. He would have to set aside 20 percent of his feed grain acreage and 35 percent of his wheat acres.

The problem seen by Farm Bureau and stressed by Matthews is that all grain sold domestically would have to be accompanied by a marketing certificate, and these commodities could not be bought or sold at less than the loan rates. Any farmer who chooses not to participate could feed his grain, but could not sell it except for export. The export price for produces not in the program would be set at prevailing world prices. Grain sold for export, with a certificate, would be bought down by the export bonus program.

Farm Bureau believes that this would create artificial prices for those in the program, reduce demand, increase feed costs to dairy, livestock and poultry producers, force import restrictions and controls and be difficult and expensive to enforce. Farm Bureau does not support Bedell's proposal.

Matthews explaines that the Senate hasn't completed its bill yet, but now is the time to write or call the following United States Representatives.

Beverly B. Byron, 1216 Longworth HOB, Washington, D.C., 20515. Phone 202-225-2721.

Barbara A. Mikulski, 2404 Rayburn HOB, Washington, D.C., 20515. Phone 202-225-4016.

Parran J. Mitchell, 2367 Rayburn HOB, Washington, D.C., 20515. Phone 202-225-4741.

Matthews feels that the time spent contacting these Representatives could prove to be very important to all farmers.

Oakland FFA Members Rate High At "Big E"

High ratings were given two Oakland FFA members who traveled to compete at the "Big E", The Eastern Exposition, in Springfield, Mass. this past weekend.

Criss Kepple represented the Tri-State (Maryland, Delaware, and New Jersey) in the Extemporaneous Public Speaking contest, and Ken Michaels represented Maryland as the State Star Agribusinessman in his quest for the Eastern Region Star Agribusinessman award.

Kepple placed fourth in the contest, her competitors being ll Eastern Region winners. Her high award was achieved by preparing a speech in 30 minutes on the economic future of small farmers in the United States.

Michaels received third place out of the nine State Star Agribusinessmen taking part in the contest. This year's winner of the Eastern Region Star was from Connecticut, and was operating a $150,000 landscaping business.

Kepple is the daughter of Bernice and Howard Kepple of Oakland, and is currently an agengineering student at the University of Maryland.

Michaels is employed by Beachy Lumber Company and is the son of John and Kathryn Michaels of Oakland.

Harvey Brothers Farms, No "Small Potato" Operation

by Bernice Kepple

Early autumn is the time to gather in the harvest, and home gardeners are canning and freezing vegetables, drying onions, and digging and storing potatoes. All of the potatoes gardners dig and store, though, are "small potatoes" compared to the amount of potatoes dug and stored each year by Harvey Brothers Farms, Inc. near Deer Park.

One of the largest farming operations in the county, Harvey Brothers planted a total of 320 acres of potatoes this year, with the balance of the 730 total acres they farm planted in sweet corn and small grain.

The corporation is made up of three Harvey brothers, Bob and Guy in Garrett County and Fred in Naples, Florida. Bob spends the months between October and May in Florida each year helping to manage the farming operation there, which includes potatoes and tomatoes.

The brothers have a contract with Snyders of Berlin, Pa., and send their Garrett County potatoes there to be made into potato chips. "We've sent 33 trailer loads to Snyders for potato chips so far this year," said Bob. The company's three mechanical harvesters move from field to field until all 320 acres are completed. "If we were able to work continuously, without any wet weather," said Bob, "we could be completed in three to four weeks."

The company has six year-round employees, but employs over 20 during the summer and for the harvest. Two rows of potatoes are picked at a time by the harvester, which scoops them up out of the raised rows and sends them up a conveyer. The conveyer is designed so that most of the dirt and some of the smaller stones fall away from the potatoes as they move along. The very small potatoes are also separated from the rest by this machine.

At the top of the conveyer, four employees work from a platform to extract the larger rocks as the potatoes move along to be deposited into one of the company's eight trucks for the trip to the storage barns.

The truck loads of potatoes are stored with others of the same variety in the two large barns which have a total storage capacity of 70,000 hundredweight of potatoes. There is enough room in these barns for a tractor trailer to be loaded inside, with the doors closed, to prevent a drop in temperature during very cold weather.

A loaded truck from the field is backed up to the unloading conveyer inside the barn. Here the process parallels that of the harvester in the field. Once again the potatoes travel up the conveyer, which drops out dirt and small potatoes. At the top, on a platform, four more employees surround a roller table and reach to take out the remaining clods of dirt and rocks as the potatoes rush by on their way to the storage pile at the end of the barn. These employees are also able to control the motor that unloads the truck from where they stand, and in 20 to 25 minutes the truck is unloaded.

Both the temperature and humidity are controlled inside the storage barns. The temperature remains at 52 degrees all winter, with the humidity staying at 85 percent. A 48" fan with a timer forces air through air ducts underneath the pile of potatoes, which will eventually reach the height of 12 to 13 feet, to help control temperature and prevent dampness.

"It's been a good year for potatoes," Bob explained. "Although we had to put extra nitrogen on the potato ground because of the wet weather this spring, we should get a good yield." Yields are measured by hundredweight (cwt) per acre, and a normal yield is 250 cwt (12½ tons) per acre. "The Atlantics are producing 300 cwt (15 tons) per acre this year," said Bob, "and you know, they can make 27 pounds of potato chips from every 100 pounds of potatoes."

Beginning about April 20 each spring, Harvey Brothers plants three different kinds of potatoes. Bob explaines that, "We have to grow something the chip company likes." For that reason they plant two old standbys, North Chip and Atlantic, and a new variety, Rosa, which is a round white potato with a rose-colored eye. The seed potatoes are ordered in bulk and come in to the company from Maine by the trailer load.

Bob says that the company is pretty selective about the land they rent or buy. It takes a sandy loam type of soil without too many rocks to grow potatoes. "Most of our ground is reasonably clean of rock because we go over it with the rock picker when we begin to use the field," he said. He went on to say that one time over the ground with the rock picker is usually enough.

Potato ground is prepared for planting the same as most other farm ground. After plowing, disking, and sometimes harrowing, a broad-weed herbicide, either Dual or Sincor, and a grass herbicide, Roundup, is used. Crop rotation is practiced by the company, using oats before potatoes and plowing the straw back into the ground to add humus to the soil.

The potatoes are planted with a four-row planter that makes raised rows to insure better growth and easier harvesting. When the plants are about six inches high, the fields are sprayed for insect control, and a fungicide is used to prevent blight. This spring, a helicopter was used to spray approximately 200 acres with a fungicide because the fields were so wet that the ground rig couldn't be used.

The potato harvest is ahead of schedule this year because of the beautiful weather we've been having, and the trucks will be rolling out to the potato chip company all winter, so when you eat all those delicious potato chips at this year's holiday parties - enjoy - and thank Harvey Brothers Farms.

A FAMILIAR SITE THIS TIME OF YEAR in Garrett County is one of Harvey Brothers potato harvesters at work. The harvester picks two rows at a time, conveys the potatoes past a four-man crew who picks out the rocks, and then transfers the potatoes into a truck which will haul them to the storage barn. Wet weather delays the harvest, but a few more beautiful weeks like we've had will see the potato harvest completed in record time.

POTATOES ON THEIR WAY TO STORAGE — Harvey Brothers employees inspect potatoes for rocks or clods of dirt before they are stored. The potatos pictured are the Atlantic variety which is producing 300 hundredweight per acre (an equivalent of 15 tons) this year, slightly more than the average 250 hundredweight per acre (12½ tons). This crew of employees are able to unload a truckload of potatoes from the field in 20 to 25 minutes.

Sign-Up Period Open For Fall ACP Practices

"Many ASCS County Offices are now accepting applications for conservation practices that can be completed this fall or winter," Olin S. Davis, Jr., chairman of the Maryland State Agricultural and Conservation Committee, said. "While limited funds are available, conservation measures approved under the program will help correct severe soil, water, and pollution problems of farmland in Maryland.

"Farmers who were approved for 1985 ACP practices should make every effort to complete their practices by September 20, and submit bills to our offices so that we can complete the paper work and issue payments before the end of September."

Davis said farmers with long-term agreements have until the end of the fiscal year, September 30, to complete the 1985 phase of their project. Long-term agreement funding is available if farmers have a project that will require from 3 to 10 years to complete. He said these agreements can be used for regular conservation measures that include any practice available under the ACP.

"If two or more farmers have a common conservation problem, they could consider solving it by pooling their resources, efforts and finances," said Davis, noting that cost-share rates would range between 50 to 75 percent of the farmer's cost for the most critical problems.

The ACP authorizes up to $10,000 per fiscal year under a pooling agreement, and up to $3,500 per fiscal year under the annual and long-term agreements.

Frosted Corn

Again this year there is a lot of immature corn that received a hard frost. Unfortunately, the frosted immature corn will not have as much nutrient value as mature corn. For some reason or other, many farmers get into a big hurry to get this corn in the silo. Most of it may be too wet. The following percentage moisture levels should be used as a guide for harvesting: Whole Plant Corn Silage, 60 to 70% moisture; High Moisture Corn, 28 to 34% moisture; Stored Grain Corn, 12 to 15% moisture. Although frosted immature corn seems to dry a lot slower, it will dry down. I have a moisture tester in my office.

Poisoning from Sudangrass and Sorghum

Each year I get several calls right after a killing frost concerning the feeding of sudangrass and sorghum. Feeding these frosted forages have the potential of cyanide or prussic acid poisoning of livestock. These forages are especially dangerous when immature and should not be grazed or harvested until growth reaches 24" for sudangrasses and 30" for sorghum—sudangrass hybrids. Cured forages are less likely to be toxic because the cyanide is released when the integrity of the plant cell is destroyed. Frosted plants should not be fed for several days to allow time for the removal of the cyanide. Tillers growing following a killing frost are most likely to contain toxic levels of prussic acid or cyanide.

Nitrogen Loss from Manure

Recent experiments have shown that approximately 50% of the nitrogen in manure is lost to the atmosphere if not immediately incorporated into the soil by plowing or deep disking. Of the remaining stable organic nitrogen, it is estimated that about 40% becomes available to the crop the first year, assuming no leaching losses. Essentially all of the potash should be available the year of application. Similar to commercial fertilizer, some of the phosphorus is in relatively insoluble inorganic compounds, which must break down before it becomes available. Incorporated manure can be a valuable source of fertilizer.

Corn Leaf Spot Damage On Increase In Md.

Strictly speaking, it is not a "new" disease to the corn farmers of Maryland. But gray leaf spot, a fungal disease that reduces yields, is making new inroads to the state's corn-producing regions.

Researchers for the University of Maryland's Agricultural Experiment Station (UMAES) are blaming a number of factors—some that occur naturally, others that are man-made—for the recent increase of acres affected by the fungus.

One of those factors has been the weather, according to Dr. Peter R. Thomison of the university's department of agronomy.

"Overcast days, high relative humidity and poor air circulation, and late summer rain combine to affect gray leaf spot," Thomison told farmers yesterday at UMAES's Western Maryland Research and Education Center Field Days near Keedysville.

Another factor, according to Dr. Arvydas P. Grybauskas, a plant pathologist, is corn residue left in no-till or minimum tillage fields from a previous year.

"The source of the problem lies right under the crop—on the field in the corn residue left over from the previous year," Grybauskas told farmers at the field days.

A third factor poses problems for researchers, because it appears that gray leaf spot is most destructive in no-till and minimum tillage practices—the very practices that farmers are asked to adopt to prevent soil erosion and conserve soil moisture.

"The spread of the disease has been related to the increased use of minimum tillage, particularly in continuous corn production," Grybauskas said.

Last year's test plantings of corn at the Western Maryland center showed "extensive gray leaf spot damage in both early-to-mid season and late maturity groups," according to Thomison. Researchers there tested 103 commercial varieties of corn for their tolerance to the disease.

Generally, those hybrids which traditionally bring low yields were almost always affected adversely by gray leaf spot, Thomison said. But high yielding hybrids also showed signs of damage, characterized by rectangular blotches on the leaves of corn plants.

Although gray leaf spot seems to be associated with no-till or minimum tillage practices, the researchers say they need to conduct additional tests to determine a specific relationship.

In the meantime, they are not recommending that farmers abandon conservation tillage practices.

Instead, they told farmers at the field days to try to avoid continuous corn production in one field - in other words, they should rotate crops.

In addition, farmers should remove as much corn residue from the field floor as possible from previous years. They could use the residue for ensilage, Thomison said.

Third, farmers should avoid hybrids that are highly susceptible to the fungus.

And fourth, Grybauskas said farmers should plow infected corn residue into the soil each year to remove the source of the disease for future plantings.

Bosley Leads Rams To Second Shutout Win, 20-0

Another outstanding defensive performance by the Southern High Rams highlighted a 20-0 over visiting Phillip Barbour Friday evening, the second shutout by the Rams in as many starts this season.

Besides not allowing a single point against them this season, the Ram defenders have given up an average of only five rushing yards per game and 32 yards per game of total offense.

Junior tailback Bruce Bosley sparked the Southern offense for the second straight week, gaining 145 yards on 28 carries and scoring two touchdowns. Bosley now has 250 yards in just two games.

All of the Rams' 244 yards of offense was on the ground, as freshman quarterback Zack Gibson went to the air only twice, completing one for a minus one yard. Gibson was moved to first team quarterback after senior Jamie Thomas broke his thumb in the previous game.

Bosley recorded his first touchdown on a 17-yard run in the first quarter. The run for the conversion was unsuccessful.

The Yardstick

Phil. Barbour		Southern
1	First Down Rush	16
1	First Down Pass	0
1	First Down Penalty	1
3	Total First Downs	17
9	Passes Attempted	2
2	Passes Completed	1
0	Passes Intercepted By	0
38	Yards Passing	1
23	Net Yards Rushing	244
4 32.5	Punts—Average	0
6 40	Penalties—Yards	4 35
2-1	Fumbles—Lost	8-1
61	Total Offense	243

A six-yard run by Bosley in the second quarter gave the Rams a 12-0 halftime advantage.

After a scoreless third period, the Rams added an insurance touchdown in the final stanza on a five-yard run by Steve Schrock, the starting nose guard, who was reactivated last week as a running back. Bosley ran for the extra point to cap the night's scoring.

Fullbacks Scott Werdebaugh and John Lewis, who provided strong running on offense, also paced the defense, as Werdebaugh recorded eight tackles and recovered a fumble. Lewis was the second leading tackler.

Phillip Barbour's ace running back, Todd England, an honorable mention all-state performer last year in West Virginia, was held to just 24 yards on 11 carries. England rolled up over 100 yards against the Rams last season.

Phillip Barbour's offense could get no closer than the Rams' 30-yard line, which was on a drive in the fourth quarter that was stopped by a turnover. The West Virginians ran only 24 offensive plays in the entire game, 14 of which were in the second half.

Ram head coach Tom Woods stated that he was quite pleased with the overall play of the defense, Gibson's performance, and the running of the entire backfield.

"We were happy to hold an excellent back like Todd England to so few yards," he said. "We were able to get a lot of people to him quickly, which made the difference."

Woods stated that the strong running of Bosley, Schrock, Lewis, Werdebaugh, and J.R. Bosley was aided greatly by outstanding performances by the Rams' huge tackles, Jay Stewart and Warren Livengood.

"Offensively, we were a little sloppy in the first half," he said. "Our timing was off and several of the pitches were bobbled. But we looked a lot better in the second half."

Woods said he was also disappointed that, for the second week in a row, the Rams failed to capitalize on some fourth down plays deep in the opponent's territory. "We are going to have to improve in this area if we hope to continue to win," he stated.

Another concern of Woods is the lack of the passing game, which he said they are spending more time on in practice than the running game. "We would like to reach a point where about 30 percent of our game is passing," he said, "and we are nowhere near that now. We have a brand new quarterback and all new receivers, so it's going to take more time. Fortunately, our running game has been effective so far."

Woods also noted that he was pleased with the progress of Gibson at quarterback. "There is no question that Zack has the natural ability to be outstanding," he said. "He just needs more experience."

The next contest for the Rams will be this Friday evening at home against the undefeated Central Preston Cavaliers. The Kingwood team defeated East Preston in its opener, 7-0, and edged Northern last week, 12-7.

The Cavaliers are an experienced team, with seven offensive and seven defensive starters back this year.

They are led by 6-2, 180-pound senior quarterback, Daryl Dupert, who Woods calls one of the premier quarterbacks in the area. Also back are Bill Parks, a 6-2, 190-pound tight end and linebacker; Todd Warnick, 5-10, 170-pound split end and linebacker; Tim Kennedy, 6-2, 221-pound tackle; Larry Gibson, 5-10, 150-pound tailback; and David Chidester, 5-9, 150-pound fullback.

Central utilizes an I-formation, pro set on offense and a 5-2 monster defense with various combinations. They have an evenly balanced run/pass attack.

"Offesively, their strength is led by Dupert, who not only throws well, but is a fine runner," Woods said. "He is also an excellent punter, which gives them good field position most of the time." Dupert is averaging over 42 yards per punt.

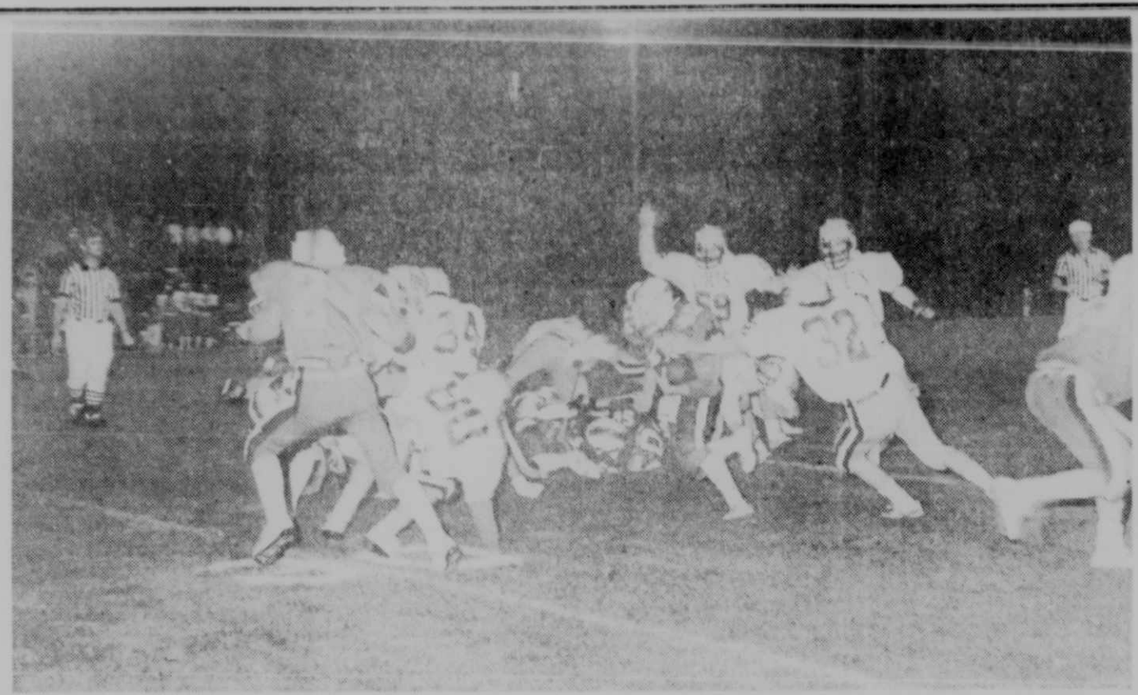
"The key to their defense is their excellent aggressiveness," Woods said. "They have two big, experienced tackles."

Injuries continued to take their toll on the Rams this week, some on the field and at least one off. Todd Tressler, 5-10, 155-pound back-up linebacker, who saw considerable action in the Phillip Barbour game, was seriously injured this week in a motorcycle accident. He is presently a patient at West Virginia University Medical Center with a shattered wrist and a broken clavicle.

Also still out of action for at least two weeks are Thomas with his broken thumb, center Rick Layton with a broken finger, and split end Marty Sharpless, who broke an arm early in fall training. Defensive back Hunter DeBerry will be out with a broken arm unil the sixth or seventh game. John Lewis is currently nursing a toe injury, Gary Wotring is hobbled with a pulled groin muscle, and jayvee Jamie Colaw, who received a neck injury Monday evening against Central Preston, will be out at least two weeks.

"We are really hurting," Woods said, quickly adding that two or three of the injuries have been unrelated to football.

Although Central Preston may not be the toughest opponent on the Rams' schedule, Woods said that every game is a tough test for them because of the inexperience of so many of his players.



"This will be a pivotal game for both teams since we are both undefeated," he said. "Hopefully we will be able to execute well and continue to improve."

Kickoff is slated for 8 p.m. It will be Senior Parent Night and the parents of all senior players and cheerleaders will be honored in a pre-game ceremony at 7:45 p.m.

""We've had two excellent crowds so far this year," Woods said. "I hope that this great support will continue."

Inability To Capitalize Leads To Husky Defeat

Failure to take advantage of five forced turnovers, good field position, and some critical fourth-down-and-short-yardage situations led to a 12-7 defeat of the Northern Huskies Friday evening in Kingwood by Central Preston.

It was the second loss of the season in as many starts for Coach Jack Settle's team, while the Cavaliers posted their second straight win.

Aggressive defensive efforts by the Huskies caused the Cavaliers to lose the ball four times on fumbles and once by interception, but the Northern offensive unit was unable to capitalize and put points on the board until the fourth quarter.

The Huskies were inside their opponents' ten-yard line on two occasions and came away empty both times. In one of those instances, Northern had fourth down and a foot, but the Cavalier defense held.

Larry Gibson opened the scoring for Central with a two-yard run in the first quarter. The run for the conversion failed and the Cavaliers held a 6-0 advantage until the third period.

Darryl Dupert, Central's veteran quarterback, gave his team its second and final touchdown on a three-yard scoring run in the third quarter.

Jeff Beitzel was on the receiving end of a Kevin Sines aerial in the fourth quarter to finally put the Huskies on the board. The 23-yard scoring play was followed by a successful extra point kick by Gary Beitzel, the final score of the game.

The Yardstick

Northern		Central Preston
11	First Down Rush	9
3	First Down Pass	1
4	First Down Penalty	2
18	Total First Downs	12
18	Passes Attempted	6
5	Passes Completed	3
2	Passes Intercepted By	1
74	Yards Passing	26
83	Net Yards Rushing	112
4-24	Punts—Average	4-43
8-50	Penalties—Yards	2-27
2-2	Fumbles—Lost	4-4
157	Total Offense	158

The Northern offense was also plagued by its own turnovers, including a pair of fumbles and two interceptions. Sines had some trouble finding the mark with his passing, as he hit on only five of 18 attempts, down significantly from his 12-for-22 performance the previous week against Bruce.

Rod Lipscomb, the Huskies' leading ground-gainer, finished with 72 yards on 19 carries, even though he sustained an ankle injury early in the game. He also continued his punting duties, but saw his average fall from 42-plus yards to 24.

Wayne Tabor was the leading receiver for the Huskies, completing two passes for 39 yards.

As the score would indicate, the total yardage for both teams was nearly equal, with the Huskies gaining 157 yards compared to 158 for Central. However, Northern recorded 18 first downs, compared to 12 for the Cavaliers.

Pacing Northern's defense were Bill Friend and Matt Eggleston, who had 18 and 12 tackles, respectively. Sines pulled down an interception from his secondary position, while Friend, Dave Jones, Dennis Hetrick, and Gary Beitzel each recovered a Cavalier fumble.

"Because our team is young and inexperienced, we simply cannot make as many mistakes in a game and expect to win," Coach Settle stated. "It's just that simple. We have to play a steady, conservative game and limit our offense somewhat to cut down on the margin of error. With a strong, experienced squad, you can make more mistakes in a game and still usually come out a winner. But we don't have that luxury this year."

Settle did say, however, that his team is getting better and better each day and feels confident that if they can eliminate turnovers and minor penalties, they will begin to win some games.

"We had another game full of minor penalties, most of them procedure calls, that really hurt us again, just like they did against Bruce," he said.

Settle was generally pleased with the efforts of his defensive players, stating that they did about all they could to help the offense put some points on the board.

Named as the offensive player of the game was Jeff Beitzel for his efforts from the fullback position and his touchdown completion. Bill Friend was selected the defensive player of the game and Gary Beitzel was named the top player on specialty squads for his place kicking.

Settle also noted that Lipscomb was named the specialty team player of the game the previous week against Bruce for his 42-yard punting average, Eggleston and Hetrick were named co-defensive players of the week with 13 and 14 tackles, respectively, and Sines was the ofensive player of the week with his 12-for-22 passing performance for 118 yards.

"We really feel we should have won this one, (against Central Preston)" he said. "It was disappointing, but it showed our kids that we do have the capability of winning, and their attitude has been good this week."

Petersburg, currently 1-2 on the season, will be this Friday night's opponent for the Huskies at the Cove. The Vikings defeated Berkeley Springs in their opener, fell to Bruce the following week in the waning minutes of the game, and then lost last Friday night to Franklin, a team predicted to make the West Virginia state playoffs.

The Vikings, under one-year interim coach David Fincham, are dominated by seniors, however just like the Huskies, seem to have little depth. Four starters from last season's 5-5 team have returned on offense and six on defense.

The offense is led by senior quarterback Chad Curtis, 6-2, 180 pounds; Tim Moreland, a 5-9, 190-pound senior fullback; and Stacey Hedrick, a 5-11, 188-pound split end.

Defensive leaders include Hedrick at end, Moreland at linebacker, Curtis at safety, and Matt Lough, 5-10, 171-pound end who, also plays center on offense.

Although the Vikings do not possess as much size as the Huskies, Settle said his main worry is their passing ability and quickness. "Curtis is a good option quarterback and their backs have good speed and strength," he said. "They also have a decent kicking game."

Petersburg runs a multiple-I offense and is using both 4-4 and 5-3 defensive formations.

Settle said his team is generally healthy, although Matt Eggleston sustained a bruised forearm against Central Preston. Eggleston and Lipscomb are both listed as probable starters, however.

The kickoff is slated for 7:30 p.m. at Northern's field.

Raiders Edge Vikings, 12-6: Still Unbeaten

The Oakland Raiders won an overtime victory against the visiting Parsons Vikings on Sunday afternoon, 12-6, to keep their undefeated season intact in Mt. Top Youth Football League action. The 3-0 Raiders will meet their arch-rivals, the Oakland Jets, the only other unbeaten team in the league, this Sunday at 1:30 p.m. on the Southern High field.

After a 6-6 deadlock at the end of regulation time, it was a fumble recovery in the end zone by Oakland's Chad Ward that gave the Raiders the win.

Both teams had trouble moving the ball and several Raider drives were stopped by turnovers. The Viking defense forced five Raider fumbles and also knocked down numerous passes from Raider quarterback, Tom Ritchey.

After a scoreless first half, Mike Fulmer put the first points on the board as he scored on a seven-yard sweep for Oakland. The run for the conversion failed.

The Vikings came back to knot the score in the fourth quarter with a 70-yard touchdown run, but also failed to convert the extra point.

The Vikings won the toss in the sudden death playoff period and took possession of the ball first on the 10-yard line. However, they fumbled the ball and it was recovered by Fulmer.

The Raiders then had their opportunity to score from the Vikings' ten-yard line. After picking up six yards in two carries, Bobby Orr then fumbled the ball into the end zone, setting up Ward's winning recovery.

Mike Hornyak was again the leading rusher for the Raiders, recording 154 yards on 27 carries.

SOME TOUGH YARDAGE is recorded by Oakland Raider Mike Hornyak aganst numerous Parsons Vikings defenders in a Mt. Top Youth Football League game held Sunday afternoon on the Southern High field. Hornyak, the team's leading rusher, led the Raiders to a 12-6 overtime win, their third victory of the season. They will play their arch-rival, the Oakland Jets, this Sunday.

The shoot will be 10-12 elimination matches, plus tomahawk/knife throwing competition. There will be a junior (under 14 years) tomahawk and knife match.

Visitors will be offered the opportunity to shoot a muzzleloading rifle at noon and at the end of the match at about 2:30 p.m.

Principal Asks Bicyclists To Stay Off Track

Arther Refosco, Southern High School principal, announced this week that there is a problem with bicycles being ridden on the school track and causing damage.

He stated that signs are posted prohibiting the use of bicycles on the track, but they are apparently being ignored, and track lines which are expensive to replace are being torn up.

Refosco requests that bicycle activity on the track be eliminated, because the track will be needed for the upcoming track season.

Jets Roll To Third Victory: To Face Raiders

The Oakland Jets rolled to their third victory in as many starts this season in Mt. Top Youth Football League competition by blanking the Parsons Browns Sunday afternoon, 21-0, on the Southern High School field. This sets the stage for the battle of the unbeatens, the Jets and Oakland Raiders, this Sunday at 3:30, also at Southern.

The Jet offense recorded 291 yards, 208 of them on the ground, against the Browns, while the defensive unit forced five Brown turnovers and limited the Browns to four first downs.

Billy Welch, who led the Jets in rushing with 53 yards on eight carries, opened the scoring with a 12-yard run in the first quarter, followed by the one-point conversion run by Marshall Pike.

Eric Jamison recorded the Jets' second touchdown with a two-yard dive in the second quarter and Pike again added the conversion.

A 51-yard pass/run play from Jet quarterback Tommy Ritchey to Pike in the third quarter was the final six-pointer of the game. Welch tacked on the extra point.

Ritchey completed five of ten passes for 87 yards.

Pike and James Pysell each were credited with fumble recoveries, while Welch and Jerry Welch each snared an interception. Robbie Reckart sacked the Brown quarterback twice, while Mike Tasker, Shane Eyler, Bobby Mersing, and Jamie Ashby each had one sack.

The winner of the 50-50 drawing by the league was Carl Shaw.

ABOUT TO BE SACKED FOR A LOSS by Oakland Jets James Pysell, No. 32, and Jamie Ashby, No. 82, is David Jones, No. 78, of the Parsons Browns in a Sunday afternoon Mt. Top Youth Football League game in Oakland. The Jets won the contest, 21-0. Other Jets in the photo are Jerry Welch, No. 53, and Tommy Ritchey, No. 22. The 3-0 Jets will meet the Oakland Raiders, also 3-0, this Sunday at the Southern field.

GCC Volleyball Team Edged By Frostburg State

The Garrett County College women's volleyball team dropped its season opener against Frostburg State on September 12 in a best-of-five match.

After losing 15 to 9 in the first game, the Lakers came back to win the second and third games. Frostburg bounded back to win the fourth and fifth games and complete the match.

GCC's Stephanie Burks, a freshman from Leesburg, Va., blocked eight of the opponent's attacks. Another first-year student, Lisa Leweilyn, Lonaconing, initiated a hitting streak that included sixteen kills. Kim Martin, the team captain, had 36 assists. Dianna Walkling, a freshman from Oakland, completed 100% of her serves to spark the Laker attack.

"I feel we played well considering it was our first encounter with a real-game situation," Coach Sue Mason stated. There are certainly many areas we must improve before we can present a challenge to the harder teams. I will say, however, that the team served well enough to achieve the 85% accuracy goal set at the beginning of the year."

The Lakers hit the road on Tuesday to play Penn State, Fayette, and Carnagie Mellon University, the results of which were unavailable at presstime.

They will meet Penn State, Altoona, and West Moreland on Saturday and return home on Tuesday to face Alderson-Broaddus.

In Loving Memory
Of Alston D. Evans
His Precious Gift!

One gift, above all others
God gives to us to treasure.
One that knows no time, no place,
And one gold cannot measure.
The precious, poignant, tender gift
Of Memory—that will keep
Our dear ones ever in our hearts,
Although God gives them sleep.
It brings back long-remembered things,
A song, a word, a smile.
And our world's a better place—because
We had them—for awhile!

Archery Range Installed At Herrington Manor

Gerald Sword, Herrington Manor State Park manager has announced the installation of a public archery range below the Herrington Manor dam.

The range will be open on a first-come, first-served basis until April 30.

Sword said the range is easily accessible and should prove to be a popular practice area for area bow hunters and sport archers.

Among the facilities offered at the range are two butts of two targets each; sheltered sidelines to reduce cross wind problems; level, mowed surface with yardage marked at 10, 20, 30, 40 and 50 yards; and bow racks to support the shooters bows while scores are recorded. Soon to be added will be spectator benches, information board and work bench for tackle repair.

"Rules for use of the range are reasonable, simple and easy to follow," Sword said. "Persons not complying with the rules, or other park rules and regulations will, at a minimum, be expelled from the range."

The rules are as follows:

1. Spectators, participants and pedestrians shall not enter the area to the rear of the target(s) while shooting is in progress.

2. Spectators and pedestrians will remain at the sidelines of the range and to the rear of the archer(s) while shooting is in progress.

3. Staggered shooting lines, wherein one or more archers shoot from a position forward of another group, are considered unsafe and is prohibited.

4. Bow racks, tackle boxes, or other objects which protrude above the ground shall not be allowed within six feet of the shooting line. However, a ground quiver may be placed on the shooting line while the archer is in the process of shooting, but must be removed while others are shooting and during scoring intervals.

5. Only target arrows may be used on this range. Broadhead, hunting tips and other types of arrow tips will not be permitted.

6. Crossbows are prohibited except when the user has in his/her possession the required crossbow permit officially issued by the Department of Natural Resources based upon the testimony of a licensed physician.

7. Arrow(s) may not be shot at any angle, including vertical, or direction other than toward the target.

8. The use of portable target butt(s) will not be permitted.

9. Users will furnish their own target(s), unless a target is already attached to the target butt. In that case, that target may be used.

10. Archery competition(s) will not be permitted without making a written request to and receiving a written approval from the Park Manager.

No such approval will be given to requests received less than 30 days prior to the desired competition date.

11. Arrow(s) will not be placed in bow unless archer is on shooting line and in the process of shooting.

12. A tackle repair bench is provided at the range entry. Archers should provide reasonable security for their equipment while using it.

13. Range availability times: September 1 through October 19, 8 a.m. to sunset, and October 20 through April 3, 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

A notice will be posted at the range at least two weeks in advance of any competition date. This will permit other users to adjust their range time accordingly. During times of winter weather access to the range may be restricted due to hazardous road conditions and drifted snow. The range and pathways to it will not be cleared of snow.

14. To ensure a fair enjoyment of the range by archer(s) and spectators, a high standard of personal courtesy and sportsmanship is enjoined upon all.

15. This range is available for public use at user's own risk.

Archer(s), pedestrians and spectators using this range, or causing and/or permitting its use, will hold the State of Maryland, the Department of Natural Resources, and its agents and representatives free of any and all claim whatsoever, including but not limited to accidents, injuries, damages, fire, theft, or any other loss, which may result from the direct or indirect use thereof.

Persons desiring more information may visit the range or contact the park office at 334-9180.

Mt. Top Promenaders Celebrate September As Square Dance Month

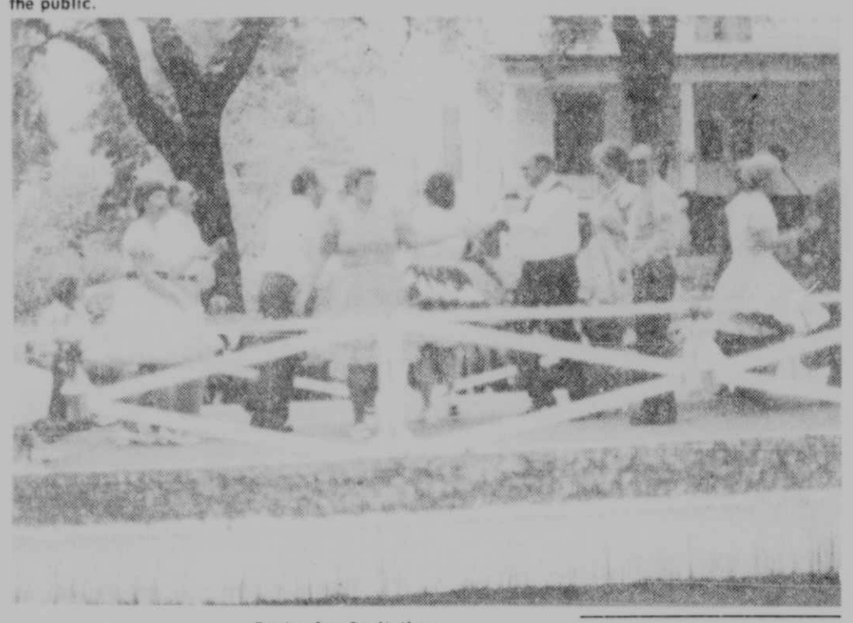
by Pam Ashby

September is Square Dancing Month and the Mt. Top Promenaders are celebrating by sponsoring a mixer night this Monday, September 23, at 8 p.m. The mixer is free and open to anyone interested in learning Western-style square dancing.

Currently, thousands of dancers in the United States and other countries around the world are engaging in Western style square dancing. It's a healthy, wholesome physical exercise that allows for social contact with people of all ages and occupations.

Since March of 1970, the Mt. Top Promenaders have been "swinging their partners" every second and fourth Monday of each month. They presently meet at Dennett Road Elementary School gym from 8 p.m. until 10:30 p.m. The club caller is Bob Boswell from Cumberland.

Each year, the club holds an Autumn Glory square dance. This year's dance is scheduled for October 13 at Broad Ford Elementary School from 2-5 p.m. The guest caller will be Dick Haslett from Myrtle Beach, S.C. Many out-of-state clubs come to this annual square dancing event as do spectators. As in the past, the club is also scheduled to present a dance demonstration before the Grand Feature Parade on October 12 at 1 p.m. on Second Street.



Apart from dancing demonstrations at many local events, the club also holds classes for beginners and they get together for holiday dinners and summer picnics.

As one spokesman from the Mt. Top Promenaders said, "Square dancing has long been a part of the social fabric of our society. It is entirely appropriate that we honor modern square dancing as a phenomenon which brings together people of all ages and backgrounds in family-oriented activity."

The following poem, by Mary F. Heisey, aptly conveys the sentiments of the Mt. Top Promenaders during their special month.

"SQUARE YOUR SETS, honor your partners and dosey doe," is the familiar cry of the square dance caller as he encourages the continuation of a unique American heritage. Pictured above is the caller for the Mt. Top Promenaders, Bob Boswell, giving direction to the dancers, pictured below, as they dance, unwavering, on a moving float in last year's Autumn Glory Grand Feature Parade. The club will again be providing entertainment at this year's festivities. In honor of Square Dance Month, the club is sponsoring a mixer this Monday night at 8 p.m. at Dennett Road School with no charge to the public.

September Invitation

Despite upheaval, pain and wrong
That happens every day,
The world remains inviting
As we go our earthly way.

It offers us a place to dance,
No matter where we are -
Society, variety,
Square dancing near and far.

Around the world or right at home,
Good neighbors may be found.
Especially when activities
Include the square dance sound.

The friendship factor motivates
Our steps at every turn,
And love is always teaching us
There's so much more to learn.

Our world is really wonderful.
Its arms are open wide,
With room enough for everyone
To come square dance inside!

So, this September, square dance month,
Show others that you care.
Invite them to a dance
And make them welcome in your square.

Students

were made for signs and billboards throughout the county.

Al Ringer reported on the recent opening of schools in the county. The total number of students enrolled is 5,215 with 5,094 of that total attending. Ringer explained that the reason for the discrepancy is that some students have moved, or are over 16 years of age and have quit school.

The Board of Education approved the request of the Southern Belles Winterguard at Southern High School to participate in the European Winterguard International Competition in London, England. The competition is by invitation only, and the Southern Belles are one of only six groups in the country who will be attending.

Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, superintendent of schools, mentioned that bids were taken for the elevator and electrical packets of the renovation of Northern High School. He reported that, by re-opening the bids, a total of $24,000 was saved. Recommendations will be made to the state for awarding the bids to Otis Elevator and Tri-County Electric, the low bidding companies.

Richard Buckingham, assistant in food service, reported that the food satellite program at Loch Lynn Elementary School is going well, with 96 lunches a day being served.

Dr. John Broaddus To Begin Family Vision Practice

Dr. John H. Broaddus, optometrist, has started the practice of family vision and contact lens care at the Thayer Center in Oakland. Dr. Broaddus will be associated in practice with Dr. J.V. Jones.

Dr. Broaddus graduated as valedictorian of his class at Southern College of Optometry, Memphis, Tennessee. He completed his optometric internship in contact lens practice at Memphis State University, and in ocular pathology at Bisson Clinic, Memphis. He was previously a Research Fellow in Clinical Pharmacology at the Case Western Reserve University.

Dr. Broaddus and his wife, Cynthia, and their twin children, Sam and Erin, age two, will make their home in the Oakland area. They enjoy fishing, hunting and most outdoor activities.

A native of Virginia, Dr. Broaddus attended Aberdeen High School, Aberdeen, Maryland, and received his bachelor's degree in biology from the University of Maryland.

Swanton Man Surrenders To Police Sunday

A Swanton man wanted on a federal warrant turned himself in Sunday afternoon to the Maryland State Police, LaVale barrack.

Curtis Hutson, 23, was being sought for the past several months by federal authorities on a charge of larceny of interstate shipment prior to his surrender at about 2:30 p.m. Sunday.

Hutson allegedly stole a tractor trailer loaded with merchandise from the New Jersey area.

Hutson was held at the Allegany County Jail until Monday when he was escorted by an FBI agent for an appearance before a federal judge.

Give All To God

Remember that He gave all to you. Whatever you have, He gave to you. Whatever has blessed and charmed you, all are gifts of God. Give all to God, He is the spring of all you most desire. If God should ask, gladly give and trust Him to repay.

Edward Doty

IN MEMORIAM
In remembrance of Timothy G. Frazee on his birthday, September 24, 1956, who passed away, April 10, 1985.
Often our thoughts do wander to the grave not far away.
Where the one we loved so dearly has passed away.
When the evening shades are falling and we're sitting all alone,
In our hearts there is a great sadness, if only he could come home.
We think of him in silence, our eyes are filled with tears,
To hear his voice and see him smile.
To love and touch him just once more.
They say time heals all sorrow, and helps you forget.
But so far it's only proven how much we miss him yet.
God gave us the strength to face it, and courage to face the blow.
For what it means to lose him, no one will ever know.
Deeply loved & sadly missed,
By Brenda, Brandi, Heidi, & Bridget

Oakland Youth "Good" After Sunday Mishap

An Oakland youth is listed in "good" condition at West Virginia University Medical Center following a motorcycle accident which occurred Sunday afternoon.

According to the police, Todd William Tressler, 17, was riding a motorcycle in a field just east of Fourth Street, Oakland, when it struck a log, throwing him from the vehicle.

Tfc. David W. Broadwater investigated the incident.

A single vehicle accident occurred on the National Pike at 10:40 p.m., September 10.

According to the police, Audrey S. Kinsinger, 48, Grantsville, was traveling east in a 1985 Chevrolet Citation when it ran off the road, crossed the center line, and struck an embankment.

Kinsinger was transported to Frostburg Community Hospital by the Northern Rescue Squad, where she was admitted. She was released from the hospital on Sunday.

Tfc. Gary Resh investigated the incident.

Tfc. R.C. Resh investigated a single vehicle accident which occurred on the George Washington Highway Saturday a 4:15 p.m.

According to police reports, Dinah Marie Hebb, 24, Aurora, W.Va., was traveling east in a 1984 Toyota truck when she lost control of the vehicle, causing it to overturn. Police said Hebb reported that she swerved to miss a vehicle traveling near the center of the road.

Southern Garrett Rescue responded to the scene. Garrett County Memorial Hospital officials were unable to confirm whether Hebb or any passengers were treated and released from the hospital.

State Police investigated several accidents which resulted in drivers being charged with driving while under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs.

According to reports, Karlus Eugene Bowling, 20, Baltimore, was traveling west on the Glendale Road Sunday morning at 12:50 when the 1985 Ford Escort he was driving began to skid as it approached a right turn.

The vehicle skidded for approximately 200 feet, crossed the center of the road, and struck a utility pole. The vehicle then spun counterclockwise off the pole, struck an embankment, overturned, and skidded another 50 feet on its roof.

Tfc. C.R. Smith investigated the incident, charging Bowling with DWI, failing to control speed, and crossing the center line.

Southern Garrett Rescue transported Bowling and two passengers, Dave Fisher, 22, and Stanley Olszewski, 19, both of Baltimore, to Garrett County Memorial Hospital. Officials at that hospital were unable to confirm whether any of the men were treated and released from the hospital.

Mark A. Pakar, 31, Dilliner, Pa., was charged with DWI and negligent driving by Tfc. R.J. Resh following an 11:45 p.m. incident Friday.

According to State Police reports, Pakar was traveling west on Route 48 in a 1983 Toyota SR-5 when it ran into the center median and overturned.

Pakar was transported to WVU Medical Center by the Northern Garrett Rescue Squad, where he was admitted and later released.

Harry Francis Dunn, 31, Pittsburgh, Pa., was driving a 1972 Oldsmobile Cutlass on the Glendale Road when he failed to negotiate a left turn.

The vehicle then ran off the right side of the road, striking a telephone pole.

Tfc. C.R. Smith investigated the incident, charging Dunn with DWI, negligent driving, and failing to control speed.

Dunn was transported to Garrett Memorial Hospital. Officials at that hospital were unable to confirm whether he was admitted.

John W. Keener, 66, Oakland, was charged with DWI by Tfc. D.G. Riggleman following a 3:10 p.m. incident Tuesday.

According to State Police reports, Keener was traveling west on High Street in a 1984 Ford F150 when he attempted to negotiate a left turn onto Highview Drive.

Keener oversteered the vehicle, ran off the left side of the road, and struck a stroller occupied by Kattie May Fike, 11 months.

Keener fled the scene, and was later apprehended by Riggleman. He was also charged with negligent driving and leaving the scene of an accident.

According to police, neither Keener nor Fike were seriously injured in the mishap.

Bart MacYeager, 46, Stahlstown, Pa., was charged with negligent driving and DWI by Tfc. R.C. Resh following an 8:50 incident on September 6.

Police said MacYeager was traveling north on Route 560, north of Dr. Tolson Road, when he failed to negotiate a left turn, colliding with a telephone pole on the right side of the road.

The vehicle then traveled across the road, striking a fence and coming to rest in a field. When MacYeager attempted to leave the field, he ran through the fence at a different location.

Hospital officials at Garrett County Memorial were unable to confirm whether he was treated and released from the hospital.

DWI's

Mark Joseph Kirsch, Jr., 24, Spangler, Pa. was charged with DWI by Tfc. L. Rosage on Rt. 219 at 8:25 a.m. Sunday.

Tfc. R.C. Resh charged Paul Douglas Thayer, 30, Mtn. Lake Park, with DWI September 7, at 10:00 p.m., in a private drive off Route 560.

Lucas Bret Sweitzer, age and address unknown, was charged with DWI by Cpl. E.D. Selby Saturday at 1:40 a.m., on Rt. 495.

Tfc. L. Rosage charged Frank R. Camille, 30, address unknown, with DWI at 12:50 a.m. Friday on Route 219.

Sen. Bambacus Outlines Notary Public Process

Current notary public commissions will expire on July 1, 1986, and that renewal process is slated to begin within the next several months, according to State Senator John N. Bambacus (R-Allegany/Garrett).

Statewide, approximately 66,000 notaries public will be renewed. Because of the workload the renewal process involves, the secretary of state's office has placed a moratorium on the processing of all new notary applications received after December 31, 1985.

Secretary of State Lorraine M. Sheehan has advised that new applications will continue to be received; however, they will not be processed until all renewals have been completed.

In order to avoid delays in approvals for new applicants, Sen. Bambacus requested that interested individuals contact his office as soon as possible. "If any District 1 citizens anticipate applying for a commission within the year, I will be happy to expedite the approval process before the December cutoff date," Bambacus stated. For information or an application, those interested may call the senator's office at 301-689-4666 in Frostburg.

Those applying for a commission must be 18 years old and a resident of Maryland for one year, or six months if a notary public commission in another state has been held.

After applications are obtained from the senator and properly filled out, they must be returned to him for his approval and signature.

The application will then be forwarded to the secretary of state who, in conference with the governor's office, must give approval to the application.

Once the application has been approved, a commission is issued through the clerk of the court in the county. A notice is then received through the mail advising when the commission may be obtained at the clerk's office.

Changes of name or address should be reported promptly to the Secretary of State, The State House, Annapolis, Md., 21401.

Initial applications should be mailed to Sen. John N. Bambacus, District Office, P.O. Box 1, Frostburg, Md., 21532.

Measles Alert Issued By State Health Officials

The Maryland State Department of Health and Mental Hygiene is alerting residents of Maryland, particularly those in Prince George's County and the surrounding counties, of the threat of measles due to the unusually high number of cases of the disease confirmed in the state so far this year.

Ninety-four cases of measles have been confirmed in the state since January, 1985, the highest number of cases in any single year since 1977. Ninety percent of the current cases have been contracted in Prince George's County, where measles transmission has been persistent and uninterrupted since March. This is believed to be the longest sustained measles outbreak reported in the United States this year, according to the Centers for Disease Control (CDC).

Parents are strongly advised to check their children's immunization records to ascertain adequate protection against measles. All children should receive the vaccine at 15 months of age. According to Feng-Ying C Lin, M.D., Chief, Division of Clinical Epidemiology, "any parent who ignores his child's timely protection against measles is needlessly risking the possibility of disease and the potential serious after-effects that could occur such as brain damage and even death."

Measles usually begins with a few days of cold-like symptoms, such as a running nose, inflammation of the eyes, cough and high fever, followed by the development of a rash. If children develop such symptons, Dr. Lin urges parents to notify their doctor or local health department.

Before taking children to the doctor's office, health department or hospital, parents should first call to alert them to the possibility that he or she has measles. "By limiting the number of other persons who come into contact with a case of measles, the possibility of additional cases can be reduced significantly," said Dr. Lin.

While the current measles outbreak is mainly restricted to Prince George's County, the potential exists for occurrence anywhere in the state now that school has reconvened because the disease could spread rapidly among the school population.

TWELVE PAIRS of Bushnell 7X35 Insta Focus-Wide Angle Binoculars, with a retail value of over $1,000, were donated by Bausch & Lomb, Inc., to the Garrett County Sheriff's Department recently in memory of Frank Finch, the late sheriff who was killed this year in an automobile accident. The binoculars have been placed in each of the department's patrol cars for use by the deputies. The binoculars were purchased through Bushnell, a subsidiary company of Bausch & Lomb, located in Pasadena, Calif. Making the presentation to Sheriff Van Evans, pictured left, was Jack King, Human Resource Manager at the local Bausch & Lomb facility.

Lioness Club Plans Pig Roast, Quilt Raffle

At a recent meeting with The Garrett County Fair Board, the Deep Creek Lake Lioness Club was granted permission to hold a pig roast and quilt raffle at the fairgrounds on October 5.

The event will be held in the Oakland Lions pavillion and will start at 1 p.m. Live music will be furnished by Allegany Front. The monies raised will be used to benefit the hearing and sight programs in Garrett County.

Tickets for the pig roast and quilt raffle will be available from any member of the Deep Creek Lake Lioness Club or by calling 387-5814 or 387-4674.

The food is being prepared by Merle Metheny and will feature roast pork, round of beef, baked potatoes, barbecued beans, saurerkraut with kolbassi, rolls, dessert and beverage. Ticket prices are adults, $10, and children $5.

The quilt is being made by Margaret Foley and Edna Lange, Loanaconing, and will be on display soon.

Service Academy Nominations Now Being Received

Maryland U.S. Senators Charles McC. Mathias, Jr., and Paul Sarbanes are currently accepting applications for Congressional appointments to the United States service academies.

Maryland students interested in being nominated to the Naval, Military or Merchant Marine Academies must apply to Senator Mathias and/or Sarbanes before November 4, 1985, the application deadline for the class entering July, 1986.

Because his slots at the Air Force Academy are full, Mathias does not have a vacancy there for the 1986 entering class. A vacancy may become available later in the year so students are encouraged to check with Mathias' Baltimore office.

Sarbanes, however, does have a vacancy for the Air Force Academy.

Candidates applying for a nomination must be U.S. citizens, Maryland residents, and have the equivalent of a high school education. They must be at least 17 years of age but not yet 22 by July of their entering year.

Nominations are strictly competitive and are based on the recommendations of Academy Review Board which evaluates the applicants. College Entrance Examination Board (SAT) scores of 450 verbal and 600 math, or a composite total of 1050, are required to be eligible for an interview.

After the board considers the student's scholastic record and interviews each applicant, a decision is made. Ten nominations are then made for each vacancy with the final decision made by each service academy.

Students interested in obtaining further information and application materials should get in touch with Ms. Linda Strine in Mathias' Baltimore office, 1616 Federal Office Building, 31 Hopkins Plaza, Baltimore, Maryland 21201; (301) 962-4850; or Senator Sarbanes' office at 1518 Fedral Office Building, Baltimore, telephone 962-4436.

TCC Meets, Sets Project Priority Lists

Tri-County Council met September 11 at the Holiday Inn in Grantsville to set a list of priority projects for the counties of Garrett, Allegany and Washington. TCC draws its membership from those three counties.

The council, which supports and aids economic development, will be seeking $2.4 million in grants from the federal Applachian Regional Commission (ARC). TCC is also looking for approximately $5.3 million in U.S. Economic Development Administration (EDA) funds.

TCC is also asking local officials to seek at least $200,000 in additional ARC money to supplement a $6.3 million Farmers Home Administration loan.

TCC's Section 201-B priority list includes a request of $216,000 for an access road to the Wisp at McHenry; $464,000 for an access road to the site of the Savage River whitewater competition; $48,000 of the $60,000 Mexico Farms access road project in Allegany County; $160,000 for an access road to the Citicorps office building in Washington County; $750,000 for a similar road at the Washington County enterprise zone industrial park; and $900,000 for an access road and bridge at the same park.

TCC's ARC project priority list includes $342,500 for improvements to the Garrett County airport terminal; $57,500 of a $115,000 project to extend a sewer at the Ober Wisp ski lodge; $130,000 for Savage River whitewater competition site development, $200,000 for the new Piney Dam; $320,565 for the 70/81 industrial park rail line in Washington County; $285,000 for water and sewer lines at the Washington County industrial air park; $200,000 for downtown Hagerstown improvements; and $500,000 for additional energy revolving loan funds.

The council's EDA project priority list includes $283,472 for the Central Garrett industrial park, $548,000 for the Garrett County airport terminal project; $216,000 for an access road at the Wisp; $208,000 for Savage River whitewater site development; $1 million for the new Piney Dam; $512,964 for the 70/81 rail line; $456,000 for Citicorps sewer and water; $800,000 for the Washington County air park; $560,000 for Memorial Boulevard at Hagerstown; $240,000 for sewer service at the I-70/Route 65 interchange in Washington County; and $500,000 to recapitalize the council's revolving loan fund.

TCC also endorsed a $400,000 application from the EDA's public works impact project fund for a renovation project at the Western Maryland railroad station.

Also at Wednesday's meeting, TCC agreed to hire parttime staff to handle contracts for its revolving loan fund. They declined to hire fulltime staff until they can determine long-term goals of the organization.

TCC acting director Michael V. Wagoner and bookkeeper and executive secretary Nancy Meachem will handle the formal paperwork for the federally-funded loan option and individual county economic directors will continue to ask prospective loan applicants basic questions about eligibility.

"But someone must complete the loan package for each project," said Tom Jones, Garrett County economic development director.

"We need a loan originator," Wagoner said. He had done that work until late June when he left the post for another job.

Only Garrett and Allegany Counties participate in the loan fund which is designed to aid businesses which may have difficulty in securing all necessary capital from a bank.

There are currently 12 outstanding loans in Garrett County and seven in Allegany County. Nearly $200,000 is available in loan and interest for Garrett County, while $163,000 is available in Allegany County.

"My problem is that I have one complete loan package on my desk and two others which have been preliminarily qualified and need to go into the application stage immediately," Jones said.

He said it takes a great deal of time to gather basic information, place it into a presentable package, review the project and then present an oral report to the council's revolving loan fund which rules on all the loans.

Jones recommended that the council hire a parttime person in Garrett and Allegany Counties to do that work, at least on an interim basis. He said four or five hours would be required each time and suggested that persons be retained on an hourly basis. That labor would be paid with money TCC receives to administer the loan fund.

Following the revolving loan discussion, TCC members heard Howard County Executive Hugh Nichols explain the structure of the Baltimore Regional Planning Commission.

We're Looking Out For You.

Smoke smudges the sky of an early morning. Quickly, two alert pairs of eyes follow the sinister trail to its source: the eaves of a row house. As if to punctuate the terror of the moment, flames suddenly burst through the windows of the second floor. Tragedy seems imminent. But on this day, happily, tragedy is averted.

For the two pairs of eyes belonged to two Potomac Edison employees, on their way to a routine service call. Acting under the guidelines of Potomac Edison's Radio Watch program, the employees used their truck radio to notify their base station operator of the emergency. The operator, in turn, notified the Fire Department which arrived in plenty of time to prevent serious property damage and--most importantly--potential injuries or deaths.

Radio Watch was created to report emergencies and hazardous situations in the areas we service as quickly as possible by using our widespread mobile communications network.

What makes us most proud, though, is that our employees are willing to get involved. So when we say we're looking out for you, we are. We all are.

Because at Potomac Edison, that's our commitment: to make life a little safer today--and tomorrow.

Quick Change

It's a simple matter to change a light bulb. A few quick turns and you switch darkness into light. Suddenly all the corners in the room come clear again.

Suppose you could solve all your problems that simply. Suppose that by a flick of the wrist you could flood your troubles with light and understanding. Are you sure you could stand the sight?

Revelation — and perhaps self-revelation most of all — isn't always pretty. It takes courage to turn the light on yourself, to face up to things. The Church won't hand you that courage — but if you start going there, you may begin to see your problems in a clearer light.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

NO LONGER CHILDREN
September 22, 1985

2 Corinthians 9:6-15.
Ephesians 4:1-16.

Let's think of the Church for a moment as a person somewhere between birth and old age. The Church has probably finished with its infancy, but just where is it these days: childhood, adolescence, youth, middle age, maturity, or its senior years? For the Church is intended to grow up and not just grow old. "We are to grow up in every way into him who is the head, into Christ..." (Ephesians 4:15).

That is the plan, but what is the reality?

There are some who might hold that the Church is still in its childhood. The writer of Ephesians gives us a rule-of-thumb by which we may make that evaluation: "so that we may no longer be children, tossed to and fro and carried about with every wind of doctrine, by the cunning of men, by their craftiness... (4:14).

TO AND FRO

The evidence seems pretty compelling for the childhood of the Church. We are still being "tossed to and fro and carried about by every wind of doctrine..." Although we have taken some long strides in the direction of ecumenicity—eliminating the barriers that separate us—Christendom is more divided by its winds of doctrine than united by them ...l though we speak and sing of "One Lord, one faith, one baptism, one God and Father of us all," we pretty much conduct our church lives as if we each followed a different God and Father.

A few weeks ago, I attended a concert in the Roman Catholic parish in the Austrian alpine town of Bad Gastein. As I sat and waited for the concert to begin, I mused on the ironies of the situation. The choir presenting the concert was from Dallas, Texas. They were singing in a Christian Church and presumably we were all Christians together. But the local people attending spoke German not English. Furthermore, the church was Roman Catholic and so different from the church to which I am accustomed.

HIS GIFTS

What a mixture of languages, nationalities, and religious experience we were! What diversity. And actually it is the same diversity of which Ephesians is speaking when the writer talked about the variety of gifts in the Church. Each one, by the grace of God, has something to contribute, something to share, some means of ministering to others. The sheer diversity of these gifts makes it seem impossible that there can be any oneness.

Yet, the source of this diversity is a oneness and the end to which it is intended to lead us is also a unity. The source of our diversity and its gifts is "one Lord, one God and Father of us all." And the goal to which we are intended to move is this same unity: "until we all attain to the unity of faith ... to the measure of the stature of the fullness of Christ" (4:13).

It would seem we still have a long way to go until we are no longer children."

WHAT IS "TRUST"

The dictionary gives several interesting meanings for this commonly used word—"reliance on the integrity of a person; confident hope; confidence in the ability or intention of a person; obligation or responsibility; to believe, rely on, depend on, to do something without fear of consequences."

Trust is obviously not something to be given or taken lightly. It is in this spirit that we operate our pharmacy. We want to have your trust but we expect to have to earn it by the professional pharmacy service we offer to our customers.

"A GREAT MANY PEOPLE ENTRUST US with their prescriptions, health needs and other pharmacy products. We consider this trust a privilege and a duty. May we be your personal family pharmacy?"

Emily's varied past; Northrup's future

By Kimberly Redmond

I've watched "General Hospital" for years, but know little about Emily McLaughlin, the actress who portrays Nurse Jessie Brewer. Can you give me information about her? — V.S., Astoria, Ill.

Emily McLaughlin

Miss McLaughlin created the role of Jessie Brewer 22 years ago when "GH" premiered in April 1963. She decided on an acting career when, at age 8, she saw a summer theater production of "The Westerner." She received a B.A. degree in American literature from Middlebury College in Vermont. Upon graduation, Miss McLaughlin studied acting at the Neighborhood Playhouse in New York City. The actress has appeared in many Broadway and off-Broadway shows, including "The Frogs of Spring," "The Lovers" and "The Corn is Green." On television, she appeared in such shows as "Studio One," "Kraft Theater" and "The Twilight Zone," before making her daytime debut in the role of Dr. Eileen Seaton on "Young Dr. Malone." Miss McLaughlin has a son and an adopted daughter.

Whatever happened to Wayne Northrup, the actor who portrayed Roman Brady on "Days of Our Lives"? I haven't seen him since he left the soap, and I miss him! — J.A., Washington, D.C.

Since making the decision to leave "Days," Northrup has pursued other acting projects. He recently appeared in the TV movies "You Are the Jury" and "Going for the Gold: The Bill Johnson Story."

Fox maintains close 'Family Ties' off set

By Marc Minnelli

Michael J. Fox

"When I was young," Michael J. Fox recalls, "I used to give my acting teacher lots of grief. She'd tell me to put a paper bag over my head and crawl around the floor. 'Forget your face!' she'd scream. 'Forget your comfortableness! Forget your familiarity with life! Forget who you are!' I was hoping to forget her."

The actor lazily lights a cigarette. "I never wanted to forget who I was and I didn't understand why she was making me do those things," he adds. "But, thinking back, I'm glad I took those risks. Now I don't have to take so many."

Indeed. Fox, 24, is currently the hottest young actor in the business. His achievements are enough to revoke any Brat Packers membership. "Back to the Future," the sci-fi comedy in which Fox plays a guitar-strumming high school senior who's zapped back into time, has grossed more than $132 million. "Teen Wolf," the low-budget Canadian film in which Fox plays a basketball-playing werewolf, is consistently ranked among the Top 10-grossing films. And "Family Ties," the NBC series in which Fox portrays ultra-conservative Alex Keaton, premieres its fourth season Thursday, Sept. 26. (The series was the fifth most-watched show last year.) Wait — there's more. On Monday, Sept. 23, Fox and his series co-stars will be seen in the special two-hour movie "Family Ties Vacation."

"Vacation" was hardly a vacation for Fox: He worked six days a week for five weeks making the film. But it was worth it. "I'm from Canada, and being in London was like being back home," the actor says. "The weather is exactly like the weather in Vancouver, and the attitudes of the people are very similar."

Fox's affinity for England could be traced to his heritage. "My father's father was from Lancashire, England, and my mother's mother was from Belfast," the actor explains.

And though Fox's new Laurel Canyon, Calif., home is miles from his parents' home in Vancouver, he maintains close family ties. His parents even visited the set of "Vacation."

"All the other cast members were flying husbands, wives and lovers first class," Fox recalls. "But I traded my first-class ticket for two regular class. That way, mom and dad both got to come over." Fox lights another cigarette. "My mom and dad ... they, and not anything else — not the limos, not the fans, not the money — mean the most to me."

Nicholas Campbell portrays Nick, an investigative reporter who stops at nothing to get the story in "The Insiders," the new adventure series premiering Wednesday, Sept. 25 on ABC.

Big Apple and celebs rally for AIDS benefit

By Cindy Adams

New York City is throwing a gigantic AIDS benefit on Sunday, Nov. 3, at the Metropolitan Opera House. This marks the first time the creative unions — the Screen Actor's Guild, Actors' Equity, the American Federation of Television and Radio Artists, the American Guild of Variety Artists, the League of Theaters, the Dramatists' Guild — have banded together for anything. "La Cage aux Folles" producers Barry Brown and Fritz Hall are organizing the bash, which is being rehearsed

Liza Minnelli

Bette Midler

(for free) at Michael Bennett's studios. Melissa Manchester, Ashford & Simpson and Bette Midler have agreed to participate for free — although their expenses are being picked up. Jerry Herman has written a special song for the benefit; all royalities will revert back to the cause. Christopher Reeve and Ellen Burstyn will read letters from AIDS victims.

Show people. There's no people like 'em.

Liza Minnelli worked hard while she was in Toronto making "Intensive Care," her upcoming NBC movie. She told me she filmed six days a week, starting at 6 a.m. and wrapping up at 8 each evening. Liza's hubby, Mark Gero, visited on weekends. ... Prince bought Muhammad Ali's shack in Hancock Park, Calif. The price? A mere $7 million. ... Get ready for more Bruce Springsteen. In October, Scribners will publish "Springsteen," written by Los Angeles music critic Robert Hilburn.

Danielle Brisebois, who played Archie Bunker's little daughter, has grown up. Now 16, the actress has turned author: She's penning a gossip column on the young Hollywood scene for Tiger Beat magazine. ... Shelley Winters shrank by 25 pounds. She claims she's going to shrink even more.

Actress feels right at home with role

By Gillian George

Jane Kaczmarek is 29 years old — nearly 10 years younger than Mary Newell Abbott, the aging hippie she portrays in "Hometown." Even so, age has nothing to do with the actress' knowledge of '60s music, as she proves when explaining a recent career move.

"John Sebastian's great song, 'Did You Ever Have to Make Up Your Mind?,' perfectly expressed my dilemma at the time," Miss Kaczmarek explains. "I had played Officer Clara Pilsky, who was Joe Coffey's (Ed Marinaro) new partner after Lucy Bates (Betty Thomas) was promoted, on 'Hill Street Blues' for six episodes. It was a great experience. Then I was offered a role (as Robert De Niro's neglected wife) in the film 'Falling in Love.' I knew that acting with De Niro would do wonderful things for my career. Or," she adds with a laugh, "I knew I'd be stuck holding an empty bag.

"I decided to risk it, and I'm really glad I did. Not only did the movie give me wide exposure, but it also directly led to my 'Hometown' test and another film, 'The Heavenly Kid.' So I'm now sure that I did the right thing, as John Sebastian would say, picking up on one and leaving the other behind."

Miss Kaczmarek acknowledges that early criticism of "Hometown" had its advantages. "I wasn't too crazy about the carping tones that said we were just a rip-off of 'The Big Chill,'" the actress says. "The idea was to spin off that gigantically successful movie. And why not? People loved it, and the time had come to examine that very important period in our history. I have no qualms at all about what we're doing."

Jane Kaczmarek

Nor should she: "Hometown" is a delight. The television characters are more credible than their movie counterparts. Miss Kaczmarek's happily married mother is less saintly than the doctor-wife Glenn Close played, and Franc Luz, who plays the bookstore owner to whom Miss Kaczmarek is married, is strong without Kevin Kline's invincibility.

Margaret Whitton, who plays the irritatingly vain Barbara, steals the show. Andrew Rubin is charming as a rock star, Daniel Stern and Christine Estabrook are perfect as (respectively) a restaurant owner and a political scientist, and John Bedford-Lloyd is superb as a befuddled professor.

The combination of loving, feuding friends works well and (so far) so does the series' writing. Miss Kaczmarek should be proud.

ASK ME ABOUT TV

By Val Carew

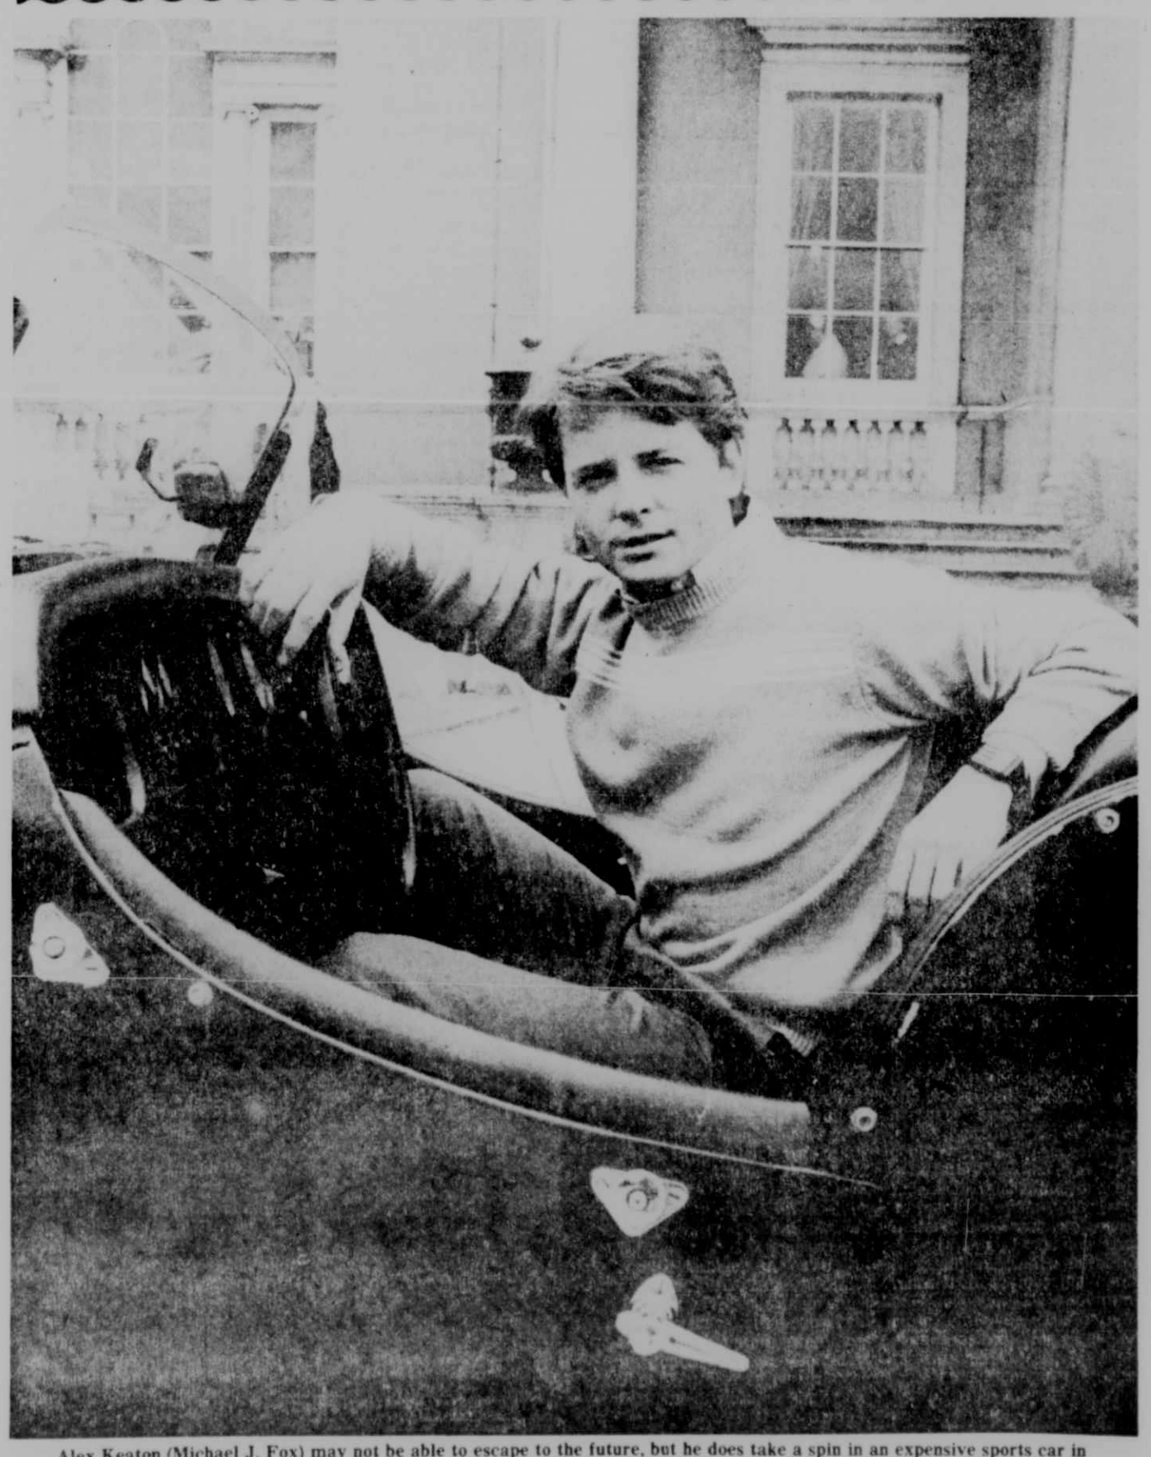
What can you tell me about David Selby, the actor who portrays Richard Channing on "Falcon Crest"? — M.P., Shenandoah, Va.

Selby was born on Feb. 5 in Morgantown, W. Va. He has two theater arts degrees: one from West Virginia University, the other from Southern Illinois University. Selby worked in several off-off-Broadway productions before he was cast (in 1966) as Quentin Collins in the gothic horror soap opera "Dark Shadows." Selby has many Broadway credits, and he has appeared in the films "Rich and Famous" and "Up the Sandbox." He starred as Michael Tyrone in the NBC series "Flamingo Road."

David Selby

Selby is married and has a 16-year-old son and two daughters, ages 11 and 8. You may write to him c/o Lorimar Productions, 3970 Overland Ave., Culver City, CA 90230.

Did "Murder, She Wrote" star Angela Lansbury ever live on Deerfield St. in Flippin? She looks familiar, and I have the feeling I was once her neighbor. — R.H., Flippin, Ark.



Angela Lansbury

Sorry, R.H., but to the best of my knowledge, Miss Lansbury has never even set foot in Flippin. She spends a lot of time in Southern California, New York City and London. You can drop the actress a line c/o Universal Studios, Universal City, CA 91604.

I am nine years old and want to write Steven Spielberg a letter. His "Goonies" scared me! Can you help? — V.A.H., Wetaskiwin, Alberta, Canada.

I'd do anything to help a youngster in need. Address your letters c/o Amblin Entertainment, Universal Studios, Universal City, CA 91604.

(Do you have a question about TV? Write Val Carew at 200 Park Ave., Room 602, New York, NY 10166. Questions cannot be answered personally, but those of general interest will be answered in future columns.)

Alex Keaton (Michael J. Fox) may not be able to escape to the future, but he does take a spin in an expensive sports car in "Family Ties Vacation," airing Monday, Sept. 23 on NBC. The made-for-TV movie is based on the popular NBC series.

SHOW AND TELL

Miss Whitton feels she deserves role

By Gregory Garver

Margaret Whitton is a serious actress. For many years, she spurned and scorned television. Now things are different.

"Let's put it this way," says Miss Whitton, who plays divorcee Barbara Donnelly on "Hometown," the new series airing on CBS. "'Hometown' is a show I would watch."

So, in honor of the series, the actress recently purchased her first television set. "I admit I'm getting mesmerized by it," she confesses. "I used to read a lot, but lately I've been watching TV a lot."

"Hometown" is a comedy drama, but Miss Whitton classifies the series as "American Chekhov." She has coined a word — "dramedy" — which she thinks serves the show better than the word "sitcom." Her word puts more emphasis on drama, but Miss Whitton says she isn't as concerned with the content of the show as she is with the part she plays.

"I am essentially a player," she says, "and I worry about playing my part. If I worry too much about the content, then I'm not doing my job properly."

Margaret Whitton

Miss Whitton says that after many years on the stage "playing a string of tough parts" she has recently had three great roles. "I played Molly in '9 1/2 Weeks,' Darla in 'The Best Of Times,' and now, Barbara in 'Hometown,'" she says. "Three great parts. And I must say I deserved them."

Maher doesn't joke about his fitness

By Renee Ross

When it's time to exercise, comedian Bill Maher combines physical and spiritual forces. "I alternate weight lifting with yoga," explains Maher, 29, who recently starred as Marty, the arrogant, amusing lawyer on the NBC sitcom "Sara."

"I have an exercise machine at home which I use every other day," he says. "After I had a minor wrist operation this year, I started doing yoga because I couldn't lift weights for a month. Now I like yoga so much I eventually hope to switch to it completely."

Bill Maher

Yoga's not as simple as it may seem, adds the 5-foot-9-inch, 155-pound comedian. "It looks like you're just stretching, but a 90-minute yoga workout can be grueling. It really limbers you up. Once you start, it's hard to stop," says Maher, who has appeared on Johnny Carson's, Merv Griffin's and David Letterman's shows.

"I like the yoga philosophy," Maher adds. "Basically, it's the opposite of weightlifting. Weightlifters suggest you exercise to music, but with yoga you're not supposed to distract yourself. Instead, you get into it. And that's much healthier."

You won't find Maher pounding the pavement with jogging fanatics, either. "I used to run," he claims, "but found it boring. I'd rather play tennis because I get to chase that little ball. Tennis gives me exercise, but I don't have to think about how dull running is. Anyway, with jogging, you start in one place, end up in the same place, and feel tired. I think it's depressing, and doubt if it's good for your body."

Maher is equally blunt about his nutrition habits. "I used to eat anything at any hour, day or night," he recalls. "Now my secretary does my cooking and comes up with fantastic meals. It's all healthy foods like pasta, chicken and fish. I avoid red meat because it seems bad for your system and makes you feel lethargic.

"I've never been a stressful person — an ulcer-ridden type," adds Maher. "But I do think it's important to stay in shape. Working out is a big help, but it should never be a chore. Exercise should be a joy."

Newsy Notes From SMS

by Student Government Representatives

Again this school year, we will share happenings at Southern Middle School through this column.

Student Government had its first meeting on Tuesday, September 10. Election of officers will be held on Tuesday, September 24. A dance is being co-sponsored with the Band on Friday, September 27. This is the first dance of the year. Disc jockey's for the event will be John Carter and Patrick Mitchell.

Mr. Carlson's homeroom was the winner of the Ram as Mike Grubb found the hidden Spirit Stick.

The school's yearbook staff is already busy working on this year's edition. Sales will commence the last week in October. Photographers this year are Tracy Ellis and Tracy Teagarden. Tara Wildesen and Missy Davis are in charge of layouts. Typist is Jennifer Thorn and Darlene Sliger is in charge of mug shots. Sponsor again this year is Louis Newcomb.

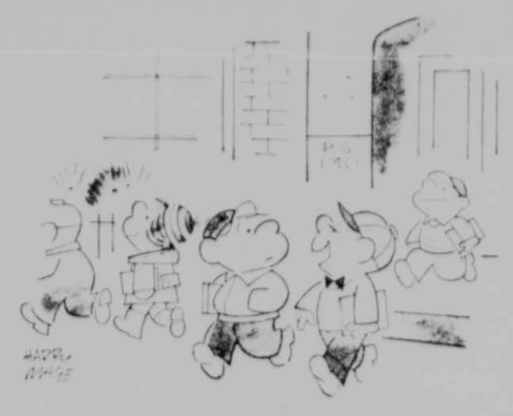
Mrs. Grose is again in charge of the school store. She reported that store hours are Monday through Friday from 8:30 until 8:40 a.m. and after school on Monday and Wednesday. Student volunteers are: Tara Wildesen, Debbie Blamble, Tim Frey and Tammie Beeman. A few of the items available in the store are: note pads, pencils, pens, erasers, stickers and book covers.

This week's "featured teacher" is Louis Newcomb. Mr. Newcomb is a 1965 graduate of Bruce High School. He graduated from Allegany Community College with an A.A. degree. In 1969 he graduated from Frostburg State College with a B.S. degree in psychology and social sciences.

Mr. Newcomb coached football at Bruce High from 1965-1969. During his time he also served as coordinator for the youth football league and coached the Chiefs to a league championship.

He has been employed in Detroit and the Detroit Diesel Company and also was a coordinator at the Boy's Forestry Camp. He taught at Bruce High School and was employed by the Garrett County Board of Education in 1970. From 1970 until 1975, he taught social studies at Southern High School and also coached varsity and junior high football. He was Student Government sponsor during this time period.

Since 1976 he has been on the faculty at Southern Middle. Here he has taught social studies, language arts and reading.



Mr. Newcomb sponsors the school yearbook and newspaper. He also works with Southern High students on "Mock Trial" competition. Last year this group proved very successful in their first year of competition by reaching the state championship level.

Mr. Newcomb lives in Oakland with his wife, Glenda, and two children, Matt, nine and Autumn, five. He is actively involved in many local organizations, such as Cub Scouts and minor league baseball. He is a member of St. Paul's United Methodist Church.

The Physical Education Department this year will be focusing on the "P.E. Honor Roll." Students featured here will be those who dress for class, participate enthusastically, and show a positive attitude every day. In addition, the P.E. department will select a student each week to honor who has earned a trophy or an award in some aspect of fitness or sport. This week we would like to pay tribute to six students who were selected to form the "Gym Squad." They are: Brian White, Bill Thomas, Ron Shaffer, Kendra Wagner, Crystal Everett and Michelle Abernathy. These students contribute many hours of service per week to the P.E. department. They help complete many projects and set up equipment in the gym for classes.

Mrs. Dana Thoman, science teacher, transferred from our school this week. She is returning to teach in her home town of Frederick. In an interview with Mrs. Thoman she stated that the students in our school are "terrific." She said, "It has been a pleasure to share with students who have been eager to learn."

We wish her the best of luck in her new endeavor.

Bloomington Lake Launch Ramp Closed

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers at Bloomington Lake has announced the closing of Howell Run Boat Launch Ramp to trailers because of the low lake elevation. Small vessels that can be hand carried into the water will still be permitted to use the facility until October 7.

This action is being undertaken as a safety measure to guard against personal injury and damage to expensive boating equipment.

Mathias Pleased With Retection Of Prayer Bill

Senator Charles McC. Mathias, Jr. (R-Md.) recently praised the Senate for decisively rejecting legislation that would have prohibited federal courts from hearing cases relating to school prayer.

Mathias noted that the purpose of the legislation was "to disrupt the carefully crafted relationship between church and state that has served our nation well for nearly two centuries.

"By separating government and religion, we have bolstered the legitimacy of civil authority while we have nurtured an unparalleled diversity of religious expression among our people," he continued.

Mathias pointed out that the legislation was "fatally flawed" in form as well as content because it attempted to achieve the effect of a constitutional amendment "through the back door.

"This legislation is wholly inconsistent with the clear and unambiguous language of Article V of the Constitution which sets forth the constitutionally permissible means of amending our organic law," he said. "The founding Fathers did not want to make the process of constitutional amendment too easy," he added, "and it would be a mistake to substitute congressional legislation for the carefully crafted procedures set forth in Article V."

WHY HOUSE SIZES CHANGE

The poor homebuyer must be a little bewildered. First he reads about new house sizes getting smaller, then a few years later, he reads they are getting bigger, then . . . smaller. What's happening and why the up and down trend in construction of new homes? The answer is simple. It all depends on the economic situation at the time.

Builders have a product to sell. Because carrying costs for unsold homes are high, builders want to move their inventories as quicky as possible. When builders are pessimistic about the economy, they build smaller homes which are less expensive and easier to sell. When builders are optimistic about the economy and money supply, they build larger homes.

In every recession, new home sizes have decreased. In every subsequent recovery, new home sizes have increased. The record size for new homes was back in 1978 with an average size of 1,650 square feet. During the 1982 recession, the size dropped to 1,445 square feet.

"You've probably heard that Coors isn't pasteurized. It's true."

It's also true that Coors is the only major brewer who won't pasteurize any of their beer. The reason? Taste.

You see, when you pasteurize something, you heat it. That doesn't hurt the taste of milk, but heat can really hurt the taste of beer...any beer. So, Coors purifies without heat.

How? Coors has a unique, totally closed system of brewing, filtration, and packaging. It's so effective that by the time Coors is shipped, it's the purest beer brewed in America.

So, why does Coors—and only Coors—purify without heat? Simple. To give you a better tasting beer.

A beer that's a little less heavy, never bitter, but with all the spirit of a great beer.

Goldstein Waives Late Charge In Some Tax Cases

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein said property taxpayers whose funds are frozen in the three savings and loan institutions under conservatorship should not be penalized if they are unable to pay the entire state portion of the property tax bill on October 1, 1985.

"I have notified the finance officials in the 23 counties and Baltimore City that it is appropriate for them to waive penalty and interest charges on the state portion of property taxes due if all of the taxpayer's funds are deposited in Old Court, Merritt or Community Savings and Loans," Goldstein said. "Local officials must make their own determinations about such charges on the local portion of the property tax bills."

The comptroller noted that Governor Hughes amended his executive order on September 6, 1985, to permit an exception to the withdrawal limits at other state savings and loan institutions for payment of federal, state and local taxes. However, this action does not apply to those institutions in conservatorship.

"We have experienced few instances of taxpayers who were unable to meet their state tax deadlines because of withdrawal limits or conservatorship," Goldstein said. "The third quarter estimated income tax payments, due Monday, September 16, 1985, qualify as an exception under the recent revision to the executive order. Therefore, only those taxpayers whose funds are frozen in Old Court, Merritt or Community Savings & Loans are eligible for the waiver."

Goldstein urged taxpayers whose funds are controlled by a conservator in the savings and loan situation to file the tax forms, paying what they can, and submit a letter of explanation along with a copy of their most recent bank statement to verify their account status.

FOR YOUR OWN SAFETY,

GET NOSEY.

Fortunately, natural gas leaks are rare, but they can happen. So it's important that you and your family be able to recognize telltale signs.

The most obvious sign is the smell. Natural gas by itself is odorless, so we add a distinctive odor to the gas. Other signs to be alert for outside include a hissing noise, blowing dirt, bubbling water over a submerged pipe, or dying vegetation around service lines.

If you smell gas in your home, 1) check to see if a pilot light is out, or a burner control valve not turned completely off; 2) open doors and windows; 3) don't use matches, electric switches or appliances.

If the odor is strong, leave the house, call Columbia from nearby and stay there until a representative arrives.

If you detect a leak outside, 1) eliminate if possible potential sources of a spark or flame; 2) leave the area; 3) call Columbia from nearby.

If you or someone in your family isn't familiar with the smell of gas, call your Columbia office and ask for a scented folder. Together, we can keep your natural gas service safe and efficient.

City Police Investigate Theft, DOP

The Oakland City Police Department reported a theft which occurred on Wilson Street at approximately 8 a.m. Friday.

According to Police Chief John Sines, four silver hubcaps were stolen from a 1982 Chevrolet S-10 pickup truck belonging to Stanley Savage, Oakland. Sines said that the culprits used a sharp object, possibly a screwdriver, to pry the hubcaps from the vehicle. The total value of the hubcaps is undetermined, and the investigation will continue, according to Sines.

Officer Randy L. Sines and Sgt. Roger Lewis investigated a destruction of property incident at the gate to 88 Bridge.

According to police reports, someone used a pickup or blazer-type vehicle with a high brush guard to push the gate open and tear away the lock. Sines said that the subjects apparently did not pass further than the gate. The incident occurred between 2 a.m. Saturday and 1 a.m. Sunday.

At the September 8 regular meeting of the Aurora MYF, new officers were elected as follows: president, Charlotte Paugh; vice president, Gary Conrad; secretary, Cindy Kisner; treasurer, Greg Arnold; and reporters, Jim Johnson and Jack Adams.

The youth rally held on August 16 was a reported success and another is planned for Friday, December 12.

The meeting was closed with a circle prayer and then the pastor, Annabelle Childers, served refreshments to leaders Julie Adams and Nancy Feather, and to Charlotte Paugh, Brian Lantz, Jack Adams, Nick and Greg Arnold, Alan Snyder, Gary and David Conrad, Tracy Cole, Cindy Kisner and Jim and Annie Johnson.

All area youth are invited to attend the meetings which are held at the Aurora U.M. Church on the first and third Sundays of each month.

PTO Meets

At the September 10 meeting of the Aurora PTO, Mrs. Theresa Newberry presided at her first meeting of the year.

Discussion was held on the length of the school day and it was stated that the Board of Education is trying to remedy the situation. As the discussion grew lengthy, it was decided that a special meeting for this purpose be held, the date for which will be set by the Executive Committee to be in the near future.

Membership dues for the year will be set at $1.00 per member with a membership drive beginning at this time.

Mrs. Hayes asked that the PTO provide funds for a UHF antenna and it was decided that this would be done with the cost set at approximately $100.

School pictures will be taken October 10 and 11 with elementary and junior high being on the 10th, pre-school and kindergarten on the 11th. All those who have pre-schoolers for whom they wish pictures taken are asked to be at the school prior to 9 a.m. on October 11 and all pictures must be pre-paid.

Mr. Mullins is again director of the Community School services and asks that anyone who has a special talent to offer for teaching a class to contact him.

Carolyn Wotring expressed her thanks to the PTO for their share in granting their son, Kenneth, a scholarship which he is using at West Virginia University.

Attendance banner went to Mrs. Durst's third and fourth grade class and to Mrs. Kight's and Mr. Travis's eighth grade. Mrs. Frank (Susanne) Kight of Oakland is the only new teacher assigned this year to Aurora.

IN LOVING MEMORY

In memory of Luther D. Lohr Sr., whose birthday would have been September 16, and Ann E. Lohr, whose birthday would have been September 22.

I'll lend you for a little time,
A child of mine, God said,
For you to love the while he lives
And mourn for when he's dead.
It may be six or seven weeks,
Or thirty years or three,
But will you, till I call him back,
Take real good care of him for me?
He'll bring his charm to gladden you,
And should his stay be brief,
You'll have his lovely memories
As solace for your grief.
I cannot promise he will stay
Since all from earth return,
But are lessons taught down there
I want this child to learn.
I looked this wide world over,
In my search for teachers true,
And from the throngs who crowd life's way,
I have selected you.
Now will you give him all your love,
Nor think the labor vain,
Nor hate me when I call around,
To take him back again?
I fancy that I hear you say,
"Dear Lord, Thy will be done,
For all the joy the child has wrought
All faithful risks we run,
We sheltered him with tenderness,
We loved him while we may,
And for the happiness we've known,
We shall forever grateful stay.
But you came round to call for him
Much sooner than we'd planned.
Dear Lord, forgive our grief,
And help us understand."

Sadly missed by Family and Friends

It's a service commitment from me to you, because I stand behind my work, and I put it in writing. Come in and find out more about my Lifetime Service Guarantee."

Garrett County homemakers have spent many hours during the last year preparing for the fall meeting under the chairmanship of Ann Stanley, according to Jane Gibson, Garrett County Extension Agent. A variety of workshops has been held to make flower corsages, counted cross-stitch owls, flower arrangements for the banquet, name tags and packets for each person attending. Items for the packets were donated by area businesses. The decorative carrying base was donated by the Ruth Enlow Library.

BROWN BAG TIPS

When packing lunches, preparing sandwiches from scratch in the morning can be a terrible chore. There seems to be so little time, and so much has to be done! There are several ways of doing some of the preparation beforehand:

*Most sandwiches can be prepared the night before and refrigerated overnight.

*For those who prefer freshly made sandwiches, ingredients can be prepared the night before and refrigerated and put together in the morning.

*Prepare fillings such as tuna, egg and chicken. If you do, be sure to use it up within 2 days, or it might spoil in a warm sandwich.

*Wash, peel, slice fresh fruits and vegetables. Put in a small, plastic bag or container, refrigerate and they're ready for the lunch box.

*Prepare large amounts of sandwich fillings and freeze. For example, meat for meat salad sandwiches can be cooked, chopped, and frozen when convenient. Add mayonnaise later when preparing the sandwiches, for mayonnaise does not freeze well. Meat loaf can be baked, sliced, and froze, then slices broken off when you're making the sandwiches.

*Some sandwiches can be made when convenient and frozen, although this sometimes changes their consistency, depending on the type of bread and the ingredients. Experiment with favorite sandwiches to see which work for you.

*Omit the lettuce and tomatoes unless chopped with the filling. Add them at the time of eating; wilted lettuce is no treat!

*Use butter or margarine rather than mayonnaise since mayonnaise tends to separate on freezing, although some people don't mind this. A thin layer of butter will also keep the bread from getting soggy.

*Wrap sandwiches to be frozen tightly in foil or plastic container with a tight lid. This helps keep their quality.

GRANTSVILLE

The 18th area Women's Fellowship was hosted by the Maple Grove Women's Fellowship on September 11 at the church social room for the annual covered dish dinner. There were 72 persons in attendance from 13 different churches.

The tables were decorated with straw flowers, maple leaves with nut cups filled with mints and peanuts.

Rev. James Show welcomed everyone and gave the invocation. A covered dish dinner was shared.

A poem, "For A Brighter Life" was shared. They then returned to the sanctuary where Rev. Show had the devotions. Nancy Durst played the organ and Rose Lee Folk played the piano. After the devotions, Rose Lee Folk presented a Memorial Service, with a poem, a lighted candle and a vase of red roses in memory of Mary Hershberger, Jean Durst, Rose Broadwater, Mary Broadwater and Thelma Hanlin Enlow.

Elizabeth Fash introduced the singers from St. Ann's Catholic Church. Dr. and Mrs. David Rowe, Sharon Kamp and Michael Paula furnished music at the beginning and the closing service.

Sister Catherine Arata spoke on the Habitat of Humanity.

Father William Moody and Pastor's Borch, Connell Chaney and James Show were present for the evening.

Mrs. Audrey Kinsinger is a patient in the Frostburg Community Hospital after a car accident.

The Bloodmobile will be at the Grantsville Fire Hall on Monday, September 23, from noon to 6 p.m. All volunteers are welcome.

Walter Younkin attended a Tri-County Council meeting at the Holiday Inn in Grantsville.

The senior citizens are planning a trip to the Hayloft on October 27 for dinner and a play "Not Now Darling." For further information, persons may call Lulu Brown at 895-5092.

Harry Edwards, Pete Gearhart and Walter Younkin attended the first annual Western Barbecue and Hootenanny sponsored by Liberty Bank for senior citizens at the Ali Ghan picnic grounds of the Country Club on Baltimore Pike.

The Woodmen of the World Lodge No. 41, Grantsville, met at the Woodmen Hall on Monday evening with James Guthrie, president, presiding.

Two applications for membership were received.

The committees reported on the banquet. There will be a turkey dinner served for the banquet on October 19.

Walter Younkin won the door prize.

The Mars Hill Homemakers Club met at the home of Mrs. Frank Stanton September 10 for its regular monthly meeting.

Marlene Beachy had the opening devotions, Norma Bowser offered prayer and Hilda Sturtz read the Scripture. The music was led by Karin Durst. The thought was "The Years Teach Much the Days Never Know," read by Mary Kamp.

Roll call was answered by What's an Activity Children and Grandparents Can Do Together? Esther Stanton was in charge of the demonstration, "Family Relationship and Child Development." Ruth Stanton presided over the business session. Several members are planning to attend the fall meeting at the Wisp on Wednesday, September 25, and also the Achievement Day on Thursday, October 3, at the Bethel Park Church.

The October meeting will be held October 8 at the home of Hilda Sturtz.

Refreshments were served by the hostess. Those attending were Martha Beachy, Clara Wiley, Norma Bowser, Hilda Sturtz, Karin Durst, Esther Stanton, Marlene Beachy, Marcia and Randi Beiler, Ruth Stanton and Mary Kamp.

State, Local Income Taxes Show Growth

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein reported that State and local income tax revenue totaled $286,785,531 during Autust, 1935.

"This represents an increase of 12.2% over the $255,503,235 collected during August, 1984, and is continued evidence of the favorable employment picture in Maryland," the comptroller stated. "The August, 1985, revenue is largely based on wages paid to workers in July.

"Maryland's employment stood at 2,204,688 in July, 1985, a growth of about 57,000 jobs over the same month a year ago," Goldstein stated. "While taxes are most closely related to employment, it is also significant to note that Maryland's unemployment rate stood at 4.4% for July, 1985, nearly a full percent below the 5.3% unemployment level reported for July, 1984."

PUBLIC NOTICE

Notice of Finding of No Significant Impact and of Intent to Request Release of Funds.

September 19, 1985

Garrett County Board of County Commissioners
203 South Fourth Street
Oakland, Maryland 21550
(301) 334-3917

On or about October 4, 1985, the above-named Board of County Commissioners will request the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development to release Federal funds under Title I of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974 (PL 93-383) for the following project:

Gorman Sewer System and Low-Income Mod. Rehab. and Garrett County Low-Income Mod. Rehab.

It has been determined that such request for release of funds will not constitute an action significantly affecting the quality of the human environment and accordingly the above-named Board of County Commissioners has decided not to prepare an Environmental Impact Statement under the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 (PL 91-190).

The reasons for such decision not to prepare such statement are as follows:

1) Any construction involved with the development of the Gorman Sewer System will be short term in nature and in accordance with applicable federal regulations and policy.

2) The Rehab. will involve existing structures and is designed to bring those structures up to HUD's Housing Quality Standards.

An Environmental Review Record respecting the within project has been made by the above-named Board of County Commissioners which documents the environmental review of the project and more fully sets forth the reasons why such Statement is not required. This Environmental Review Record is on file at The Garrett County Planning Office (Room 307, Old Courthouse, Oakland, Maryland 21550) and is available for public examination and copying upon request at Room 307 between the hours of 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m.

No further environmental review of such project is proposed to be conducted prior to the request for release of Federal funds.

All interested agencies, groups and persons disagreeing with this decision are invited to submit written comments for consideration by the Board of County Commissioners to the (Office of the County Commissioners, Courthouse, Oakland, Maryland 21550). Such written comments should be received at the address above on or before October 4, 1985. All such comments so received will be considered and the Board of County Commissioners will not request the release of Federal funds or take any administrative action on the within project prior to the date specified in the preceding sentence.

Garrett County is certifying to HUD that the Board and Elwood L. Groves, III in his official capacity as Chairman consent to accept the jurisdiction of the Federal courts if an action is brought to enforce responsibilities in relation to environmental reviews, decision making and action; and that these responsibilities have been satisfied. The legal effect of the certification is that upon its approval Garrett County may use the Block Grant funds and HUD will have satisfied its responsibilities under the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969. HUD will accept an objection to its approval only if it is on one of the following bases: (a) that the certification was not in fact executed by the certifying officer; or (b) that recipient's environmental review record for the project indicates omission of a required decision finding or step applicable to the project in the environmental review process; or (c) another Federal agency has submitted a written finding that the project is unsatisfactory from the standpoint of environmental quality.

Objection must be prepared and submitted in accordance with the required procedure (24 CFR Part 58), and may be addressed to HUD at the Baltimore Office, 10 N. Calvert Street, Baltimore, Maryland 21202.

Objections to the release of funds on basis other than those stated above will not be considered by HUD. No objection received after October 21, 1985 will be considered by HUD.

This publication meets two notice requirements (1) notification to the public of the finding of no significant impact; and (2) notification to the public of the intent to request release of funds. Comments submitted specify which requirements (1 and 2 above) are being addressed.

By Authority of Elwood L. Groves III
Chairman of Garrett County Commissioners
